They had not been long seated before a man about 40 years of age got into conversation with Xavier and asked him where he was going, and when told to Barrie, the confidence man told him he was well acquainted there and wormed out of Xavier some of the residents' names and plied them back to him later on to gain his confidence. After learning he came from Massachusetts, he told him if he had any American money he had better have it exchanged for Canadian, as the American money would not be any good in Barrie and that he had got some exchanged at par at a friend's across the street and he had better get his exchanged before crossing the frontier.

The two men went in search of the broker friend. They went into Broker Woodford's office, but that gentleman could not accommodate him with four hundred dollars Canadian money. The confidence man stuck to his victim like a leech and crossed the river in his company.

Upon arrival on the Canadian side the confidence man suggested to his victim to let him have the money and he would run across the street and get the money exchanged for him. To secure Xavier he handed him a gold certificate for $1,000 of the Silver Mining Company of Denver city, Colo., with the necessary coupons attached, with the word "gold" emblazoned in large gold letters on the face of the certificate, but only blank spaces where the names of the president and secretary of the concern should appear.

After waiting some ten minutes and his friend not returning, Xavier became uneasy, which finally wound up in a loud fit of French-Canadian exclamations, which attracted the attention of the passengers and police. Chief Young hurriedly heard the man's story and started out after the flim-flammer, and learned that he had joined two confederates on Bridge street.

The telephone and telegraph were brought into requisition and every point covered. Detectives were despatched in every direction. The detectives succeeded in landing their man last evening and he was placed in the cells. No trace of the $400 was found upon him.

Cable from Nova Scotia to Ireland.

LONDON, April 13.—The steamer Faraday, with a part of the Commercial Cable Company's new cable, has sailed from here. The cable is to be laid from Warkville, Ireland, to Nova Scotia. The entire cable will be about 2,000 miles long. The Faraday, not being large enough to carry the whole cable, will drop the shore sections, about 500 miles, first, and then lay the deep sea cable, which is smaller than the shore ends. The cable was manufactured by Siemens Bros. and Co., of London, and is guaranteed to afford 33⅓ per cent. improvement in speed over the other cables in use by the Commercial Company. This will ensure transmission at the rate of 30 words a minute. The cable is much larger than any ocean cable hitherto made. The Nova Scotia end has been provided with additional protecting armor to prevent its being broken by the anchors of fishing vessels. Most of the copper used in the conducting part of the cable was supplied by the Reeblings, of Trenton, N.J.

Immigration at Montreal.

MONTREAL, April 13.—Immigration has started in with a boom this year. In two days 526 men, women and boys passed through the city in charge of the various immigration agents. The most notable thing about this year's movement is that the bulk of arrivals are for Canada. For instance, out of the 526 only 58 were bound for the United States. The agents here had almost all of the immigrants placed before their arrival, most of them going on farms, a large percentage being healthy young boys from 6 to 18 years of age.

Boy Burned in a House.

ST. JOHN, N.B., April 13.—A house near Fairville, occupied by two families, was burned to the ground. The inmates, with the exception of one lad, managed to escape in their night clothes. This youth, who was 16 years old, son of William Hind, could not be rescued. He was of unsound mind and did not know enough to save himself. His father was severely burned in trying to get him out, but the boy was burned to death.

Grand Trunk Reduces Salaries.

MONTREAL, April 13.—A cable has been received from Grand Trunk officials in London ordering a reduction of 10 per cent. in salaries over the entire system and applying to all classes of employes.

Welsh Funeral Customs.

In country districts in Wales a custom still exists of setting up a chest in the middle of the chancel at the time of a funeral, and before leaving the church the mourners all file round and put their offerings in. This is really intended for the clergyman's fee, but if the people are poor he often returns part of it—to a widow, for instance.—Westminster Gazette.

Fisheries Inspector Brickwood Gets Letters From all Over the Dominion Asking for Particulars About Dodd's Kidney Pills Curing Him of Chronic Rheumatism

KINGSTON, April 2.—Enquiry develope the fact that the story of J. H. Brickwood's wonderful cure of his rheumatism by Dodd's Kidney Pills has brought him notoriety. Mr. Brickwood daily receives letters from all quarters of Canada asking further particulars of his cure. He invariably answers that after all other remedies failed, Dodd's Kidney Pills restored him to health. Dodd's was the first kidney remedy in pill form ever offered the public. Its wonderful success in curing all forms of kidney disease has led to the introduction of numerous cheap and worthless imitations. Purchasers for their own safety should insist on getting Dodd's Kidney Pills. Sold in large boxes; price fifty cents per box, or six boxes for $2.50 To be had of all dealers.

EDISON'S KINETESCOPE.

He Perfects the Machine and Photographs Sandow.

The strongest man on earth, to quote the play bills, and the greatest inventor of the age met recently at Menlo Park, New Jersey. The meeting was an interesting one, and the giant of brain and the giant of muscle found much to admire in each other. Sandow marvelled at Edison's inventions, and the Wizard gazed longingly and enviously at the prodigious muscles of the strong man.

The latest development of Edison's genius in the line of photography, on which he has been working for the past five years, the kinetoscope, was practically completed a few days ago, and in casting about for a unique subject for the first photograph by the new process Edison chose Sandow as the most fitting and striking character.

The main principle of the kinetoscope, as is already known, consists in the taking of a great number of impressions by a camera in a limited space of time, thus obtaining a continuous photograph of the entire motion of the object or person. The photographs follow each other in such rapid succession that no lapse of time can be detected between the impression recorded, and the series of pictures becomes in effect but one picture.

Then proceeding to the studio Edison and Sandow walked arm in arm. The studio is a building apart from the factory. It is so constructed as to move with the sun, so that the luminary which shines through an aperture about twenty feet in width will always shine directly on the object or person being photographed, the object being to get a perfect focus. The building as it turns rolls like a ship, being erected on a sort of pivot.

The walls, floor and ceiling of the studio are black. The machine for taking pictures consists of a large square box, about four feet by three. The slide, however, is different from the ordinary, as it is revolving. Back of the spring is a sensitive gelatine plate in the form of a band that runs on two rollers. The rollers are revolved rapidly by electricity.

Forty six pictures are taken in one second, and the exposure lasts twenty seconds—the length of time required to unroll the band.

The camera is kept behind a curtain in complete darkness, and when the person is ready to be photographed the curtain is drawn aside, the camera pushed forward on rollers and the exposure takes place.

The opening in the camera is but three inches in width and the pictures are an inch square, though the inventor says he will be able to take pictures of a larger size soon.

Sandow showed his eight well-known movements for the distension of the muscles. These had to be done within twenty seconds, the time of the exposure, so it necessitated some practise beforehand.

The plates secured were declared perfect.

"Let's get our pictures taken together," said Edison.

"I should consider it an honor and a privilege," replied Sandow, and in a few moments the picture was taken.

Chemical Wood Fibre.

What are known as the Mesterlich processes for making chemical wood fibre are claimed to be applicable to the production of cloth, based upon the fact that, on the resinous substances pertaining to wood being extracted therefrom, all that causes decay is thus gotten rid of, the remaining fibre being like a piece of cotton in whiteness and fluffiness. Apparatus is now being perfected for weaving and spinning such fibre in the same manner, substantially, as cotton or wool.

For some time past a factory has been in operation at Port Huron, making underclothing from wood fibre, and which are said to equal in all respects those made of wool. In addition to these, there have for a long time been sent to market hats, blankets, pails, washtubs, trunks, basins, pitchers and other articles almost innumerable. An interesting statement is that the most important methods in vogue for the production of wood pulp or wood fibre have originated in Germany.

Extravagance of the Age.

One wonders when extravagance will reach high water mark on seeing the old time white broadcloth lap robes, daintily lined with silk, displaced in baby carriages by great regal squares of ermine.

A Wonderful Pennant.

When the Lancaster sailed from the Levant recently her homeward-bound pennant hoisted from the mast truck was a wonder. It was of silk, 600 feet in length.

WELDLESS STEEL CHAINS.

Description of the Method by Which Links Are Cut From a Bar.

By M. Rongier's method, as practiced at the works of the Patent Weldless Chain Company at Aston, Birmingham, the chain is made from a steel bar of cruciform section, and of the greatest length obtainable. This bar is put through a series of machines, in each of which pieces are punched out, so that after five operations the links are perfectly formed, but are still connected together at the point where the inner side of the bow of one link crosses that of the other. In fact, the bar represents a rigid chain, but on being passed through another machine it comes out as a roughly-formed but perfect chain with separated links. The chain then undergoes three more operations, in which it is rectified, rounded, and finished ready for use. The process is a cold one, so that there is no deterioration of the metal by heating, the only heat applied being near the end of manufacture, when the chain is annealed in an oven for a short time. Owing to the limited length of the bars, the chain has to be made in sections, and eventually coupled up by special links, which are made stronger than the chain itself. The chains, which are suitable for general use, are produced in various sizes, from ¼ inch down to 3-32 inch. Some of the ¼ inch chains made from steel having a tensile strength of 24 tons per square inch were tested at Lloyd's proving house, and broke at 11 tons 19 cwt. 1qr. 0lb., being 163 per cent. over the Admiralty test. In addition to the greater strength of weldless stayed steel chains over welded iron chains, they possess several other advantages. Being produced by machinery, all the links in each section of the chain are exactly similar. Greatly reduced weight for equal length and strength of chain is also a point of importance to users as well as to shippers.—English Mechanic.

Catarrh.

A prominent investigator, in a recent treatise upon the origin of Catarrh, sets forth the interesting and alarming fact that in a large proportion of chronic cases he has found that the trouble could be directly traced to the irregular and mischievous habits of youth.

He asserts that often in childhood there is, accompanying an increased activity of all the functions of the body, a superabundant supply of mucus secreted by the membranes of the nose. In other words, there is present in children, along with the so-called "scrofulous taint," a marked predisposition to "snuffles."

In addition to this, there is a tendency, which by no means reflects credit on the bringing up of the child, constantly to snuff up these increased secretions, a proceeding which is productive of the gravest results in after years, even if the practice be then abolished.

If the secretions of the nose, whether particularly increased or not, are forced backward for any length of time, not only will the posterior canals of the nose be overburdened with mucus, but the mucus will flow backward and downward, and in the throat will cause the disagreeable and too familiar symptoms attending a case of chronic catarrh.

On the other hand, if we are always careful to instill in the minds of the young the importance of properly clearing out the nose as occasion demands, we shall at once begin a course of schooling which is of the greatest benefit, inasmuch as the increased secretion from the whole canal will follow the general course of the flow, and even the farthest recesses of the nasal cavity will partake of the attempt to remove the secretions from the body instead of allowing them to accumulate.

The Origin of Earrings.

There is a strange tradition among the Arabians that earrings came into use in the following way: When Pharaoh summoned Abraham and reproached him for his untruth (in saying that Sarah was his sister), Abraham prayed for the king and Allah healed the king, who now gave Abraham many rich presents and among others an Egyptian slave name Hagar. She bore him a son, whom he called Ishmael. But Sarah was barren, and the more jealous since the light of Mohammed shone on Ishmael's forehead, she demanded of Abraham to put away Hagar and her son. He was undecided until commanded by Allah to obey Sarah in all things. Yet he entreated her not to cast off her bondmaid and her son. But this so exasperated her that she declared she would not rest until her hands had been imbued in Hagar's blood. Then Abraham pierced Hagar's ear quickly and drew a ring through it, so that Sarah was able to dip her hand in the blood of Hagar without bringing the latter into danger. From that time it became a custom among women to wear earrings.

They are to be had in all art shades, and fancy may choose from rare olives, rich sapphires, bronzes, old blues, porcelain pinks, sunbeam tints and leaf tones.—New York Press.

The Great Blood and Nerve Remedy.

Dr. Andrew Grant & Co., Toronto.

Dear Sirs,—Your "Hairene," I believe to be a wonderful remedy. It certainly produced the most unexpected results in my case, my hair had been falling out very freely for some time, becoming anxious about the matter I thought I would experiment upon the properties of "Hairene," and one application actually topped it at once. I applied it once or twice afterward, using in all about a quater of one bottle, and have not required to use it since. It seems to have given renewed and healthy vigor to the scalp, and I can recommend it in all confidence.

RIVER AND LAKE RIPLETS.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Sugar island, which is situated at the mouth of the Keene river, Rice Lake, has been subdivided into lots, which will be consequently sold to suit purchasers. This island is a most beautiful one and is excellently situated for duck hunters, as the feathered tribe are in and about it in clouds. The island was surveyed by Mr. Fred. Cameron, P.L.S., town.

Mr. Joseph Rodman has been engaged as engineer on the new steamer "City of Peterborough." The boat will be ready by the first of May, as all the different materials are manufactured and ready to put in position as soon as the ship carpenters are ready to do so. The dancing floor is being laid on the aft part of the main deck, which is a planed smooth floor. The upper deck will be used for passengers in general who do not participate in amusements of that nature.

The steamer "Daisy" towed a consignment of agricultural implements, manufactured at the Peter Hamilton agricultural works, town, to Curtis's point, Rice Lake, yesterday. The machinery manufactured by this company is greatly in demand in Northumberland county and reflects great credit on their skill as manufacturers.

Mr. D. Breeze, fishery inspector for this district, goes to Jubilee Point Monday to look after the finney tribe, as they are to be seen, particularly bass and maskinonge, in thousands in and about that point, which is situated at the mouth of the river. Sportsmen, look out for "squalls."

Mr. Commodore Calcutt is at Jubilee Point to-day on a business trip in connection with his popular resort.

Mr. Robert Jackson will take charge of the Jubilee Point summer resort hotel again this season. He is a most efficient caretaker and is most obliging—ready at all times to see that the tourists are looked after, in a way that they cannot possibly help returning again. He will have a boat livery in connection this season, which will be of much importance and will be thoroughly equipped with fishing tackle, rods, trawling lines, etc., as well as skiffs and canoes, for the use of those wishing a good day's sport in the line of fishing, duck hunting and in general a pleasant outing on the lake.

The steamer Daisy is hauling wood to the Campbelltown dock at present, from Foley's Point, Rice Lake.

SPRIGHTLY SUMMER SPORTS.

On the Lacrosse Field, the Crease and the Diamond—Triple A. Topics—The Bicycle and Football.

The usual weekly shoot of the Peterborough Gun Club was held yesterday afternoon at Riverside Park. The wind was favourable to good scores. Out of 21 birds Tivey killed 19, Rutherford 18, Ray 17, James 16, and Nell 15.

The Association Football Club of the town will hold a meeting on Saturday evening at 8 o'clock, at the office of Mr. R. B. Rogers, post office block, for the purpose of organization and electing officers for the ensuing year. Directors will also be elected to the P.A.A.A. Board. A large attendance is requested.

The Belleville lacrosse club have organized, with the following officers:—

Hon. President—W. N. Ponton.
President—G. P. Minaker.
Vice-President—W. Taber.
Secretary—H. Austin.
Treasurer—E. W. Holton.
Captain—H. Burrell.
Executive Committee—J. Phippen, J. Gardiner and H. Kelso.

To-day's Mail says:—The pool match between William Stubbs, of Toronto, and J. Clouthier, of Montreal, has been clinched by Stubbs covering the forfeit put up by the Montreal man. The match will take place on Tuesday, April 17th, in Montreal, and will be for $100 a side.

ASHBURNHAM BRIEFS.

Mr. Samuel Clancy, who for the past two years has been working in New York State, has returned home and taken a position in the blacksmith shop of his father, Mr. Edward Clancy.

The village streets have all been cleaned and put in good condition. The refuse was given to all persons who would bear the expense of carting it away.

Rumour has it that another marriage will take place in the village in a few days.

Mr. Geo. Lipsett has erected a fine new fence in front of his comfortable new hotel, the "Maple Leaf." The yard and stables have been fixed up in good style and every arrangement made for the accommodation of the public.

Mr. Samuel Bickell, proprietor of the Ashburnham cheese box factory, who has been engaged with his employees in sawing heading, will start manufacturing cheese boxes in the first week in May.

Mr. Wm. Landers while engaged loading oak logs at Calcutt's brewery on a wagon, which were being transferred to the Dixon Co's mill race, met with the misfortune of almost loosing the first finger on the right hand. The digit was most severely jammed. The logs are being cut for the steamer "City of Peterborough."

Mr. H. Calcutt has had a line of two inch pipe laid from the brewry to his residence, which will feed the reservoir at his house. The water is being forced by means of a donkey pump at the brewery, and will be used for family and garden purposes. Messrs. Lund & Payne were the plumbers and did the work in a most satisfactory manner.

Convulsions.

Convulsions in a grown person are always alarming. In children they proceed from a variety of causes, some of which are comparatively unimportant. A fit of indigestion or the irritation from cutting teeth may produce them. They may indicate the commencement of disease, but they are seldom fatal; and, while the doctor should be sent for, there is no cause for immediate alarm. The child is rigid for a moment, with fixed eyes, clenched hands and contracted face. Then the muscles relax, and often the little patient falls into a heavy sleep.

The child should be placed in a hot bath as quickly as possible, a tablespoonful of mustard being added to the water. A cloth wrung out of cold water should be wrapped around the head, and changed as it becomes warm. After being immersed he should be lifted out, wrapped in a blanket and left to sleep. If there is another convulsion the bath should be repeated.

Is Mr. Gladstone Cousin to the Queen?

Our contemporary the Ganlois asserts, on the authority of Mr. Gladstone himself, that the Prime Minister of England is a cousin to the Queen. Here is the pedigree: John of Beaufort, legitimate son of John of Gaunt, "time honored Lancaster," was the progenitor of two great Scotch lines of dukes—Sutherland and Athol. Jane Gordon, of the house of Sutherland, married Hughes Mackay, ancestor five generations back of Anne Robertson, mother of Mr. Gladstone. On the other side Elizabeth Stuart, of the house of Athol, married Colin Mackenzie, ancestor six generations back of Anne Mackenzie, grandmother of Mr. Gladstone. The Premier is thus doubly entitled to claim royal lineage. We should like to know what is his precise relation to that other Plantagenet, "Historicus" Harcourt.—Paris Herald.

ALWAYS HAD HIS OWN WAY.

A Portuguese Diplomat Who Enforced Silence in the House With Two Pistols.

Antonio Viscount de Soto Major, Portuguese ambassador to Sweden for more than a generation, died at his post in Stockholm some weeks ago. Like many other successful diplomatists he owed his high appointment to his ability to make his colleagues at home uncomfortable. Although of a very old family and of remarkable intelligence and refinement, he had the reckless dash of a cowboy and was a constant source of terror to his political friends in Lisbon. Soto Major entered political life in the fifties, after he had squandered great sums of money in Paris, and had tried vainly to make a living by editing the Lisbon Tribune. He became known soon as the readiest and most forcible speaker in the Chamber of Deputies, where he eventually led the opposition parties. One day he denounced the finance minister as a spendthrift. The finance minister answered that such a reproach did not come well from a man who had squandered a whole fortune.

"That is false!" exclaimed Soto Major. "I squandered three fortunes. But I was squandering my own, while the finance minister is squandering other people's money."

The cause for his removal to the other end of Europe was given by the viscount soon afterward. The government deputies interrupted repeatedly a speech which he made against the cabinet, and the president of the chamber ordered him to leave the speakers' tribune. Soto Major left the house, but returned soon with a pistol case in his hand. He ascended the speakers' tribune, took two pistols from the case and laid one at his right hand, the other at his left.

"This pistol," he said, laying his hand on one of them, "is for you, Mr. President, if you again call me to order. And this," he added, patting the other, "is for the next deputy who interrupts me." The speech that followed this declaration was delivered to a silent house. A few weeks later, however, Soto Major was gazetted for the Stockholm embassy, and, so vivid was the recollection of his last notable appearance in the Chamber of Deputies, there was never any demand for his recall to Lisbon. In Stockholm, the old viscount was a great favorite. His cleverness, generosity, and gallantry to women were proverbial in the diplomatic corps of the Swedish capital. After the fire of his impulse began to burn low he became a noteworthy figure at all charity festivals. Every child knew the history of the wiry, white-bearded little man in clothes of old fashioned elegance. His odd jewelry, his wonderful store of cravats and his habits of mediæval courtesy, rendered him the most attractive curiosity of Swedish court life. To the last he was the ideal spendthrift. Only a few months ago a woman with whom he was talking at a ball dropped her cab fare from her glove. The viscount at once drew out a $20 bank note from his pocket and lighted it so as to help her find the lost 50-cent piece.

The Eyes.

The keenness of the sailor's organs of sight is almost proverbial. This effect has two causes. The cold salt spray dashing into the seaman's eyes strengthens and hardens them. Also, the mariner's practice of constantly piercing the atmosphere to see something, often absolutely undiscernible, greatly trains the organ in clever acuteness. A thought is immediately suggested. Would it not be beneficial to teach the children to test their ability to see distant objects? The hands of the courthouse clock, an incoming vessel, a faintly appearing train, the rapidly fading forms of birds in flight, and many other objects that the little ones would be eager to notice if so directed, would aid to expand and perfect the various delicate and minutely beautiful parts which compose the eye.

Infants are frequently born with eyes so weak that they "water" upon exposure to wind or light, even when judiciously advanced to these. This weakness may be cured by frequent bathing with water of the saltness and temperature of tears, or, as in my experience has been of more value, dashing cold water over the eyes each time before being taken out, and never bathing the baby's face, especially about the eyes with warm water. Cold tea is also recommended, and may do the work for some and fail in other cases.

Stub Ends of Thought.

AFTER TYPHOID FEVER.

Harvey Neff Has Kidney Disease, Which Doctors Could Not Cure Dodd's Kidney Pills Restored Him to Perfect Health.

PORT COLBORNE, April 9—In March, 1893, Harvey H. Neff, of this place, had a bad attack of typhoid fever. Good nursing and medical attendance brought him around, but the attack left him a victim of kidney disease. This the doctors failed to cure, but Dodd's Kidney Pills, the infallible remedy, did the same good work in his case as in all others and Mr. Neff is well to-day. Dodd's was the first kidney remedy in pill form ever offered the public. Its wonderful success in curing all forms of kidney disease has led to the introduction of numerous cheap and worthless imitations. Purchasers, for their own safety, should insist on getting Dodd's Kidney Pills. Sold in large boxes: price, fifty cents or six boxes for $2.50. To be had of all dealers.

GRANTS TO HOSPITALS.

It is Not the Government's Intention to Refuse Aid to Charity Patients.

DISCUSSING THE REGISTRARS

Bill Enabling Boards of Trade to Appoint General Arbitrators Reported From Committee—Respecting Deer and Snipe Shooting—Calls of Solicitors.

TORONTO, April 14.—In the Legislature yesterday these bills were introduced and read a first time: Dr. Gilmour—To amend the Municipal Act. Mr. Conmee—To amend the Joint Stock Company's Letters Patent Act. Mr. Awrey—To amend the Agricultural and Arts Act. Dr. McKay (Oxford)—Respecting the assignments of book debts.

The following bills were read a third time: Respecting mortgages and sales of personal property—Mr. Gibson (Hamilton). To consolidate the debt of the town of Wiarton—Mr. O'Connor. Relating to Algonquin park and the township of Canisbay therein—Mr. Hardy.

Toronto Isolation Hospital.

In reply to Mr. Tait, Hon. Mr. Gibson said: The Government has not decided to refuse hereafter the usual grant of 80 cents per day per patient towards the cost of maintenance of charity patients in hospitals in all cases where such patients suffer from diphtheria or typhoid fever, nor has an exception been made in the city of Toronto. Application has been made, however, for an order in council placing in the schedule of hospitals receiving aid under the Charity Aid Act, the Isolation Hospital of the city of Toronto, an institution designed for the reception of contagious disease cases, under the provisions of the Public Health Act, and under the control and management of the Toronto Local Board of Health. No grants have heretofore been made for contagious disease patients isolated under the directions or authority of any local Board of Health, and, having in view the possibility of similar applications being made throughout the province, resulting in a very large addition to the already large amount of aid at present extended to hospitals, and having in view also the large amount of hospital aid at present granted to the city of Toronto, and acting upon the advice of the inspector, the Government felt unable to comply with the application, and so informed the Medical Health Officer of Toronto. A renewal of the application for this aid has recently been made by the city authorities, and it has been urged that a large proportion of the cases treated in the Isolation Hospital are ordinary charity cases, which, in the absence of this institution, would be treated in the General Hospital, that there is no good ground for the distinction drawn between hospitals under the management and control of local Boards of Health and those under other control and management, and that, so far as the province is concerned, it matters not whether this particular institution remains under its present control or becomes a department of and subject to the control of the Toronto General Hospital. Under all these circumstances the Government has decided to re-open the matter, and to include contagious disease hospitals among those entitled to aid under the Act, subject to such rules and regulations applicable thereto as may be approved of, and in this connection to consider also the advisability of a modification of the present system as affecting paying patients.

Respecting Public Accounts.

Mr. Clancy moved to refer the public accounts for the year to the Public Accounts Committee, with instruction to call and examine witnesses in relation to all matters affecting or relating to the expenditure in connection with the registry offices in the province.

Hon. Mr. Hardy asked that in the absence of the Attorney-General the resolution should stand, stating that the Government would do everything to facilitate the attendance of any witnesses that might be called for in any resolution moved by Mr Clancy.

Mr. Clancy consented on this assurance.

Persons Employed in Registry Offices.

Mr. Wood (Hastings) moved for a return showing the persons employed in each registration division for the last three years, giving names and dates of engagement, length of time employed, character of service and the amount paid to each person so employed.

Mr. Wood stated that he had been in receipt of a number of letters complaining of several gross irregularities existing among registry offices, and instanced in particular the office in East Northumberland. He desired to draw attention to a return from that office. In 1891, he was informed, that official charged $75 for outside labor, and he charged for his deputy $600, whilst he had charged for himself the sum of $500 for overwork. In 1892 this registrar had charged $733 for expenses, and for the salary of deputy registrar $600. In the last named year the expenses amounted to $733, as compared with $1,247 in 1891. Then, looking at the returns for 1893, the charge for inside labor has increased to $125, and there was also a charge of $300 for six months' work for one man, while the deputy registrar appeared to have had his salary advanced to $1,000. The total charge for expenses for 1893 was $1,468, or double what it was in 1892. He thought this was sufficient to demand the attendance of officials before the Public Accounts Committee for an investigation.

Hon. Mr. Gibson replied that he was not in possession of information establishing the correctness or incorrectness of the figures. He presumed, however, that the municipality might be safely entrusted to look after its own interests in regard to the receipts from the registry office.

Mr. Wood said the municipal corporation did not look after these matters, but the provincial inspector was relied upon to see that the work was properly performed.

Mr. Meredith condemned the return as entirely misleading and fraudulent.

Dr. Willoughby criticised the conduct of the registrar of Northumberland and said that as he was a doctor he was compelled to resort to misleading methods to fulfill the provision requiring him to give his whole time to his duties as registrar.

Hon. Mr. Hardy admitted there was no justification for this official charging $500 for extra work. It was wholly wrong. At the same time he maintained that there had not been kept back from either the county council or the Government any amounts that should have gone to them. He read a statement from the registrar going to show that the latter put in all the time, and more, that was required to perform his duties.

Dr. Willoughby declared he could bring witnesses to prove that the registrar did not give his whole time to his duties.

Mr. Whitney thought the statements seemed to show that if the registrar wished to evade the law he could not have taken a more certain course.

Mr. Meredith asked that the motion be made of wider scope and it was allowed to stand.

To Amend the Registry Act.

Hon. Mr. Gibson's bill to amend the Registry Act, one provision of which requires the registration of notices of sales, was read a second time.

General Arbitrators.

The Attorney-General's bill enabling boards of trade to appoint general arbitrators for certain purposes was considered in committee and reported.

The Game Protection Act.

Hon. Mr. Gibson moved the second reading of a bill to amend the Game Protection Act. One of the objects is to extend the close season for snipe, woodcock, partridge, quail and wild turkey until October, 1897. Another is to allow the non-resident holders of game licenses to take with them out of the country two deer and 50 ducks. If an American or any other person, Mr. Gibson said, paid a license of $25 for the luxury of a week's hunting in Ontario, and succeeded in capturing a deer or two, he ought to be allowed to take them away with him.

Messrs. Gibson (Huron) and Cleland complained that the open season for deer shooting began too early.

Mr. Stratton argued that there was a difference of opinion between the eastern and western sections of the province on the length of the close season. In his locality the present law was satisfactory.

Mr. Wood (Hastings) said he had presented a petition from 100 farmers, asking that the time be shortened.

Dr. Willoughby objected to outsiders being allowed to take two deer. He thought one was quite enough.

Hon. Mr. Gibson said Dr. Willoughby's suggestion was a good one.

Mr. Balfour complained that Americans were in the habit of crossing the Detroit River in boats and destroying game birds during the close season, and returning again to the other side before they could be interfered with.

The bill passed its second reading.

The Call of Solicitors.

The bill respecting the call of solicitors to the bar was considered in committee and reported.

Must Prepare for Work.

Sir Oliver Mowat said he must ask members to arrange their domestic affairs so that they would be able to be present at a night session of the House on Monday and on Friday night also.

The House adjourned until Monday.

ADRIFT IN A STORM.

Five Young Nova Scotians Go to Sea in a Small Boat and Are Lost.

DIGBY, N.S., April 14.—On Sunday afternoon five young men left Salmon River for Church Point in a small craft called the Dot. They sailed as far as Meteghan and finding the gale increasing and wind ahead, turned back to Cape Cove and ran the craft aground about one hundred yards from the wharf. A short time after going on board they were seen to get under way, and when last seen they were running before the wind under mainsail and jib. It is supposed they intended to work the craft in under sail and something going wrong were blown off to sea and perished. They had neither food, water, compass, stove or light. Their friends have telephoned up and down the coast and can get no tidings. Experienced seamen say that it was impossible for a little craft to survive at sea in the fearful storms.

COAL FAMINE THREATENED.

Canadian Coal Dealers Notified to Lay in a Large Stock of Soft Coal.

HAMILTON, April 14.—Local coal dealers here have been notified that a great strike will be declared in the soft coal mines of the United States on April 21, and all dealers are advised to lay in stocks of soft coal, as the fight may be a long and bitter one and a coal famine may result. The miners' confederation have notified the owners that a strike will be inaugurated on the date named on account of the low rate of wages consequent upon the employment of cheap foreign labor. Already 300,000 men are out in Pennsylvania and the strike is to become general.

An Odd Collection.

A man in Colorado has a quaint collection of bottles. It is divided into two sections. Section one is large. Section two is not. Section two contains a few bottles that once were filled with Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It was this potent remedy that gave the suffering wife her health again. It cures all irregularities, internal inflammation and ulceration, displacements and kindred troubles It has done more to relieve the sufferings of women than any other medicine known to science.

ELECTIONS IN BRITAIN.

Mr. John Morley Introduces a New Registration Bill.

AFTER THE NEW WORLD PLAN.

The Measure Provides That All Polling Shall be Done on the Same Day — No Disqualification Through Non-Payment of Rates.

LONDON, April 14.—In the House of Commons yesterday John Morley moved the first reading of the registration bill. The measure provides for half-yearly registrations, with a three months' residence qualification, and that all elections shall take place on the same day instead of spreading over several weeks, as is now the custom. Mr. Morley stated that the Government attached the highest importance to the provision that all polling shall be done on the same day, exceptions being made only in universities. If possible, the elections should always take place on Saturday. The bill provided that an elector should no longer be disqualified, through his non-payment of rates. Owing to the limited scope of the bill, the Government could not deal with the mischief and unfairness arising from plural voting in any root and branch manner, but what they did propose would restrict an elector from voting in more than one constituency. Where an elector voted in a given constituency he could not vote in another as long as the then current register remained in force. In framing the measure the Government had aimed at simplicity, so that the bill did not need prolonged discussion.

The bill was read for the first time. When Mr. Morley was about to rise to introduce the registration bill, Mr. Frederick C. Rasch, Conservative, moved to adjourn. The motion was lost by a vote of 208 to 166.

Discrimination Against Great Britain.

LONDON, April 14.—Sir Reginald Hanson has given notice that in the House of Commons on Monday he will ask the Government to use its influence to have admitted into Canada, free of duty, from Great Britain, all teas that are accompanied by a customs certificate that they are pure and for home consumption only. For such teas certificates of origin shall be granted stating that said teas have been passed for home consumption and not for export, thus protecting Canada from impure teas.

LONDON, April 14.—British tea traders are much exercised over the decision of the Dominion Government embraced in the revised Canadian tariff and affecting their interests. They denounce it as unfair and unjust, and are moving to further the agitation against it in Parliament. When Colonial Secretary Burton on Monday next rises to reply to Mr. Howard's question as to whether Canada can legally discriminate against Britain to the benefit of other countries, it is known that several members will be ready to fan the flame of debate.

To Remove the Embargo.

Notice has been given that on Tuesday a request will be made by Commoners Arch, Farquharson and Crombie, for the withdrawal of the restrictions upon the importation of Canadian cattle. This request will be made on the strength of the representations of the farmers of Eastern England and Scotland that Canadian cattle are remarkably healthy, and in view of the profitable character of Canadian store cattle.

Britain's Naval Programme.

LONDON, April 14.—Mr. Goschen complained in the Commons of the Government's reticence in regard to the naval programme. Sir William Vernon Harcourt replied that the Government had not submitted its naval policy in a bill, because it did not wish the House of Lords to control expenditure for that purpose. Lord George Hamilton, a former First Lord of the Admiralty, doubted whether the Government intended to carry out its five years' scheme. He feared it only meant to provide for a year. He urged that more large warships be built. Assurances were given that the Government would adhere to the five years' programme.

OUTRAGES IN THE CAMEROONS.

Germany Has Recalled Herr Leist Who is Responsible for the Cruelties.

BERLIN, April 14.—In the Reichstag, Baron Marschall von Rieberstein, Minister of Foreign Affairs, stated that the official reports received by the government confirmed the statements which had been made in regard to the atrocities practised in the Cameroons and said that the facts were even worse than had been represented. The official reports show that Herr Leist, the Chancellor of the administration of the Cameroons, is responsible in a greater degree than any other officer in the territory for the outrages inflicted upon helpless men and women, the most of the brutalities having been executed by his orders. The Minister said all of the persons implicated in these outrages would be subjected to the severest punishment possible under the law. A searching investigation is being made and the result of the inquiry will shortly be published.

Minister von Rieberstein stated later that the Cameroons Chancellor, Herr Leist, had been recalled

CIVIL WAR IN SAMOA.

The Government Troops Get the Worst of a Scrimmage With Turbulent Natives.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 14.—The correspondent at Apia, Samoa, writing under date of March 27 says: Civil war has again broken out in this little kingdom. While two men and a boy of a Sariian party were bathing in a small stream they were fired upon by an ambushed party. One man fell dead and the other two were slightly wounded.

On March 13 an attacking party of 200 Sarii attacked a neutral town, fired into the houses, driving out the Aanas, and burned their houses. The Sarii then retreated, but a number were killed. The Aanas a few days later left their position and retreated down the coast to a place called Tiftifi, where they erected a new fort. This was attacked by government troops. In this scrimmage the government troops lost 12 killed and 25 wounded and the Aanas 8 killed and 9 wounded.

THE FEES COMMISSION AT WORK

Considerable discussion of a largely unintelligent character has taken place in regard to the alleged impropriety in the payment of government officials by fees and also in regard to the mode of appointing such officials. As the discussion progressed it became apparent that no intelligent discussion could take place in regard to the subject on account of the necessarily large lack of knowledge respecting its details. Accordingly the Ontario Government in its desire to base legislation upon the fullest knowledge of the facts, appointed a commission of mixed party complexion to elicit all the possible facts that can bear upon the subject. This commission, which consists of Hon. Chancellor Boyd (chairman), Hon. John Beverly Robinson, and Mr. J. J. Mason, with James Flemming, secretary, and Nelson R. Butcher, stenographer, began its sittings at Osgoode Hall, Toronto, on Thursday. The desire of the commissioners is not merely to collect a mass of of opinions for or against the proposed changes, involving as they do constitutional as well as financial questions, which ought to be dealt with upon their merits. Information is asked in order to estimate the advantages or disadvantages of having the officials in question elected by the people or selected by the County Councils, instead of being appointed by the Provincial Executive; and also to judge of the advantages which a system of payment by fixed salary would be likely to possess as compared with the present plan of paying by fees (or by a proportion of fees) received by the different officers.

With a view to obtaining information in a systematic way the commissioners have prepared the following questions:—

(1) Assuming that the following officials are those under consideration; Registrars of deeds, local Masters, Sheriffs, local and Deputy Registrars of the High Court of Justice, Deputy Clerks of the Crown, Clerks of County Courts, Registrars of Surrogate Courts, County Attorneys and Clerks of the Peace, Division Court Clerks, Division Court Bailiffs, are there any others (local officials) that you would suggest in addition, and, if so, for what reasons?

"(2) Do you approve of the appointment of any, or all, of the above officers being in the hands of the Provincial Government (as at present), or should they, or any of them, in your opinion, be otherwise selected; if so, by whom, and for what reason?

"(3) If you advocate a change in the mode of appointment of any of the above officers, how and to what supervision should the officer be amenable for efficient and faithful performance of duty during the term of office?

"(4) Do you approve of the system of paying any, or all, the above officers by fees (in whole, or in part, as at present)? If not, what other or better plan do you suggest, and for what reasons?

"(5) Should any of the above officers be paid out of the general revenue of the Province, or by the local municipality for which the appointment is made, or by the particular persons for whom the service is rendered?

"(6) What rate or amount of remuneration do you approve of with reference to any, or all, of the above officers?

"(7) If a fixed salary is to be given to any officer, how would you provide and pay for deputy, or clerks, or other necessary assistance, where the person appointed was not able to do all the work of his office?

"(8) If you approve of election by the people of the above officers, or any of them, what method of public inspection, during the term of office, do you suggest for securing uniformity of procedure [illegible] the safety of the public?

"(9) If you approve of selectio[illegible]e Municipal Council, what method of public inspection do you suggest with a view to securing the objects mentioned in question number 8?

"(10) What suggestions or facts have you to offer, not embraced in the foregoing questions, which may aid in this inquiry?

"(11) If you add any other officers to those named in the first question, give (as to them) all the information sought in the other questions."

These questions are sent to persons whom the commissioners desire to attend before them personally, the object being to direct their attention to the salient points of the inquiry.

Apart from any oral testimony which will be taken, the commissioners invite communications from all informed upon and interested in these matters, in order to facilitate the obtaining of materials which might be otherwise overlooked or remain unavailable. The information sought is other than that afforded by official documents and statistics of the Province, although reference to these and deductions from these, in special instances, are desirable and will be valued. Letters may be addressed to Mr. James Fleming, Secretary of the Commission, Osgoode Hall, Toronto. When the report of the Commission is forthcoming the press and public will be placed in possession of facts which will permit of an intelligent discuss of the subject of fees.

LIVE LAKEFIELD.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Mr. T. E. Bell, of Smith, has moved into the village and will reside in the new house he erected some time since on Chippewa street.

Master Roland Carter, while playing at school a few days since, fell on a broken tumbler making a bad cut just below the knee. He is now enjoying an enforced holiday.

Miss Nellie and Elsie Bell returned home Wednesday after a three months' visit to Toronto, Oshawa and other places.

The ice is pretty well all gone out of the marshes in the back country and the water in the creeks is very low. In Deer Bay Creek there is not much more water than will float a canoe over the sand bars.

A regular meeting of the village council was held in the town hall last Monday night. Reeve Casement in the chair. All present except Mr. Moore. After routine communications were read from town clerk Georgetown, town clerk Barrie re curfew bell, Waterous Engine Co., re engine, and received. The finance committee presented their report, recommending the payment of the following accounts:

Jas Charlton, stone	$ 2 50
John Edwards, cleaning snow	17 50
P G McTaggar, stone	28 25
J L Simpson, stone	41 05
A Bell, postage, telegraphing	2 82
Peterborough Review, blanks	80
A H Stratton, journal	60
C J. Burgess, work on town hall	7 75
Village treasurer, dog tax	3 30
Pay sheeet No. 3, wages	126 16
Total	$238 60

Report on motion adopted.

Mr. T. F. Bell applied for permission to sink a tank and lay a line of pipes on Chippewa street to convey the water from the spring flowing out of Mr. Fellows' lot to his house. The matter was referred to the Road and Sidewalk Committee with power to act.

A by-law to borrow money for current expenditure, and one to regulate the time children under 15 years of age shall not be on the streets after nightfall were passed their several stages.

Moved by Mr. Burgess, seconded by Mr. Lillicrap,—That the clerk write the Waterous Engine Co., of Brantford, stating that their letter was received and the council do not see any reason to change from the position they have taken.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Burgess, seconded by Mr. Lillicrap,—That this council having received information that a number of fines are unpaid in Magistrate Hull's court, hereby instruct the constable to apply to said magistrate for authority to collect the same.—Carried.

The council then adjourned.

AFTER TYPHOID FEVER.

Harvey Neff Has Kidney Disease, Which Doctors Could Not Cure Dodd's Kidney Pills Restored Him to Perfect Health.

PORT COLBORNE, April 9—In March, 1893, Harvey H. Neff, of this place, had a bad attack of typhoid fever. Good nursing and medical attendance brought him around, but the attack left him a victim of kidney disease. This the doctors failed to cure, but Dodd's Kidney Pills, the infallible remedy, did the same good work in his case as in all others and Mr. Neff is well to-day. Dodd's was the first kidney remedy in pill form ever offered the public. Its wonderful success in curing all forms of kidney disease has led to the introduction of numerous cheap and worthless imitations. Purchasers, for their own safety, should insist on getting Dodd's Kidney Pills. Sold in large boxes: price, fifty cents or six boxes for $2.50. To be had of all dealers.

Worthless Pianos and Organs

Are made in large quantities, because foolish people buy where prices are lowest, without giving a thought to quality. Any one who thinks, will not buy a "Piano at $170, or an Organ at $30, guaranteed for nineteen years," because it is cheap. Any one who thus thinks will avoid learning by experience that it would have been cheaper to pay, say $300, for his piano.

We can furnish an Organ for $30, but we will not. We live here and have to "face the music" this year and other years to come.

WHEN THERE'S DANGER!

Physicians Use, Prescribe and Recommend Paine's Celery Compound.

Earth's Best Spring Medicine—Grand Encouragement for Every Weak and Run-down Man and Woman in Canada—How Some of Boston's Most Eminent Physicians Speak of Nature's Restorer---It Cures and Makes People well.

More words of praise have been written and spoken by well-known men and women in every section of the country within the past few years for the compound first prescribed by Prof. Phelps, of Dartmouth college than have been bestowed upon all other remedies put together.

More physicians in high standing are using, prescribing and recommending Paine's celery compound than any other prepared remedy in the world.

More space is devoted in many a medical journal to the wonderful cures Paine's celery compound effects than to any other one subject.

Paine's celery compound is pre-eminently the remedy that makes people well.

For the encouragement and benefit of our suffering Canadian people, we are permitted to give the opinions and experience of some of the most eminent and distinguished of Boston's medical men, whose names are as well known in Canada as in the United States.

W. Allan Hubbard, M.D., 70 West Cedar street, is one of Boston's best physicians. He says what hundreds of other physicians have said before, and his experience adds one more to the hundreds already published, that Paine's celery compound is undoubtedly the highest product of the medical knowledge of this century.

"The formula of Paine's celery compound," he says, "interested me because of its scientific value, and I prescribed the remedy in a number of cases where the blood was impoverished and the nerves weakened. The results were so satisfactory that I do not hesitate to endorse Paine's celery compound as a most valuable remedy."

J. H Hanafford, M.D., whose writings in journals of national circulation have endeared him to thousands, has said: "The formula of Paine's celery compound which was submitted to me was so satisfactory that I have used the medicine personally and with much benefit. I have prescribed it with most excellent results."

The well known Boston physician and surgeon, Dr. A.W.K. Newton, whose portrait is given above, states very emphatically that this compound is the most reliable tonic and strength-giver he has found for the peculiar and dangerous condition of the system that follows the grip. "Paine's celery compound," he writes, "is not a patent medicine and it must not be confounded with the ordinary nervines, bitters or sarsaparillas. It is as much superior to them in formula and results as the diamond is superior to glass. It purifies the blood, strengthens the nerves and is nature's food for the brain.

"I had some trouble myself," he writes, "from blood poisoning received in a very delicate surgical operation. The formula of Paine's celery compound led me to try it and I was much pleased with the result. I prescribe it for men, and women who have no appetite, cannot sleep, and are weak and run down. For this condition and for disorders of the blood and nerves it has no equal.

"When a man or woman has lost appetite, lost sleep, and feels that life is a burden, that person is in a dangerous condition. I prescribe Paine's celery compound for my patients who have these common and dangerous symptoms with invariably satisfactory results." It is the best possible remedy to keep up one's strength and energy during the spring and summer months.

Newfoundland Affairs.

ST. JOHNS, Nfld., April 14.—When the Assembly opened yesterday Goodridge's party declined to appear, thus putting the Whitewayisies in a false position. They had resolutions tabled demanding the dissolution of the Legislature, on the grounds that Winter's decision raised new constitutional issues only possible for the people to settle, and declaring that the Opposition, being composed of only a third of the House, possessed neither the confidence of the Legislature or the people, and requesting the Governor to forward the substance of the resolutions to the Secretary of State for the Colonies and delay final action awaiting his reply. Two Whitewayities proposed the resolutions and Whiteway endorsed them, dissenting strongly against Winter's judgment. Murray, Independent, usually classed as a Whitewayite, now on trial for bribery, opposed, asserting that a demand for dissolution meant confession that they are guilty of the offences charged. The regular Opposition being absent they carried only as party resolutions. The Upper House also adopted them, though debated there for some time.

Two Hunters Drowned.

ARICHAT, C.B., April 14.—A sad drowning accident has occurred near Grandique ferry. Two young men of Paulamond Lee and Henry Boudrot went out gunning in a dory on which they had a sail. A squall struck the boat, upsetting it and throwing the men overboard with their dogs. The accident was observed from the shore and the poor fellows were seen struggling to hold on to the boat, but before assistance could reach them they were drowned and the bodies had disappeared. The bodies have not yet been recovered and are not likely to be for some time as floating ice has since filled up Lennox passage.

Died from an Overdose of Chloroform.

TORONTO, April 14.—A young man named William Vandewater, who worked for J. Russel Smith, druggist, 736 Queen street west, took an overdose of chloroform and died from the effects. He had been suffering from toothache for some days. Death was undoubtedly accidental.

Lindsay Boy Killed in Buffalo.

BUFFALO, April 14.—George Curtain, 25 years old, whose home was in Lindsay, Ont., fell from the Coatsworth elevator (65 feet) to the ground yesterday afternoon. He died last night.

Purify the blood, tone the nerves, and give strength to the weakened organs and body by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla now.

OTTAWA, April 14.—Constable James Stewart, one of the most popular of the Dominion police force, is dead. Mr. Stewart personally attended Sir John Macdonald during the last illness of that distinguished statesman. Deceased had been a life guardsman and served with distinction in Egypt. He died from pneumonia. He leaves a wife but no children.

A Suspected Dutch Murderer.

AMSTERDAM, April 14.—The trial of Hendrick De Jong, who has been in prison since September on suspicion of having murdered two women whom he married (Sarah Juett, an English woman, and Miss Schultz, a Dutch woman), crimes never fastened on him in spite of months of work by Dutch and English detectives, has begun.

Well-Known Author Dead.

NEW YORK, April 14.—David Dudley Field, the well-known author, died suddenly of pneumonia yesterday. Mr. Field was 89 years old on February 13 last.

Baron Tweedmouth's Will.

LONDON, April 14.—The will of the late Baron Tweedmouth leaves each of his daughters £1,000. His cattle ranch and machinery in the Dakotas, his interest in the Rocking-horse ranch and 600 shares in the Hudson Bay Company are left to his second son, Coutts Marjoribanks. The estates and the title are succeeded to by the eldest son, Right Hon. Edward Marjoribanks, formerly chief Liberal whip.

There is no lack of so-called cures for the common ailment known as corns. The vegetable, animal and mineral kingdoms have been ransacked for cures. It is a simple matter to remove corns without pain, for if you will go to any druggist or medicine dealer and buy a bottle of Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor and apply it as directed the thing is done. Get "Putnam's," and no other.

Dr. Grant's "Hairene," contains nothing poisonous or injurious. For sale by all druggists.

THE RULING MARKETS.

TORONTO, April 14, 1894.

Local security market is firm and business steady.

THE FARMERS' MARKET.—Farmers are busy and receipts of produce small. One load of white wheat sold at 62c, and one load of oats at 40½c. Peas are quoted at 63½c and barley at 42c.

The Chicago wheat market was strong. The announcement of the failure of S. H. Post at New York and the appearance of buying orders to cover short deals caused a flurry with a quick jump of a cent, but upon the disappearance of this demand values eased off.

Bradstreet's to-day says: Notwithstanding the manifestly depressing influence on the movement of staple goods, owing to the unseasonably wintry weather of the week, telegrams to Bradstreet's from many of the more important distributing points contain evidences of renewed activity of influences for improvement. There are 56 strikes now in force throughout the country, involving about 55,000 people.

There is much talk in Montreal stock broking circles over Thursday's big cotton meeting. Surprise was generally expressed that there should have been such efforts made to suppress the figures showing the earnings of the company for the past year. It seems that one broker who asked to see the figures after the meeting, had to pledge his word that he would not communicate the matter to any one. The figures were read to the meeting, but it is claimed that they were read so fast that no one could understand them. The earnings for the year, according to the statement, amounted to a fraction less than 12 per cent. on a capital of $3,038,000. Last year the earnings were between 19 and 20 per cent.

A Government BOMBSHELL

THROWN INTO THE

LIFE INSURANCE CAMP!

The following statement comes from the government Blue Book. It covers a period of sixteen years, and is sworn to as correct by representatives of each Company:

Statement of Premiums received and Cash Profits paid back to Policy Holders from 1877 to 1892, both years inclusive:—

COMPANY.	Premiums Received.	Dividends Paid to Policy Holders.	Ratio of Dividends to Premiums, %
CANADA LIFE	$16,368,307	$2,946,433	18.18
Confederation Life	6,165,432	637,925	10.35
North American	2,327,082	32,857	1.41
Ontario Mutual	3,878,086	433,284	11.17
Sun Life	5,527,720	355,280	6.43

Never in the history of Life Insurance has the struggle for business been keener. Never has the conflict been hotter. Never have the Companies felt as they feel now, the necessity for throwing all the energy at their command into the field. The most intelligent and best men have to be employed. All kinds of plans of insurance are submitted. Each Company determined in securing the supremacy in the good will of the public, in establishing their name, the utterance of which, shall convey to the minds of the people the essential characteristics of

UNDOUBTED SECURITY,
RIGID ECONOMY,
GOOD INVESTMENTS,
LARGEST PROFITS

WHY?

Because millons of dollars are being paid annually for Life Insurance, and the Companies that can show these features have attained a position which will guarantee their future success, for money will flow freely into the best investments.

The Canada Life Policy Holders can look at the above statement with a smile of satisfaction, yet sympathise with their friends who are not so favourably situated.

They can throw their Life Policies down in the face of opponents and successfully challenge the production of more profitable policies, they can stand the onslaught of Agents who will almost cover them with literature and estimates of Tontine, Semi-Tontine, Return Premiums, Reserved Dividends, Annuity and Endownment plans of insurance, and with a quiet assurance feel that

As The Canada Life is Making the Most Profits, She Can Pay the Largest Profits.

READER. If you want Life Insurance choose the Canada Life and join the throng of contented policy holders who are insured with the Company carrying about 45 per cent. of the total insurance in force of the above named Companies

The temperance committe of St. Paul's Y.P.S.C.E. have charge of the meeting next Monday night and intend having a very interesting programme. Bennet; on the negative, Messrs. W. G. Murray and G. M. Roger. These names guarantee a good debate, and it is hoped there will be a large attendance, it being an open meeting. After the debate there will be a short time spent in social conversation, music, etc.

The Douglas Bird Concert.

Lovers of high class music are anxiously looking forward to the important concert that will crown the musical events of the season—the Douglas Bird concert, at which a brilliant array of first class musical talent will appear. M. Blight accompaniste. Of Mrs. Mackelcan's appearance in London, the Advertiser says: "After the introductory selection by the orchestra Mrs. Mackelcan sang with exquisite feeling "A Summer Night," and on receiving an undeniable encore, "Jessamy Town" in telling style. Her voice is a contralto of remarkable compass, and her singing characterized by really artistic expression." Mrs. Mackelcan will delight a Peterborough audience next Monday night, her first appearance here, at the Douglas Bird concert in opera house April 19th. Plan of hall at Sailsbury's bookstore. A Social Evening Spent.

Last evening Mr. Joseph Wade, who leaves on Monday for Batavia, N.Y., entertained a number of his friends at the residence of his mother, Aylmer street. A very enjoyable evening was spent in social intercourse, games, music, etc., and at the close of the evening's enjoyment the invited guests returned their thanks to Mr. Wade for the pleasant evening spent.

The Greatest Irish Drama.

The greatest of all picturesque Irish dramas by Dan McCarthy, "True Irish Hearts," will be presented at the opera house, Tuesday evening, April 17th, with its strong cast and elaborate scenic effects. The play is a beautiful picture of Irish drama as it is daily seen in Ireland. Its tale is interesting, and the costuming perfect, overflowing with Irish wit, interspersed with songs, dances and pleasing specialties. Prices 25, 35 and 50 cents.

A Morning Alarm.

An alarm of fire sounded a few minutes after eleven o'clock this morning caused great excitement, especially to-day being Saturday, when the streets are thickly crowded. The brigade promptly responded and a jumbling mass of humanity followed the salvage wagon very much a la mode the small boy following the band. The cause of all the excitement was a chimney blaze in the residence of Mrs. Browne, a widow who resides at 33 Louis street, in the double brick house owned by Mr. Bradburn. No damage was done, neither was any water thrown by the department.

The 24th at Campbellford.

The celebration of the Queen's birthday at Campbellford on a gigantic and magnificent scale is attracting considerable attention and doubtless will draw an exceedingly large crowd to that town. The handsome and artistically coloured double sheet posters issued by the EXAMINER office are attracting widespread attention and favourable comments generally. The list of sports is well worth seeing. There will be horse races, bicycle races, lacrosse tournament, athletic spots, to be wound up by a grand concert in the evening. The Peterborough Fire Brigade band will be in attendance during the day.

Wash your curtains with Wide Awake Soap, and you will not have to spend hours in mending them.

Putting in New Poles.

The Bell Telephone Co. is engaged putting in a new line of poles on Charlotte street, beginning at Aylmer street and continuing to Park street. The present poles are fine symmetrical ones, 60 feet high which is ten feet higher than the older ones. The stately uprights are cedar and are being supplied by Mr. Elias Thompson. The work of "planting" the new poles will be completed before the wires are transferred from the old line and the cross arms erected. The company's reason for changing poles is that the old ones were not tall enough and the wires had to pass through the tree tops. This nuisance will now be obviated.

A Serious Afternoon Runaway.

Yesterday afternoon as Mrs. Adam Hall accompanied by her sister, Mrs. Thomas, of Hamilton, who has been visiting in Peterborough for some time were driving on McDonel street their horse took fright at a trolley car and made a bolt before the ladies could manage the steed. The animal ran the buggy upon the boulevard at the corner of George and McDonnel streets, and upset the carriage in which they were seated. Both ladies were thrown out and sustained bad falls. Mrs. Hall was happily not seriously injured, but received a severe shock to her nervous system and had one of her hands injured. Mrs. Thomas was rather badly injured about the head and was cut about the ear. A physician was called and had to dress the wound with two sutures. The horse tore up the street but was captured before any further damage was done. The many friends of both ladies will be sorry to hear of their unfortunate accident.

Blaze in a Burying Ground.

The fire brigade were called to the extreme northern end of the town yesterday afternoon to extinguish a blaze in the old Methodist cemetery north of Argyle street and just back of the Nicholls Hospital. A fire has been started to burn up some grass, rubbish, etc., and from this the flames spread and soon the whole necropolis was blazing very much like a burning prairie fire upon the plains of the great Northwest. After the caretaker and several others had ineffectively endeavoured for a couple of hours to put out the flames, which spread all over the dry grass, the fire department was called out and threw water upon the devouring element in several places. The only loss will be that many of the tombstones and monuments are disfigured with blackness and smoke, while the fence is charred in several places. The brigade service prevented the fire from getting outside the fence and igniting any of the buildings near by.

Bound for Peterborough.

Two wandering street preachers, says the Cobourg Star, landed in town on Friday last, and, placing their grips down on the road, opened their Bibles and commenced to preach the gospel from their peculiar standpoint. Their hair was long and the wind whistled melodies through a bushy bunchiness of whiskers. Their names were Joseph Shortt and Albert Stott; their religion, the Israel Church of Great Britain; their destination, Peterborough, and their home, nowhere in particular. They preached the second coming of Christ, claiming that we were now in the last watch of the last hour, and that the world will come to an end in 1900. At that time the hundred and forty and four thousand would be gathered together, and all who have kept the law and the gospel will be redeemed. The Israel Church has no connection with the Flying Roll or Prince Michael's doctrine, but has a large membership in England and the United States. Some kindly disposed citizens took an interest in the strange visitors and secured the council chamber wherein they could preach. They left on foot for Peterborough on Saturday.

The Spring.

Of all seasons in the year, is the one for making radical changes in regard to health. During the winter, the system becomes to a certain extent clogged with waste, and the blood loaded with impurities, owing to lack of exercise, close confinement in poorly ventilated shops and homes, and other causes. This is the couse of the dull, sluggish, tired feeling so general at this season, and which must be overcome, or the health may be entirely broken down. Hood's Sarsaparilla has attained the greatest popularity all over the country as the favorite Spring Medicine. It expels the accumulation of impurities through the bowels, kidneys, liver, lungs and skin, gives to the blood the purity and quality necessary to good health and overomes that tired feeling.

The trial was made at the town hall, also on Walton street, and we understand proved satisfactory, though it is rather a slender looking affair for two or three firemen to trust themselves upon. Nothing defective was found.

—The committe of the Board of Trade, who are securing a guarantee fund for the Queen's Birthday celebration here, are meeting with extraordinary success. The citizens are heartily co-operating and entering into the project with a vim which ensures success. Let everybody rally at Monday night's meeting.

A. rooms this evening, and will also take charge of the afternoon and evening meetings tomorrow. Mr. Cole will doubtless have a proposition to lay before the Board of Directors respecting the engagement of a new general secretary to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mr. W. H. Chapman. There should be large attendances to hear Mr. Cole speak.

I used the other half bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla with like results. About four years after, the child first afflicted was again tormented like Job, and I bought a bottle (on Sunday at that) and again a cure. I gave some of the medicine to a poor woman and two children; they were helped as were mine. Through a testimonial sent to C. I. ADDRESSES AND PRESENTATIONS.

Newspaper Men Remembered—Parting Tributes to Mr. VanBlaricom, of the "Examiner," and Mr. Sherlock, of the Review.

Mr. G. B. VanBlaricom, who has for two years been the faithful and capable reporter of the EXAMINER, severs his connection in that capacity this evening, being succeeded by Mr. A. J. N. Tarrill. Last evening the members of the staff, in recognition of the pleasant associations of the past two years, presented Mr. VanBlaricom with the following address accompanied with the present of a handsome gold headed walking stick (suitably inscribed) and Oddfellows pin:—

Mr. G. B. VanBlaricom,—

DEAR SIR,—The staff of the EXAMINER is very sorry to learn that in the course of the change that plays so prominent a part—except in the currency sense—in every newspaper man's life, you are to leave us for a new field of usefulness. While we congratulate you upon the possession of qualities which make your services as a scribe sought from afar, we are very heartily sorry to part with you. For the past two years we have had intimate and pleasant intercourse with you in the respective relations of reporter and compositors, and though at times of "rush" these relations have been somewhat strained—through the intricate meshes and entanglements of incomprehensibly "tough" chirography, yet we have to remember only the most kindly, cordial and considerate genialityat your hands, and a plebiscite of the staff has pronounced you a thoroughly good fellow whom we are sorry to part with and whom we wish the greatest measure of prosperity and success, not only in your new situation, but in whatever place in the future your energy and ability may call you. In memory of old times and in memory of the boys you leave behind you, accept this walking stick and pin, which, we hope, you will regard as a material evidence of our good wishes and friendly feelings towards you.

Signed on behalf of the staff.

J. R. STRATTON, F. J. JAMESON,
HARRY DONNELLY, E. A. NOTT,
WM. COWIE, SAM. JAMESON,
F. R. YOKOME.

Mr. VanBlaricom made a suitable and feeling reply, reciprocating the kind wishes contained in the address and thanking the staff for their handsome gifts. He leaves to-night for Woodstock to take the position of city editor of the Woodstock Sentinel-Review.

Mr. L. Sherlock Remembered.

A pleasant event, showing the esteem and respect in which an old employee and faithful servant of the company holds in the minds and affections of his co-workers was demonstrated in the Review office this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, when Mr. Lucius Sherlock, for the past thirteen years bookkeeper for the company, was presented was presented with a handsome gold-headed cane, accompanied by an appreciatively worded address. The address was read by Mr. W. A. Buchanan, local editor, and Mr. A. C. Herridge, foreman of the composing room made the presentation. Following is the address:

To Mr. Sherlock:

We, the employees of the Review Printing Company, desire to express our feelings of regret at your departure from among us. In your departure we one and all feel that an invaluable friend is being lost. You have at all times worked to our interest as well as that of the Company which you have served so faithfully the last thirteen years.

We consider the connecting link that made this office appear the same at all times is now to be broken. None of us can find words with which to express how happy the feeling of each and every one (from the so-termed "devil" whose duty it was to sweep the office, to the foremen of the different departments) were made by that familiar salute, "How are you this morning!" You have always been unselfish in your untiring efforts to please all, even to your own disadvantages many times. We regret to lose such a friend is placing the matter mildly.

We all wish you success in your new field of labour and we are pleased to know you are not going to leave this community.

As a slight recognition of our esteem, we ask you to accept this cane, hoping when you are using it, it will be the means of bringing your memory back to the time when many happy moments were spent in the Review, and also remind you of our good wishes.

Hoping you may yet live many years to carry it on your journey through life, we remain,

Yours with kind remembrances,

T. H. MARTIN, D. D. C. DAWE,
A. C. HERRIDGE, FRED DOBBIN,
R. T. HOUNSELL, W. MCLENNAN,

BERT GERRANS,

Mr. Sherlock, who severs his connection with the company to-night, having accepted a position as bookkeeper for Mr. R. Neill, wholesale and retail boot and shoe dealer, enters upon his new duties on Monday morning. Though much surprised, Mr. Sherlock made a happy and grateful reply, thanking his presenters for their evidence of friendship and good-fellowship, and stating that he would always hold them, individually and collectively, in kindest regard. His intercourse with them during the past thirteen years had been of the pleasantest and most agreeable character.

The cane was a valuable ebony one and suitably engraved.

AN EX-REEVE'S STORY.

A Sufferer for Seventeen Years—Treatment in Toronto General Hospital Failed to Help Him—Now Restored to Health and Activity.

There are few men better known in Victoria county than Mr. Richard Fitzgerald, who was one of the first settlers of the township of Carden. He was elected to the honourable position of reeve of that township for twelve successive years, and filled the position with so much acceptance to the people that he was pressed to continue in office for a longer time, but was compelled to decline the honour owing to ill health. To a representative of the Lindsay Post, Mr. Fitzgerald told the story of his long suffering and subsequent release.

A little over seventeen years ago he found that he had contracted rheumatism of a muscular form, and each succeeding day found him a worse condition. He applied to the local doctors in his neighborhood, but received no relief, and was then induced by them to apply for admission to the general hospital at Toronto for treatment, and was in that institution for several months, until he became disheartened at the want of success attending his treatment and returned home, as was thought, to die. By this time the muscles of his body had become so contracted that he could not straighten his limbs, and when able to get around at all it was only with the aid of a stout pair of crutches. When he attempted to raise to his feet his legs would crack at the knees like sticks of wood, caused, as the doctors told him, by the fluid in the joints being completely dried up. Finally, after suffering as much bodily pain as would have killed an ordinary man, and at a time when he had not set his foot on the ground for a year, he was induced to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial, and had not taken them long before he began to notice a decided improvement in his condition. Continuing their use he found he could get around much better than he had been able to do for many years, and after a still further use of Pink Pills he was entirely relieved from all rheumatic pains, and is now a wonder to himself and all who knew him. Mr. Fitzgerald is now 70 years of age, and is enjoying better health than he has had since he was first affected.

Rheumatism is usually one of the most obstinate as well as the most painful of troubles, but it readily succumbs to a course of treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, admitted on all sides to be the greatest blood builder and nerve tonic yet discovered. If you cannot obtain Dr. Williams' Pink Pills from your dealer they will be sent by mail on receipt of 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., or Schenectady, N.Y.

It's a Sign of Danger, when pimples, blotches and eruptions appear on the skin, no matter how slight. It warns you that your blood isn't pure. Heed the warning while there is yet time; clear up your system and purify the blood by taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It rouses every organ into natural action, purifies and enriches the blood and through it cleanses and invigorates the whole system. It attacks all scrofulous, skin and scalp diseases in the right way—by purifying the blood.

The diseases that it cures come from a torpid liver, or from impure blood. For everything of this nature, it is the only guaranteed remedy.

In Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Sour Stomach, Biliousness; all Bronchial, Throat, and Lung Affections, even Consumption (or Lung-scrofula) in its earlier stages—if it ever fails to benefit or cure, you have your money back.

THE MAKERS of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy will pay you $500 if they can't give you a complete and permanent cure.

BEAUTIFUL OTTAWA.

"A FAIR CITY WITH ITS CROWN OF TOWERS."

The Most Picturesque Capital in the World—Something About the Chaudiere Falls—The Grand View From Parliament Hill—Dominion Parliament Buildings.

It may have been merely a pardonable pride of patriotism that made our Canadian poet, Archibald Lampman, declare that the varied beauty of the natural surroundings of the Canadian capital, where his home is, brings to mind the lovely environment in which Florence is set, that jewel of Italian cities. A little exaggeration is of course only to be expected from a poet, and is surely pardonable, as being due to the pride of over-fondness for his home. The plain truth, however, is that Ottawa is most beautifully situated, and any ordinary, average, every-day man, who is not a poet at all, will, when he visits Ottawa, speak many words in praise of the scenery round about what the Marquis of Lorne called "that fair city with its crown of towers."

Ottawa, with a population of more than 45,000, has been growing rapidly of late years, and its people, whose proudest boast used to be that it is "the most picturesque capital in the world," are now predicting that in the future it will be a great manufacturing and railway centre. The great water-power afforded by the Chaudiere and the Rideau Falls have long since made Ottawa the chief lumber-milling centre in the Dominion.

The Chaudiere Falls—so named by the first of the early Jesuit missionaries who, as they voyaged up the Ottawa River in their canoes from the St. Lawrence, came in sight of the cloud of mist above the chaudiere, "cauldron" or "kettle"—resembling in shape the rim of a huge cauldron, over which the waters of the River Ottawa, the third greatest river in volume in all Canada, pour into the seething Chaudiere, which is here set between the provinces of Ontario and Quebec. In the immense lumber mills at the Chaudiere, about 200,000,000 feet of lumber are sawn every summer. During the busy season the mills, in which thousands of men are employed, work at night, and are lighted by electric light.

The other waterfall at Ottawa is the Rideau Fall, about half a mile from the Chaudiere, where the waters of the Rideau River leap into the Ottawa. The Rideau Fall, which is 60 feet in height, is divided by Green Island. It is a singularly beautiful fall, and takes its name from its resemblance to a curtain—rideau. Government House, the vice-regal residence of the Governors General of Canada, takes its name of Rideau Hall from this waterfall, from which it is only a stone's throw distant. Across the Ottawa River, opposite Rideau Hall, is the mouth of the Gatineau River, along which, before its junction with the Ottawa many are most picturesque brawling rapids.

The finest, widest view in Ottawa is that obtained from Parliament Hill,—a steep, bold promontory rising 100 feet from the River Ottawa, its sides thickly wooded with evergreen, its summit crowned with the national buildings and their "crown of towers." From Parliament Hill you look across the river, over miles and miles of country, to the blue Laurentian mountains along the far northern horizon rim, and in whatever direction your gaze falls over this vast panorama, it falls somewhere, if the season be summer, upon the shining curve of a river.

The Parliament buildings are built of a cream-colored sandstone from the vicinity of Ottawa. The dressings, stairs, small gables and pinnacles are of Ohio freestone, and pleasing variety is given by the relieving arches of red Potsdam sandstone over the door and window openings. The roofs are of Vermont slate of dark color, variegated by light green bands. In the central building, which is 475 feet long, are the House of Commons and the Senate chambers. A massive clock tower 225 feet high rises from the centre of the building. From its summit every night when the House is in session a powerful electric light shines forth, which is visible from all parts of Ottawa. This idea has been borrowed from London, where a light is always shown from the great tower of the Parliament buildings at Westminster, when the House is in session at night.

Back of the main building, and connected with it, is the Library of Parliament. The library building is octagonal in form, with flying buttresses. It is much like the chapter-house of a cathedral. It cost $350,000. The inside fittings are of the finest material and workmanship. The soft tone of the carved wood in which the whole interior is finished forms a suitable setting for the richly-tinted bindings of the books.

Half way down to the river is the "Lovers' Walk," winding for about half a mile around the face of the cliff, and shaded by the overhanging foliage of trees, through which in the hottest summer heats—and in summer Ottawa is one of the most torrid spots on the globe—the sun does not pierce, but only silver gleams of the river below.

The finest view of Parliament Hill and all the Government buildings is that obtained from the east end of Dufferin Bridge. This bridge, which was built when Lord Dufferin was Governor General, spans the deep gorge from Major's Hill, where there is a large and beautifully-kept park with an artificial lake, fountain and winding walks and avenues. Along the bed of the gorge runs the Rideau Canal, which was built in 1827 by the British Government for military purposes, to connect Quebec with the upper lakes. It is 126 miles in length, and connects the River Ottawa with Lake Ontario at Kingston.

Monkey Tax in Bohemia.

The so-called monkey tax of the Commune of Risenberg, in Bohemia, is surely the most eccentric in its origin of all surviving fendal impositions. One of the lords of Risenberg, in the latter years of the Middle Ages, had a monkey bought for him in the East, for which he paid an enormous sum. One day the monkey escaped from the castle and fled into the woods. The peasants, who had never seen a monkey, supposed it to be the devil in a quasi-human shape going about seeking whom he might devour, and they shot it dead. They imagined they had done an act of Christian piety, for which they deserved thanks. The angry baron, however, was inconsolable at the loss of his ugly pet, and imposed a yearly fine upon the peasant commune, which it continues to pay up to the present time.—Westminster Gazette.

HIS MAIL IS HEAVY.

Fisheries Inspector Brickwood Gets Letters From all Over the Dominion Asking for Particulars About Dodd's Kidney Pills Curing Him of Chronic Rheumatism.

KINGSTON, April 2.—Enquiry develope the fact that the story of J. H. Brickwood's wonderful cure of his rheumatism by Dodd's Kidney Pills has brought him notoriety. Mr. Brickwood daily receives letters from all quarters of Canada asking further particulars of his cure. He invariably answers that after all other remedies failed, Dodd's Kidney Pills restored him to health. Dodd's was the first kidney remedy in pill form ever offered the public. Its wonderful success in curing all forms of kidney disease has led to the introduction of numerous cheap and worthless imitations. Purchasers for their own safety should insist on getting Dodd's Kidney Pills. Sold in large boxes; price fifty cents per box, or six boxes for $2.50 To be had of all dealers.

A Pretty Southern Custom.

Southern lovers have a pretty custom that deserves poetical immortality. It is well-known that when the petals of the great laurel magnolia are touched, however lightly, the result is a brown spot, which develops in a few hours. This fact is taken advantage of by a lover, who pulls a magnolia flower and on one of its pn. white petals writes a motto or message with a hard, sharp-pointed pencil. Then he sends the flower, the young lady puts it in a vase of water, and in three or four hours the message written on the leaf become quite visible and remains so. The practice is a modification of the somewhat stupid flower language, and furnishes the means of paying many a pretty compliment.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Pathetic.

A lady who had spent a great deal of time in trying to teach her servant to make a good drawn-butter gravy, and who found no little scolding necessary to accomplish it, called Bridget in to the dinner table one day and said, severely:

"Bridget, this drawn-butter gravy is actually bitter!"

"Is that so, ma'am?" asked Bridget, sorrowfully.

"It is, Bridget. Now, how do you account for it?"

"I do' know, ma'am; but I do be thinkin', ma'am, that I dhropped a tear intil it!"—Youth's Companion.

"Only the Scars Remain,"

Says HENRY HUDSON, of the James Smith Woolen Machinery Co., Philadelphia, Pa., who certifies as follows:

"Among the many testimonials which I see in regard to certain medicines performing cures, cleansing the blood, etc., none impress me more than my own case. Twenty years ago, at the age of 13 years, I had swellings come on my legs, which broke and became running sores. Our family physician could do me no good, and it was feared that the bones would be affected. At last, my good old to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I took three bottles, the sores healed, and I have not been troubled since. Only the scars remain, and the memory of the past, to remind me of the good Ayer's Sarsaparilla has done me. I now weigh two hundred and twenty pounds, and am in the best of health. I have been on the road for the past twelve years, have noticed Ayer's Sarsaparilla advertised in all parts of the United States, and always take pleasure in telling what good it did for me."

Mother Urged Me

THE HOUSE OF COMMONS.

House in Committee of Ways and Means on the Tariff Bill.

OTTAWA, April 14.—In the Commons yesterday the House went into Committee of Ways and Means.

Section 2 of the resolutions re-enacted the provision giving power to the Governor-General in council to transfer dutiable goods to the list of goods which may be imported free of duty.

Mr. [illegible] claimed that the Government ought not to have such important powers. Such powers should rest with the House only.

Mr. Charlton argued that this clause gave the Government an opportunity to aid particular manufacturers, and he held that it had been altered in the past.

Sir John Thompson explained the old statute had been followed in this section word for word.

Mr. Gibson made the statement that a complaint had been made to him by ship builders at Port Dalhousie that they had been charged more duty under this statute on vessel steel plates than ship builders at Hamilton.

Hon. Mr. Foster said the Government had never favored any particular manufacturers.

The clause was discussed all afternoon until the Speaker left the chair.

After recess the following bills were read a second time:

Mr. Henderson—Respecting the Guelph Junction Railway Co.

Mr. Ross (Lisgar)—Respecting the Medicine Hat Railway and Coal Co.

Mr. Robillard—To confirm an agreement between the Ottawa City Passenger Railway Co. and the Ottawa Electric Street Railway Co., and an agreement between the said companies and the corporation of the city of Ottawa, and to unite the said companies under the name of "The Ottawa Electric Railway Company."

Mr. Lowell—To empower the Niagara Falls Suspension Bridge Company to issue debentures and for other purposes.

Dr. Montague—To incorporate the Niagara Falls Electric Bridge Company.

Mr. Girouard (Jacques Cartier)—Respecting the Montreal Park and Island Railway Bridge Company.

Mr. Flint—To incorporate the New York, New England and Canada Company.

Mr. Bryson—To consolidate and amend certain Acts relating to the Ottawa and Gatineau Valley Railway Company, and to change the name of the company to the Ottawa and Gatineau Railway Company.

Mr. Boyd—To incorporate the Dominion Gas and Electric Company.

Mr. Trouotte—To incorporate the Metis, Matane and Gaspe Railway Company.

Mr. Cockburn—Respecting the Erie and Huron Railway Company.

Mr. McGregor—Respecting the Lake Erie and Detroit River Railway Company and the London and Port Stanley Railway Company.

Mr. Pelletier—To incorporate the Ste. Emelie Railway Company.

The House went into Committee on Ways and Means again, the second clause of the resolutions being still under discussion.

Mr. Charlton moved in amendment to the clause: "That the following words be added to the clause: 'Provided, however, that all orders in council relating to any matter in connection with the customs, whereby any ruling or decision is made on a remission of duty or rebate dealt with, or any order connected with the Customs Department acted upon, shall be published in the Canada Gazette in the week following the passage of any such order.'" This, the mover said, would make the Government show its hand.

The amendment was lost and the clause was adopted.

The next point taken up by the Opposition was clause 4: "That when it appears to the satisfaction of the Governor in council that the governments of France and Spain, or either of them, have made changes in their tariff of duties imposed upon articles imported from Canada, in reduction or repeal of the duties now in force in said countries, he may, by proclamation, order the whole or part of the duty of 30 per centum ad valorem hereby imposed upon wines imported into Canada to be remitted, as respects importations from the said countries, or from that one of the said countries by the Government of which such change in its tariff of duties has been made as aforesaid."

The clause was adopted.

The next clause that provoked discussion was No. 8: "That on imported Indian corn, to be kiln-dried and ground into meal for human food, or ground into meal and kiln-dried for such use, under such regulations as are made by the governor-in council, there may be allowed a drawback of 90 per cent. of the duty paid."

The clause was adopted.

No. 12 was carried after Mr. Foster had explained that it introduced an alternative test; that in the case of all wines, spirits or alcoholic liquors, subject to duty according to their relative strength of proof, such strength shall be ascertained either by means of Sykes' hydrometer or of the specific gravity bottle, as the Controller of Customs may direct; and in case such relative strength cannot be correctly ascertained by the direction of the hydrometer or gravity bottle, it shall be ascertained by the distillation of a sample, and the subsequent test in like manner of the distillate.

Other clauses were carried.

A resolution having been carried bringing the new tariff into operation from March 27, the committee reported progress and the House rose.

COMPLETELY TIED UP.

All the Employes of the Great Northern Go Out on Strike.

FROM LAMOUR TO SPOKANE

Not a Wheel Turns and No Traffic is Allowed—The Strikers Make Provision for the Protection of the Company's Property.

ST. PAUL, Minn., April 14.—"Stop work Friday, April 13, at 12 o'clock. Do not go to work again until restoration of old rate of wages paid August 1, 1893."

This message was sent to every station on the Great Northern railway from Lamour, N. D., to Spokane, Wash. It is signed J. Hogan and Roy Goodwin, committee of the American Railway Union. The effect has been to pretty effectually tie up the line at Helena, Great Falls and Spokane.

A despatch from Great Falls says: No railroad in any city was ever tied up more completely than the Great Northern is here. At noon every man obeyed the order of the American Railway Union and quit. A long train of loaded coal cars was left on the bridge giving access to the city, which prevented the west-bound express from coming this side of the river. Permission was given to go on to Butte, but there was no despatches to give it clearance.

The Trades and Labor Council has endorsed the strike. Not a wheel turns. The ore supply of the big Boston and Montana smelts is cut off. There is no disturbance. The strikers have appointed a committee to protect the property of the company.

This is the first strike ordered by the American Railway Union and it is a case of life or death with that order. The order embraces engineers, firemen, conductors, brakesmen, switchmen, section men, shop men, car repairers, coal heavers and clerks, and is said to be very strong in the territory over which the strike is ordered. The employes in the different departments will also stand together and will not go back to work unless all of their demands are conceded.

Fifteen delegates who will conduct the strike were sent east and west from Havre yesterday and one of them will drop off at each division point. Mr. Hogan was in Butte and addressed a large-ly-attended meeting of the American Railway Union. His action in calling the strike was unanimously approved. He will remain in Butte and will conduct the strike from there.

The telegraph operators are also out.

THE BUFFALO FIRE.

Thirteen Men Are Reported Missing—One of the Injured Will Die.

BUFFALO, April 14.—The list of men missing since the big grape sugar works fire is now definitely placed at thirteen. Up to midnight none of these had reported at their homes or to the Hamlin's manager. The injured are doing well, and, with the exception of Wm. Maurice, are expected to recover.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s Report.

NEW YORK, April 14.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: Business improvement meets many obstacles, and it is scarcely as distinct as it has been in recent weeks. More favorable crop reports than were expected, which justify larger hope for next fall, have arrested the upward tendency in prices of products. A striking increase is noted in the demand for fall dress goods, but in men's woollens there is no improvement of demand for heavy weights, and orders for spring goods have been reduced, though easy terms are offered. The tone of the dry goods on the whole is less assuring, buyers are few, and mail orders are falling off, and there is a shade of weakness in some cottons, with less success in stimulating trade by low prices. The boot and shoe trade continues to improve. The money market has changed very little, but $4,000,000 of gold went to Paris to day. No improvement is seen in commercial loans, and the large increase reported by banks is mainly due to stock transactions. The most cheering sign is the decrease in importance of commercial failures. The failures this week have been 216 in the United States, against 187 last year, and 34 in Canada, against 22 last year.

Dr. Andrew Grant & Co., Toronto.

Dear Sirs,—Your "Hairene," I believe to be a wonderful remedy. It certainly produced the most unexpected results in my case, my hair had been falling out very freely for some time, becoming anxious about the matter I thought I would experiment upon the properties of 'Hairene," and one application actually stopped it at once. I applied it once or twice afterward, using in all about a quater of one bottle, and have not required to use it since. It seems to have given renewed and healthy vigor to the scalp, and I can recommend it in all confidence.

A FINE FORESTERS' SUCCESS.

A Largely Attended Concert—A Good Programme well Rendered.

The Foresters almost unvariably score a success, and another was added by the grand union concert of Courts Peterborough and Langton, given in the opera house last night. The stage was very tastefully and liberally decorated with potted plants. The house was filled to the doors. The programme opened with an excellently performed overture by the Fire Brigade Orchestra, which also opened the second part of the programme with another equally well-played overture. Miss H. Flint, of the Metropolitan church choir, Toronto, sang Millards' "Waiting" with commendable judgment, giving evidence of correct method and careful training, and was very warmly applauded. The fun of the evening was presented by Mr. Frank Wright, comic vocalist, Toronto, and he was uproariously successful. He was put down for three numbers, but in response to recalls that would take no denial, he was forced to appear nine or ten times. He fairly took the audience by storm and if he were singing for glory must have been well satisfied with the receipts of the evening. One of the most deserving numbers of the programme was the selection presented by the Peterborough Male Quartette (unaccompanied)—Messrs. Shaw, Garvin, Davis and Drope—of Buck's rather bizarre arrangement of "Annie Laurie." This selection received full justice at the hands of the singers. Their second number, a brisk and tuneful glee, was given with so much force and vim that they had to respond with another equally well sung selection. Mr. J. H. Jones, violinist, played a selection, with variations, from "Lurline." He played with firmness and sympathetic expression. In answer to a demand for more he performed with good effect Handel's beautiful Largo. The trio, "Memory," by Willings, was admirably sung by Miss Fawcett, Miss Flint and Mr. Shaw, and if they had met the evident desires of the audience they would have appeared again. Miss Fawcett did justice to her high reputation as an artistic vocalist by her fine rendering of "What the Years May Bring," by Bingham. Mr. R. A. Shaw presented a good interpretation of Roches' "Only One." The appreciation of the audience was shown by a cordial recall, to which Mr. Shaw responded with "Lazzaroni." "God Save the Queen," by the orchestra brought a very successful concert to a close and the audience departed highly pleased, if the liberally bestowed applause is a criterion, with the programme presented by the Foresters of Courts Peterborough and Langton, Canadian Order of Foresters. Mr. Fred Clark played the accompaniments with his usual taste. Miss Maggie McCabe furnished excellent accompaniments for Mr. Jones and for the orchestra, the pianoforte used being an "Evans," kindly loaned by Jackson & Co. The programme was under the The younger portion of the audience, and musical management of Mr. R. A. Shaw. the orchestra, remained an hour or two enjoying the pleasures of the dance.

Don't forget to try your sample of Wide Awake Soap for next week's washing.

Something decidedly new in the medical line is now being shown by the most of the druggists. It is a combination of seven different drugs put up in lozenge form and so skillfully is the taste of nauseous drugs disguised that a person tasting them would not imagine they were anything but a most pleasant candy. They are intended to replace the old-fashioned, disagreeable pills, which have been so extensively used by people afflicted with bilious and other kindred troubles and are especially nice for children. They are called by the drug trade, Eseljay's Liver Lozenges.

Wide Awake Soap is a mammoth bar of pure soap that will not vanish like snow in warm water.

MISSION BAND ENTERTAINMENT.

The First Attempt of the Children, but it was a Decided Success—The Programme

The first public entertainment ever held under the auspices of the newly organized Mission Band of the Charlotte Street Church was held last evening and was, besides being exceptionally well attended, a pleasant success and enjoyable affair. The Mission Band was organized by a few energetic ladies in December last, who were interested in infusing and maintaining a missionary spirit and zeal in the minds of the young. The present membership is thirty-two and the officers are as follows:—

President—Mrs. J. W. Taylor.
Vice-President—Mrs. Jory.
Pianist—Miss B. Morrow.
Recording Secretary—Master Walter Brooks.
Corresponding Secretary—Miss Grace Brooks.
Treasurer—Frank Cox.

The attendance last evening comfortably filled the Sunday school room. Mrs. Taylor presided and the proceedings opened with the singing of "From Greenland's Icy Mountains," and the repeating of the Lord's Prayer in concert. The opening address was given by Miss May Jory in a happy style. Three little girls followed with a charming recitation and Miss Jennie Edwards gave an instrumental solo. Four little girls contributed "Dolly's Dialogue," which was well received, and Mr. Alfred Cox obliged with a mandolin solo. Miss Mabel Waram gave a recitation in an able manner. After a few minutes intermission an instrumental trio was played by Master W. Brooks and Misses Gracie and Florence Brooks. Miss Lola Ostrom was faultless in her admirable reading of a prose selection entitled "The Rumshop," and so strongly did she appeal to the elocutionary sympathies of those present that she was called back amid great applause and read that pathetic story "The Little Flower Girl," in a very touching manner. "The Locomotive" was a dialogue contributed by sixteen little girls and boys, all members of the band. The next number was a recitation by six girls. Misses Kennedy and Morris rendered a brilliant instrumental duet, after which Mr. Herbert Hall gave a splendid harmonica selection. The four young ladies who recited missionary poems and were dressed in representative and typical costumes of the different countries, they presented their parts well. Miss Grace Brooks symbolized China, Miss Essie Frost, Japan, Miss Alice Stanton the North West, and Miss Ella Morris the Pagan Indian. Miss Dollie Fowler read a poem which brought to a close a lengthy but thoroughly enjoyable and instructive programme. The proceedings closed with the singing of a hymn.

MESSRS. MOORE AND WHYTE.

Murray Street Baptist Church Filled to the Standing Room of the Vestibules.

Last night saw the greatest number gathered to listen to Messrs. Moore and White that has been at any of the meetings—many coming for the first time and regretting that they had not been there before. Rev. Mr. Moore addressed the young converts and encouraged them to keep in the path of well doing. He again unfolded the simple plan of salvation. Using the wanderings of the children of Israel he showed how near the goal of happiness a soul may come and then turn back. He pleaded with those who during his ministry had accepted Christ as their Saviour not to falter, but to continue to serve the Lord Jesus Christ and all things else would be added. His farewell was full of feeling and many in the vast audience were deeply affected.

Mr. Whyte in a happy way told them he could not comply with all the requests for song that he had received, but that he would do all he could to reply to them, and sang many of his soul touching and pathetic pieces. He thanked the choir for the support they had given them, and complimented them on the fine quality of their voices and musical abilities.

Mr. Whyte also, in a short address, exhorted the converts to continue faithful to their vow. This last meeting was one that all should remember and he hoped to never hear of any of them going back to sin.

The after meeting was one of rejoicing, many testifying to the power of the Lord Jesus Christ to save and keep them. Testimonies were given by both the aged and the young.

This series of meetings led by Messrs. Moore and Whyte which have continued four weeks, on the eve of their coming to a close seem to increase in spiritual power and Rev. Mr. Trotter intends to continue them for some time longer. He will have the assistance of others in his efforts to continue the good work. On Sunday and next week the services will be held at the usual hour, 7.45 p. m. All are invited to come and hear the glad news. The collections were good and the thank offering last night was to Messrs. Moore & Whyte a pleasant token of the love and respect in which they are held by those they came to benefit. At the close many remained to shake hands and bid them God speed on their mission.

ST. JOSEPH'S HOSPITAL.

Impressive Ceremonies To-morrow Afternoon.

St. Joseph's hospital will receive its crowning touch to-morrow afternoon at 2.30 o'clock, when the beautiful statue of St. Joseph will be solemnly blessed by His Lordship Rt. Rev. Dr. O'Connor, bishop of Peterborough. The statue, which is of terra cotta, is the gift of a benefactor of the hospital and when in position will occupy a niche high up in the front facade of the building. The day will be most appropriate for the occasion, as, being the third Sunday after Easter, it is the day set by the church as the Feast of the Patronage of St. Joseph. In addition to the solemn blessing there will be a sermon and benediction of the Blessed Sacrament. During the ceremony, which commences at 3.30 p. m., Mme. Rosa d'Erina, the famous prima donna, and her husband, Prof. Vontom, will render several brilliant and appropriate selections. Visitors will be cordially welcome. In order to help defray the cost of placing the statue in position a silver collection will be taken up.

—The Belleville market tolls have been leased for the ensuing year to Mr. Roberts for the sum of $2,500. The present leases also had charge last year.

HOME RULE PROSPECTS

Justin McCarthy Addresses a Branch of the Liberal Association.

IRISH MUST ULTIMATEY WIN.

They Control the Balance of Power and Hold the Government of England in the Hollow of Their Hands — Confident of Liberal Fidelity.

LONDON, April 16.—Justin McCarthy addressed a large meeting in London last evening under the auspices of the St. Pancras branch of the National Liberal Association. He said:

"Immediately after Mr. Gladstone resigned I was especially summoned to meet him to discuss the prospects of home rule. Mr. Gladstone had then and has still absolute confidence that the gentlemen who constitute the present Cabinet were faithful to the home rule cause."

After mentioning Mr. Gladstone's conviction that Lord Rosebery was eager to give Ireland all the rights which the old Premier had proposed to grant her in the former home rule bill, Mr. McCarthy said the Irish now had on their side a Ministry as strong as any previous one of the same age, not even excepting ministries led by Mr. Gladstone. Even if the Liberal party should lose control of the Government the Irish would have the democracy of England, Scotland and Wales behind them, and their cause would be safe. They must ultimately win. He did not believe that the Liberals would fail Ireland, but if they should the Irish would oppose them and eject them from office at once, for the Irish held the balance of power in Parliament. The Tories had come grovelling cap in hand to the Irish, and they might do so again hoping to be enabled by the Irish to get back into office. In any case the Irish held the Government of England in the hollow of their hands. Mr. McCarty deprecated public discussion of party differences. The majority must govern, he said. On all questions of principle, he added, the party was still united.

MISS POLLARD WINS.

The Jury Awards a Verdict of $15,000 Against Colonel Breckenridge.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—The jury in the suit of Madeline Pollard against Colonel Breckenridge to recover $50,000 for breach of promise has found a verdict of $15,000.

Judge Bradley instructed the jury that this is an action for breach of contract of marriage. If the jury find from the evidence that there were mutual promises of marriage, as claimed in declaration, that would constitute binding contract. If after such contract was made defendant married another person, that would be breach of contract and plaintiff was entitled to sue. And it would be no defence to the action that the parties had continued immoral relations after the contract. If they believe from evidence that defendant made any of the alleged promises of marriage in bad faith, not intending to keep the same, and further find that the plaintiff accepted such promise in good faith and agreed to marry defendant, the bad faith or intention of defendant is no defence in this action. The burden is upon the defendant to establish by a preponderance evidence of any defence to or release from any such promise. If jury find from evidence that defendant was married on April 29, 1893, and he kept and caused to be kept that marriage secret and thereafter, and without disclosing repeated previously-made engagements of marriage to the plaintiff, such secret marriage would be no defence to action. In estimating damages they must consider all facts in the evidence as to relations between parties up to breaking of promise, prospective, pecuniary and social advantage to plaintiff from such marriage; injury to plaintiff's feelings and reputation by its violation; manner and circumstances of violation and suffering of plaintiff caused thereby and effect upon her means of earning livelihood in future, and the jury are also to take into consideration wrong sustained by defendant and may award exemplary damages as well. Before plaintiff can recover in this action jury must believe, from all the evidence, contract was entered into between plaintiff and defendant by which they agreed with each other to become husband and wife.

Col. Breckenridge will ask for a new trial.

COXEY'S MARCH TO WASHINGTON.

Washington Authorities Preparing to Meet Any Attempts at Demonstration.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—Steps have been taken here to enforce the law in case Coxey should attempt to wind up his parade with a demonstration on the steps of the Capitol.

Section five of the Act of July 1, 1882, reads as follows: "That it is forbidden to discharge any firearms, fireworks or explosives, set fire to any combustible, make any harangue or oration or utter loud threatening or abusive language in the Capitol grounds."

Section six says: "That it is forbidden to parade, stand or move in processions or assemblages, or display any flag, banner or device designed or adapted to bring into public notice any party, organization or movement in the Capitol grounds."

Quietly, but with the firm determination of enforcing law, the Committees on Rules of the House and Senate have gone to work, and Mr. Coxey will be the recipient of a surprise if he attempts to carry out his programme.

NEWFOUNDLAND CRISIS

The Assembly Meets Under the New Administration.

GOODRIDGE'S PARTY DEFEATED

The Whitewayites Move a Want of Confidence Motion—The Usher of the Blackrod Refused Admittance While the Debate is in Progress.

ST. JOHNS, Nfld., April 16.—Saturday's parliamentary proceedings were unprecedented. Goodridge's Cabinet was sworn in in the morning. The Cabinet advised the Governor to prorogue in the afternoon and the Governor agreed to preliminary prorogation, to continue until all the accused Whiteway members are unseated, or until the expiry of the revenue bill renders necessary capitulation of Whiteway's demand for dissolution.

Assembly met at noon on the announcement being made of the formation of a new ministry. Ex-Premier Whiteway moved a vote of want of confidence in the new Ministry, and made a lengthy speech, and was supported by Mr. Morris, a colleague.

The debate was not concluded when the usher appeared to summon the members of the Assembly to attend the Upper House, where the Governor's Commissioner, Hon. Edward Shea, president of the council, presented a motion to formally prorogue the Legislature. The Whitewayites then adopted a resolution refusing admittance to the usher until the Assembly had concluded its deliberations. The doors were closed and the Speaker ordered the doorkeepers to refuse the usher admittance. The debate on the main question then continued, and the motion of want of confidence was passed. The Whitewayites then decided to present their decision to the Governor immediately, their aim being to delay prorogation. The Goodridge party, however, proceeded to the council, where prorogation was finally accomplished. The Whitewayites refrained from visiting the Governor, and sent a copy of the vote by the Clerk. The Governor was indignant at the affront put upon him, and returned no answer. The Speaker then visited the Governor, who expressed himself in strong terms at their action.

The new departmental officers assumed their duties to day.

A Storekeeper Charged With Fraud.

MONTREAL, Que., April 16.—Hiram Silverman, of Webbwood, Ont., a merchant and general storekeeper, is now an inmate of the Montreal jail with one charge of theft against him, besides two capias. Silverman was arrested in Sudbury on Thursday last on a warrant charging him with defrauding Mr. Edward Ross out of $475 worth of goods. But it is claimed that the total amount of fraud will amount to between $7,000 and $8,000. When he came to Montreal to buy goods he claimed that he had lots of property, and goods were sent on. When the time came for payment there was no money, and on investigation it was found that his property was in his wife's name and that he had given a chattel mortgage to his brother for all the stock in the store. The first was made fairly easy as Silverman was caught by surprise, and he was at once brought before a magistrate in order to be transported back to Montreal, but did not arrive here in time as the Canadian Pacific train was fifteen hours late. Silverman will be brought before Judge Dugas tomorrow to stand his trial on the above charge.

AMERICAN POACHERS RAIDED.

Buffalo Fishermen Caught Fishing in Canadian Waters by Inspector Kerr.

PORT COLBORNE, Ont., April 16—Fishery Inspector Kerr, of Hamilton, with the chartered tug Alderson, Capt. Peterson, made a raid on some Buffalo fishermen engaged in fishing in Canadian waters, between Fort Erie and Port Abino, near Windmill Point, destroying a number of their nets and taking some of the fish found in them. There were some fifteen or twenty boats engaged at the time and there was quite a scattering of the men on the appearance of the Inspector's tug. In one instance it is reported the tug had to fire a gun in order to prevent one of the boats from sinking their net, to save it from being destroyed. Some two or three miles of nets were confiscated or destroyed.

Civil Servant Suspended.

OTTAWA, April 16.—Richard J. Wicksteed, Q.C., of the House of Commons staff, has been suspended. It is understood that his suspension is due to a letter he had written to an evening paper criticizing in very severe terms the action of the Internal Committee of the House, which is composed of the Speaker and the committee of the Cabinet, for passing over his claims to promotion. Twice he alleged he was passed over by others and the reason of this he charged was undue favor, the favored ones being promoted or appointed because of the political and religious influence they were able to secure. While he is, so he said, a United Empire Loyalist, those who have been placed over him are Roman Catholics, which is their special qualification.

Farmer Suffocated by Gas.

GALT, April 16.—William Taylor, a farmer from the vicinity of Glen Morris, came to town on Saturday night and put up at the Market hotel, being consigned to a room on the third flat. Yesterday morning a strong smell of gas was noticed on that flat which, upon investigation, proved to come from the room occupied by Taylor. He could not be aroused and the door was burst open, and Taylor was found dead, laying across the bed. The gas jet was turned almost fully on and the room was filled with gas. Mr. Thompson, the proprietor, showed him to bed the night before and explained the working of the gas.

Farmer Killed by a Train.

JARVIS, Ont., April 16.—Hugh Bothwell, a farmer who lived four miles west of this place, was found dead yesterday two miles west of here on the air line division of the G. T. R. Deceased was supposed to have been struck while asleep on the track by an east bound freight train. The body was horribly mutilated.

THE CLOSE SEASON FOR FISH.

Pointers for Piscatorial Artists—Seasons and Regulations.

Spring is with us and the devotees of sport piscatorial are longing for the time when the law shall permit them to enter upon its prosecution without danger of subjecting themselves to prosecution, and the reproduction of the schedule of close seasons for fish might serve as a timely reminder. An Order-in-Council, dated March, 1893, provides that after January 1st, 1894, the close season for bass in the province of Ontario be changed,—that is bass shall not be caught, sold or had in possession—from 10th May to June 30th; maskinonge, from April 15th to June 15th; pickerel (dores), from April 15th to May 15th; speckled trout, from September 15th to May 1st; salmon trout, from 1st to 30th November; whitefish, from 1st to 30th November. Both days are inclusive in all cases.

Attention is also called to the following regulations:—

Fishing with nets or any other apparatus without license is prohibited.

The use of firearms or explosive materials to catch, shoot or kill fish is prohibited.

The use of snares of any kind for the purpose of catching or killing fish is prohibited.

All well disposed persons are requested to give the local fishery officers whatever information and assistance they can towards carrying out these provisions of the law.

Complainants will receive one-half of the fines imposed and be paid for their costs and attendance as witnesses.

Any person guilty of violating these regulations is liable to fine and costs or in default of payment is subject to imprisonment.

The granting of permits to take bass under the provisions of the Order in Council of the 10th April, 1893, shall be carried out during the year 1893 only, and no longer.

THE CART BEFORE THE HORSE.

A Curfew By-law Passed Before a Curfew Bell Has Been Procured.

Lakefield is in a fix—its council has passed a curfew by-law and now there is no town bell to announce when the curfew hour has arrived. The Lakefield News comments on the town predicament thus:—

"Now that the curfew bell has become a reality in the village, the town council are considering how they will make the youngsters know when to go home without going around and telling them personally. Their opinions differ. Some are in favour of trying to get the English church bell, but we think there will be some trouble in that, as it would interfere with the services of that church. Others think that our worthy constable should take a hand bell and parade the streets, ringing it when the hour comes. The idea in itself is absurd, as it would only be heard a short distance. What the council should do, and there is a motion now on the books and was passed, is to buy a town bell and place it in the tower of the town hall, where it should have been years ago. There must be something the matter when a motion is passed and then is not carried out."

The Year of Greatest Growth.

In boys is the seventeenth; in girls the fourteenth. While girls reach full height in their fifteenth year they acquire full weight at the age of twenty. Boys are stronger than girls from birth to the eleventh year; then girls become superior physically to the seventeenth year, when the tables are again turned and remain so. From November to April, children grow very little and gain no weight; from April to July, they gain in height but lose in weight, and from July to November they increase greatly in weight but not in height.

Eccentric Ladies.

The lovely little village of Llangollen, in North Wales, is famous as the place where for 50 years dwelt the "Eccentric Ladies." Many stories are told of them. One of their eccentricities was that whenever they walked abroad they wore men's high silk hats. When they died they were laid to rest side by side in the old Llangollen churchyard.

Threw Herself Before a Train.

LOCKPORT, N.Y., April 16.—Mrs. William Rich, of La Salle, a station on the New York Central, south of the city, threw herself before a Michigan Central train and was instantly killed. She leaves six young children destitute. Her husband was killed on the track near the same place four years ago. She is believed to have been insane.

The Premier of Egypt.

LONDON, April 16.—A despatch from Cairo says that Nubar Pasha, who has been entrusted by the Khedive with the forming the forming of a new Cabinet, will retain the old Ministers of Finance and Justice. England is pleased with the choice of Nubar for the premiership. The resignation of Riaz excited no surprise here.

Coxey's Army in Revolt.

FROSTBURG, April 16.—A revolt in the ranks of the Coxey army leaves the band in a state bordering on riot. Chief Marshal Brown has been deposed by the men as marshal, and the famous "Unknown," Louis Smith, is in full charge. Gen. Coxey has been absent for several days and does not know of this row.

Fatal Railway Accident.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., April 16.—A serious railroad accident took place at Silver Brook, near Hazelton, yesterday. A Pennsylvania railroad freight train ran into a Lehigh Valley express train killing one man and injuring many others. The accident was due to an oversight of the Pennsylvania freight crew. They left Pottsville in the morning with a train of mixed cars and were making fast time. The engineer did not see the passenger train until it was too late and the engines came together with a crash, demolishing them. There were nearly 100 passengers on the train. They were thrown about in all directions, but all escaped injury. The man who was killed was riding on the freight train.

A Sunday Morning Fracas.

EARA, April 16.—Wm. Smiley and others bombarded the house of Michael Emling yesterday. Mrs. Emling was shot and dangerously wounded. Her son Michael defended his mother and shot and fatally wounded Smiley. Emling, jr., is in jail.

Three Girls Burned to Death.

JANESVILLE, Minn., April 16.—The residence of August Krinkie, three miles west of this city was destroyed by fire yesterday, and three of Krinkie's daughters, Augusta, Martha and Edith were burned to death.

GIVES UP HIS SWORD.

Admiral de Mello Surrenders to the Government of Uruguay.

THE FIGHT AT RIO GRANDE

Mello Lost 300 Killed and Wounded, While the Government Forces Lost 100—The Crisis in Peixoto's Cabinet at Rio de Janeiro.

MONTEVIDEO, April 16.—The Uruguayan government, after having been notified by Mello of his desire to surrender, sent out a battalion of infantry to receive his submission. The commanding officer, after conferring with Mello, accepted his sword and placed him and his followers formally under arrest. Mello landed his men from the Republica.

The insurgents lost 350 killed and wounded and the government forces 100 in the recent battle at Rio Grande do Sul. Gen. Salgedo, who had differences with Mello, with 900 insurgent troops has arrived on Uruguayan soil. The whole force is unarmed. What is left of the insurgent squadron has gone to Paranaguaya.

The Cabinet crisis in Rio de Janeiro is still far from settlement. The whole Cabinet will probably be rearranged, although not all the old Ministers will retire.

NATIVES WERE SKINNED ALIVE.

The Awful Cruelties Perpetrated by German Officials in the Cameroons.

BERLIN, April 16.—Freiherr Marschall von Bieberstein, Minister of Foreign Affairs, has started for Carlsruhe to report to the Emperor generally on the political outlook and especially on the latest official news from the Cameroons.

The statements sent from the Cameroons by Special Commissioner Rose has excited the horror of the whole nation. The details of the atrocities described by Councillor Rose convey the idea that Chancellor Leist, Assessor Wehlan and the German soldiers in the Cameroons were half crazed by heat and liquor when they tortured the natives. The evidence against the officials is perfectly clear. Wehlan himself related what a splendid experience the soldiers had in scalping hostile natives. Some of the prisoners were skinned alive. In many cases the soldiers made incisions at the neck and then holding the loose skin with their teeth pulled the scalps clean off. Engineer Gebhardt, of the colonial steamship Natchgal, says that Chancellor Leist often brought native women from the prison in the middle of the night, made them dance before him, and kept several in his house until morning. The Kreuz Zeitung says: "The details of the atrocities are too horrible for publication."

Juan d'Avila Diago Beatified.

ROME, April 16.—The Spanish preacher and theologian, Juan d'Avila Diago, who was known to his contemporaries in the 16th century as the apostle from Andalusia, was beatified at St. Peter's yesterday in the presence of 7,000 Spanish pilgrims and forty bishops. In the evening the Pope was borne into the Sedia Gestatoria up the aisle to the altar. He was escorted by twenty cardinals. He prayed for the new saint, swinging with his own hand the censor before the monstrance containing the host. After a solemn benediction the Pope was borne out while the 30,000 persons who had witnessed the service cheered enthusiastically. The Pope looked well.

A Royal Wedding.

COBOURG, April 16.—Grand Duke Ernst Ludwig of Hesse Darmstadt, to whom Princess Victoria of Saxe-Cobourg Gotha will be married this week, arrived yesterday. The Duke of Saxe-Coburg Gotha (Duke of Edinburgh) met him at the station and the mayor of the city presented to him an address of welcome. The Grand Duke was escorted by a guard of honor to the palace. Triumphal arches has been erected over the streets through which he passed and crowds along the route cheered him constantly.

Sister of Mercy Murdered.

BERLIN, April 16.—Yesterday the police found the dead body of a sister of mercy lying by the side of a road leading to the Grunewal forest on the outskirts of the city. The body was partly concealed by some bdshes. The throat of the unfortunate woman had been cut and examination disclosed the fact that she had been maltreated before she was murdered. Near the spot where the body was found were evidences of a desperate struggle and some footprints of a man which may lead to the arrest of the murderer.

Italy's Army and Navy Estimates.

LONDON, April 16.—A Rome correspondent says that Premier Crispi has positively refused to make any reduction in the army and navy estimates. In this policy, the correspondent believes, the Premier is in the minority in the Chamber, and he will very likely dissolve the Chamber without submitting it to a vote, which would unquestionably be against him.

It would be worth while for the ladies to bear in mind that if they take a gentle course of Ayer's Sarsaparilla in the spring they will have no trouble with "prickly heat," "hives," "sties," "boils," or "black heads," when summer comes. Prevention is better than cure.

Prince of Wales on National Defence.

LONDON, April 16.—At the festival dinner given at the Middlesex hospital the Prince of Wales, who presided, offered a toast to the Army and Navy, the defenders of the empire. He expressed his gratification at the decision of the Government to increase the navy, which, he said, was the bulwark of national defence. On the subject his Royal Highness said: "God forbid that it should imply any threat to other countries. It is just the reverse, for in order to be at peace we must be strong. Therefore it is the best policy to strengthen the first line of defence—the navy. I hope the motto of which our volunteers are so proud, that of 'defence not defiance,' may ever be retained by the navy." The Prince was loudly cheered.

Prince Gustav's Civil List.

STOCKHOLM, April 16.—The Storthing a fortnight ago passed a resolution to suspend the civil list of Crown Prince Gustav until he should deny an expression attributed to him in regard to an armed invasion of Norway by Sweden. The Crown Prince was out of the country at the time of the passage of the resolution, but he has since returned and last evening he announced that it was unbecoming to his position to deny or even discuss the alleged expression. A denial of the expression might be construed as an attempt on his part to secure the civil list, the grant of which he declared he would not now accept.

Mr. Holmes' Comet.

BOSTON, April 16.—A cablegram received by Messrs. Chandler and Ritchie, from the European Union of Astronomers, announces that the object observed by Mr. Holmes, of London, is not a comet. The comet discovered by Mr. Gale, of Sydney, will be seen in the northern hemisphere. It was at its closest approach to the sun on April 13.

Damaging Cloudburst in Texas.

WACO, Tex., April 16.—Reports are received from Troy, thirty miles from here, saying that Elmcreek bottom has been flooded by a great cloudburst and the crops for miles around washed away. The destruction of houses and live stock has also been enormous. It is feared that many families living in the bottom have been drowned.

Tank Oil Car Explodes.

CHICAGO, April 16.—Fire started in a Union Line tank oil car standing in the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul yards. It burned slowly and then exploded, wrecking adjoining rolling stock and fatally injuring several men.

AFTER TYPHOID FEVER.

Harvey Neff Has Kidney Disease, Which Doctors Could Not Cure Dodd's Kidney Pills Restored Him to Perfect Health.

PORT COLBORNE, April 9—In March, 1893, Harvey H. Neff, of this place, had a bad attack of typhoid fever. Good nursing and medical attendance brought him around, but the attack left him a victim of kidney disease. This the doctors failed to cure, but Dodd's Kidney Pills, the infallible remedy, did the same good work in his case as in all others and Mr. Neff is well to-day. Dodd's was the first kidney remedy in pill form ever offered the public. Its wonderful success in curing all forms of kidney disease has led to the introduction of numerous cheap and worthless imitations. Purchasers, for their own safety, should insist on getting Dodd's Kidney Pills. Sold in large boxes: price, fifty cents or six boxes for $2.50. To be had of all dealers.

Worthless Pianos and Organs

Are made in large quantities, because foolish people buy where prices are lowest, without giving a thought to quality. Any one who thinks, will not buy a "Piano at $170, or an Organ at $80, guaranteed for nineteen years," because it is cheap. Any one who thus thinks will avoid learning by experience that it would have been cheaper to pay, say $300, for his piano.

We can furnish an Organ for $80, but we will not. We live here and have to "face the music" this year and other years to come.

THE BOZEMAN AFFIDAVIT.

Detective Greer Declares the Alleged Confession to be a Fake.

TORONTO, April 16.—Provincial Detective Greer has returned from Bozeman, Mont. In the abrupt parlance of a police officer, Mr. Greer pronounces the confession of Dutton to the murder for which MacWherrell stands convicted as "a great big fake."

Stevenson still maintains that it is genuine. He remarked that the escape of Dutton had laid him open to much ridicule and he had been so worried about it that he wished he never had anything to do with it.

Greer will report to the Attorney-General that Stevenson's story is not believed in the Montana town where he resides; that he found papers in Stevenson's room containing accounts of the trial and sentence of MacWherrell; the statement of the police marshal of the town that if such a man as Dutton existed he would certainly know of it; also other observations gathered during the detective's stay in the place.

Bozeman is a county seat in the State with a population of about 2,200 people.

Deputy Attorney-General Cartwright says the department is thoroughly satisfied that there is nothing in the Dutton story.

The affidavit made by W. J. Stevenson is in the hands of Mr. Robinette, who received it from Montana on Saturday. It bears strong evidence of not being genuine, is typewritten, and attached to it are the signatures "W. J. Stevenson" and "Robert Dutton." The characters of the two names are remarkably similar. While in Bozeman Greer asked Stevenson to show him the affidavit, but the latter said he had forwarded it to Mr. Robinette on March 31, the day after it was sworn to. This was untrue, for he had it in his possession all the time Greer was there, and forwarded it on the same train that Greer left by. Enclosed with the affidavit was a letter dated April 14 to this effect: "Why did Stevenson not show Greer the affidavit? The reason is obvious. He knew that the officer would recognize at once that the signatures were made by one man and was afraid the detective might make it uncomfortable for him."

RESTRICTIONS ON CATTLE.

Prospects for the Speedy Removal of the Scottish Embargo.

LONDON, April 16.—During the debate in the House of Commons on the subject of agricultural depression in England, Sir William Vernon Harcourt, Government leader, said he was now prepared to favor the admission of Canadian cattle which, as a matter of precaution, had hitherto been so long opposed.

Mr. Chaplin said the House would probably like to be informed as to the intentions of the president of the Board of Agriculture. Mr. Gardiner in reply said he had already arranged to answer that question fully next week.

Mr. Chaplin said it was believed that if the restrictions now placed upon the importation of Canadian cattle were removed it would mean a loss to the farming population of Great Britain of at least twenty-five per cent. of the value of their live stock.

English Behring Sea Bill.

LONDON, April 17.—The Times says in a leader on the Behring Sea bill: "A knowledge of the scheduled provisions mentioned in the forfeiture clause of the Behring Sea bill implies only a knowledge of the award from which provisions are copied verbatim. As the award has been known for more than six months at every British port of departure it is unlikely that there will be wholesale exemptions on the score of ignorance of the clause. In view of Canada's regarding this as unfair, and showing that some vessels left their ports in January, when it was impossible to comply with the regulation respecting licenses, it would be possible to make the system of registration existing at the time of departure equivalent to a system of license under the award. It would be a case of issuing a railway ticket at the end of a journey to a belated traveler who had no time to take one at the beginning."

The Great Strike in the West.

SPOKANE, Wash., April 16.—The American Railway Union appears to have inaugurated the most complete strike known in the west. From Minot, Dak., to the Pacific not a wheel is turning. Chiefs of the various railway federations have wired branch lodges at Spokane warning the men from joining the strike at their peril as it is illegal. The conductors and trainmen met yesterday to discuss the situation and adjourned without arriving at any decision. The engineers and firemen have refused to obey the orders of their chiefs and are with the strikers. The Mayors of Helena, Butte, Havre and Great Falls have notified President Hill that they will not protect non-union men should the company attempt to operate the trains with them.

Tapping Telegraph Wires.

NEW YORK, April 16.—Joe Cotton, the racing man, John Sweeney, John McNally and Frank Bland have been arrested for wire tapping. It was learned that their purpose was to furnish race track news to several moneyed men of Albany, who intended backing the big pool rooms of that city. One of the Western Union officials called at the station and declared that the outfit of the wire-tappers was the finest he had ever seen and must have cost many hundred dollars. It is believed the prisoners are the same who recently tapped the Western Union Company's wires in Harlem.

An Odd Collection.

A man in Colorado has a qualht. collection of bottles. It is divided into two sections. Section one is large. Section two is not. Section one contains hundreds of bottles, the contents of which his wife swallowed hoping to find relief from her physical sufferings. Section two contains a few bottles that once were filled with Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It was this potent remedy that gave the suffering wife her health again. It cures all irregularities, internal inflammation and ulceration, displacements and kindred troubles It has done more to relieve the sufferings of women than any other medicine known to science.

BRITISH POLITICAL GOSSIP.

The New Registration Bill—The Agitation Against the Lords.

LONDON, April 16.—The anti-Lords bill, fathered by Lord Wolmer, Mr. Curzon and Mr. Broderick, which was mentioned a fortnight ago, has assumed definite shape and has at once obtained the strong opposition of the Radicals, who have nothing for it but jeers. They certainly have reason to complain of its provisions, and it is very doubtful that it will be introduced without considerable change in its terms. It provides that a peer after sitting in the House of Commons throughout one Parliament may resume his right to sit in the House of Lords if he shall so elect. On the other hand the bill provides that a peer once electing to sit in the House of Lords shall forever forfeit his right to sit in the House of Commons This is decidedly a jug-handled scheme, and must of necessity meet with strong opposition. The Cabinet is having considerable difficulty in arriving at a decision as to the manner in which they shall deal with the anti-Lords question. The Ministers well know that the Radicals are determined to force them to a definite declaration on the question in the course of the session and are alive to the necessity of arriving at some determinate course of procedure. They are continuing their discussions on the subject at every meeting of the Cabinet and every effort is being made to reach some conclusion in the construction of some form of measure of restricting or abolishing the veto power of the Lords that will commaud the approval of a majority of the House of Commons

That the registration bill will not be passed in the shape in which it was introduced is absolutely certain and it is equally plain that the framers of the bill did not expect it should be. The crucial factor of the whole measure is the abolition of plural voting, combined with the practical establishment of the one man one vote principle through simultaneous elections. This can have no other effect than to justify the opposition in treating the bill as a gerrymandering scheme, as they unquestionably will unless it is accompanied by a plan of redistribution of the constituencies.

Rumors of sweeping proposals in the budget have caused immense custom house clearance of bonded spirits, bottled wines, tobacco, etc., and created a panic in the cigar trade. Whether it be the intention of the Government to increase the duties in these articles or not, there is positively no foundation for the scare in anything that has been intimated from Government sources or that is actually known. Sir William Harcourt has kept his intentions in absolute secret. Indeed he has been so secretive that many of his colleagues in the Cabinet are not informed of his plans.

Mr. William Pritchard Morgan, Liberal member of Parliament for Merthyr, has given notice of his intention to raise in the House of Commons a question of privilege of a character to which the House is seldom treated. It is the intention of Mr. Morgan to prefer charges against Mr. Robert William Parkes, member for the East Lindsay division of Lincolnshire, also a Liberal, of having used his position as a member of Parliament to block the progress of a bill which affected property belonging to one of his clients in his capacity of solicitor. It will be somewhat difficult for Mr. Morgan to prove his charges.

The evicted tenants bill will be introduced on Thursday. The bill proposes the re-enact and extend the scope of the section of the land act encouraging voluntary arrangements between landlords and tenants, and provides that in the event of the failure of the landlord and tenant to come to terms, the Land Commission has power to purchase the holding and reinstate the tenant. This provision is designed with a view of inducing landlords to make terms. Liberal provisions are made in regard to the payment of arrears of rent and in every essential respect the measure is an advantageous one to the tenants, while it is less onerous than might be expected to the landlord. The leaders of the McCarthyite section of the Irish party were consulted in framing every section of the bill.

A Government BOMBSHELL THROWN INTO THE LIFE INSURANCE CAMP!

The following statement comes from the government Blue Book. It covers a period of sixteen years, and is sworn to as correct by representatives of each Company:

Statement of Premiums received and Cash Profits paid back to Policy Holders from 1877 to 1892, both years inclusive:—

COMPANY.	Premiums Received.	Dividends Paid to Policy Holders.	Ratio of Dividends to Premiums, %

Sun Life	5,527,720	355,290	6.43

Never in the history of Life Insurance has the struggle for business been keener. Never has the conflict been hotter. Never have the Companies felt as they feel now, the necessity for throwing all the energy at their command into the field. The most intelligent and best men have to be employed. All kinds of plans of insurance are submitted. Each Company determined in securing the supremacy in the good will of the public, in establishing their name, the utterance of which, shall convey to the minds of the people the essential characteristics of

UNDOUBTED SECURITY,
RIGID ECONOMY,
GOOD INVESTMENTS,
LARGEST PROFITS

WHY?

Because millons of dollars are being paid annually for Life Insurance, and the Companies that can show these features have attained a position which will guarantee their future success, for money will flow freely into the best investments.

The Canada Life Policy Holders can look at the above statement with a smile of satisfaction, yet sympathise with their friends who are not so favourably situated.

They can throw their Life Policies down in the face of opponents and successfully challenge the production of more profitable policies, they can stand the onslaught of Agents who will almost cover them with literature and estimates of Tontine, Semi-Tontine, Return Premiums, Reserved Dividends, Annuity and Endownment plans of insurance, and with a quiet assurance feel that

As The Canada Life is Making the Most Profits, She Can Pay the Largest Profits.

READER. If you want Life Insurance choose the Canada Life and join the throng of contented policy holders who are insured with the Company carrying about 45 per cent. of the total insurance in force of the above named Companies

Mrs. McIntyre gave a very practical talk Saturday evening on the words, "What can I do?" The attendance was not large. The Napanee Paper and Pulp Co.

Mr. J. R. Scott has succeeded in forming a new company to operate the mills of the late Napanee Paper Company. The men comprising this new company are financially strong and under the management of Mr. Scott who has had an extensive experience, we bespeak for the new company a large measure of success, as the paper manufactured is second to none and their prices are always right. We are sure the people of the county will be rejoiced to learn that the mills are to be operated again, as the employment furnished is considerable.—Napanee Express.

The Queen's Birthday Celebration.

Messrs. T. E. Bradburn, A. L. Davis and Alex. Elliott, composing the committee appointed by the Board of Trade, to boom the 24th of May demonstration, report that in their canvassing for a guarantee fund they are meeting with huge success. The citizens open meeting in the council chamber to-night is confidently expected to be a big one, and various schemes to provide for the amusement of the visitors, who are expected in town on the 24th will be brought forward.

The "Royal Scots," of Montreal, have not as yet settled where they will go on the Queen.s Birthday, and it is understood an effort will be made to get this crack regiment of "kilties" to spend the day in Peterborough.

A Duo of Venerable Documents.

Mr. J. B. Laroque showed THE EXAMINER a pair of time stained parchments connected with the early history of Canada. These documents are government forms printed on parchment, and one of them bears a formidable seal; the seal having disappeared from the other. One is dated July 20th, 1808, signed by "Chatham"—John, Earl of Chatham, and C. A. Cooper, clerk of ordnance, and entered in folio 294, and the other is signed by Henry, Lord Mulgrave, and bears date of "March 19th, 1812." These documents are patents of appointment of one John Gordon as "master smith" in the ordnance department, Quebec. At the time of the execution of the first document, Sir James Craig was governor-general of Canada, and when the second was executed, Sir Geo. Prevost was governor-general. The Mr. Gordon mentioned was the grandfather of Mr. Rock Gordon, town, brother-in-law of Mr. J. B. Laroque, proprietor of the Montreal House, Aylmer street. These documents should be of great interest to antiquarians and searchers after antique curiosities. Mr. Laroque will be very glad to show these time stained documents to any who will take the trouble to call at his place of business.

CUT THIS OUT and send it to us, enclosing a three cent stamp and the names of ten ladies, and we will send each one a sample of one of the best monthly papers published, and we will send it to you FREE for six months. Mention EXAMINER, and address MEDICAL ADVISER, Bowmanville, Ont.

The annual meeting of the Ontario Cricket Association will be held this evening at the Walker House, Toronto, at 8 o'clock.

EVANGELISTIC SERVICES

At the Murray Street Baptist Church.

The pastor, Rev. Mr. Trotter, at the morning services showed to the believer the steps to be taken after accepting of God's grace, conviction, faith in Christ, acceptance by God, confession of salvation, obedience, then glory. These were some of the things that accompany salvation. In a simple and lucid discourse he made this plain so that any person could understand what was needed of them and called upon his hearers to continue advancing in Christian life.

During the evening service the "Songs of Calvary" was used and the choir sang many pieces with deep feeling.

Rev. C. E. McLeod preached a great sermon from the words of our Saviour, "For the Son of Man is come to save that which was lost." The lost condition of all mankind was forcibly portrayed and the impossibility of any one being able to do anything to save themselves made very plain. Only through the dead and risen Saviour could the race of Adam hope to be saved, and with great feeling he pleaded with those who had not accepted the Saviour to do so now in God's appointed time and not be lost.

While many might regret the absense of Rev. Mr. H. Moore, who spoke to them last week, none could regret having heard the pastor of Gilmour Memorial church in his sermon last night.

The after meeting was not of long duration but was made encouraging by the many testimonies that were given in quick response to the pastor's request. The singing of the choir was exceedingly good.

The services will be continued this week. The pastor of Port Hope Baptist church has kindly consented to assist the pastor, Rev. Mr. Trotter, services commencing 7.45.

Peterborough Legislation.

The Town of Peterborough Bill as amended by mutual agreement between the town and county, passed its second reading in committee on Friday.

Chopped Down! Chopped Down!

Messrs. Jos. Armstrong & Co. give the above forcible expression to the general reductions they have made in dry goods all over their store for the next eight days. No other word could better convey the idea they wish to express than "chopped down." They are in earnest. See their ad. in another column, and get a copy of their attractive "chopped down" price list. Saturday night after seven o'clock they will give away 75 ladies' waterproofs, worth $3, for $1.50.

True Irish Hearts.

"True Irish Hearts" is a drama which appeals very strongly to the Irish heart. It is full of fun, songs and dances. A large number of humorous incidents are happily interspersed among the serious ones and give vivacity and sprightliness to the action. The play is an Irish comedy drama with an unusually well-laid plot, and the scenic display is a feature that has received careful attention. An excellent company combined with a strong plot cannot fail to please the most fastidious. We predict "standing room only" during their engagement of one night only, Tuesday, April 17th. Popular prices will prevail.

A Hastings Fire.

Hastings, April 14.—A serious fire occurred here during the noon hour to-day. All the sheds and stables of the Coughlan House, P. M. Howard's livery stable and office were destroyed. A horse belonging to a guest, Dr. Barry's buggy and harness, and two waggons of Howard's, were among the contents burned. The loss is estimated at $2,000. There was no insurance on the Coughlan House building. On the Howard livery the loss is about $500; covered by insurance in The Guardian. There was no insurance on the sheds and stables. A resident of the village, who was in town this morning, stated that four horses were destroyed by the flames.

The Canadian Canoe Company.

This enterprising company has just issued an attractive new catalogue, bearing THE EXAMINER imprint, giving a wealth of detailed information respecting the numerous canoes and crafts of different kinds manufactured by the company. In the introduction to the catalogue the company insists upon the fact that its entire staff is engaged constantly at boat building alone the year round, and consequently great expertness, which tends to superior work, is acquired. The company's list of crafts comprises basswood and cedar canoes for every conceivable purpose—paddling, racing, sailing, hunting, fishing and surveying—built in a style to meet the special needs of the owner. The company also builds several styles of skiffs, war canoes, working boats, cat boats and sailing yachts. A specialty is made of steam launches and portable steam yachts, etc., etc. Sails, oars, paddles and all requisites are also turned out by the company. Any person contemplating the purchase of a craft of any of the kinds mentioned should consult the new catalogue of the Canadian Canoe Company.

—The Wm. English Canoe Company factory on Charlotte street had a narrow escape from fire Friday afternoon. The workmen were all busily engaged and did not notice an incipent blaze which had started in the floor around some shavings in the front of the establishment. A citizen entered and noticing the fire was just beginning to blaze up called the workmen's attention to it, and the flames which in a few seconds later would have spread so as to become unmanagable would have resulted in great loss. The discovery was just in the nick of time.

Miss Lettie Huntley,

Is the sister of Mr. W. S. Huntley, of Cortland, N. Y., a well known carpenter and builder. Her frank statement below gives only the absolute truth concerning her illness and marvelous recovery by the aid of Hood's Sarsaparilla. She says:

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.:

"Dear Sir: Twelve years ago I began to have hemorrhages and four years ago became so low that the physicians told me

There Was No Hope

and I should soon die. I could not be moved from my bed. Under my face were napkins continually reddened with blood from my mouth. I could eat nothing and had no action of the bowels for a week. The doctors said the cause was ulcers in the stomach. At this time my mother said she wanted to make one more trial, and asked if I would take Hood's Sarsaparilla. I told her it would be

but finding it would comfort her, I began taking it. In a few days the bloating began to subside, I seemed to feel a little stronger, but thought it only fancy. I was so weak I could only take ten drops of Sarsaparilla at first. In two weeks I was able to sit up a few minutes every day. In a month I could walk across the room. One day I asked what they were to have for dinner, and said I wanted something hearty. My mother was so happy she cried. It was the

First Time I had Felt Hungry for Two Years

I kept on with Hood's Sarsaparilla and in six months was as well as ever in my life. It is now four years since I recovered, and I have not had a day's sickness since, nor any hemorrhage. If ever a human being thanked the good Lord on bended knees it was I. I know that Hood's Sarsaparilla, and that alone, unquestionably Saved my Life."

Messrs. Sawyer & Jennings, the well known druggists of Cortland, say that Miss Huntley "is a highly respected lady; her statement of what

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Has done for her is worthy the highest confidence." Hood's Pills cure Liver Ills.

MILLS BROS.

MOUNTAINS OUT OF MOLEHILLS.

Our evening contemporary, the Review, and its prototype and collaborator in pleasures politics, the Empire, discharge a good deal of factitious indignation in their columns in connection with the action of the Public Accounts Committee of the Legislature in reference to securing the presence of the Deputy Registrars of Peterborough and East Northumberland before the Public Accounts Committee. It appears that Mr. Clancy desired to have these gentlemen summoned to give evidence on some point which Mr. Clancy, presumably for electioneering purposes, wished to bring out, and the Hon. Mr. Harcourt declined to assent to Mr. Clancy's proposition, holding, properly enough, that the committee had no power to summon these deputy-registrars. There was, he pointed out, no revenue from these offices or expenditure on their behalf shown in the public accounts, and the committee had only the right to deal with what appeared in these accounts. The Provincial Treasurer indicated to Mr. Clancy, in addition, that he might have proceeded in the regular way and procured an order from the House to summon the witnesses in question. Under these circumstances the Review, following in the wake of the Empire, seeks to convey the impression that the refusal to have these officials summoned suggested the idea that there was something to conceal, and that the object of the committee in obtaining information had been improperly thwarted. If Mr. Clancy had been really as anxious to secure the attendance of these gentlemen as he was to make a political point, he would have taken the means suggested by the Hon. Mr. Harcourt, and have sought to procure an order of the House, and that he did not take the only proper step under the circumstances, shows that he aimed merely to convey the impression he thinks he has created, that there is something the government "wishes to conceal" and that they are anxious to "prevent disclosures which they dread." The fact is there is nothing to conceal. The local organ insinuates that Mr. Stratton is at the bottom of the refusal to summon the registrars. Mr. Stratton was perfectly willing to have these witnesses summoned, from a local standpoint, especially. The local registry office is one of the best conducted in the province and the inspector always has reason to make a most favourable report and any investigation could only redound to the credit of the office and the officials. There is nothing to conceal, nothing that would not stand the most rigorous investigation. But the point is that the Public Accounts Committee had no more right of itself to summon these registrars than to summon the treasurer of the town or county. The function of the Public Accounts Committee is to investigate items which appear in the public accounts and as no items of expenditure or revenue in connection with these offices appears in their accounts, it was clearly out of order to summon these men before the committee. The Empire and Review, by making leading editorial articles out of this matter, wish to magnify it into an importance it does not possess and to delude the public into thinking that there is a grievance where none exists. The Opposition journals must be hard set for arguments when they thus magnify molehills into mountains.

Now, the Review has an opportunity of showing whether it is dealing with this subject in the public interest or only for the purpose of making party capital. It has insinuated that there is something wrong in the management of the local registry office—something that is sought to be concealed, and that Mr. Stratton is using his efforts to aid this concealment. Now, we maintain that the local office is managed in a thoroughly straightforward and business-like way, in the public interests, and we know of nothing to lead us, for a moment, to think that our contention is not well founded. If there is anything wrong we should like to know it. Let the Review drop its dark insinuations, and if it knows of anything irregular, let it formulate its charge and speak out boldly. If it knows of anything wrong in connection with the local registry office that militates against the public interest, its duty to the public is to make its charge publicly, and the EXAMINER and Mr. Stratton will give every possible assistance to get at the truth of the matter and right any wrong that may be found to exist. Let us know what is wrong—no more firing of blank cartridges, for the mere sake of the noise and smoke.

Does our contemporary, the Review, think it is fair to its fellow-citizens, Messrs. Morrow and Grundy, of the registry office, to cast vague reflections upon their honesty, ability (or whatever is meant) in the discharge of their duties, without specifying in what way they have done wrong, as it is insinuated they have done? It is a principle of British justice that an accused person is to be charged explicitly and plainly, so that he can in fairness have a chance to put in a defence. If the Review knows anything, as its dark hints plainly intimates it assumes to do, let it make the charge plainly and openly, so that the persons concerned may have an opportunity of defending themselves, which we have no doubt they can do with all possible success. It is not fair, even in politics, to try to take away a man's character for honesty and capability, by winks, nods and shoulder shrugs. If there is anything wrong with the working of the registry office, let us hear the charge specifically made.

CHURCH CHIMES.

Communion was celebrated in St. Paul's church yesterday morning.

Mr. J. Brown conducted services at the Park street Baptist church last evening.

The Brotherhood of St. Andrew will meet Tuesday evening in St. John's schoolhouse.

The Sacrament will be administered in St. John's church at 8.30 o'clock next Sunday morning.

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of St. John's church was held this afternoon.

The collection at St. John's church next Sunday, outside the envelope subscription will be devoted to the Divinity Student's fund of the diocese.

The next meeting of the Epworth League of Charlotte Street Methodist Church will be addressed by Mr. Ward, ex-president of the County Union.

At the preparatory services held in St. Paul's church on Friday evening there was a good attendance. Rev. Mr. Young of the George street church preached the sermon.

Rev. Dr. Saxton will preach in St. Paul's church at both morning and evening worship next Sunday, and on the following Tuesday will lecture on a subject kindred to infidelity.

Rev. J. E. Trotter, the pastor, delivered the sermon at the Murray street Baptist church yesterday, and in the evening Rev. Mr. McLeod, of Gilmour Memorial church, occupied the pulpit.

Rev. W. R. Young, of the George street Methodist church, occupied the pulpit of the Norwood Methodist church at both morning and evening services yesterday, preaching educational sermons.

Evangelistic services will be held every evening this week in the Murray street Baptist church beginning at 7.45 o'clock each evening. Rev. G. M. Lehigh, of Port Hope, will assist the pastor in conducting these special meetings.

Rev. Mr. Kenrick in the course of his remarks yesterday morning bore feeling testimony to the Christian piety of the late Richard Shannon. No more devoted attendant at the Communion services, he stated, could be found, sacrament being administered to him on the morning of his death.

The Year Book of St. John's church is almost completed but will be held back from publication for two weeks longer in order to allow any others wishing to do so an opportunity of adding their names to the list of those subscribing towards the church funds through the medium of the envelope system.

Rev. Wm. Buchanan, of Norwood, delivered both morning and evening sermons in the George Street Methodist Church yesterday and also addressed the Sunday school scholars in the afternoon. Both sermons were most practical and dealt principally with the duties of the Christian in the home and in every-day life.

Rev. Mr. Cragg assisted Rev. R. F. Torrance, pastor of St. Paul's, in conducting the services yesterday, as the latter is still suffering from the effects of a severe attack of sore throat. The evening sermon was delivered by Mr. T. S. Cole, Travelling Secretary of the Y. M. C. A., and was both an instructive and interesting address.

Mr. T. S. Cole, Travelling Secretary of the Y. M. C. A., conducted both meetings in the Association rooms yesterday. At the gospel and song service at 8.30 p.m., he addressed a very large audience, and took as the text of his discourse, the passage: "Be not deceived, God is not mocked." His remarks were impressive and were listened to with great appreciation by those present.

Rev. Mr. Edwards delivered a strong sermon on "Faith" in the Charlotte Street Methodist Church last evening. In the morning the anthem, "Nearer My God to Thee," was sung. Miss Fawcett taking the solo and Miss M. Stevens and Mr. W. Squires the duet. In the evening in the anthem, "Nearer Home," the duet was taken by Miss E. Stevens and Mr. W. Squires. Miss Fawcett rendered the solo, "Lord Bless Us," in exceptionally good voice during the offertory.

Yesterday, the day being fine, very large congregations assembled at St. Andrew's both morning and evening. In the morning the Rev. MacWilliams preached a thoughtful and earnest sermon from John 1s:6: "I am the way." He showed clearly that Christ was the way both to God the Father and to heaven. In the evening a large number of young people were present to listen to the discourse to young men. The speaker chose Ps. 119:9 for his text: "How shall a young man cleanse his way? By taking heed thereto according to thy word." He said this text contained first, an interrogation, second, the answer. He proceeded to unfold the meaning of both, dwelling chiefly on the answer. He showed that all were unclean, this the Psalmist takes for granted, and required cleansing. He then clearly defined what was meant by way, that it meant the life, the conduct much of which was in the soul, secret and known only to God and self, while much was visible to the world. Here some of the social evils prevalent in Peterborough, as pool, etc., were severely denounced. He then showed at length the word of God was able to cleanse this life or way. The Word, as a light, revealed what was the clean way, it revealed Jesus Christ, as the great example whom we were to follow. It presented the strongest motives why we should cleanse our way, and the Word was the instrument used by the Holy Spirit in regenerating and cleansing the soul, so that the fountain being clean the stream of life would be pure. He concluded this able and eloquent address by an earnest appeal to all young men to study the word, so that it might cleanse their way, etc. The sermon was listened to with great attention

SATURDAY'S RUNAWAYS.

Mr. and Mrs. Sadler and Child Thrown From Their Buggy, but Escape with Little or no Injury.

A couple of runaways which took place on Saturday originated through the indulgence by a young man in a most reprehensible practice.

Mr. Sid. Bailey, of Emily, had tied his horse in front of Brisbin's flour and feed store, while he was inside trading with the proprietor, when a young man in passing the horse's head to cross the street switched it across the face with his cane. The animal jerked suddenly backward and breaking its tie strap started off at a furious rate of speed westward along Hunter street. A couple of bounds carried the horse up to the buggy of Mr. W. H. Sadler, of Cavanville, who, with his wife and child, was driving on Hunter street, just in front of the Oriental Hotel. The wheel of the vehicle to which the runaway horse was attached, caught in the gear of Mr. Sadler's buggy and overturned it, throwing the three occupants to the ground. His horse, turned around and actually leaped directly over the three in its fright, but luckily did not do any injury. In the fall Mrs. Sadler's face came in contact with the road and was severely scratched, but otherwise none of the occupants of the buggy were injured. The blood was washed from Mrs. Sadler's face in the Oriental Hotel, and the horse having been caught in a neighbouring alley, the rig was put to rights in a few minutes and the family proceeded on their way to Cavanville, little the worse for the spill.

Mr. Bailey's horse ran on up the street a short distance, where the vehicle became entangled in a telegraph pole and the animal was caught. The top was torn completely off the carriage and the harness was a total wreck.

Mrs. Sadler is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Howden, 678 Bethune street.

AND STILL ANOTHER.

Messrs. Richard Cavanagh and Robert Scott, who were out driving with the former's black pony, yesterday afternoon, very nearly came to grief, as the mettlesome little animal bolted on George street near Simcoe and ran as far as the C. P. R. ticket office before it was again under control. No damage was done.

The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 75c. bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

Fashions for Men.

IN COATS.

There is more length to the new Coats for 1894 than has been used in Men's Dress since the '60's.

THE DOUBLE BREASTED JACKETS, the most fastidious garment man has put on in a generation. It adds to the stature of the man and conceals defects of figure. It is short waisted, snug fitting, long tailed and beautifully moulded to the figure. The Skirts are hollow at the top and form a beautiful curve, which is the most distinctive thing about the new styles.

Then there is the THREE BUTTON CUTAWAY Coat which is a high favourite. It is popularly described as the "Pigeon Wing" on account of its sloping tails. The sleeves are of moderate size and are closed with a vent for three buttons. If properly made it will cling rather closely to the hips.

The new CUTAWAY SACK COAT for business wear is one of the most popular of the season. It has caught the fancy of the young men. All the pockets should have flaps. The collar rolls low and is not faced with Silk.

Any of these garments made up to order to please the most fastidious dresser and with faultless devotion to the fashion plates is the result of a healthy physical condition. "Beauty is but skin deep" yet it greatly depends on a clear complexion, free from wrinkles and hollow cheeks.

Health always brings wealth of beauty. A healthy state of the system comes with Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It's a medicine prepared for woman's ailments—it cures those derangements and weaknesses which make woman's life miserable.

A woman who neglects to take proper exercise is particularly prone to excessive congestion, debility and a sluggish circulation. This is the time we advise the "Prescription." In all derangements and displacements of the special organs which result in "signs of inflammation," in catarrhal discharges from the lining membranes, and in distressing irregularities—this medicine is guaranteed to benefit or cure, or the money is returned.

GOD GIVE US MEN!

God give us men! A time like this demands
Great hearts, strong minds, true faith and willing hands.
Men whom the lust of office does not kill;
Men whom the spoils of office cannot buy;
Men who possess opinions and a will;
Men who have honor, men who will not lie.
For while the rabble, with their thumb worn creeds,
Their large professions and their little deeds,
Wrangle in selfish strife—lo! Freedom weeps,
Wrong rules the land and waiting justice sleeps.

—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

A GOLD REEF.

"You dear old boy," said the girl, "I am sure I wish it could be—with all my heart—if I have any heart."

"I don't believe you have," replied the boy gloomily.

"Well, but, Reg, consider. You've got no money."

"I've got £5,000. If a man can't make his way upon that he must be a poor stick."

"You would go abroad with it and dig and take your wife with you to wash and cook."

"We would do something with the money here. You should stay in London, Rosie."

"Yes, in a suburban villa at Shepherd's Bush perhaps. No, Reg, when I marry, if ever I do—I am in no hurry—I will step out of this room into one exactly like it." The room was a splendid drawing room in Palace Gardens, luxuriously furnished. "I shall have my footman and my carriage, and I shall"——

"Rosie, give me the right to earn all these things for you!" the young man cried impetuously.

"You can only earn them for me by the time you have one foot in the grave. Hadn't I better in the meantime marry some old getleman with his one foot in the grave, so as to be ready for you against the time when you come home? In two or three years the other foot, I dare say, would slide into the grave as well."

"You laugh at my trouble. You feel nothing."

"If the pater would part—but he won't—he says he wants all his money for himself, and that I've got to marry well. Besides, Reg"—here her face clouded and she lowered her voice—"there are times when he looks anxious. We didn't always live in Palace Gardens. Suppose we should lose it all as quickly as we got it? Oh!"

She shivered and trembled. "No, I will never, never marry a poor man. Get rich, my dear boy, and you may aspire even to the valuable possessions of this heartless hand."

She held it out. He took it, pressed it, stooped and kissed her. Then he dropped her hand and walked quickly out of the room.

"Poor Reggie!" she murmured. "I wish—I wish—but what is the use of wishing?"

* * * * * * *

Two men—one young, the other about 50—sat in the veranda of a small bungalow. It was after breakfast. They lay back in long bamboo chairs, each with a cigar. It looked as if they were resting. In reality they were talking business, and that very seriously.

"Yes, sir," said the older man, with something of an American accent, "I have somehow taken a fancy to this place. The situation is healthy."

"Well, I don't know. I've had more than one touch of the fever here."

"The climate is lovely"——

"Except in the rains."

"The soil is fertile"——

"I've dropped £5,000 in it, and they have not come up again yet."

"They will. I have been round the estate, and I see money in it. Well, sir, here's my offer. Five thousand down, hard cash, as soon as the papers are signed."

Reginald sat up. He was on the point of accepting the proposal, when a pony rode up to the house, and the rider, a native groom, jumped off and gave him a note. He opened it and read. It was from his nearest neighbor, two or three miles away:

Don't sell that man your estate. Gold has been found. The whole country is full of gold. Hold on. He's an assayer. If he offers to buy, be quite sure that he has found gold on your land. F. G.

He put the note into his pocket, gave a verbal message to the boy and turned to his guest without betraying the least astonishment or emotion.

"I beg your pardon. The note was from Bellamy, my next neighbor. Well? You were saying"——

"Only that I have taken a fancy—perhaps a foolish fancy—to this place of yours and I'll give you, if you like, all that you have spent upon it."

"Well," he replied reflectively, but with a little twinkle in his eye, "that seems handsome. But the place isn't really worth the half that I have spent upon it. Anybody would tell you that. Come, let us be honest, whatever we are. I'll tell you a better way. We will put the matter into the hands of Bellamy. He knows what a coffee plantation is worth. He shall name a price, and if we can agree upon that we will make a deal of it."

The other man changed color. He wanted to settle the thing at once as between gentlemen. What need of third parties? But Reginald stood firm, and he presently rode away, quite sure that in a day or two this planter, too, would have heard the news.

A month later the young coffee planter stood on the deck of a steamer homeward bound. In his pocket was a plan of his oriferious estate, in a bag hanging around his neck was a small collection of yellow nuggets; in his boxes was a chosen assortment of quarts.

* * * * * * *

"Well, sir," said the financier, "you have brought this thing to me. You want my advice. Well, my advice is, don't fool away the only good thing that will ever happen to you. Luck such as this doesn't come more than once in a lifetime."

"I have been offered £10,000 for my estate."

"Oh, have you? Ten thousand? That was very liberal—very liberal indeed. Ten thousand for a gold reef!"

"But I thought as an old friend of my father you would perhaps"——

"Young man, don't fool it away. He's waiting for you, I suppose, round the corner, with a bottle of fizz, ready to close."

"He is."

"Well, go and drink his champagne. Always get whatever you can and then tell him that you will see him"——

"I certainly will, sir, if you advise it. And then?"

"And then—leave it to me. And, young man, I think I heard a year or two ago something about you and my girl Rosie."

"There was something, sir. Not enough to trouble you about it."

"She told me—Rosie tells me all her love affairs."

"Is she—is she unmarried?"

"Oh, yes and for the moment I believe she is free. She has had one or two engagements, but somehow they have come to nothing. There was the French count, but that was knocked on the head very early in consequence of things discovered. And there was the boom in Guano, but he fortunately smashed, much to Rosie's joy, because she never liked him. The last was Lord Evergreen. He was a nice old chap when you could understand what he said, and Rosie would have liked the title very much, though his grandchildren opposed the thing. Well, sir, I suppose you could not understand the trouble we took to keep that old man alive for his own wedding. Science did all it could, but 'twas of no use." The financier sighed. "The ways of Providence are inscrutible. He died, sir, the day before."

"That was very sad."

"A dashing of the cup from the lip, sir. My daughter would have been a countess. Well, young gentleman, about this estate of yours. I think I see a way—I think, I am not yet sure—that I do see a way. Go now. See this liberal gentleman and drink his champagne and come here in a week. Then, if I still see my way, you shall understand what it means to hold the position in the city which is mine."

"And—and—may I call upon Rosie?"

"Not till this day week—not till I have made my way plain."

* * * * * * *

"And so it means this. Oh, Rosie, you look lovelier than ever, and I'm as happy as a king. It means this. Your father is the greatest genius in the world. He buys my property for £60,000—£60,000. That's over £2,000 a year for me, and he makes a company out of it with £150,000 capital. He says that, taking £10,000 out of it for expenses, there will be a profit of £80,000. And all that he gives to you—£80,000, that's £3,000 a year for you, and £60,000, that's two more, my dearest Rosie. You remember what you said, that when you married you would step out of one room like this into another just as good?"

"Oh, Reggie"—she sank upon his bosom—"you know I never could love anybody but you. It's true I was engaged to old Lord Evergreen, but that was only because he had one foot in the grave, you know, and when the other foot went in, too, just a day too soon, I actually laughed. So the pater is going to make a company of it, is he? Well, I hope he won't put any of his own money into it, I'm sure, because of late all the companies have turned out so badly."

"But, my child, the place is full of gold."

"Then why did he turn it into a company, my dear boy? And why didn't he make you stick to it? But you know nothing of the city. Now, let us sit down and talk about what we shall do. Don't, you ridiculous boy!"

Another house just like the first. The bride stepped out of one palace into another. With their £5,000 or £6,000 a year the young couple could just manage to make both ends meet. The husband was devoted; the wife had everything she could wish. Who could be happier than this pair in a nest so luxurious, their life so padded, their days so full of sunshine? It was a year after marriage. The wife, contrary to her usual custom, was the first at breakfast. A few letters were waiting for her—chiefly invitations. She opened and read them. Among them lay one addressed to her husband. Not looking at the address, she opened and read that as well:

DEAR REGINALD—I venture to address you as an old friend of your own and schoolfellow of your mother's. I am a widow with four children. My husband was the vicar of your old parish—you remember him and me. I was left with a little income of about $200 a year. Twelve months ago I was persuaded, in order to double my income—a thing which seemed certain from the prospectus—to invest everything in a new and rich gold mine. Everything. And the mine has never paid anything. The company—it is called the Rynard Gold Reef company—is in liquidation because, though there is really the gold there, it costs too much to get it. I have no relatives anywhere to help me. Unless I can get assistance my children and I must go at once—tomorrow—into the workhouse. Yes, we are paupers. I am ruined by the cruel lies of that prospectus and the wickedness which deluded me, and I know not how many others, out of my money. I have been foolish and am punished. But those people, who will punish them? Help me, if you can, my dear Reginald. Oh, for God's sake, help my children and me. Help your mother's friend, your own old friend.

"This," said Rosie meditatively, "is exactly the kind of thing to make Reggie uncomfortable. Why, it might make him unhappy all day. Better burn it." She dropped the letter into the fire. "He's an impulsive, emotional nature, and he does not understand the city. If people are so foolish—what a lot of fibs the poor old pater does tell, to be sure! He's a regular novelist—oh, here you are, you lazy boy!"

"Kiss me, Rosie." He looked as handsome as Apollo and as cheerful. "I wish all the world were as happy as you and I. Heigho! Some poor devils, I'm afraid"——

"Tea or coffee, Reg?"—Walter Besant.

Many rise in the morning with a headache and no inclination for breakfast. This is due to torpidity of the liver and a deranged condition of the stomach. To restore healthy action to these organs, nothing is so efficacious as an occasional dose of Ayer's Pills.

Dr. Grant's "Hairene," on also nothing poisonous or injurious. For sale by all druggists.

Attention

In time to any irregularity of the Stomach, Liver, or Bowels may prevent serious consequences. Indigestion, costiveness, headache, nausea, biliousness, and vertigo indicate certain functional derangements, the best remedy for which is Ayer's Pills. Purely vegetable, sugar-coated, easy to take and quick to assimilate, this is the ideal family medicine—the most popular, safe, and useful aperient in pharmacy. MRS. M. A. BROCKWELL, Harris, Tenn., says:

"Ayer's Cathartic Pills cured me of sick headache and my husband of neuralgia. We think there is

No Better Medicine,

and have induced many to use it.

"Thirty-five years ago this Spring, I was run down by hard work and a succession of colds, which made me so feeble that it was an effort for me to walk. I consulted the doctors, but kept sinking lower until I had given up all hope of ever being better. Happening to be in a store, one day, where medicines were sold, the proprietor noticed my weak and sickly appearance, and, after a few questions as to my health, recommended me to try Ayer's Pills. I had little faith in these or any other medicine, but concluded, at last, to take his advice and try a box. Before I had used them all, I was very much better, and two boxes cured me. I am now 80 years old; but I believe that if it had not been for Ayer's Pills, I should have been in my grave long ago. I buy 6 boxes every year, which make 210 boxes up to this time, and I would no more be without them than without bread."—H. H. Ingraham, Rockland, Me.

ABOUT COLD STORAGE.

JOHN GILMER SPEED WRITES OF ITS EVERYDAY APPLICATION.

The Preservation of Food Reduced to a Science—A Principle Which is Now Being Extended in Novel Directions—An Article of Valuable Interest.

Cold storage of perishable meats, poultry, fish, fruits and vegetables has been practiced in primitive ways since the beginning of civilization. But the development of cold storage to such proportions that it has had a vast effect upon the commerce of the world has all been within very recent years.

The storage by the ancients of food in caves and the suspension of butter and meat by our grandfathers in deep wells were both in their way effective, but those methods are a far cry, indeed, from the storage of thousands of tons of perishable things in the great warehouses constructed for the purpose in every city.

There is a difference between cold storage and freezing storage. The latter is for meats and fish and generally the great butchers do their own freezing, and in refrigerator cars send the meats to the consumers or to the steamers with refrigerator storage compartments for shipment abroad. The freezing storage places should have a temperature of something like ten degrees above zero, but it is likely that more frequently than not the temperature rises to more than ten degrees higher than this in the refrigerator cars and steamship. By the use of ice alone it is difficult to get and maintain a low temperature. Where it is done successfully the chemical ice machines with powerful engines are employed.

These devices for freezing and transporting meat great distances while frozen have worked wonderful changes in many crowded parts of the world. The bulk of the English people—great meat eaters by the way—are supplied with meat and mutton killed in Australia, and the consumers even in what are called the back counties secure this food at prices so small that native meat couldn't compete with it. This has had a serious effect on English agriculture, but as it is undoubtedly for the benefit of the great majority of the people no one has any right to complain of the ingenious devices and the far-reaching experiences that have brought such things to pass. Without these supplies from Australia very many English families would have to do without meat from one year's end to another.

By the use of cold storage many millions of dollars are saved every year to the consumers of food in the United States. And a like amount, whatever it may be, is saved also to the producers. Cold storage, therefore, has what the mechanicians call a double back action, and, like it, "blesseth him that gives and him that takes." Before there were cold storage warehouses in the cities, towns and villages such products as eggs, butter, fruits and vegetables would be so low in price at some periods of the year that it scarcely paid to take them to market, and at other periods they would be so high that they were almost out of the reach of the persons not lucky in the possession of long and well-filled pocket-books. This resulted in an almost sinful waste and a most serious loss to the producers. Every particle of this waste was also a loss to the consumers. But the cold storage warehouses have changed all this.

When the cold storage warehouses were first introduced the ice which made the low temperature was kept in the cellar, and the cold air was pumped to the other floors. This involved expense and the results were not entirely satisfactory. Practical experiments demonstrated that the ice could be kept in the top of a warehouse and the cold air circulated at once more cheaply and satisfactorily. This is the method now generally employed except where the ice-making machine principle is used, and pipes similar to steam pipes are run around the various rooms. The temperature of cold storage rooms is maintained at from 34 to 40 degrees, and here eggs, butter, cheese, fruits and vegetables are kept fresh an astonishingly long time. The parts of any building used as a cold storage place are carefully insulated so as to at once keep out heat and too great cold.

It was difficult in the early stages of cold storage development to keep eggs in good condition. The eggs did not spoil in the ordinary sense, that is, they did not rot, but they became musty and were far from pleasant to those of acutely critical taste. Eggs are usually packed in kiln-dried straw, and it was found that the moisture in the cold air that circulated in the storage rooms sought out this very dry straw and staid there. This was what made the eggs musty. To prevent this the air in egg storage places is kept as free as possible from moisture.

Cold storage has also been recently used for the suppression of moths and other destructive vermin that play the mischief with furs, and valuable wearing materials. The bad smelling chemicals that are ordinarily used to keep moths away so permeate wearing apparel that it is weeks before the disagreeable odor passes away. A cold temperature, however, has no such bad effect, and it is quite the proper thing now to hang up one's sealskin coat in a refrigerator.

But the cold storage principle within a few years is likely to be extended very much further. In the cities we get gas, electricity and steam from mains in the street. Why should we not also get cold air, so that we might not only preserve the perishable food every housekeeper has on hand in excess of immoderate needs, but so that in the heated periods we can regulate the temperature of our rooms. This is not at all impracticable if the distributing stations be not too far apart. It would certainly be a great blessing to the busy men who cannot in the summer seek out and stay in the cool and pleasant places that are to be found in the mountains and by the sea. To have a room so cool in midsummer that refreshing sleep comes of its own accord is a boon toward which we can look in quite reasonable expectation. Our great grandfathers would think that life was bewilderingly complex now without any further improvements could they pass but a day or so with us. But we get used to an innovation in a week, and in a month or two count it as a necessity. So, therefore, we beckon with hospitality the approach of the era of cold air on tap and feel sure that its coming will make this very interesting world even a pleasanter place than it now is.—John Gilmer Speed, in Buffalo Express.

DYSPEPSIA CURED BY B.B.B.

MR. GEO. READ.

Read the Proof.

DEAR SIRS.—I write you to say that for some time I had been suffering from acute indigestion or dyspepsia, and of course felt very great inconvenience from same in my general business. I thereupon decided to try Burdock Blood Bitters, and after taking two bottles I found I was quite another man, for B. B. B. entirely cured me. I have also used it for my wife and family and have found it the best thing they can take, and from past experience I have every pleasure in strongly recommending B.B.B. to all my friends.

I write you because I think that it should be generally known what B. B. B. can accomplish in cases of indigestion.

Yours faithfully,
GEORGE READ,

ALL ABOUT THE TEETH.

WHEN THEY COME AND HOW TO CARE FOR THEM.

The Family Dentist as Needful to First-class Health as the Family Physician—The Gums Require Care as Well as the Teeth.

Fine teeth add so much to the beauty of the face that too much care cannot be bestowed upon them.

The deciduous or temporary teeth are twenty in number. The central incisors are cut between the fifth and seventh months; the lateral incisors between the seventh and tenth months; anterior molars make their appearance between the age of twelve and fourteen months; the eye teeth between fourteen and twenty months, and the posterior between eighteen and thirty-six months. Collectively these are called the milk teeth. There never was a period in the history of medical or surgical dentistry when so much attention was given to the temporary or milk teeth as at present. Not only are the teeth of toddlers and children filled, but they are straightened, cleaned and, when needed, loosened to facilitate the perfection of the second teeth. The well-born child of two years has his cup, brush and little vial of tooth powder.

The permanent teeth number thirty-two. The first molars appear between the ages of five and seven years; the central incisors between six and eight, the lateral incisors from seven to nine, first bicuspids, nine to ten; second bicuspids, ten to eleven; canines, eleven to thirteen; second molars, twelve to fourteen, and the third molars or wisdom teeth between the seventeenth and twenty-first year. The teeth of the lower jaw are cut, as a rule, two or three months before those in the upper jaw.

The family dentist is rapidly becoming as popular and indispensable in well conducted households as the family physician. It costs comparatively little to have each member make one visit a month to a surgeon who examines the mouth and puts it in a healthy condition. Not only are the teeth cleaned, but the gums are treated and a tainted breath corrected. These consultations pay in the long run, for, aside from a saving of expense in the prevention of decay or disease, much needless pain is saved the patient.

There are a few rules for the care of the teeth and gums that all skilled practitioners indorse.

Avoid extreme temperatures. Even the strongest dentine may be injured with very hot or cold foods. Breathe through the nose or else cover the month in very cold weather.

Cleanse the mouth night and morning with a soft brush and tepid water. Brush from the gums towards the cutting edges. The common practice of brushing crosswise does the teeth little good and the gums much harm, making them sore and, if the brush is stiff, causing them to recede. Particles of food get between the teeth and must be removed by local attention.

Rinse the mouth after eating. Use a quill if necessary, but passing waxed silk between the teeth is a surer way to free them from deposits.

A teaspoonful of listerine in one-half a glass of cool water is an excellent disinfectant. Used as a gargle three times a day, it will cure sore or loose gums.

All scented soaps and fancy dentifrices are to be avoided. The alkali in the soap is injurious to the gums, and, unless the formula of the dentifrice is known, it is worthy of suspicion. Powdered charcoal is as mischievous as the pins so many people ignorantly use. No matter how finely it is powdered, there is always just one particle to be feared that may cut the gums or scratch the enamel. There is nothing better than precipitated chalk. It is cleansing, absolutely harmless, very inexpensive, and, flavored with wintergreen, mint or orris, it is a refreshing and agreeable tooth powder. It is not advisable to use even this more than three times a week. The gums are sensitive, and frequent or hard brushing is not desirable. Mouth-rinsing and the use of dental silk should follow every meal or repast.

All liquid medicines and acid drinks should be taken from a medicine spoon, glass tube or straw and the mouth rinsed with a weak solution of soda or listerine.

People who use their teeth to crack nuts, draw corks, cut twine, etc., are to be pitied.

If a plate is worn it should be cleansed after each meal and left out at night.—New York World.

An Application for Boots.

To make boots waterproof and keep them soft melt and mix thoroughly one pound of tallow, a half pound of beeswax, one-quarter pound of resin, two ounces of neat's foot oil and two ounces of glycerine. Apply it warm to the boots.

The Retort Unkind.

You Can't get to Much

Of a good thing. This is eminently the case with Polson's Nerviline, and great pain cure. It is an honest remedy, for it contains the most powerful, the purest, and most certain pain subduing remedies known to medical science. It is honest, for it does all it claims to do. It is honest because it is the best in the world. It only costs 25 cents to try it, and you can buy a bottle at any drug store. Nerviline cures toothache, neuralgia, pain in the back and side. All pains are promptly relieved by Polson's Nerviline.

AMUSEMENT IN THE CUP.

Watch Your Cup of Tea for Great is its Prophetic Value.

If you have two spoons in your cup it is a sign that you will figure prominently at a wedding before the year is out.

If cream or milk is put in your cup before the sugar it will cross your love.

A tea stalk floating on top of the tea is called a stranger, says a writer in the Baltimore Herald. When this happens to unmarried women they should stir the tea briskly and then place the spoon in the centre of the cup, holding it quite still.

If the stranger in its gyrations is attracted to the spoon he will come that evening; should it, however, cling to the sides he will not come at all.

We may observe that it really depends on the state of the atmosphere as to whether the stalk goes to the middle or not.

It is a sign of fair weather if the clusters of air bubbles, which usually rise after the sugar has been put in, collect themselves and remain in the centre of the cup. If, on the contrary, they straggle to the sides, it is a sign that it will certainly rain in a few hours.

This cluster of bubbles is also called a kiss, and portends that the owner will thus be saluted during the course of the day.

A cluster of tea-leaves with a few stragglers at the front at the bottom of the cup signifies a hearse or a funeral, while the couple of leaves at the bottom, if close together, signify a wedding.

If the tea grounds take the form of a woman on the side of the cup, it signifies a rival in love; if it looks like a bird, it means news from a distant friend; if it looks like a book, it refers to a well known acquaintance who is at college; if it looks like a tree, it means soon taking a journey into the country; if two stalks come together, it means that you are to meet a man; if it looks like a snake, it is an enemy.

If it is a dog you will meet or hear from a friend: if it looks like a house or a shed, it means that when you are married you will keep house for yourself and not board; if it looks like a spire, it means that you will be married in church; if it looks like a duck or a swan, it means that you will cross the ocean; if it looks like a bridge, it is an understood sign that your marriage will be happy and your life long and sweet.

If it looks like a man fishing with a rod, it points to a preacher who may either officiate at your marriage or become your husband; if it looks like a man with many spots lying before him, it means that your husband will be rich, and may be a banker; if a broken bridge turns up on one side of the cup, it means that your marriage will be unhappy. If there are undulations on the other side of the cup, some faint and some heavier, it means a checkered life or a career of struggle, sometimes light and sometimes severe.

Interesting Nail Tests.

Elaborate experiments made under the direction of the United States Ordnance Department to test the holding power of cut and wire nails respectively show a decided superiority for the former both in spruce and pine wood, says the New York Sun. Thus in spruce stock nine series of tests, comprising nine sizes of common nails, longest 6 inches, shortest 1¼, the cut nails showed an average superiority of 47.51 per cent.; in the same wood six series of tests, comprising six sizes of light common nails, the longest 6 inches and the shortest 1¼, the cut nails showed an average superiority of 47.40 per cent.; in 15 series of tests, comprising 15 sizes of finishing nails, longest 4 inches and shortest 1¼, a superiority of 72.22 per cent average was exhibited by the cut nails; in another six series of tests, comprising six sizes of box nails, longest 4 inches and shortest 1¼, the cut nails showed an average superiority of 50.88 per cent.; in four series of tests, comprising four sizes of floor nails, longest 4 inches and shortest 2, an average superiority of 80.03 per cent. was shown by the cut nails. In the 40 series of tests, comprising 40 sizes of nails, longest 6 inches and shortest 1¼, the cut nails showed an average superiority of 60.50.

Lime Water.

To make lime water put about a pound of unslacked lime in a large bowl, pour over this three quarts of boiling water, let it stand for ten minutes, then stir well with a stick. Place the bowl in a cool place for eight or ten hours; at the end of that time pour off the clear water, letting the sediment remain in the bottom of the bowl. Bottle the clear water and keep in a convenient place. A tablespoonful of this may be added to a glass of milk to be given to a patient with an acid stomach.

In case of burns cover the burned parts with a cloth wet in lime-water. Keep the cloth wet by pouring on a little of the water as often as the cloth dries.—New York World.

Dear Sirs,—Your "Hairene," I believe to be a wonderful remedy. It certainly produced the most unexpected results in my case, my hair had been falling out very freely for some time, becoming anxious about the matter I thought I would experiment upon the properties of "Hairene," and one application actually stopped it at once. I applied it once or twice afterward, using in all about a quater of one bottle, and have not required to use it since. It seems to have given renewed and healthy vigor to the scalp, and I can recommend it in all confidence.

ST. JOSEPH'S PATRON SAINT.

Blessing of the Statue of St. Joseph—A Solemn and Interesting Ceremony—A Large Assemblage—Eloquent and Appropriate Sermon—Excellent Music—Finis Opus Coronat.

The finishing touch to the beautiful exterior of St. Joseph's Hospital Ashburnham, will be given when the beautiful new statue of the patron saint is placed upon the pedestal in the niche, hollowed in the central tower of the front of the structure. This statue was on Sunday afternoon solemnly blessed by His Lordship Bishop O'Connor, in the presence of a large assembly of the members of the church and the general public. The Union Jack, extended from a window in the tower alongside the pedestal placed for the statue, indicated that something unusual was going forward, and the tasteful festoons of parti-coloured bunting that draped the rails of the southern balcony encouraged the idea. Upon the spacious semi-octagonal southern verandah a carpeted platform with an improvised episcopal throne, was faced by a draped figure, the new statue, the gift of a benefactor of the institution. A large number of prominent citizens occupied seats within the railing, including the medical staff, Dr. Halliday, Dr. Brennan and Dr. McGrath, Mr. Architect Blackwell and others. The day was a most appropriate one, the feast of the patronage of St. Joseph, the tutelary saint of the hospital, and the beautifully balmy afternoon seemed to smile auspiciously upon the occasion.

THE CEREMONY.

Promptly at 3.30 o'clock the procession advanced from the hospital. First came the crucifer and the thurifer, followed by His Lordship Bishop O'Connor, attended by Ven. Archdean Casey, Rev. Father Scollard, Chancellor, and Rev. Father Collins. As the clergy entered Prof. Vontom sang with fine effect Meyerbeer's 'Veni Creator," which was followed by Prof. Vontom's new hymn to St. Joseph, sung for the first time in Canada on this occasion.

His Lordship then delivered a short address. He began by expressing his gratitude at, and thanks for, the large attendance that had assembled to show their interest in St. Joseph's Hospital. They had assembled to witness the blessing of a statute of St. Joseph, which would shortly be placed in the proper niche in the front of the building, to indicate who was the patron saint of this beneficent institution. His Lordship went on to say that every walk of life had its secular heroes, and to these statutes had been erected to commemorate the civic virtues of the persons those statutes represented. Why not, then, he inquired, should not the faithful of the church of the heroes of the faith—the saints of the church, who had done eminent service in saving souls and in setting an example of holy living? In the church honour was done the statutes erected in churches and hospitals to remind the faithful of the great virtures they symbolized. The intercession of the saints thus honoured with statues was invoked—not in any degree of derogation of the power of Almighty God, but because these saints being in the presence and high in the favour of Almighty God, had special power in prayer with Him and their intercession was exercised on behalf of those who asked it. The saints were the courtiers of the King of Heaven and their influence with God was superior to that of weak and sinful mortals. As petitioners to the Queen asked those high in favour to present their requests, so did sinful mortals ask the intercession of the saints. People on earth ask each others' prayers and was there not greater reason who are before the throne of God and without sin?

TO ASK THE PRAYERS OF THE SAINTS

The statue to be blessed that day was the statue of St. Joseph, the foster father of our blessed Lord and the husband of the Holy Virgin. He was the guardian of our Lord till the latter at the age of thirty years entered upon his great mission, the work of his ministry. Christ not only came to redeem us but to teach us how to live, and his being subject to his foster father so long, served to teach how the father should rule the family, and our Lord remaining subject so long taught us the obedience due by children to their parents.

ST. JOSEPH WAS NOW EXALTED

in heaven to be our intercessor and an example to heads of families to remind them of their duties, and the view of his statue might serve to remind the spectator of his saintly virtues. He was now guardian of the community of St. Joseph, which was devoted to the care of the sick, the afflicted and the necessitous. The Scriptures declared that St. Joseph was a just man and one worthy of imitation and the view of his statue would remind those who looked upon it of the virtues of the saint represented by it.

During the progress of the liberal offertory Madame d'Erina sang in splendid voice and with great feeling and expression an "Ave Maria."

This was followed by a powerfully beautiful rendition of Campana's duet, "Madre del Somno Amore," by Madame d'Erina and Prof. Vontom.

To this succeeded the unveiling and

THE BLESSING OF THE STATUE,

His Lordship performing the prescribed brief, but impressive ceremony, after which he thanked the gathering for their liberal gifts towards the hospital, "he good sisters of which devoted their lives gratuitously to the care of the sick and afflicted, and thus showed their love to them as servants of Jesus Christ.

The clergy and all who were able to gain entrance repaired to the chapel of the hospital where the service of Benedicdiction of the Blessed Sacrament was conducted.

During the service there was special music, Prof. Vontom singing in his usual effective style "O Salutaris Hostia," of his own composition, and a solo and duet, "Tantum Ergo," was sung by Madame d'Erina and Prof. Vontom, the musical part of the service being particularly excellent.

All those interested in the prosperity of St. Joseph's hospital and the grand work it is doing under the capable and economical management of the good sisters of the community of St. Joseph have reason to be well pleased with the signal success of yesterday's interesting ceremony, another evidence of continued interest on the part of the public and of the progress of the affairs of the hospital.

The new statue of St. Joseph was manufactured in France and is of terra cotta made white, stands about five feet in height and represents St. Joseph robed, with a lily resting in his folded arms. When placed in the niche in the central tower devoted to it, it will be a prominent object. Its snowy whiteness gleaming against the dull red background of the brickwork, will be visible at the head of Hunter street, at the cathedral, at any intervening point and from almost any quarter of the outskirts of the town. It will be placed in position in a few days.

THE FARMERS INSTITUTE.

The Directors Meet and After Winding up the Business of the Year Make Arrangements for the Annual Picnic.

The Directors of the West Peterborough Farmers' Institute held their final meeting of the year in the Morgan House on Saturday afternoon.

After winding up the business for the past year, which was found to be in a most satisfactory condition, it was decided to hold the annual picnic of the members and their friends at Jubilee Point, on Thursday June 7th. The hope was expressed by those present that the East Peterborough Farmers' Institute would join hands in the movement and make a union picnic of the affair.

Hon. John Dryden, Minister of Agriculture, and Prof. Fletcher, of the Ottawa Experimental Farm, are expected to be present and make addresses during the afternoon. The Committee of Agriculture having the picnic in its charge is composed of Messrs. D. Kennedy, J. Davidson and W. Collins.

The annual meeting of the Institute will be held in the council chamber on Saturday, June 30th, at 2 p.m., when officers for the ensuing year will be elected.

A BLAZE IN ASHBURNHAM.

The Grist Mill Stables Go Up in Smoke As Do Three G. T. R. Box-cars—A Bucket Brigade

The Dickson Company sustained quite a severe loss Saturday evening by the destruction by fire of that portion of their stables in Ashburnham used in connection with their grist mill, formerly leased by Mr. H. A. Mulhern. The Grand Trunk Railway Company, however, are the principal losers by the fire, as three of its cars, which were standing on a siding within a few feet of the stables, were entirely consumed, as well as the building.

The alarm was sounded at a few minutes after 8 p.m., but as the flames had gained great headway in the interior of the stables before they were noticed, the building was at the mercy of the destroying element before the firemen arrived on the scene.

Ashburnham not being supplied with waterworks, the old fire engine had to be utilized. By the time steam was gotten up and a fair stream of water at the disposal of the firemen, the roof of the grist mill was almost in a blaze and, as there was nothing left to be saved of the stables, every effort was concentrated to save the mill. After it was liberally deluged with water the firemen turned their attention to the piles of wood in the rear which were quite liberally besprinkled with sparks, but at this juncture the "plug" blew out of the fire engine and the stream of water, which at no time had acquired very much power, was cut off instanter. But for the fact that little or no wind prevailed the village would most probably have been subjected to a generous conflagation. Fortunately however, though the sparks ascended in millions, hardly a zephyr stirred the air, and though the firemen had to stand idly by, they were content in the knowledge that no further damage could be inflicted.

The stables and the three cars burned merrily on undisturbed and thousands crossed the river from Peterborough to view the rather costly pyrotechnical display. The hose cart made a number of trips back and forth from the fire hall bringing additional lengths of hose which were finally strung to the hydrant at the corner of Hunter and Queen streets, but by this time the engine was again in working order and a fresh stream was turned on the smoking piles of slabs and the glowing ruins.

When the excitement was at its height and the sidewalk and roadway was densely crowded with spectators the salvage wagon dashed across the bridge with a fresh supply of hose and turned abruptly to "straighten out," but a slab catching in the front wheel caused the vehicle to overturn, throwing driver John Murphy directly underneath the wagon. The horses leaped madly forward and for a moment it looked as though the town greys were going to continue their runaway career through the crowd. "The boldest held his breath for a time," but Mr. Murphy stuck bravely to the lines and though nothing could be seen of him underneath the wagon, he contrived to turn the horses and run them up against the mill wall. Strange to say, he sustained no injuries other than a stiff knee and some ugly flesh wounds on his right leg. "Jack's" plucky action in sticking to his horses was the subject of considerable comment on the street yesterday.

It is thought the fire originated through children playing with matches in the interior of the buildings. The stables were always kept padlocked, it is stated though, and the company's officials are suspicious of incendiarism. Two night-watchmen, instead of one, have been on duty since the conflagration.

NOTES.

Not an upright is left standing among the ruins of the stables this morning. Every particle of inflammable material was consumed.

The heat was most intense for a time and the firemen, in handling the stream of water, were forced to shelter themselves behind slabs in order to avoid being singed.

Peterborough's Saturday night shoppers adjourned to Ashburnham in a body, fully 3,000 crossing the bridge.

The wheels and the roofing are almost all that is left of the three G.T.R. cars.

Mr. Samuel Bickle considers himself a very lucky man as he only completed unloading the three cars of cheese box material at 5.15 Saturday afternoon, having put on some extra teams to finish up the work.

The team which returned for the hook and ladder wagon after taking the fire engine across the bridge, ran down a little girl, but although the child was thrown to the ground and the team seemingly passed over her she was uninjured, with the exception of a slight abrasion of the skin of one of her knees.

G. T. R. Station Agent Hayden states that the value of the cars which were consumed, when new was about $500 apiece. The loss on the three will be about $1200.

A bucket brigade which was organized did good service in extinguishing the sparks on the woodpiles when the fire engine gave out.

The stables were 25x100 feet in size and were worth in the neighbourhood of seven or eight hundred dollars. There was no insurance whatever on the building.

THE NEFF CASE.

The Hamilton Doctors are Puzzled About this Remarkable Cure—They Could not Cure this Case of Kidney Disease, but Dodd's Kidney Pills have Done so.

Hamilton, April 16.—The doctors of this city are showing great interest in a remarkable cure reported from Port Colborne. Harvey H. Neff, of the latter town, had an aggravated form of kidney disease, consequent on an attack of typhoid fever. Physicians could not cure the kidney disorder, but Mr. Neff has regained his health after taking five boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's was the first kidney remedy in pill form ever offered the public. Its wonderful success in curing all forms of kidney disease has led to the introduction of numerous cheap and worthless imitations. Purchasers, for their own safety, should insist on getting Dodd's Kidney Pills. Sold in large boxes; price, fifty cents, or six boxes for $2.50. To be had of all dealers.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

Discussing the Bill for the Punishment of Personators.

GOODS ENTRUSTED TO AGENTS

The Bill Referred to the Legal Committee—Third Reading of Bill Respecting General Arbitrators—House Expects to Finish Business Next Week.

TORONTO, April 17.—In the Legislature yesterday, Sir Oliver Mowat's bill to enable Boards of Trade in cities to appoint general arbitrators for certain purposes was read a third time.

Toronto Isolation Hospital.

Mr. Clarke (Toronto) withdrew his motion for correspondence between the Government and the city of Toronto with regard to a grant to the Isolation Hospital, in view of the recent declaration on the subject by the Provincial Secretary.

Goods Entrusted to Agents.

Mr. Barr's bill to regulate the sale of goods entrusted to agents was discussed in committee. The object of the bill is to legalize the bartering of goods where the mercantile agent is in possession of goods with the consent of the owner. In the Legal Committee, however, an amendment was added stipulating that the agent in such cases must be provided with the written authority of the manufacturer. This was the cause of discussion.

Mr. Cleland moved to strike out the amendment made in committee, pointing out that it would nullify the objects aimed at in the bill.

Mr. Meredith argued in favor of giving protection to the purchaser, and showed that the framer of the bill had drawn largely from English legislation. The amendment made in committee would cause the House to stultify itself.

Hon. Mr. Fraser said remonstrances from manufacturers on all parts of the bill had been received in regard to the proposed bill. A deputation of manufacturers waited upon the Government and were given to understand the bill would be opposed. He objected to any amendments being made without hearing what the manufacturers had to say. The bill might very well be allowed to go over until next session, or at all events allowed to stand.

Mr. Balfour said the bill, with the amendment made in committee, instead of giving them bread gave them a stone.

Dr. Barr said that when the bill was before the House last year the complaint had been made that it did not go far enough, and no protest had been heard from the manufacturers at that time.

Mr. Meredith thought it would be advisable to refer the bill to the Legal Committee again in order to substitute the section of the English Act dealing with the subject matter they were discussing. He asked for information from the Attorney-General as to what had become of the "Act respecting goods entrusted to agents," promised in the speech from the throne.

Sir Oliver Mowat replied that the Government had had such a bill in preparation, but they were not able to satisfy themselves as to its provisions. Undoubtedly there had been suffering and hardship caused to the farmers through ignorance of the fact that agents could not sell goods except for cash. The present discussion would do much to relieve the ignorance on the point.

The committee rose and reported progress, the order was discharged and the bill was sent to the Legal Committee.

Second Readings.

Mr. Godwin's bill to amend the High School Act, the object of which is to provide that portions of High School districts proportionately set off by county councils shall not be relieved of any rates imposed by the issue of debentures, also that fees shall not be deducted from the county grant, where such does not exceed the amount of Government grant, was read a second time.

Mr. Charlton's bill providing for the maintenance by townships of bridges bordering township boundary lines received a second reading.

Personation at Elections.

Hon. Mr. Gibson moved the House again into committee on the bill for the punishment of personation at elections. Hon. Mr. Gibson said he wished to add an amendment to the bill, making its provisions apply to all cities, towns and villages where there was a police magistrate. Beyond this there would be a difficulty in extending the bill. It had been urged, why not make the bill universally applicable, but the answer was that the same evil in this respect did not exist in the country as in the city. Moreover, there were no police magistrates in the rural districts, and it would be a hardship to bring persons a distance of thirty or forty miles for trial.

Mr. Meredith—Why not have them tried before ordinary police magistrates?

Hon. Mr. Gibson—I don't think an evil of this kind should be tried before an ordinary police magistrate.

Mr. Wood (Hastings) said that in the county of Hastings a police magistrate went out from Belleville to try cases in the adjacent villages. The law would be applicable in a case of that kind. He would much prefer that the police magistrate, rather than the ordinary justice, should try cases of this kind.

Mr. Meredith asked if there would be any change in the present law, either in regard to the amount of fine or the right of appeal on conviction by a police magistrate.

Hon. Mr. Gibson replied in the negative.

Mr. Meredith replied that since the right of appeal was not taken away, where was the merit of limiting the trial of cases of this kind to police magistrates? The remedy would be to appoint better magistrates. Since the hon. gentlemen had been in power, owing to their political methods they had degraded the magistracy, which was now composed largely of illiterate men, scarcely able in many cases to read or write. The judiciary was inferior to what it was before hon. gentlemen opposite came into power.

Sir Oliver Mowat retorted by saying that the Opposition leader spoke of the magistracy as illiterate, yet he had such confidence in them that he would permit them to try cases of this kind, even in the heat of an election.

Mr. Meredith moved to amend subsection 2, of section 159 of the Election Act, by providing that persons convicted of personation should, in addition to the fine of $200, be liable to imprisonment for any period not less than six days or more than six months. He pointed out that, with a fine as a penalty for this offence, it was possible for the friends of the convicted party to subscribe the money and thus let him escape.

Hon. Mr. Gibson asked that the amendment be allowed to stand until the Government had had time to consider it.

Mr. Meredith—I have no objection to letting it stand. It ought not to be a party question.

The committee rose and reported progress.

No night session was held, owing to the fact of the drainage commission having arranged to sit, and the House adjourned.

House Notes.

Mr. Glendinning's bill to amend the Insurance Act by reducing the amount of the fees paid by insurance agents from $3 to 25 cents, has been withdrawn.

Hon. Mr. Gibson is of the opinion that the winding up of the business of the House will take place early next week. But for the meeting of the Drainage Commission that night depriving the House of a session, he would have felt pretty sure of that result. The greater part of Government business was under way.

NO TROLLEY BRIDGES.

The Toronto Men's Scheme is Quashed in the New York State Legislature.

ALBANY, April 17.—It is authoritatively announced that the bill granting to E. A. C. Pew, of Toronto, and others a charter to build two trolley bridges across Niagara river, one a short distance below the Falls and the other at the Whirlpool, which was introduced by Senator O'Donnell, will not be reported from either the Senate or Assembly committees, and is accordingly smothered so far as the present Legislature is concerned.

The Newfoundland Situation.

ST. JOHNS, Nfld., April 17.—The new Cabinet officers were installed into their departments yesterday. Michael McKnight was made acting Surveyor-General without a Cabinet seat. Thomas Duder will probably be financial secretary-general. The feeling throughout the city is one of intense curiosity as to how the crisis will end. It is impossible now to speculate to any degree of accuracy as to the outcome of the struggle. Both parties are confident of winning. Goodridge's party boasts they can unseat all their opponents. The Supreme Court is in full swing hearing election trials. Justice Little finished the prosecution in the Burgeo and Burin cases yesterday. Witnesses are to come by steamer and the defence of both will begin on the arrival of the next steamer. Chief Justice Carter is hearing St. Johns East case, and a decision there is expected this week. Justice Winter resumed the St. Johns West suit to-day and will probably conclude in a fortnight. Trinity, represented by Whiteway and Boud, late Premier and Colonial Secretary, respectively, is the next trial.

The Will of Luckey's Father.

TORONTO, April 17.—A singular point for decision for the court has been raised by the heirs of John J. Luckey, whose murder the law avenged by the recent execution of his son. These heirs applied to the court yesterday for the payment out of $1,100 which was willed by the father to the wife, Martha. They claim that she predeceased the husband, and they are entitled to the money. Chief Justice Armour, however, refused the application and ordered notice of a latter application to be served on the heirs of Martha Luckey. The question to be determined is as to which died first.

Lacerated by Barbed Wire.

LONDON, Ont., April 17.—A peculiar accident happened on Sunday night to David Bullyer, a young lad who resides with his parents on Cheapside street, near Colborne. The boy was going homeward and was climbing over a barbed wire fence, when he lost his balance and fell. One side of his face caught in the barbs, lacerating the cheek from the corner of the month to the ear. It required six stitches to sew up the wound. Fears are entertained that blood poisoning will set in.

Armenian Emigrants Attacked.

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 17.—A report has reached here of an attack upon a body of Armenian emigrants to Russia by a band of Kurds, in which a large number of Armenians were killed. Recently Armenians in great numbers have been migrating to Russia owing to dissatisfaction with the Turkish administration in Armenia, and it was one of these parties that was attacked. The survivors of the party succeeded in reaching the frontier.

Alabama Miners Strike.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 17.—The United Mineworkers of Alabama struck on the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Company. About 8,000 men are involved. Three thousand convicts are being worked at the Pratt mines by the company, and if trouble results at Blue Creek it is possible the Pratt mine strikers may release the convicts.

Saxe-Coburg as a Fireman.

COBURG, April 17.—A furious fire started here in a building facing the royal palace. The flames were finally subdued, but not until the burning building had been nearly destroyed. The Duke of Saxe-Coburg (Duke of Edinburgh) gave active assistance to the firemen in putting out the blaze.

Jesuits May Return to Germany.

BERLIN, April 17.—The bill permitting the return of Jesuits to Germany passed the third reading in the Reichstag yesterday, 168 to 145.

Dominion Government Votes Down a Very Practical Proposal.

SHOULD BE SOLD BY AUCTION.

Sir John Thompson's Amendment Secures for the Government the Privilege of Selling Themselves in This Matter—Fast Steamers for France.

OTTAWA, April 17.—Mr. Devlin, in the Commons, has introduced a bill to further amend the Act respecting the Northwest Territories. He explained that the objects of the bill were to provide that a judge who has tried a case shall not sit on banc when an appeal is discussed; and to get rid of the doubt as to the powers of the court to fix the fees of registrars and sheriffs, counsel fees, etc.

Sir John Thompson, in reply to Mr. Laurier, said the writ had been issued for an election to fill the vacant seat in Gloucester, the date being two weeks from next Tuesday.

Mr. Kaulbach asked if the Government was aware that, owing to the operation of the Norway-Spanish treaty, which came into effect the first of this year, Canadian exporters of fish were being placed at a serious disadvantage in the markets of Cuba and Porto Rico. Was it the intention of the Government to make further treaty arrangements with Spain, which will retain those markets to Canadian fishermen? Failing this, was it the intention of the Government to allow an export bounty on all fish shipped to these islands, sufficient to enable them to retain the market?

Sir John Thompson said that the matter was under the consideration of the Government.

Mr. Mills (Bothwell) moved a resolution providing that the sale of timber from Indian reserves should be made only by auction. He said that this was the practice in Ontario, where prices were better than were received for Dominion lands.

Sir John Thompson said that the objection to auction was that the purchasers might combine at auction sales to keep down the price. He moved an amendment reserving to the Government the right to sell by tender or auction.

Mr. Masson denied that it was the sole rule in Ontario to sell by auction.

The House rose for recess.

After recess Sir Richard Cartwright demanded a vote on the question as to whether or not the Government should be allowed to use their discretion in the matter of disposing of Indian reserve timber berths. A vote was taken, resulting in the adoption of Sir John Thompson's amendment by a majority of 23.

Hon. Mr. Laurier moved for copies of all correspondence between the Canadian Government, the Imperial Government and the American Government, concerning the privilege asked by the American Government of having an inspection at Quebec of immigrants landing there on their way to the United States.

Hon. Mr. Daly said, in reply, that there was no such correspondence.

Hon. Mr. Laurier moved for copies of all correspondence between the Government or any member thereof, and Sir Charles Tupper, asking for and giving explanations in regard to the following statement made by Lord Dufferin and Sir Charles Tupper to Mr. Develle, French Minister for Foreign Affairs, on the 6th of February, 1893, namely:

"We take this opportunity of confirming what we have already made known to your excellency during the progress of the conferences, viz., that the Canadian Parliament, desirous of favoring the development of commercial relations between the two countries, has voted a subvention of £100,000 for the purpose of establishing a line of steamers to run between a Canadian port on one side and a French terminus on the other."

He read from correspondence between Sir Charles Tupper and the late Premier, Sir John Abbott, to show that on behalf of the Canadian Government he (Sir Charles Tupper) had promised the French Government that new fast Atlantic steamships should call at a French port, although he would not agree to have the matter appear in the treaty then pending.

Sir John Thompson said there was no objection to the motion being carried, and if there were any papers which would give the hon. gentleman additional information on the subject they would be produced cheerfully. As indicated by his answer to Mr. Laurier the other day, he submitted that there was no promise from beginning to end that the Parliament of Canada would be asked for one dollar for steamship connection between Canada and France, but there was simply a representation on the part of Sir Charles Tupper and Lord Dufferin to the French Government of the facts that then existed, namely, that in the session of 1889 a subvention of £100,000 was voted to procure a fast service between this country and Europe, and that the scheme which the Government had in view was to make direct communications with France by the same steamships which would cross from Great Britain to Canada.

Hon. Mr. Laurier accused the Government of bad faith in the premises, and Mr. Tarte followed in the same line.

Hon. Mr. Foster said the Government intended to propose a larger subsidy for the fast line with the United Kingdom and connection with a French port.

Mr. Flint moved the adjournment of the debate.

Col. Amyot criticized Mr. Tarte's course, and said that the French-Canadians were thankful to the Government for making a treaty with France.

The House adjourned.

Coxey's Army in Luck.

CUMBERLAND, Md., April 17.—It has been decided by Gen. Coxey to remain in Cumberland until to-morrow. The army has been a gold mine to the street car company that carried the crowd to the camp outside of the town, and it is understood a $200 contribution to the army was the substantial inducement in holding the Commonweal army here another day. Coxey has had trouble, however, in getting transportation on the canal.

TUESDAY, APRIL 17, 1894.

TO-MORROW'S CONVENTION,

Our citizens are again reminded of the convention and mass meeting of the friends and supporters of the Mowat Administration in West Peterborough, to be held to-morrow afternoon in the Opera House. At 1.30 the election of officers of the West Riding Liberal Association will take place, to be followed by the nomination of a candidate to contest the West Riding at the coming general elections. After the preliminary business, addresses will be delivered by the candidate and others and by Hon. R. Harcourt, Provincial Treasurer, and Mr. Charles Mackenzie, M. P. P, West Lambton, brother of the late Hon. Alex. Mackenzie. It is to be hoped that there will be a large attendance of the friends and supporters of the Mowat Government and others who are also invited. The present session—the last of the Legislature—will come to an end shortly, to be followed in due course by a general election, and all good citizens should take advantage of to-morrow afternoon's meeting. Addresses will be given by gentlemen specially qualified to deal with the issues upon which the coming contest will be fought—issues with which every elector ought to be familiar.

THE proposal of the Dominion Government to tax teas imported from England ten per cent, is one against which everybody revolts. It is particularly unfortunate, says the Montreal Witness, that this blow at the trade of the Mother Country should be causing agitation in England at the very moment that the Imperial Government is being urged to remove the restrictions upon the importation of Canadian cattle. The Imperial Government is not moved by the petty retaliatory motives which influence protectionist governments so strongly, but such assaults upon British trade by Canada cannot but affect British public opinion unfavourably toward the Dominion, and public opinion has an influence upon the Imperial Government in the settlement of such questions as that of the restriction of the Canadian cattle trade, in which are involved the direct and selfish interests of certain classes of the British people.

GEOMANCY.

A SUBJECT OF PAST DAYS.

Geomancy, or the art of foretelling the future by means of lines and circles, and other mathematical figures drawn on the earth, is still practised in Asiatic countries, but is almost unknown in Europe and America. Our people now devote their attention to more worthy subjects, to matters that concern everyday life. In this variable climate men and women now speak of Harvard Bronchial Syrup and its miraculous powers in banishing coughs, colds, hoarseness and all bronchial troubles. No other cough preparation of the present day commands such an extended sale in Canada. The medical men of the country never hesitate to recommend Harvard Bronchial Syrup; they have tested it and are satisfied of its great superiority over all others.

A GREAT FIND OF INDIAN RELICS.

The Picton Gazette says:—"There has been an unusual number of relics found on Bald Head, Weller's Bay, the last few days by Messrs. John Murphy, Frank and C. D. Davis, G. Clarke, Stephen and E. Chase, G. J. Chadd and others, all of which have been secured and placed in G. J. Chadd's collection. The following is a list:—One brass or copper (two quart) kettle, 3 copper ears or lugs of kettles, nearly 8 yards of beads (when strung) of shell, bone, stone, etc., some of them were over three inches in length; three copper and four flint arrow-heads, and several large pieces of flint unfinished, one drill, one striped slate amulet, a lot of pottery, one pipe and several pieces of pipes, four iron tomahawks, three knives, four stone celts or axes, one stone head of war-club, a number of pointed implements of stone; beaver and bear's teeth, bone articles and a quantity of buckhorn implements (one in particular being about four inches in length, in which was an oval hole drilled and through which was a beaver's tooth), so that it was in the shape of a cross. Through the kindness of Mr. Cronk a number of specimens have been obtained from Indian Island in the Bay of Quinte."

SELLING OF THE BOARD.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—I am surprised to see by your issue of the fifth inst. that one signing himself "Fair Play," would say that the facts which I tried to bring to the notice of the cheese board were misleading and do not fairly represent the interest of the board, and are unjust to the buyers and tries to put it in another (but not a more proper light) by showing that the board is a very desirable market to offer cheese on for sale, or men would not come sixty miles to do so. To this I say yes, certainly they do, and is it not self-interest that brings them and self-interest alone binds them to abide by the rules and not any cast iron bond which a committee may frame. It appears to me that there is more noise than wool about this selling off the Board, and the little that has been done has not affected it in the least, and it has been as successful in the past as if every pound of cheese made in the country were sold on it. Then why make such a howl about selling to a man off the board, when the same man would buy them if on the board? For it appears that the cheese made in certain factories suit certain houses, who call for them as they are needed, and when they pay the price of cheese they will get them whether on the board or off. "Fair Play" appears to think that there are no rights to be respected but that of the buyers, but "Justice" says that the sellers' rights should be respected also. I think this will be seen, if we carefully examine this breaking up a board offer, as I pointed out in my former letter. Suppose there are 2,500 boxes of cheese offered on the board and a bid of nine cents be given for the lot, good and bad, and it is thought a good price, and would be accepted if put to the salesmen; but another buyer wants to get some cheese also, and if the offer given be accepted he must wait two weeks longer before he can get any, and, not being willing to do that, he will offer 9⅛c. for selections. According to the rule of the board this must be accepted (but will break the board offer), and he will take about 500 boxes. The next offer may be nine cents (the former board bid). About 500 more will be taken. Then 8 15/16 may be the next offer, and may take any number needed, for he is not bound to number of boxes; and next offer may be 8¾ for balance of board. It will be seen by report of sales that this is and will not the many suffer by reason of it? The law should not give the buyer power to make an offer that will discriminate against a large majority of factories and not give the power to object to it. If the by-law was so amended that in this circumstance a salesman could ask to have it referred to the board, whether it would be allowed or not, and decided by vote of the largest number of boxes represented, thus justice would be done to those likely to suffer and place the president in a different position than he is in, as the law now places him, for he is now powerless to act, though censured by patrons of factories and charged with selfishness because his factory is sure to be taken in the "catch" offer. With reference to the paying for cheese before given up, "Fair Play" says the salesmen need not give up their cheese until it is paid for. I wonder if he as a buyer was refused cheese until paid for (when it is not a rule of the board nor a custom of salesmen), would he not feel insulted and be likely to turn away and leave them on the salesman's hands and have nothing more to do with him or his cheese? But let it be a law of the board and no offence can be taken. But "Fair Play" says he knew of no factory here losing in this way. Mark the word "here." Why does he use that evasive word "here"? Because he well knows that in Belleville, and I think Campbellford, they have lost heavily by this loose way of doing business, and did not some Peterborough men escape loss just by the skin of their teeth? And why this exposure to loss? Simply because buyers who are well known to the board do not want it, and if strangers be treated differently to them, they will not be likely to again. "Fair Play" should assume another name before writing against the amendments I have referred to. I hope that at their earliest opportunity the board will take the matter up and make their by-laws more stringent on buyers than they now are.

ABOUT THE WAY THINGS ARE DONE,

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your indulgence, I am,

Yours, etc.,
JUSTICE.

P. S.—I have just heard that Campbellford board has amended their by-laws and not a pound of cheese will be given up until payment be secured.

"It Keeps Me Well and Strong!"

A Lady Speaks of Paine's Celery Compound.

Mrs. W. B. Phelps, of Philipsville, Ont., Was Nervous and Sleepless ---At One Time Life Had No Pleasures---She Used the Marvellous Compound---It Banished Her Troubles---She is Now Well and Strong.

MRS. W. B. PHELPS.

There is but one true specific for the terrible troubles that make life a misery for thousands of men and women. This specific is known as Paine's Celery Compound, and in thousands of cases it has restored vitality and strength after physicians failed in their work.

This wonderful and popular medicine is used to-day by the best people in Canada; they have confidence in it, and owing to the grand results they obtain, they strongly urge their friends to use it. Some of our most successful doctors, who are acquainted with the life-giving virtues of Paine's Celery Compound, are freely prescribing it.

Mrs. W. B. Phelps, writing for the benefit of Canadians generally, says:

"For two years I was in a miserable state of health, and so nervous that sleep went from me. In my anxious condition it was no pleasure to live. Fortunately for me, my husband conceived the idea that Paine's Celery Compound was the medicine needed to restore the good health I once enjoyed. After using the marvellous compound for ten days I found myself very much improved, and I was enjoying rest and sleep perfectly. I have since taken the remedy from time to time, and find that it keeps me well and strong. It is needless to say that I recommend Paine's Celery Compound at every opportunity.

THE BRAZIL REBELLION.

Mello's Reported Surrender Denied, but His Forces Are Scattered.

RIO DE JANEIRO, April 17.—The Government is advised that Admiral Mello did not surrender himself to the Uruguayan authorities, but remained on board the Republica. It is said it was his intention to surrender to the authorities of Uruguay, and that he offered to do so on condition that they would not turn him over to the Brazilian Government.

The Uruguyans were not prepared to give him any such gnarantee, and he put to sea in the Republica. Gen. Salgado with about four hundred men landed from the Republica and submitted to the Uruguayans. The men were unarmed and were nearly all disabled from wounds, illness and hunger. It is said that after Mello sailed away from the Uruguayan coast he returned to the State of Rio Grande do Sul and attempted to land with his men, but the Government troops drove him back and he re-embarked and steamed away. His destination is not known. It is reported the State of Santa Catharina has declared allegiance to the Government.

It is generally believed the Brazilian Congress will not meet on May 18, the day fixed, but that the state of siege will be prolonged until July 1.

LONDON, April 17.—The Brazilian Minister has received a despatch stating that the insurgents have abandoned all their remaining vessels at Parana and Santa Catharina. Brazilian bonds closed with a rise of 1¼d on the Stock Exchange yesterday, on the assumption that the rebellion in Brazil is ended.

Compensation for Sealers.

LONDON, April 17.—Sir John Baden-Powell, in the Commons, asked the Government if they could state the date of the notification closing Behring Sea, and whether sealers who left port before the publication of the notice would be allowed compensation. He had been informed, he said, that a notification had been published in British Columbia warning sealers that the sea was closed for 1894. Sydney Buxton, Under Colonial Secretary, said no notification closing Behring Sea for 1894 had been published. The sea would be open to sealing during certain seasons under the restrictions set forth in the award and regulations. The terms of the award had been published in the British Columbia papers last August. By these terms Great Britain was obliged to enforce the close time from May 1 to July 31. The present conditions were very different from those which existed in 1891 when £20,000 compensation was granted to sealers able to show that they were entitled to it.

Shot Dead While She Sang.

NEW YORK, April 17.—Peter Duane, 12 years old, living at Ridgefield Park, shot and killed Belle Shields, aged 14. The girl, with several others, was at the home of young Duane's father, and the party were gathered around the piano singing hymns. Young Duane went into the hall and brought back a heavy breech-loading gun, which he pointed in fun at the group. The gun accidentally went off and Belle Shields dropped dead on the floor. The shot had nearly torn off the top of her head. The boy, frightened at the result of his carelessness, rushed out of the house to the home of a brother, who took him to the Sheriff's house and gave him in charge. The girls had been singing "Jesus, Lover of My Soul," and the unfortunate girl was just singing the line, "Let me to thy bosom fly," when the fatal shot was fired.

It would be worth while for the ladies to bear in mind that if they take a gentle course of Ayer's Sarsaparilla in the spring they will have no trouble with "prickly heat," "hives," "stles," "boils," or "black heads," when summer comes. Prevention is better than cure.

THE TROUBLE AT BLUEFIELDS.

Norbul Arguello, Who Murdered the American, Under Arrest.

NEW ORLEANS, April 17.—The steamship George Sealey has arrived from Bluefields, Nicaragua, bringing news to April 12. The Picayune correspondent writes: On the evening of the 6th inst. a small schooner arrived from Greytown, bringing mail advices and several Nicaraguan officials. Among these was the Wilson murderer, Norbul Arguello, late acting governor of Rama.

As soon as it became known that he was in town the citizens began to congregate in groups. As the Nicaraguans suspected that the peculiar movements of the Americans meant something the assassin was placed under arrest and has been since confined in the provisional rooms of the governor of police.

Unless the commander of the San Francisco makes a demand for his execution, I am sure Arguello will never be placed on trial for the murder of William Wilson. It is absolutely necessary that an example be made of this murderer, so that these Nicaraguan officials may understand that the lives and property of American citizens must be respected.

The British Budget.

LONDON, April 17.—The budget was introduced in the House of Commons yesterday by Sir Wm. Harcourt, Chancellor of the Exchequer. Sir William stated that the total revenue for the last year, which was only £507,000 under the estimates, proved the solidity of the national finances in view of the depression of trade. It was estimated that the expenditures for the coming year would be £95,458,000, which will leave a deficit of £4,502,000. It was proposed to cover the deficit by appropriating £2,359,000 from the sum engaged in the naval defence act, an increase of the death duties and the increase of a penny in the pound in the income tax, sixpence per gallon on spirits and sixpence per barrel on beer.

Railway Strike in Northern Russia.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 17.—It is believed a serious labor struggle will grow out of the strike of about 2,000 mechanics and other employes of the Vladikavas railway, who demand an increase of wages. The employes of the Kharkoy railway are on the verge of a strike and the railway authorities throughout Northern Russia are apprehensive of a general tie-up.

Serious Charges Formulated Against the Carnegie Company.

UNITED STATES' BATTLESHIPS

Are Said to be Armored With Steel Which the Slightest Blow Will Shatter to Atoms—Alleged Deliberate Attempt to Defraud the Government.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—Secretary Herbert, of the Navy Department, received yesterday the representative of six men who make charges of an astounding nature against the Carnegie Steel Company in connection with the manufacture by that company of armor plate for the new vessels of the navy.

The charges involve gross carelessness, and possibly worse, on the part of the government inspectors at the mills, and Lieut. Wilner, chief inspector at the armor-plate mill, spent yesterday at Washington in conference upon the matter with his superior, Chief of Ordnance Sampson. They are based on affidavits which purport to show that the recently-exposed defects in armor plates for which the Carnegie Company has paid the government $140,000, instead of being the result of accidents, blunders or overseal on the part of the workmen, were part of a deliberate scheme for swindling the government. That, instead of continuing for only ten months, they began when the manufacturing of armor began at the Carnegie works and had not ended two weeks ago.

That they were carried out by the orders, under the supervision and, in some cases, with the personal assistance of superintendents and other superior officers. That not only were test plates retreated and doctored in various ways after selection, but where plates failed, test specimens cut from other plates were palmed off on the inspectors, while plates absolutely rejected were laid aside and subsequently substituted for other plates and foisted upon the Government. That plates sure to be rejected were fraudulently stamped as accepted, the inspectors' stamps being surreptitiously obtained for that purpose. That the bolts for fastening the armor to the ships received less than the required and necessary treatment and are thereby weaker than they should be and liable to be broken by a blow that even a poor plate might stand.

These charges, if substantiated, will show that the supposed invulnerable sides of the new American cruisers and battleships are weak enough in spots to be shattered by a comparatively light blow.

AFTER TYPHOID FEVER.

Harvey Neff Has Kidney Disease, Which Doctors Could Not Cure Dodd's Kidney Pills Restored Him to Perfect Health.

PORT COLBORNE, April 9—In March, 1893, Harvey H. Neff, of this place, had a bad attack of typhoid fever. Good nursing and medical attendance brought him around, but the attack left him a victim of kidney disease. This the doctors failed to cure, but Dodd's Kidney Pills, the infallible remedy, did the same good work in his case as in all others and Mr. Neff is well to-day. Dodd's was the first kidney remedy in pill form ever offered the public. Its wonderful success in curing all forms of kidney disease has led to the introduction of numerous cheap and worthless imitations. Purchasers, for their own safety, should insist on getting Dodd's Kidney Pills. Sold in large boxes: price, fifty cents or six boxes for $2.50. To be had of all dealers

A Government BOMBSHELL THROWN INTO THE LIFE INSURANCE CAMP!

The following statement comes from the government Blue Book. It covers a period of sixteen years, and is sworn to as correct by representatives of each Company:

Statement of Premiums received and Cash Profits paid back to Policy Holders from 1877 to 1892, both years inclusive:—

COMPANY.	Premiums Received.	Dividends Paid to Policy Holders.	Ratio of Dividends to Premiums, %
CANADA LIFE	$16,208,207	$2,946,463	18.13
Confederation Life	6,165,482	637,925	10 35
North American	2,327,082	32,857	1.41
Ontario Mutual	3,978,086	433,284	11.17
Sun Life	5,527,790	355,280	6.43

Never in the history of Life Insurance has the struggle for business been keener. Never has the conflict been hotter. Never have the Companies felt as they feel now, the necessity for throwing all the energy at their command into the field. The most intelligent and best men have to be employed. All kinds of plans of insurance are submitted. Each Company determined in securing the supremacy in the good will of the public, in establishing their name, the utterance of which, shall convey to the minds of the people the essential characteristics of

UNDOUBTED SECURITY,
RIGID ECONOMY,
GOOD INVESTMENTS,
LARGEST PROFITS

WHY?

Because millons of dollars are being paid annually for Life Insurance, and the Companies that can show these features have attained a position which will guarantee their future success, for money will flow freely into the best investments.

The Canada Life Policy Holders can look at the above statement with a smile of satisfaction, yet sympathise with their friends who are not so favourably situated.

They can throw their Life Policies down in the face of opponents and successfully challenge the production of more profitable policies, they can stand the onslaught of Agents who will almost cover them with literature and estimates of Tontine, Semi-Tontine, Return Premiums, Reserved Dividends, Annuity and Endownment plans of insurance, and with a quiet assurance feel that

As The Canada Life is Making the Most Profits, She Can Pay the Largest Profits.

READER. If you want Life Insurance choose the Canada Life and join the throng of contented policy holders who are insured with the Company carrying about 45 per cent. of the total insurance in force of the above named Companies

Shaw, artist, has been engaged by Inspector Garvin and staff of the Peterborough schools to deliver a course of illustrated lectures on the best methods of teaching elementary perspective and practical geometry as applied to object and model drawing. Mr. Shaw, who is best known locally as a clever artist in oils, is specially qualified for this work, and his ability has received practical recognition. For several years he had, from the Provincial Government, charge of the art schools of the northern district of Ontario. Mr. Shaw holds diplomas from several art schools in Canada and the United States. He has already given two lectures of the series mentioned and will continue them weekly—on Saturday afternoons.

At Opera House

"Greedy for Every Note."

That is what the Hamilton Spectator says the audience was when Mrs. Mackelcan, who appears at the opera house at the grand concert on Thursday evening, April 19, sang. The Spectator says: "The part of Samuel, sung by Mrs. Mackelcan, does not appear in the oratorio until the second part which opens with Samuel's morning prayer "Lord, From my Bed Again I Rise." This and the evening prayer a little further on—"This Night I Lift my Heart to Thee"—are set to delicious melodies that must haunt one like recollections of happiest hours. These were beautifully sung by Mrs. Mackelcan to a very silent audience that seemed greedy for every note of the large, afluent voice so richly freighted with expression. She also was obliged to rise and acknowledge the applause which followed her principal number." At the opera house Thursday night. Admission 50 and 75 cents. Seat plan at Sailsbury's.

A PROHIBITION DEBATE.

The Y. P. S. C. E. of St. Paul's Have An Interesting Discussion—Notes on the Debate by an Interested Onlooker.

An exceedingly interesting debate was held last night in the schoolhouse of St. Paul's church. The question at issue was, "Resolved that the prohibition of the liquor traffic would be beneficial to the people of Canada." The speakers on the affirmative were Messrs. J. W. Garvin and J. Williams Bennet, those in the negative being Messrs. G. M. Roger and W. G. Murray.

Mr. Garvin in opening the debate said that he proposed to show that alcohol was detrimental to the human system under all conditions, and for that reason, if for no other, its consumption should be prohibited. It was hardly necessary, he thought, to lay stress on the moral side of the question, where the physicial aspect of the case called for a stringent remedy. He went somewhat into the scientific phase of the question, dealing in an offhand way with the blood corpscules and the tissues, and finished his interesting address by reading in support of his arguments a portion of Scripture, from which he seemed to have omitted a line or two in the original. This, however, did not seem to make any particular difference, although some few present raised their voices against the proceeding.

He was followed by Mr. G. M. Roger, who made a very interesting and logical address, founding his deductions upon principles which should guide the people and the State under all conditions and not merely on the onesided views usually taken by the speakers on this question. His breadth was noticeable and it would have been well if the address could have been reported in its entirety. It was not easy to crystalize his arguments, because they were more purely philosophical than illustrative.

The next speaker was Mr. J. Williams Bennet, who laid down very clearly at the beginning what he intended to prove and proceeded in a characteristic and thoroughly business-like manner to carry out his undertaking. Whilst he contended that both by reason of principle and expediency prohibition was desirable, he claimed that expediency was of so manifest and direct importance that it alone should actuate the people to bring in some measure whereby the ravages of alcohol might be stayed. He likened the public to a large family, where the conditions of home life and happiness required the exercise of discretion and common sense as well as self sacrifice on the part of its members. He admitted that the law could hardly be carried out in the face of existing circumstances in respect to those who have acquired their habits. But as to future generations, he contended, that no valid reason existed as to why they should not be protected from acquiring intemperate habits.

The last speaker was Mr. W. G. Murray, who devoted himself to the consideration of the question of the rights of the individual. He brought to his support numerous passages from the Bible and challenged his opponents to bring one quotation or illustration to their support from either the Old or New Testament. His arguments being incisive and occurring towards the end of the debate had the effect of intensifying the interest already excited, and when the vote was taken everyone was keen to see how his neighbour stood on the question. After a few remarks by one or two of those present and a word of explanation by the speakers it was decided that those taking the affirmative side of the debate, had been successful in the stand which they had taken.

Taken on the whole the debate was one of the most interesting which has taken place in Peterborough for some time.

The chair was occupied during the evening by Mr. W. L. Innes, whose ruling was most fair on all points.

Pratt to Succeed McCulloch.

A despatch from Hamiltsn states that Mr. Frank M. Pratt has mailed his acceptance of the position of secretary of the Y.M.C.A. of Toronto. At a meeting of the Hamilton Y.M.C.A. directors Mr. Pratt's resignation was accepted with expressions of regret and a sub-committee was appointed to secure a successor. Mr. Pratt has done a splendid work in Hamilton, and his services will be missed.

EVANGELISTIC SERVICES.

Murray Street Baptist Church.

At this church last night a good many that were disposed to come and worship God and take part in the special services were not disappointed in hearing a good sermon from the Rev. Mr. McLeod, that was full of pathetic fervor. He preached from Luke 23 chap., 42-43, handling the story of the repentant thief in a masterly way, and although not denying the possible saving of souls on a death bed, he asked those present to consider how much better it was to repent and be saved now, and enjoy communion with God while living.

Rev. Mr. Trotter did not keep the meeting very long, but after the testimonies of several had been given, a few of the brethren led in prayer, and with the aid of the choir made this part of the service of great interest.

Rev. G. M. Leehigh, of Port Hope, is expected to conduct the service to-night, and the public are invited to take part in the meeting. Then come at 7.45 and receive a blessing. To-night, 7.45.

HOOD'S

Sarsaparilla

It would be difficult to find a man better known in the vicinity of Burlington, Vt., than Mr. R. D. Wheeler of Winooski Falls, the efficient Deputy Sheriff of Burlington county. He says:

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.:

"Dear Sirs: If Hood's Sarsaparilla cost

$10.00 a Bottle

I should still keep using it, as I have for the past ten years. With me the question as to whether life is worth living depends upon whether I can get Hood's Sarsaparilla. I don't think I could live without it now, certainly I should not wish to, and suffer as I used to. For over ten years I suffered the horrors of the damned with for if ever a man suffers with anything in this world it is with that awful disease. It seems to me as if all other physical suffering were compressed into that one. I took about everything man ever tried for it but never got a dollar's worth of help until I began taking

Hood's Sarsaparilla

I have taken it now pretty regularly for ten years and have no more pain and can get around all right. I have advised a good many to try Hood's Sarsaparilla." R. D. WHEELER, Deputy Sheriff, Winooski Falls, Vt.

DEMONSTHATION DECIDED UPON.

THE TWENTY-FOURTH TO BE RIGHT ROYALLY CELEBRATED.

The Boom of the Opening Gun—The Preliminary Meeting Large and Enthusiastic—An Energetic Committee Put Into Harness—A Special Meeting of the Council to Be Called—"Business" Evidently Meant.

The benches in the council chamber were well filled last night by a representative gathering of citizens, all ages, to hear and make suggestions as to the proper mode of celebrating the Queen's Birthday in the town. On the suggestion of Mr. Alex. Elliott, Mr. T. A. S. Hay, secretary of the Board of Trade, took the chair and called the meeting to order. He made a few remarks anent the purpose for which the citizens had been asked to assemble, and expressed himself gratified at seeing so many anxious to take a hand in forwarding the preparatory work pertaining to the holding of a demonstration. He then called on Mr. Elliott, as a member of the committee appointed to raise a guarantee fund, for a report as to what progress had already been made.

In rising to make his report Mr. Elliott stated that the object was not to solicit subscriptions from the citizens but simply to raise a guarantee fund to the extent of about $2,500, so that if the weather was unfavourable the committee would not have to bear the brunt of the expenses. The amount involved, if the 24th turned out to be a wet day, would be about $600, in which case those whose names were on the guarantee list would be called on to pay over something less than a fourth of their guarantee. The idea of a loss other than that which might be occasioned by a wet day was not entertained at all, as a demonstration in Peterborough, properly advertised, was sure to draw a big crowd and prove a huge success. The idea was to try and induce the town council to augment the guarantee list by the sum of $500 and, as that body would naturally want to know what programme was going to be followed he would like to see one drawn up during the evening, which would be presented when the commiteee waited on the council. So far every one solicited had at once fallen in with the idea of keeping the townspeople at home on the 24th, and no trouble was experienced by the committee in getting a guarantee list of $930, and the merchants had not all been seen, and only a small portion of the hotelkeepers. An effort was to be made to draw visitors from the neighbouring towns, who would be well pleased with the attractions secured, and would go away perfectly satisfied and glad of a chance to come back to Peterborough again whenever another demonstration was announced. There was to be no fake about this celebration.

Mr. Dobbin suggested that Mr. Hill, of the Toronto Industrial Fair, be seen in regard to the attractions, as he is generally supposed to be about the best posted man in Canada in connection with features of that sort. Mr. T. E. Bradburn, however, had already written him about this very matter.

Mr. Hay stated that the demonstration would not only be a benefit to the hotelkeepers and confectioners, but to the tradesmen in general, as those who usually spent $10 or so by going out of town on a holiday would now spend it in the town in the way of laying in supplies for expected visitors, etc.

Mr. E. F. Mason stated that an effort had been made by the battalion to induce the 48th Highlanders, of Toronto, and the Royal Scots, of Montreal, to visit the town on the Queen's Birthday, but the invitations had been extended too late in the season. Even the 57th couldn't turn out on that day, as permission had been given the battalion band to leave town on that day and the volunteers couldn't turn out without their own band. The Massey-Harris band of Toronto, or the Bowmanville band, he he thought were available for the occasion and either could furnish most desirable music. He was of opinion, however, that a first-class programme of sports would draw as large a crowd as a military display.

Mr. J. J. Turner mentioned the fact that Sergt.-Major Rundle had suggested that, as one attraction, the girls of the Collegiate Institute be asked to give an exhibition drill. They could execute some very pretty movements and it certainly would prove a drawing card. He thought a firemen's tournament would also prove an attraction.

Mr. Mason agreed with Mr. Turner in thinking that the girls could give some very interesting exercises. There was also two companies of boys available.

Mr. Geo. B. Sproule advocated the idea of a gigantic calathumpian procession. Twenty years ago, he stated, this feature always proved the very strongest drawing card a town could advertise. The whole countryside he thought would flock in to see an oldtime physlog affair.

Mr. J. D. Craig backed Mr. Sproule up in his proposition. He thought it would be a popular feature.

Councillor Kelly entered the room at this juncture and when asked for his opinion advised that the matter be brought to the attention of the town council as speedily as possible. The mayor should be seen immediately and arrangements be made for the holding of a special meeting.

Mr. George Matthews would have preferred seeing the slow but sure method adopted, he thought that this affair was being rushed through too quickly. He would like so see the demonstration put off until the First of July.

Mr. T. E. Bradburn explained that the First was Port Hope's big day and had always been recognized as such. Peterborough, therefore, could not very well expect to draw from there on that day.

Mr. R. B. Rogers wanted to see a committee appointed to outline a scheme of entertainment for the visitors, which would enable a future general meeting to discuss the situation more intelligently.

Mr. Turner suggested that the Sons of England Naval Brigade, of Toronto be asked to take a trip on that day to Peterborough, bringing with them as many other lodges as they could muster. This was thought a good idea and was spoken of again later in the evening.

On motion of Messrs. Sproule and Turner the meeting decided unanimously that it was advisable that the demonstration be held on the Queen's Birthday, and on motion of Messrs. Peter Henry and R. B. Rogers the following committee was appointed to draft a programme and report to another general meeting to be held Wednesday evening:—Messrs. Bradburn, Sproule, Fair, Dobbin, Elliott, Rogers, Matthews, Mason, Hay, Davis, Bamford, Turner, Dennistoun, Kells, LeBrun, Craig and Jameson.

The large gathering then dispersed, well pleased with the decision to hold the demonstration, and judging from the expressions of sympathy with the movement which were made, the committee will find plenty of citizens ready to put their shoulder to the wheel to boom the big demonstration.

THE PROGRAMME.

At a meeting of the committee, which was held immediately after the general meeting dispersed, Mr. T. E. Bradburn took the chair, and after a prolonged discussion it was finally resolved to hang up a purse of $800 for races to take place in the evening by electric light. Bicycle races will also be held, one event taking place in the morning and another at night, when a liberal display of fireworks will also take place, $250 being reserved to meet the cost of the latter feature.

In the morning the boys and girls of the Collegiate Institute, under Sergt.-Major Rundle, will be asked by give an exhibition in club and wand exercises, etc., on a raised platform in one of the town parks. A slack wire performance will also take place in the morning, both these features being in the nature of free exhibitions. At about one or two o'clock in the afternoon a procession of the various societies in town, including the firemen, will take place and march to the Driving Park, where sports of various kinds will be held, including running races, horse races, lacrosse and baseball matches, bicycle races, etc.

In the evening a most elaborate programme of fireworks will be given, and, as stated before, additional races will be held by electric light.

The expenses, it is expected, will foot up to about $1,600, and for this money it is thought a first-class programme of events can be furnished.

During the course of the evening Mr. Bradburn telephoned the mayor regarding the special meeting of the council to be held to-morrow evening, and his worship expressed his willingness to meet the wishes of the citizens in this matter.

ANXIOUS FOR THE EXTENSION.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

SIR,—A ratepayer wishes to know why the extension of the Peterborough and Ashburnham street railway is not being made to the end of George street. The steamers will soon commence running excursions from that point and residenters intend building their boat houses there also, which will save them the trouble of running the chute at the locks, which is considered a very dangerous one. Already quite a number of accidents have occurred at this place; some fatal have occurred. By the extension of the street railway it would increase the traffic on both steamers and railway. People do not care to ride part of the way and walk the rest.

Yours truly,
EXCURSIONIST.

LIVE STOCK STATISTICS.

According to the live stock statistics for 1893, issused by the Bureau of Industries, there are 3,700 less horses in Ontario now than a year ago. This reduction in the gross number is not so significant as is the statement showing that the falling off is wholly in brood mares and colts. The reduction was 18,000 under these heads, but there was an increase of over 14,000 in in working horses, so that the net decrease all round was, as above stated, less than 4,000. Milch cows, on the other hand, show an increase of 16,000, and in all horned cattle the addition during the year was 28,000. In poultry there was an increase of 37,000; in hogs 76,000, and in sheep 85,000. Farmers are dropping horse flesh and giving attention to other lines of live stock that are more profitable.

IN COATS.

There is more length to the new Coats for 1894 than has been used in Men's Dress since the 60's.

THE DOUBLE BREASTED FROCKETS, the most fastidious garment man has put on in a generation. It adds to the stature of the man and conceals defects of figure. It is short waisted, snug fitting, long tailed and beautifully moulded to the figure. The Skirts are hollow at the top and form a beautiful curve, which is the most distinctive thing about the new styles.

Then there is the THREE BUTTON CUTAWAY Coat which is a high favourite. It is popularly described as the "Pigeon Wing" on account of its sloping tails. The sleeves are of moderate size and are closed with a vent for three buttons. If properly made it will cling rather closely to the hips.

The new CUTAWAY SACK COAT for business wear is one of the most popular of the season. It has caught the fancy of the young men. All the pockets should have flaps. The collar rolls low and is not faced with Silk.

Any of these garments made up to order to please the most fastidious dresser and with faultless devotion to the fashion plates

TWO DREAMERS.

Under a tree two dreamers lay,
And unto one did the wind's voice say,

"Castle Pleasure is building fast;
I heard the hammers as I flew past."

But to the other the wind's voice said,
"Hill Endeavor lies just ahead."

The dreamers rose. The years sped by,
And the wind blew out of the changing sky.

He who wrought for his brother well
Came to the castle of Joy to dwell;

He who turned from the toilsome hill,
Seeking his castle—is seeking still.

OLD BARNABY'S BESS.

BY TOM HALL.

Bess had been put to a great deal of trouble this day. There was always plenty to do at Freshwater Ranch, and she had to do it all, for old man Barnaby had ceased to be of any particular use in this world long before Geronimo had become the war chief of the Chiricahua Apaches. Bess, his daughter, ran the ranch, milked the cows, cooked the food, did the washing, attended to the modest little garden that she had managed to coax from the arid Arizona soil, and even gave the two cayuse ponies that belonged to her father all the grooming they ever got. Besides that, she had to attend to the selling of water from the artesian well that was the only excuse for Freshwater Ranch's existence.

There was not so very much travel on the road that ran by Mt. Graham down to the dusty Gila Valley, but there were forty miles at a stretch of it, and Freshwater Ranch had the only water that was to be found upon it. And so, when the freight-teams and the army ambulances made the trip from Fort Grant to Fort Thomas, the teamsters were very glad to pay twenty-five cents a bucketful for water and double rates for forage. And that is how Bess made a living, a wretched, lonely, almost outcast living, for her father and herself.

But there was plenty to do this day and plenty of excitement. For the first time in all her memory, a whole troop of handsome cavalry-men, with a bright-cheeked and still handsomer young lieutenant at its head, had come to Freshwater Ranch to actually camp over night and perhaps stay even longer. A bunch of White River Apaches, getting over the effects of a tiswin drunk, had jumped the reservation, and started on a murdering and thieving raid after their usual manner. Quite after their usual manner, also, two troops of cavalry had started in pursuit, following their trail with the faint hope of catching up with the fleet-footed Apaches; while the remainder of two regiments of cavalry and twice as many of infantry had been put at patrol duty and at the guarding of water-holes, springs and mountain passes.

It is the young lieutenant that is sent on this patrol duty as a rule. The more experienced officers are sent in pursuit. And it is a hard grind, indeed, on the nerves of the impatient young lieutenant to sit for days in his camp watching the surrounding country through his field glass and receiving the reports of his scouts, always the same monotonous: "Didn't see no signs of 'em, sir."

And so the poor "plebe" lieutenant gnashes his teeth and swears at his luck, and looks through his field glasses until he can see all sorts of things with his tired eyes—except Indians. But woe to him if Mr. Crazy Bear, with his family and relations and intimate friends, happens to slip through his lines during the night and the trail is not discovered promptly the next day. Woe to him if it is the grinning captain of the pursuing troop that tantalizingly informs him while he is still rubbing his sleepy eyes, that not only Crazy Bear but he with his whole troop of tired cavalry has been able to steal upon him and past him.

On the other hand, though, what glory, if, by a rare piece of good luck, one of his men dashes breathlessly in while the dew is still heavy on the lean bunch-grass of the mountain with the exciting report that he has cut the raider's trail and that it is but an hour two old! "Then it is "Boots and saddles!" and mount and away, and ten to one the "plebe" lieutenant is able to cut in ahead of the troops that are pursuing, and, with his fresh horses and his wild anxiety to "get there," able to catch up with Mr. Crazy Bear and capture him and all his retinue, after a nice little skirmish, in which he gets a hole through his hat, we hope, and not his heart.

Such was the precise situation of young Mr. Barstow, second lieutenant of the—the Regiment of United States Cavalry, on this day when Bess was at her wits' end with work and excitement. Chilcanno and his band had jumped the reservation at San Carlos after murdering a freighter and stealing his horses, and all southern Arizona was in a state of excitement. To be ordered out to guard a watering station is bad enough; but when you are quite persuaded that the miscreants have gone in another direction and that you have no chance whatever of being in or near at the death, the situation is almost unbearable.

Bess caught but a few glimpses of the lieutenant as he occasionally passed the door, but she saw that he was young and handsome, and her woman's heart was in a flutter. It was all she could do to think up something unusually good to eat for supper. She got out her very brightest and newest calico dress and braided her unruly hair for the first time in months. She did not even scold the sly trooper, whom she caught stealing some milk, for fear the young lieutenant would come around to that side of the house—which would be dreadfully embarrassing. And yet she wanted to see the lieutenant and hear him talk—oh, so much! She had read in novels some mysterious things about how young people fell in love with each other and married—and—well, everything is possible in this world.

It was at supper time that they really met. The lieutenant made a polite bow. He was a little bit surprised. He had heard some of the other officers of the garrison say laughingly that the only pretty woman in Arizona was Barnaby's Bess, excepting always, from regimental courtesy, the ladies of the regiment. But he had forgotten all about it in the excitement of his first trip in the field. It occurred to him now, but she was prettier than he had imagined she could be. His ideas of beauty were framed in a West Point landscape, and his divinities had been dressed in costly stuffs and wore diamonds, and were buds from mature New York family trees. But he had not seen a pretty woman in several months, and he was just a little bit embarrassed, himself. He hardly noticed the calico. He was quite charmed by the white apron. He concluded at once that, perhaps, this first scout of his would not be so awfully dull after all. He would flirt a little—only in fun, of course. It would be rather a relief from the dullness of the post. So he ate in silence, and stared so hard at Bess that her cheeks flushed a deeper crimson than they had ever known before. And to her amazement and delight he insisted on calling her Miss Barnaby. In her day-dreams she had often imagined some handsome young man addressing her respectfully as Miss Barnaby. Here was the delightful reality.

After supper the young lieutenant insisted on helping her to wash the dishes. He said it would be great fun, and quite a relief from the rough life of a soldier. Poor youngster, he had become so used to war's alarms. In fact they had become quite a bore. And it seemed to Bess that he stood awfully close to her. Once or twice their hands touched—an accident, she was quite sure. And, then, when all her work was finished, the dishes cleaned, the cows and horses fed (in all of which duties the young lieutenant helped)—delight of delights!—he actually asked her to take a little walk with him.

As for him, it seemed like old days in camp at West Point. She was a girl, and she was pretty. They strolled up the road a little distance and then branched off on a winding trail that led down to a little valley that was flooded with the rich moonlight that broke through the clear Arizona atmosphere. There was an interesting trail at the foot, and when they reached it, Bess gave a little start, and the lieutenant, with all his old West Point promptness, took advantage of the opportunity to place his arm around her waist.

"Don't be afraid," he whispered very manfully.

"Oh, I am not," she answered, demurely.

And then she stooped down quickly and seemed to pick something up from the trail.

"Did you drop anything?" he asked with mock politeness. "Why didn't you tell me? It was my duty to pick it up, you know."

"I did not drop anything," she answered. "Let's sit down on this rock."

They sat down on the rock, and the young lieutenant, with his heart beating very fast, put his arm around her waist again and took hold of her hands and found himself unconsciously looking for rings, in the manner young men who wish to hold a young lady's hand and feel in duty bound to offer some slight excuse to the fair one. They did not talk very much. There was not much to talk about. Their mutual friends were few, and therefore there could be no gossip. The theatre, books, styles—about everything was barred, from necessity. Nevertheless, it was not long before the lieutenant's brown mustache drew gradually near to Bess' pretty lips, and, not long after that, Bess received the first kiss she ever had from a young man. She did not struggle. She was utterly unaware of the arts of her fair sisters in the East. But she did turn squarely around and look the lieutenant very earnestly in the face.

"Do you mean anything by that?" she asked him.

He was surprised at the question, and he was gentleman enough to perceive that what was a mere evening's diversion to him might be something infinitely more serious to a lonely girl on almost a Western desert. He took his hand from her waist and moved away a little.

"No," he answered frankly, "only that you are pretty—and I didn't think you'd mind."

"I didn't mind," answered Bess, "and I wouldn't mind if I thought you cared for me. In fact," she added, with alarming candor, "I would like it if I were sure you were not making fun of me."

The lieutenant was silent.

"Tell me," she said, clasping his hand excitedly, "if I should do something that would be a great benefit to—you—would you think more of me—would you love me?"

"No," he answered quickly, standing up and looking at her a little curiously. "You are too serious. I want to be fair. The fact is, I am engaged—to a young lady in New York. We are going to be married in a year or two, when I get more pay. And perhaps sooner. If I could only do something to distinguish myself, you know."

She was clutching the rough edges of the rock.

"Is she beautiful?" she asked.

"I think so," he answered. "See here is a picture of her. You can see what she looks like in the moonlight."

She looked at the photograph a long time.

"Does she always dress like that?" she asked.

"No," he answered laughingly. "That is a ball dress—an evening dress. It would hardly do for her to go out doors in a dress like that. She might catch cold. But she is just as pretty in other dresses; and I love her very much."

Bess handed back the photograph and looked for a long time at the yellow trail. She had to bite her lip to repress a sigh, but she had been too long alone and friendless to lose her self-control.

"Look here," she suddenly asked, "if you were to catch these Indians, would that be what you wanted to do to be able to get your promotion and marry her?"

"I should say it would," he answered bitterly. "But that isn't my luck."

"It is! It is!" she cried, falling upon her knees by the trail. "See, I give her to you. See there—and there—and there! Those are pony tracks! See here! One I old up to him the thing she had picked up when he was mockingly polite. "It is the lash to an Indian quirt—worn through. They are riding hard and their horses are tired. They were in a hurry to get by here without being discovered by you, or they would have stopped to pick it up. Run, run, I tell you! I can read the trail better than you or any of your men. You can catch them before morning! Run!"

He had started before she had finished, and was bounding up the trail with long, athletic strides, leaving her alone on her knees at the intersection of the trails.

She was still there when the troop rode silently by with the anxious but silent young lieutenant at its head. He bowed to her as he passed, but she did not see him. After the last pack-mule had passed out of sight down the valley, she rose and walked slowly up the mountain.

"I was very foolish," she said. "He has known her a long time, and he never saw me before. Besides, she wears silk dresses all the time and is rich. But that should not make any difference in love. He kissed me! Why should he kiss me if he did not care for me! It is queer. She is a great lady, and I—"

She burst into tears and cried for a long time as she sat on the yellow trail at the top of the hill. It was far into the night when she arose to go. She heard, far off in the distance, through the clear air, the faint popping of carbines and rifles.

"I have given her to him," she muttered, as she made her way uncertainly to the ranch. "She is a lady, and wears silk; and she will never know about me, for he will be ashamed to tell her; and—and I am going to ask Father Jose, when he comes here next year with his little Mexican donkeys and his candles and his white robes, why it is that God has never sent anyone to love me."

Attention

In time to any irregularity of the Stomach, Liver, or Bowels may prevent serious consequences. Indigestion, costiveness, headache, nausea, biliousness, and vertigo indicate certain functional derangements, the best remedy for which is Ayer's Pills. Purely vegetable, sugar-coated, easy to take and quick to assimilate, this is the ideal family medicine—the most popular, safe, and useful aperient in pharmacy. Mrs. M. A. BROCKWELL, Harris, Tenn., says:

"Ayer's Cathartic Pills cured me of sick headache and my husband of neuralgia. We think there is

No Better Medicine,

and have induced many to use it.

"Thirty-five years ago this Spring, I was run down by hard work and a succession of colds, which made me so feeble that it was an effort for me to walk. I consulted the doctors, but kept sinking lower until I had given up all hope of ever being better. Happening to be in a store, one day, where medicines were sold, the proprietor noticed my weak and sickly appearance, and, after a few questions as to my health, recommended me to try Ayer's Pills. I had little faith in these or any other medicine, but concluded, at last, to take his advice and try a box. Before I had used them all, I was very much better, and two boxes cured me. I am now 80 years old; but I believe that if it had not been for Ayer's Pills, I should have been in my grave long ago. I buy 6 boxes every year, which make 210 boxes up to this time, and I would no more be without them than without bread."—H. H. Ingraham, Rockland, Me.

DYSPEPSIA CURED
B.B.B.

MR. GEO. READ.

Read the Proof.

DEAR SIRS.—I write you to say that for some time I had been suffering from acute indigestion or dyspepsia, and of course felt very great inconvenience from same in my general business. I thereupon decided to try Burdock Blood Bitters, and after taking two bottles I found I was quite another man, for B. B. B. entirely cured me. I have also used it for my wife and family and have found it the best thing they can take, and from past experience I have every pleasure in strongly recommending B.B.B. to all my friends.

I write you because I think that it should be generally known what B. B. B. can accomplish in cases of indigestion.

Yours faithfully,
GEORGE READ,
Sherbrooke, Que.

ANTS AS THEY ARE FOUND IN FAR AWAY AFRICA.

They Devour Cockroaches, Young Mice and Other Vermin—The Meanwhile Prove Themselves Very Troublesome to Humanity, Albeit They Furnish Us a Grand Object Lesson.

The visible insect world is not only a world of wonder, but the instinct akin to reason, displayed by the little living creatures that swarm about us is indeed marvelous, and none more so than the different varieties of the ant family. A writer thus describes the trained and systematic ravages of a maranding army of ants in Africa.

Silently, deadly, and irresistibly move these battalions out of the forest, down, into, across, and up the ditch, through the boma (wood stockade), across the square, and into every nook and cranny conceivable they swarmed. The first notice (they generally came at night) would be a loud yell from some of the men "Look out! Siafu!" There would be no more sleep that night. After experience gained, says the Nineteenth Century, we found it the best plan to clear out of our houses, rush into the square and build rings of fire around us. To put on one's clothes was to get bitten by dozens all over one's body, unless they had been first thoroughly smoked over a fire. Every now and then yells and curses told how a lazy one had got caught in his bunk. The walls of the huts, the roofs, and floors, were simply one seething mass of struggling ants. They were after the cockroaches, mice and insects that had taken up their abode in the roofs. Now and then, squeaks of young mice told their story. As fast as the ants found their load, generally a cockroach, they would make off down the hill in a long line. Luckily they never touched our granaries; they seemed to prefer animal food. Toward morning there would be only a few lost ones, aimlessly tearing about, apparently looking for the main body which had just decamped. Usually these raids on us were made after a rain storm; many of them came into the fort already staggering under loads; these appeared to wander about until the others were ready. Next day not a cockroach could be found in the place, so that the ants did us a service in ridding us of these pests. The rats had decamped also, and did not return for some days. We have seen outside the forts armies of red ants two and a half days long, i.e., they would take two and a half days passing a given spot. During the day the march would be incessant, every one marching at his very best; toward night they would huddle in a seething mass, and if disturbed, scatter in all directions. The width of the stream of ants would be about two inches generally. On the flanks of this were the soldiers, fully twice the length of the workers. On our approach these big chaps would run out and up our legs like lightning. No birds, but of one sort, seemed to trouble them; these were little fellows about as big as sparrows.

A Lost People.

A lady whose home is in the south of France writes of a visit she made recently to an island on the coast of Brittany. Those of you who have read the story of King Arthur and his knights will remember that they started out over the sea in pursuit of the dragon. In this—the Morbihan Sea—is a little island which can be reached from the mainland only when the water is smooth. The sole inhabitant is a Breton shepherd, who lives in a little hut and spends his time in caring for his sheep. The party landed and were met by the kind-faced old man, who led them over the grassy slope where his flock was feeding, and showed them the way around a hill, on the east side of which they found the entrance to a tunnel.

This extended some distance, and its floor, sides and roof were made of immense flat pieces of stone, covered with hieroglyphs and figures "looking somewhat like wreaths, and again like coiled serpents." At the end of this tunnel was a hall, also floored, roofed and walled with the same curious stones, and in the centre was an altar and a stone upon which it is thought that human sacrifices have been offered. The strangest part of all is that no stones or rocks like those used in this tunnel can be found on the island, and at no place nearer than 100 miles inland. Who brought them? How did they come? There is no record left—at least none has been found—to tell who these people were, or anything about them.

They must have lived many centuries ago, but have vanished entirely, yet their work is as perfect apparently as when first built.

It is thought that they may have been Druids, who came here when they left Great Britain; others, again, think that they were worshippers of the serpent god called Hoa. But it is conjecture. All we know is that the stones are here, strangely carved, skillfully put together, but of their builders there is no trace.—Goldthwaite's Geographical Magazine.

The New York Examiner says: Every mother and housekeeper must often act as a family physician in the many illnesses and accidents that occur among children and servants. For many of these cases I have used Davis' PAIN-KILLER, and consider it an indispensable article in the medicine box. In diarrhœa it has been used and effected cures. For cuts and bruises, it is invaluable. 25c. for the New Big Bottle.

Dear Sirs,—Your "Hairene," I believe to be a wonderful remedy. It certainly produced the most unexpected results in my case, my hair had been falling out very freely for some time, becoming anxious about the matter I thought I would experiment upon the properties of "Hairene," and one application actually "topped it at once. I applied it once or twice afterward, using in all about a quarter of one bottle, and have not required to use it since. It seems to have given renewed and healthy vigor to the scalp, and I can recommend it in all confidence.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

THE VATICAN.

Some of Its Treasures and How they are Guarded.

The treasures of the Vatican are beyond all price of calculation, and but few favored mortals outside of the church have ever been permitted to view the inner sacristy, where the accumulations of centuries are hoarded.

There are four rooms specially decorated, in which are deposited scores of miters, ornamented with precious stones; chalices in gold and silver: capes and garments for the highest church officials and only donned upon special state occasions. Many of the robes are embroidered in gold with the arms of various Popes emblazoned upon them. In the cabinets were once stored hundreds of precious objects, but when Pius VI. was forced to pay a part of the 200,000,000 francs imposed by Napoleon I. the prelate had recourse to the chalices and golden vessels, which were melted down and placed side by side with numerous gems of the Vatican treasury in order to satisfy the demands of the rapacious conqueror. When the French army occupied Rome in 1798, the treasury was sacked, and many paintings and rare statuary carried off. The tapestries, or arazzi, as the Romans call them, because they were made at Arras, hung in one of the inner alcoves of the Vatican. The cartoons for them were made by Raphael in 1515, and represent various events in the life for the Savior. Some of these tapestries were carried off in 1798 and sold to a trader at Genoa, who burned one of them for the sake of the gold and silver threads used in the bright lights representing sunshine. The speculation proving unprofitable, the trader, 1808, disposed of the remainder to Pius VII., who restored them to their original niches.

Under glass cases are many beautiful swords, which the Popes are wont to bestow upon those who win distinction fighting for the church. Here, also, are seen the "golden roses," given by the head of the church to ladies of royal blood who have distinguished themselves in the cause. They are made by a family living in the neighborhood, who have had a monopoly of the manufacture over 300 years. The roses are exquisitely wrought, inlaid with diamonds and rubies, representing a value of over $5,000.

Among the tiaras is one presented by the Queen—Isabella of Spain. It contains 20,000 brilliants. Another valuable one was presented by Napoleon I. to Pius VII. There have been several robberies from this Sistine treasury, and every precantion is now taken to guard against theft. The most costly objects are kept in the Pope's private apartments, and are never exhibited to the most favored guest or visitor.

Educating the Senses of Children.

From three or four till nine or ten the children are set down to learn to read and write. Nine out of ten are mentally dulled during this process; some of them are intellectually paralyzed for any future bright mentality. It has not occurred to our legislators that these years should be devoted to the development of innate powers of seeing, hearing, feeling, and even smelling. The senses are the avenues through which the outer world must reach the inner; and if neglected at this period are blocked, if not forever closed. Few children are taught to use their senses as well as they should. Not one of our senses but in civilization is losing more or less of power in valuable directions. The Australian wild boys are able, on all fours, to track marauders by scent, as dogs, everywhere. But the nose is not our only neglected sense organ. Humboldt tells us that while on the Andes a portion of his party was detailed to follow another spur of the mountains. The time had come when they should be in sight. He had long watched for them, but could not discover any sign that they were within the range of vision. Expressing his anxiety to his Indian guides, they replied "Why, there they are; and have been." Humboldt could yet see nothing; but pointing a powerful field glass in the direction indicated by the Indians, he could see his friends as mere specks moving.

Feeling the Egyptian Mosquito.

It appears that the Khedive is not the only Egyptian who deceives himself. According to Cannon Scott Holland, the mosquitoes of the country do the same. The reverend gentleman lectured to the members of the Workingmen's College in Great Ormond street on Saturday evening on his recent visit to the land of the Sphinx and the Pyramids, and explained the only manner of obtaining a restful night there. "The only way to obtain sleep," he said, "is to search carefully your curtained bed, and patiently flatten with the sole of your slipper every mosquito you can find; then close the curtains as quickly as possible.

"All the other mosquitoes in the room at once conclude that you have gone to bed, and devote the rest of the night to getting inside the curtains and nibbling at what they believe to be the body of an intruding foreigner, while you yourself calmly enjoy quiet and undisturbed repose on the sofa on the other side of the room. The mosquitoes do not find out their mistake until next morning."

Many rise in the morning with a headache and no inclination for breakfast. This is due to torpidity of the liver and a deranged condition of the stomach. To restore healthy action to these organs, nothing is so efficacious as an occasional dose of Ayer's Pills.

RIVER AND LAKE RIPLETS.

(From a Correspondent.)

Mr. Roland Tivey, Jr., Ashburnham, considers himself in luck in having landed on terra ferma, quite a large quantity of particularly large perch. He also boasts of having caught by means of rod and line a black bass, which tipped the beam at 4½ lbs.

Mr. Jack White, Harwood, Rice Lake, has commenced cutting in his saw mill, principally custom work, and has his hands full. The mill is running night and day.

Mr. "Din" Corkery, Harwood, Rice Lake, had added quite a number of skiffs td his already large fleet, which he anticipates necessary, as he expects things to be most brisk this coming season. He has on hand a competent number of guides, to show, and row those desirous of a good day's fishing in and about the lake and her tributaries.

The little lake was dotted with sail boats, canoes, skiffs, and all other sorts of floatables Sunday which were plying the waters to and fro from the City of Peterborough. Along the banks hundreds and hundreds of spectators might be seen viewing the new steamer.

The Farmers' Institute's annual picnic per steamer City of Peterborough will be held at Jubilee summer resort, Rice Lake, June 7th, and is anticipated to be the picnic of the season, the counties of Peterborough and Northumberland having united and intend making it a grand success. Further particulars later on.

Mr. D. Breeze, fishery inspector for this district, paid Rice Lake a flying visit on official business a day or two ago.

FESTERED PAST ENDURANCE.

A Resident of Rubidge Street Lays Information Against the Boys for Annoying Him.

Mr. Samuel Hall, of Rubidge street, swore out a warrant yesterday for the arrest of James Guerin on a charge of malicious injury to property. The lad was before Police Magistrate Dumble this morning and the case was enlarged until to-morrow.

By Mr. Hall's statement it would appear that for the past several months a gang of small boys have made it their custom to visit his premises after church, on Sunday evenings, and by sky-larking around his house have proved very annoying to him. On occasions Mr. Hall would sally forth and give chase to the young scamps, but without avail, as they always contrived to elude him in the darkness. Last Sunday evening the youngsters did not take into account the fact that it was considerably lighter at eight o'clock in the evening than formerly and the result was that after pitching a brick and a couple of stones at the door they did not retire quite quick enough and he was able to run one of them to earth. The boy stated that it was not he that threw the stone, but informed Mr. Hall that one Jas. Guerin was the culprit. The result was that the other youth was apprehended and if it is proven that he is the agressor, he will probably have to pay for not keeping at home in the evenings.

THE NEFF CASE.

The Hamilton Doctors are Puzzled About this Remarkable Cure—They Could not Cure this Case of Kidney Disease, but Dodd's Kidney Pills have Done so.

Hamilton, April 16.—The doctors of this city are showing great interest in a remarkable cure reported from Port Colborne. Harvey H. Neff, of the latter town, had an aggravated form of kidney disease, consequent on an attack of typhoid fever. Physicians could not cure the kidney disorder, but Mr. Neff has regained his health after taking five boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's was the first kidney remedy in pill form ever offered the public. Its wonderful success in curing all forms of kidney disease has led to the introduction of numerous cheap and worthless imitations. Purchasers, for their own safety, should insist on getting Dodd's Kidney Pills. Sold in large boxes; price, fifty cents, or six boxes for $2.50. To be had of all dealers.

SPRIGHTLY SUMMER SPORTS.

On the Lacrosse Field, the Crease and the Diamond—Triple A. Topics—The Bicycle and Football.

At a meeting of the executive of the Canadian Rifle League it has been decided to send circulars to the various battalions and associations forming the League, asking them whether they preferred the Martini to the Snider rifle. It was also decided to ask the Government for free Martini ammunition, and a committee was appointed for this purpose.

The Peterboroughs will have a practice this evening and all those who possibly can are requested to be present.

Members of the Peterborough team are out with a subscription list and are meeting with very good success. A private meeting of the club was held last evening and some private matters of importance attended to.

The Cobourg cricket club plays in Belleville on the 24th of May.

At the annual meeting of the Ontario Cricket Association held in Toronto Monday night Mr. R. B. Rogers was elected one of the vice-presidents. The association has now a membership of twelve clubs, of which Peterborough is one.

At a meeting of the Lindsay curling club held Friday evening, it was decided that the Lindsay club would not break from the Ontario Association to join the proposed new association in that district. There is a good prospect of Lindsay having a new rink for next season.

Captain George Horkins, of the bicycle club, has received a letter from the Mail concerning his offer to ride in the great relay trip. An endeavour will be made to place him and probably one or two others from Peterborough on the route.

Peterborough and Campbellford will have a gun club shoot at the latter town on the 24th of May. Eight men on a side will participate.

Messrs. W. A. Sanderson and W.E. Lech were appointed directors to the P.A.A.A. by the lacrosse club last evening.

The Cricket Club, by present indications, will have plenty of matches on for the coming season, as already five challenges have been received. The clubs desiring dates are Ottawa, East Toronto, Trinity School, Port Hope; Cobourg and Millbrook. East Toronto will be here on July 27th, but the other dates have as yet not been decided upon. The secretary of the club is in receipt of an answer from Trinity school, stating that arrangements can be made to secure the services of the school's professional for the months of July and August. The terms, however, are a little high, as besides paying the "pro" $60 per month the school wish the local cricketers to undertake to pay the Englishman's fare back to England at the close of the season. The club may see its way to pay the "pro" his salary but it is doubtful if the members will see their way clear to undertake the latter part of the stipulation.

There is already the necleus for the formation of a good club this season, as a few new players have arrived in town since the drawing of the wickets last year.

Mr. R. M. Roy, G. T. R. tie inspector, is putting the finishing touches on a trim little steam launch, which he has built during his leisure hours the past winter. This is Mr. Roy's first effort at undertaking the building of a steam launch, though the sailing yachts which came forth from his hands won him quite a reputation at one time on the Bay of Quinte.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

The Question of Examining Witnesses in the Public Accounts Committee.

AN AFTERNOON DISCUSSION.

Mr. A. F. Wood's Amendment to the Amendment Defeated on Division—Sir Oliver Mowat's Amendment Carries—Committee of Supply.

TORONTO, April 18.—Mr. Clancy again brought up his motion in the Legislature yesterday that the public accounts for the year 1893 be referred to the Public Accounts Committee, with instructions to call and examine witnesses in relation to all matters affecting or relating to the expenditures in connection with the registry offices in the province. He said the question, to a very large extent, involved the rights of committees appointed by the House as to the powers they might exercise in regard to matters referred to them to enquire into. A short time ago the Public Accounts Committee ordered the attendance of the deputy registrars of East Northumberland and Peterboro' in order to give evidence in connection with the public accounts for 1893. At the first meeting, however, it was proposed by the Provincial Treasurer to rescind this order, on the ground that the matter to be enquired into was not within the scope of the committee. Mr. Clancy argued that to thus construe any rule in regard to the functions of the committee would make it impossible for the committee to proceed upon any ground whatever. The House had voted the sum of $1,600 as the salary of an inspector of registry offices. Would it be contended that the committee had no right to enquire into the manner in which this official was discharging his duties, and to ascertain whether he had performed them in the manner intended when his salary was voted? He would give an instance showing the necessity of enquiring into the inspection of registry offices. In the registry office for East Northumberland the number of instruments registered had been 1,110, and the revenue $2,147, whilst the expenses were stated to have been $1,468. On the other hand, in Lincoln, the number of instruments registered was 1,655, or one-third more than in East Northumberland, and the revenue was $3,053, whilst the expenses amounted to only $903. The Opposition proposed to enquire into the facts, and obtain the evidence of those who were best informed upon the matter.

Sir Oliver Mowat said, in reply, that the Government had no desire to shelter any official in respect of any wrongdoing. He did not consider, however, that the Public Accounts Committee possessed the power to investigate the public accounts in the general way the hon. gentleman proposed. The House might, however, arm that committee with the authority to investigate any particular case. He moved in amendment, therefore, that the committee have power to call and examine witnesses on any subject of importance affecting the revenue and expenditure for the province for the said year; and, it being alleged that a return made for the information of the House by the registrar of East Northumberland as to the expenses of his office was materially incorrect, the committee was authorized as a special reference in this behalf to enquire as to the accuracy of the said registrar's assessments and expenses, and to call and examine witnesses in reference thereto.

Mr. Meredith said the Attorney-General had argued that the Public Accounts Committee could only enquire into such matters as were referred to them. Did the hon. gentleman mean to contend that the committee had no right to enquire whether an official, whose salary was voted by the House, was performing his duties in a perfunctory manner or not. Surely it was within the competence of the committee to call witnesses with a view of examining into the condition of the registry offices upon which the inspector had reported?

Hon. Mr. Harcourt took the ground that the Public Accounts Committee were only entitled to enquire into the items covered in the public accounts for 1893. The only point raised by the Government members in committee was, he said, one of procedure, as they desired to follow established rules. He said that the Government would throw nothing in the way of making any special investigation.

Mr. A. F Wood (Hastings) blamed the Government for endeavoring under a plausible pretext to burk the enquiry. He moved in amendment to the amendment that the committee be authorized to examine witnesses as to the inspection of all registry offices for which the salary of inspector of registry offices is paid.

The House divided and the amendment to the amendment was lost by 46 to 31. The amendment was then carried on the same vote. Messrs. McNaughton, Patron, and McCallum, P. P. A. representative, voted in each division with the Opposition.

The House rose for recess.

Committee of Supply.

The House went into Committee of Supply.

On the item of $770,523 for maintenance of public institutions. Mr. Clancy attacked the allowances made in the estimates for officials' residences. He claimed that a system of hiding is going on; that money is voted by the House for one purpose and then used for another.

Hon. Mr. Gibson replied that officials living within public institutions received an addition to salaries in the shape of maintenance. It was reasonable that officials who were married and had large institutions and lived outside should receive an equivalent to what they would be entitled to if they lived on the premises.

Mr. Meredith drew attention to the enormously increasing expense of maintaining asylums. He was afraid a number of persons were admitted to the asylums to become a charge whose relatives were well able to pay for their maintenance.

Hon. Mr. Gibson replied that the greatest care was taken in order to see that the relatives of persons admitted to the asylums who could do so should contribute to their maintenance. He admitted that the expense was growing. One way to lessen this might be to throw a share of the burden on the shoulders of the municipality, but this would be a new departure that required very grave consideration.

Mr. Wood (Hastings) maintained that the inmates of asylums whose relatives were in humble circumstances ought to be entitled to as much consideration, keeping in view the possibility of their recovery, as those whose friends were rich and able to afford them every luxury.

Mr. Whitney said the Government should not avoid grappling with this question.

Hon. Mr. Gibson contended that a comparison between the cost of managing public institutions in Ontario, and in other provinces in Canada and the neighboring States of the Union, would show results very much more favorable to this Province.

Mr. Marter declared that the Opposition were animated by a sincere desire to serve the Province in the criticisms they bestowed upon the management of public institutions. Under the present state of affairs the Province was paying more for supplies than it ought to. The Province did not get a dollar of cash discounts. There would be a saving of from $20,000 to $25,000 a year if advantages were taken of these discounts.

Hon. Mr. Harcourt said Mr. Marter's criticisms were "eloquently vague." The hon. gentleman had made accusations which he failed to establish after enquiry in the Public Accounts Committee. He would like the hon. gentleman to explain how he could effect a saving of $25,000. He would not be able to save $5,000 on the present cost, much less $25,000.

Mr. Meredith said the Provincial Treasurer should not sneer at Mr. Marter, who, he said, was a most useful member of the Public Accounts Committee.

Mr. Marter proceeded to show where he considered there had been extravagance. There had been 100 per cent. more paid for the small articles at some points than at others. He compared the prices paid for supplies at the Toronto Asylum and also the prices for supplies at the Central prison with those at the Kingston penitentiary.

Hon. Mr. Harcourt insisted that the public institutions of Ontario were managed with efficiency and economy. He denied that the Patron movement was the result of want of economy in Ontario, it was due to the maladministration of friends of hon. gentlemen opposite at Ottawa.

After further discussion the item passed and the committee rose and reported progress.

The House adjourned.

House Notes.

Hon. Mr. Gibson's bill respecting mortgages and sales of personal property was read a third time.

Mr. Clarke's (Toronto) bill respecting the city of Toronto was read a third time.

Hon. Mr. Ross' motion to ratify the order of council permitting the payment of certain sums out of the permanent fund of the University of Toronto for certain required improvements, was allowed to lay over, pending the printing papers containing complete information.

The House went into committee on Hon. Mr. Hardy's bill respecting mining, one of the provisions of which is to exempt all mining lands from royalties for a period of five years. Mr. Meredith offered an amendment and Mr. Conmee proposed an amendment to the amendment, which were allowed to stand. Other clauses were reported.

SIR FRED'S REPLY.

He Will Take No Further Notice of Col. Houghton's Letters.

LONDON, April 18.—In an interview with Sir Fred Middleton, the General states that the statements in Col. Houghton's most recent effusion in a Montreal paper, concerning the occurrences of the Northwest rebellion, in 1885, were preposterous, and added, "I see no reason to alter one single statement I have yet made, and the position he takes simply amazes me. I have come to the decision not to take any more notice of Col. Houghton's ravings, for I am confident the people of Canada can rightly judge between us."

The Newfoundland Political Crisis.

ST. JOHNS, Nfld., April 18.—The Whitewayites base their hope of ultimate success in the impossibility of the new Government electing a speaker and forming a legal house when Legislature re-opens. The present speaker will resign. The Goodridge party, numbering only twelve, will be unable to replace him, as thirteen members are necessary for a quorum. The Whitewayites are pledged to absent themselves. This will cause a complete deadlock and only remedy in their opinion is dissolution. The trials are dragging slowly along in the Supreme Court. Whiteway lawyers are delaying so as to prolong them and make it impossible to have them completed before the expiration of the revenue bill. Judgment will likely be delivered in Supreme Court to-day against the Telegram for contempt.

Vienna's Joiners' Strike Averted.

VIENNA, April 18.—The expected strike of the joiners of this city and vicinity for higher wages has been averted by the conclusion of a satisfactory arrangement between the employers and the men. Ten thousand joiners were ready to strike.

At Seventy Miles an Hour.

CLEVELAND, April 18.—The Vanderbilt flyer, on board of which were Cornelius Vanderbilt, Chauncey M. Depew and President Newell, has arrived. Over some parts of the Lake Shore the run was made at the rate of 70.7 miles an hour.

Louis Plante Will be Extradited.

DENVER, Col., April 18.—Louis Plante, wanted in Toronto for robbery, has been held for extradition, despite his confession of arson made for the purpose of being detained here for trial. The papers have been forwarded to Washington.

THE SCOTCH COMMITTEE

Mr. Balfour's Amendment Defeated in the Imperial Commons.

PARNELLITES DO NOT VOTE.

A Long and Bitter Discussion Expected on the British Budget—Parnellites Oppose the Tax on Spirits—The Scotch Members Will Not Oppose It.

LONDON, April 18.—Debate was resumed in the House of Commons on the Government motion that a Scotch standing committee be appointed for the consideration of all bills relating exclusively to Scotland. There was considerable discussion on the amendment moved on April 2 by Mr. Balfour, leader of the Opposition, "That the House decline to sanction in regard to the bill relating to one portion only of the United Kingdom any plan by which the ancient practice as to the constitution and proceedings of this House will be fundamentally altered, until it has had an opportunity of pronouncing upon a general scheme which shall extend a like treatment to bills relating to each of the other portions of the United Kingdom." The amendment was finally rejected by a vote of 259 to 219. Most of the Parnellites abstained from the division. The debate was adjourned till Friday.

The British Budget.

The newspaper comments on the budget take a wide range. Everybody expects a long and bitter discussion of its details, and it is possible the Government may be defeated on the measure, though this is not the general belief. The Parnellite members will surely oppose the increase of the tax on spirits. The Scotch members are not in favor of it, but they will probably not vote against it. The anti-Parnellites are as yet an unknown quantity, while the Unionists are inclined to favor many of the provisions of the measure, but how they will treat the spirit tax it is too early to predict.

Want a Definite Reply.

LONDON, April 18.—Dr. Robert Farquharson, M.P. for Aberdeenshire West, and Messrs. J. W. Crombie, Liberal member for Kincardine, and Joseph Arch, labor representative from the northwest riding of Norfolk, in the House of Commons last night pressed Mr. Gardner, president of the Board of Agriculture, for a definite answer as to the intentions of the Government with reference to removing the restrictions on the importation of Canadian cattle.

The Tea Duty.

LONDON, April 18.—In the House of Commons Mr. Sidney C. Buxton, Under Secretary for the Colonies, said that pending a communication from the Canadian Government to which he had addressed a question, he would ask Mr. Joseph Howard, Conservative M.P. for Tottenham, to postpone until to-morrow his enquiry as to whether Canada can legally differentiate against England in the matter of duties to the benefit of other countries.

Will Surrender the Queen's Cup.

LONDON, April 18.—Especially with the view of inducing American yachts to race in English waters, the Queen's Cup, won by the Arrow in 1851, has been offered for competition by Tankerville Chamberlain, M.P., hon. lieutenant of the Royal naval reserve. The announcement is made that the Prince of Wales' cutter Britannia will race against all comers this season.

British Interest in Samoa.

LONDON, April 18.—Inquiry at the foreign office has elicited the statement that the British Government is not in negotiation with any power with a view of modifying the present arrangements in regard to the administration of affairs in Samoa, nor are any such negotiations contemplated.

Behring Sea Bill Passes the Lords.

LONDON, April 18.—In the House of Lords the amendments to the Behring Sea bill submitted by Lord Kimberley were accepted, and the bill as amended passed its third and final reading.

The House of Lords amendments to the bill were approved by the House of Commons.

German Stowaways in a British Vessel.

LONDON, April 18.—The British steamer Tyneshead, Captain Carr, from Bremen, put into Deal yesterday for the purpose of landing 18 German stowaways, who were found hidden in the steamer's coal bunkers. The men were arrested by the authorities.

New Lord Justice of Appeal.

LONDON, April 18.—Sir Charles Russell, the Attorney-General, has accepted the post of Lord Justice of Appeal, made vacant by the death of Lord Bowen.

A School Ceiling Caves In.

MONTREAL, April 18.—The Riverside Public school, one of the city schools situated at Point St. Charles, a western suburb of this city, was the scene of great excitement yesterday and a terrible scene of death and destruction was narrowly averted. Heavy masses of stone had been thoughtlessly placed on the floor over one of the school rooms. The strain was too severe for the support and it suddenly crashed through into the room below. Two children, Jennie Marshall and Charlotte McDonnell, were injured. The children in the other classes in the school, although very much excited, retained their places until dismissed by their teachers, who used every effort to prevent a panic.

The Hamilton Shoe Strike.

HAMILTON, April 18.—The trouble between McPherson & Co.'s employes and Mr. McPherson is likely to be settled before long. Mr. McPherson is willing to pay the Toronto rate of wages, and he has been given a copy of the bill of wages paid by King & Co., Toronto, which contains many changes favorable to the men. He has asked the strikers to appoint a committee to confer with him in order to try and effect an amicable settlement of the difficulty.

Daily Examiner.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 18, 1894.

THE Review is forced to acknowledge, as it does in Tuesday's issue, that the local registry office is "managed in a business like way," an assertion equivalent to a confession that the insinuations published a few days ago that there was something wrong in its management, and the further insinuation that Mr. Stratton was endeavouring to conceal the alleged wrong, were pure speculation and had no foundation in fact. If you allow Opposition journals to invent their own facts, they may make out a case, but when, confronted by the real facts, they are compelled to eat their own words their influence as reliable contributors to political discussion is reduced to the mathematical definition of a "point."

NORWOOD NEWS NOTES.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The pulpit of the Methodist church was occupied on Sunday by Rev. W. R. Young, George street Methodist church, Peterborough, who delivered educational sermons. Rev. Mr. Buchanan preached in Mr. Young's stead in Peterborough.

The appearance of J. Pettigrew's residence on Peterborough street has been much improved by the repainting of the verandah. The property of Mr. J. Harper, Jr., on the same street has also been beautified by the erection of an ornamental fence.

A load of our young folks drove out to Mr. Thos. McMasters, Dummer, on Tuesday evening of last week, to an evening party and a taffy pull. They spent a very pleasant evening but on the return trip the party came to grief. When nearing the village, the driver not being able to see the road, the rig, which was a heavy covered bus, ran into a ditch and overturned. The occupants received a number of bruises and scratches, but there were no serious injuries.

Mr. and Mrs. Sutherland, of Warworth, visited Mr. and Mrs. Carmichael here this week.

Miss May Pettigrew is attending the convention of the Women's Foreign Mission Society, at Ottawa, as a delegate from the society here.

Last week Mrs. Smart accidently fell down the stairs at her residence, Queen street, but happily sustained no very serious injury.

On Sunday the Rev. Father Conway was presented with a purse, accompanied by an address by his parishoners. The address was read by Mr. D. Hurley and the presentation was made by Mr. J. Fitzpatrick. Father Conway will leave next Monday and will sail from New York in the Anchor Line steamship "Furnessia" for Ireland. The picnic will be held as usual on the 24th of May. A good committee has the preparations in charge.

Monday morning last the Roman Catholic church here was the scene of a happy event, being the marriage of Mr. Timothy McMahon, of Michigan, and Miss Mary English, of Asphodel. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Conway, the bridesmaid assisted by Miss K. Herr, while Mr. Geo. English officiated as grooms man.

The football tournament to be held by the High School Football Association promises to be a great success. Already six teams have entered, among them the Brooklin team, champions of the counties of Victoria and Durham. There will be five matches of 1 hour each, with the proviso that any team losing three straight goals loses the match, and fresh teams take the field. The Brooklin team will take the field at one o'clock with one of the visiting teams, then from two to three two other teams will play, after which the Brooklin team will contend with a combination of the High School and village teams. With favourable weather this will no doubt be the most successful tournament yet held here. In the evening a grand concert will be given in the town hall. Mrs. F. E. Perney and a number of others—both local and foreign talent—have been engaged to take part.

Last week Mrs. Donohue, daughter of the late J. D. Denehey, P.L.S., and a former resident of Norwood, died in Buffalo, leaving a husband and two children.

We regret having to record the death of Mrs. Wm. Spence, of South Dummer, on Saturday last. The funeral took place on Monday to the Norwood cemetery and was very largely attended.

Another sad death occurred in Norwood on Sunday—Wm. Sedgwick, an old resident, who was living in Toronto, but was spending a few weeks in the village. On the 7th inst. he was suddenly taken ill with inflammation of the lungs and died on the 15th, at the age of 60 years. The funeral was held on Tuesday. The cortege proceeded first to the Methodist church, where a funeral sermon was preached by the Rev. W. Buchanan to a large number of the friends of the departed. The remains were then taken to the Norwood cemetery.

An Odd Collection.

A man in Colorado has a quaint collection of bottles. It is divided into two sections. Section one is large. Section two is not. Section one contains hundreds of bottles, the contents of which his wife swallowed hoping to find relief from her physical sufferings. Section two contains a few bottles that once were filled with Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It was this potent remedy that gave the suffering wife her health again. It cures all irregularities, internal inflammation and ulceration, displacements and kindred troubles It has done more to relieve the sufferings of women than any other medicine known to science.

SMITH.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

"As food is to the body, so music is to the soul." If this be the case, both of these were to the fullest extent realised a few evenings ago at the residence of Mr. R. T. Milburn. A few of the neighbours expected a musical treat that evening, as they had heard that our hostess was to be serenaded by the Fourth Line Band, under the efficient leadership of Mr. Harold Brown. This organization has added to their numbers of late, and about eight o'clock the full band appeared and, finding the leeward side of the house, they played a few selections, after which they entered the house and there, for a long time, the company had their expectations fully realized. The remainder of the evening was spent in games and amusements of differents kinds. As the hasty hours hurried by till about their greatest height, a luxurious repast was prepared by our hostess, to which ample justice was done by all. After this the band again entertained them, and, before leaving, the leader, on behalf of the band, in a few well chosen remarks expressed their gratitude for the kind hospitality given them. We cannot speak in too commendable terms of this band, not having the advantages of those in the city, yet we feel sure that it can favourably compare with many of them. They practice every Monday evening and we wish to bespeak a prosperous summer for them.

It would be worth while for the ladies to bear in mind that if they take a gentle course of Ayer's Sarsaparilla in the spring they will have no trouble with "prickly heat," "hives," "stiles," "boils," or "black heads," when summer comes. Prevention is better than cure.

Idle Money in San Francisco Banks.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., April 18.—There is $15,000,000 lying idle in the San Francisco commercial banks, money for which the bankers can find no use. This is said to be the largest surplus that has been known for many years and it is still growing. The banks prefer to hold good interest bearing securities instead of gold coin which does not pay rent for the vault it occupies. The money is offered for loan as low as 4 per cent. on first-class securities, but all collateral is scrutinized.

Mello's Cause Lost.

BUENOS AYRES, April 18. — Admiral Mello and five of his ships carrying 1,200 men are here without food or water. The Argentine government, with the consent of the rebel leaders, is superintending the delivery of Mello's vessels to the Brazilian Minister. Mello will probably take the earliest opportunity of escaping to some foreign country where he can hide himself. If he falls into the hands of President Peixoto there is little doubt but that he will be promptly tried by court-martial and shot.

Murder on the High Seas.

NEW YORK, April 18.—Murder on the high seas is the charge which C. Pedersen, a sailor on board the British bark Duleph Singh, will have to answer. Her crew was composed of British seamen, except Pedersen, a Norwegian, who was from the first the object of persecution by his fellows. February 17, Seaman Shields engaged in a fight with Pedersen when the latter drew a knife and stabbed Shields twice in the abdomen, causing death.

Bohemian Towns Destroyed by Fire.

VIENNA, April 18.—Thirty-three houses were destroyed by fire yesterday at Adler Kostelets, a town of Bohemia. Two persons lost their lives and several injured. Fire has destroyed a large part of the town of Neu Sandec, in Calicia. Among the buildings burned are three churches, the Jesuit convent, the Lyceum and postoffice. Eighteen houses and a church were burned in Hradisch, Moravia.

A WEEK IN CANADA.

President Clark speaks as follows in The Golden Rule of the closing days of his week in Canada:—

Peterborough.—"Peterborough is another Canadian centre of Christian Endeavour, as you would have thought if you had seen and heard the hundred singing Endeavourers on the station platform; it was my good fortune to spend most of the day in their delightful convention. In spite of the zero weather, the large church was filled in the evening, and inspiring addresses were given by Rev. Mr. Bartlett and by Mr. Ferguson, the secretary of the Provincial Union; and a deeply impressive consecration service was led by Mr. Colville, a former secretary, whom Canadian Endeavourers always rejoice to hear.

Ottawa.—"The last stopping place in this brief pilgrimage was at Ottawa, the capital city of the Dominion, and here another great audience assembled in the Knox Presbyterian church. * * * If I had a dozen columns to devote to this letter, I could fill them all with descriptions of the magnificent Parliament buildings; with an account of a call on Canada's noble, Christian Governor-General, Lord Aberdeen, who has often had a cordial word for Christian Endeavour, and whom I wish we might all greet at Cleveland next July; and, above all, with an account of a visit to my mother's grave, a few miles from Ottawa. But I will not take it for granted that you are interested in these personal matters, however dear to me.

Your friend,
FRANCIS E. CLARK.

The county executive met on Saturday morning at 11 o'clock. Rev. Mr. Young, president, in the chair. Those present were:—Rev. W. R. Young, Messrs. H. A. Ward, T.H. Martin, town; H.P. Kennedy, Coldsprings; and Misses McEwen, Bridgenorth; Duff, Lakefield; Brown, Norwood; Frise, town; and Mrs. (Dr.) Harrison, Keene.

The different districts in the county were rearranged and stand as follows:—Norwood district—Miss Ethel Brown, vice-president; Norwood, Havelock, Hastings, South Dummer, Westwood. Keene district—Mrs. (Dr.) Harrison, vice-president; Keene, Villiers, Allandale, Bethel, Mathers, Zion, Hiawatha. Coldsprings district—Mr. H. P. Kennedy, vice-president; Coldsprings, Bethel (Ashburnham circuit), Murdale, Springville, Salem, Bridgenortn district—Miss M.E. McEwen, vice-president, Bridgenorth, Selwyn, Gilmour Memorial, Fowler's Corners, Wesley, Lakehurst, Zion, Fairview. Lakefield district, Miss B. Duff, vice-president, Lakefield, Zion (Warsaw circuit), Warsaw, Young's Point, North Smith, Douro.

The financial report was received and adopted. The report showed a balance on hand. It was resolved to recommend that each society with over twenty active members pay two dollars per annum. This is to defray the expense of sending delegates to Cleveland and also incidental expenses connected with this branch of the work. The president and secretary were appointed the executive of the executive to conduct any business that might come before them. The meeting then adjourned, subject to the call of the president.

CHARLOTTE STREET.

At the Charlotte street E. L. of C. E. Mr. Ward, secretary of the county union, took up the topic and gave a very valuable and practical lesson, dwelling principally on the will power and also on temperance, temper and other kindred subjects. There was over one hundred present and all were very much impressed by the words of Mr. Ward. The League cottage prayer meeting on Friday evening will be held at the residence of Mr. A. Brown, 31 Westcott street. Miss Gourd resigned the office of president of this society and Mr. D. D. C. Dawe has been elected to take her place.

GILMOUR MEMORIAL BAPTIST.

The election of officers in above society resulted as follows:

President.—Miss M. E. McEwen.

1st and 2nd Vice-Presidents—Misses. E. Darling and R. McGregor.

Corresponding Secretary.—Mr. A. McGregor.

Recording Secretary—Mr. H. C. Brown.

Treasurer—Mr. F. Scott.

Organist and Assistant—Messrs. R. McGregor and J. Paul.

Collectors—J. Jopling and W. Taylor.

The following are convenors of the various committees: Prayer meeting, Miss L. Mann; Lookout, Miss M. E. McGregor; Missionary, Miss R. McGregor; Flower, Miss Jennie Paul; Social, Mr. Jas. Young; Sunday School, Mr. Fred Scott; Temperance, Mr. Geo Scott; Visiting, Miss Ella Mann; Music, Miss R. McGregor.

After the election a short consecration service of officers and committees was held, each officer and member of committee rising as the name was called, responding usually by a Scripture text applicable to the work of the office or committee. A short talk on the importance of the work "committed" to them and the need of consecrated committee work made a much more impressive service than simply reading over the names of officers chosen.—M. E. McE.

Miss M. E. McEwen sends the following practical suggestions:—"Did you ever have a prayer service in your C.E.? If not try one. Such a topic as we had on April 1st is a good one, viz: "Why and How to Pray." Let the leader give a short talk upon the topic, let a few others speak for a few minutes on "Answered Prayer," "Praying and Soul Winning," and such points, but most of all let there be prayers, earnest prayers for your many needs. Let there be sentence prayers, prayers from those whose voices are seldom heard in prayer; be sure to ask them to offer, perhaps, their first public prayer to-night, it will be a good time for them to begin; let there be hymns of prayer, let all read together a prayer Psalm. Try it, pray for it and see if you do not have one of the most spiritual meetings you have had for some time.

AFTER TYPHOID FEVER.

Harvey Neff Has Kidney Disease, Which Doctors Could Not Cure Dodd's Kidney Pills Restored Him to Perfect Health.

PORT COLBORNE, April 9—In March, 1893, Harvey H. Neff, of this place, had a bad attack of typhoid fever. Good nursing and medical attendance brought him around, but the attack left him a victim of kidney disease. This the doctors failed to cure, but Dodd's Kidney Pills, the infallible remedy, did the same good work in his case as in all others and Mr. Neff is well to-day. Dodd's was the first kidney remedy in pill form ever offered the public. Its wonderful success in curing all forms of kidney disease has led to the introduction of numerous cheap and worthless imitations. Purchasers, for their own safety, should insist on getting Dodd's Kidney Pills. Sold in large boxes: price, fifty cents or six boxes for $2.50. To be had of all dealers

Germany and Samoa.

BERLIN, April 18.—The report telegraphed from Washington that Germany had made overtures looking to the establishment of a German protectorate over the Samoan Islands is emphatically denied by the authorities of the Foreign Office here, who also deny the statement that Germany has decided to claim a protectorate over both those islands. Both reports are declared to be without foundation.

Hungarian Civil Marriage Bill.

BUDA PESTH, April 18.—The Lower House of the Hungarian Diet voted to accept the civil marriage bill without further discussion. Great enthusiasm prevailed when the decision was announced. This assures the passage of the measure practically as it was introduced.

Will Form a Woman's Auxiliary.

SEATTLE, Wash., April 18.—A new feature has been added to the Northwest Industrial Army by the organization of a woman's auxiliary composed principally of the wives of the members. Both the male and female contingent will move on to Washington in a few days.

THE RULING MARKETS.

TORONTO, April 18, 1894.

Local stock market is firm and quiet.

A cable from Liverpool reports cattle about one cent lower on liberal supplies. The finest steers are quoted there at 10 to 10½c, and good to choice at 9½ to 10c.

In Chicago the trade in wheat was of a local character. The opening was easy, followed by firmness. The close was easy at a shade below yesterday's prices. Corn was firm, closing ½ to 3-8c higher than yesterday. Oats gained ½c.

Grand Trunk Railway Company return of traffic for the week ending April 14, 1894: Passenger train earnings for 1894, $109,488; 1893, $124,219. Freight earnings, 1894, $232,528; 1893, $260,169. Total, 1894, $342,016; 1893, $384,388; decrease, 1894, $42,372.

The general market of New York reflected during the day little except the prevalent indifference. At the start an effort was made to break down prices generally. This movement was not successful, and was followed by increased dullness and then by a timid demonstration of recovery.

Nothing much more illustrative of the marketst momentary character could be imagined than the intense anxiety with which the Wall street gossips have been following the movements of a petty Chicago politician. One might suppose from this that the Federal Supreme Court was about to pronounce a decision of pre-eminent financial meaning.

THE FARMERS' MARKET.—The only grain received were three loads of oats, which sold at 41c per bushel. Eggs firm, with fresh ruling at 11c in case lots. Butter—Demand good for fresh. Rolls sell at 20 to 23c and creamery at 20 to 25c, the latter for new. Hogs steady at $5.90 to $6.25 for small lots. Hay steady, 20 loads selling at $9 to $11 for timothy and at $7 to $8.50 for clover.

Hood's Sarsaparilla, is absolutely unequalled as a blood purifier and strengthening medicine. It is the ideal spring medicine. Try it.

Skin Diseases

are more or less directly occasioned by bad blood. B. B. B. cures the following Skin Diseases: Shingles, Erysipelas, Itching Rashes, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Eruptions, Pimples, Blotches, by removing all impurities from the blood, from a common Pimple to the worst Scrofulous Sore.

Dr. Andrew Grant & Co., Toronto.

Dear Sirs,—My hair had been falling out for nearly a year, and was getting very thin and dry. I procured one bottle of your celebrated "Hairene," which has thoroughly restored my hair, and removed all dandruff. And I can cheerfully recommend so valuable a preparation.

Yours truly, GEORGE T. MAYNARD.

Unsightly pimples, blotches, tan, and all itching humours of the skin are removed by using Dr. Low's Sulphur Soap.

Fashions for Men.

IN COATS.

There is more length to the new Coats for 1894 than has been used in Men's Dress since the 60's.

THE DOUBLE BREASTED FROCK is the most fastiduous garment man has put on in a generation. It adds to the stature of the man and conceals defects of figure. It is short waisted, snug fitting, long tailed and beautifully moulded to the figure. The Skirts are hollow at the top and form a beautiful curve, which is the most distinctive thing about the new styles.

Then there is the THREE BUTTON CUTAWAY Coat which is a high favourite. It is popularly described as the "Pigeon Wing" on account of its sloping tails. The sleeves are of moderate size and are closed with a vent for three buttons. If properly made it will cling rather closely to the hips.

The new CUTAWAY SACK COAT for business wear is one of the most popular of the season. It has caught the fancy of the young men. All the pockets should have flaps. The collar rolls low and is not faced with Silk.

Any of these garments made up to order to please the most fastidious dresser and with faultles devotion to the fashion plates

A Government BOMBSHELL

THROWN INTO THE

LIFE INSURANCE CAMP!

The following statement comes from the government Blue Book. It covers a period of sixteen years, and is sworn to as correct by representatives of each Company:

Statement of Premiums received and Cash Profits paid back to Policy Holders from 1877 to 1892, both years inclusive:—

COMPANY.	Premiums Received.	Dividends Paid to Policy Holders.	Ratio of Dividends to Premiums, %
CANADA LIFE	$16,266,307	$2,946,433	18.18
Confederation Life	6,165,432	637,925	10 35
North American	2,327,082	32,857	1.41
Ontario Mutual	3,878,086	433,294	11.17
Sun Life	5,527,720	355,220	6.43

Never in the history of Life Insurance has the struggle for business been keener. Never has the conflict been hotter. Never have the Companies felt as they feel now, the necessity for throwing all the energy at their command into the field. The most intelligent and best men have to be employed. All kinds of plans of insurance are submitted. Each Company determined in securing the supremacy in the good will of the public, in establishing their name, the utterance of which, shall convey to the minds of the people the essential characteristics of

UNDOUBTED SECURITY,
RIGID ECONOMY,
GOOD INVESTMENTS,
LARGEST PROFITS

WHY?

Because millons of dollars are being paid annually for Life Insurance, and the Companies that can show these features have attained a position which will guarantee their future success, for money will flow freely into the best investments.

The Canada Life Policy Holders can look at the above statement with a smile of satisfaction, yet sympathise with their friends who are not so favourably situated.

They can throw their Life Policies down in the face of opponents and successfully challenge the production of more profitable policies, they can stand the onslaught of Agents who will almost cover them with literature and estimates of Tontine, Semi-Tontine, Return Premiums, Reserved Dividends, Annuity and Endowment plans of insurance, and with a quiet assurance feel that

As The Canada Life is Making the Most Profits, She Can Pay the Largest Profits.

READER. If you want Life Insurance choose the Canada Life and join the throng of contented policy holders who are insured with the Company carrying about 45 per cent. of the total insurance in force of the above named Companies

Poison in Tea.

In England tea has been discovered contaminated with lead, undoubtedly from being wrapped in packages containing lead. This is a matter which is being enquired into, inasmuch as lead is a dangerous poison and its presence in so many packages of tea may well cause grave public alarm. Mason & Co., grocers, have no confidence in package teas, as their English blends surpass all teas placed on the market.

At the Opera House Last Night

True Irish Hearts drew a good house last night and those present enjoyed the many laughable characters presented to the fullest extent. The play is fairly well known and it was placed on the boards last night by a company, the members of which were far above the average. The singing of "Lanty" and his dancing, together with that of sweet Kitty Brady, was exceptionally good and merited the hearty applause which it secured from the audience.

Chopped Down! Chopped Down!

Messrs. Jos. Armstrong & Co. give the above forcible expression to the general reductions they have made in dry goods all over their store for the next eight days. No other word could better convey the idea they wish to express than "chopped down." They are in earnest. See their ad. in another column, and get a copy of their attractive "chopped down" price list. Saturday night after seven o'clock they will give away 75 ladies' waterproofs, worth $3, for $1.50.

Plan of hall for Douglas Bird concert on Thursday, April 19th, now open at Sailsbury's Book store. All who have not secured seats for the best concert of the season should do so without delay. A few good seats still available. General admission, 50 cents; reserved seats, 75 cents

A Pleasant Evening.

The members of the Park street mission Bible class, with the teachers and officers of the Sunday school, spent a very pleasant evening at the residence of Mr. John Brown, Lake street, who is about to leave town. After singing a number of J. M. Whyte's popular hymns, a couple of hours were spent in some of the general social evening, when Miss Brown provided the company with refreshments. After partaking of them, some singing was enjoyed and that favourite hymn, "God be with you till we meet again," brought the evening to a close, each expressing themselves as having had a good time.

THE DEMONSTRATION ON THE QUEEN'S BIRTHDAY.

Special Meeting of the Council To-night —A Guarantee of $500 Will be Asked —An Influential Deputation.

A large deputation of citizens, including the committee appointed at the general meeting Monday evening, will wait on the town council this evening to endeavour to induce that body to place the town on the guarantee list for the sum of $500. The list now includes the names of such merchants, which taken collectively, pay at least three-fourths of the taxes of the town, and they think that a deputation of such strength should have sufficient weight and influence to carry its point in the council chamber.

The total amount guaranteed is now away up in four figures, and, with the proviso that the council makes the grant, it looks as though the demonstration will be the most successful yet held in Peterborough. The citizens are all so enthusiastic over the idea of celebrating the Queen's Birthday in town that, providing the weather is fine, great hopes are entertained the demonstration will be such an unbounded success that all visitors will be only too anxious to have opportunities of again coming to the town.

EVANGELISTIC SERVICES.

Murray Street Baptist Church.

The services in this church last night were conducted by the Rev. G. M. Leahy. In eloquent language he preached an able sermon from the last verse of the second Psalm, urging those present to become reconciled to God in God's way. In his address he showed the fate of those that the wrath of God was kindled against. He closed his sermon by telling them of the blessing attending all who put their trust in God. His singing of "Eternity Where" was a pleasant reminder of Mr. Whyte's singing.

The after meeting was composed of testimonies, a great many standing and expressing the fullness of their hearts and joy in being able to speak of the Lord Jesus Christ's love for them.

There will be a service to-night at 7.45, when Rev. G. M. Leahy will again conduct it. The invitation is extended to all to come and take part in it.

"Gentlemen: When I was 14 years of age I was confined to my bed for several months by an attack of rheumatism, and when I had partially recovered I did not have the use of my legs, so that I had to go on crutches. About a year later, Scrofula, in the form of appeared on various parts of my body, and for eleven years I was an invalid, being confined to my bed six years. In that time ten or eleven of these sores appeared and broke, causing me great pain and suffering. Several times pieces of bone worked out of the sores. Physicians did not help me and

So a bottle was bought, and to my great gratification the sores soon decreased, and I began to feel better. This strengthened my faith in the medicine, and in a short time I was

WEST RIDING NOMINATION.

J. R. STRATTON RECEIVES UNANIMOUS RE-NOMINATION.

Large Attendance of Representative Citizens—Every Part of the Riding Represented—Election of Officers—Addresses by the Nominee and Others—Hon. R. Harcourt's Brilliant Deliverance.

Considering the exceedingly busy season with farmers—seeding operations being at their height—there was a very large attendance of representative electors of the riding—friends and supporters of the Mowat Government—assembled in the opera house on Wednesday afternoon. Prominent electors were noticed present from every township of the riding, including the most distant. The main object of the meeting was the nomination of a candidate to contest the West Riding at the coming general election. The character of the attendance and the enthusiasm that marked the proceedings indicate that the friends and supporters of the Mowat Government in this riding will enter upon the contest full of confidence and fight, determined to retain West Peterborough in the ranks of supporters of the Mowat Administration.

Mr. Michael Sanderson, the veteran ex-reeve of Smith, took the chair and for the country was elected as follows:—

GALWAY—Messrs. M. Mansfield, Chas. Cohen, M. Allen, —. Lambert, D. Curtin, Chris. Greaney, Wm. McConnell and J. Coulter.

ENNISMORE—C. O'Connor, Jer. Mc Carthy, J. N. Telford, M. Perdue, M. Leonard, —. O'Reilly.

SOUTH MONAGHAN—W.R. Morrison, Dr. Gray, John Porter, L. Byers, John Riddell, W. Rutherford, A. Dawson, H. Perrin, W. McAllister and J. Buckham.

LAKEFIELD.—W. M. Graham, S. Wallace, John Hull, John Clarin, J. C. Sherin, R. H. Braden.

SMITH.—W. McIlmoyl, M. E. Sanderson, Geo. E. Elliott, Alex. Edmison, P. A. Kearney, Wm. McIlmoyl, R. Waram, Jas. Davidson, D. Roseborough, C. Young, W. McFarlane, W. J. Northey, W. Simpson.

The town members of the committee will be elected later.

The chairman explained that the object of the meeting was to select a candidate to contest the riding in the interest of the Mowat Government, which had a record which was not surpassed by any country in the world. (Cheers.)

On nominations being called for,

Mr. Stratton begged the indulgence of the convention for a moment. He wished to convey the idea that it was not to be thought that because he had been the representative of the riding for the past eight years, he felt he had any special claim to the nomination. As a member of the Liberal party he held that it was the duty of the friends of the Government in this riding to select the strongest candidate—the candidate who would poll the most votes—irrespective of any other considerations, having in view, of course, his fitness for the position of representative. This was, he felt, a somewhat delicate subject to refer to. He did not wish any claims he might be supposed to possess to prejudice the choice of the convention in any way, and he would not wish to leave the inference that he was unwilling to give whatever services he was able to give to the riding and to to strengthen the hands of the present government in the task which they had so well discharged in the past, of administering wisely and well the affairs of the first province of the Dominion. Under the circumstances he did not feel that such explanations were unbecoming and he reiterated what he had said a moment before as to the manifest duty of the convention to select whatever candidate would be able to elicit the strongest and most united support of the friends of good government in West Peterborough. He would not occupy their attention any further, but had thought it only proper that, as the previous representative of the riding and the publisher of the Liberal newspaper, which had always supported the Government, it would not seem out of place to make the few remarks he had made.

THE NOMINATION MADE.

Mr. Peter Hamilton on rising to nominate a candidate remarked that the meeting was convened to nominate a candidate to contest the riding in the interest of the principles they thought were necessary to secure good government. He contrasted the Dominion and Ontario franchise systems greatly to the disadvantage of the latter The Mowat Government had enacted many wise laws in the interest of all classes of the community. He referred to the excellent represention of the riding for the past eight years. He knew of no representative who had come down to such downright hard work in the interest of all classes of the riding as Mr. Stratton.

A voice—He's the poor man's friend. (Cheers).

The roads of the northern country and the Farmers' Institutes bore evidence of the industry of their present representative, who had done very much to promote the interest of the most important class of the community—the farmers. Feeling that we could get no more suitable candidate, Mr. Hamilton, amid loud applause, nominated J. R. Stratton as the candidate in the interest of the Mowat Government.

Mr. James Middleton said he did not know whether he had been selected as president of the Association because he was a farmer or a Patron of Industry and remarked that if we had as representatives such men as Mr. Stratton we should have little need for the Patrons of Industry which was an excellent organization and was forced into existence by the necessity of the rights which they were deprived, but which Mr. Stratton had always sought to promote. He had great pleasure in seconding the nomination.

The nomination was unanimously and enthusiastically endorsed by a standing vote.

Mr. Stratton on coming forward was received with most enthusiastic cheers, and said:—

Mr. Chairman and gentlemen, I should be singularly devoid of even a common sense of gratitude if I were not most deeply moved by the evidence of the confidence of my fellow-citizens implied in so unanimous, and, I may say without boasting, enthusiastic, nomination for the third time as a candidate to contest the honour of representing the grand old constituency of West Peterborough. It is an honour which I assure you I value most highly; and I can say truthfully that it is the proudest moment of my life, when I enjoy the assurance that I possess the confidence of not only the veterans of the Liberal party, whose heads have grown gray in the service, but also of the young stalwarts who have stepped forward to their assistance and are willing with the advice of the older heads to to battle for the cause of good government. I was naturally proud and honoured when in 1886, an untried and inexperienced man, I received the nomination and was placed at the head of the poll by a majority of some thirty; and I was naturally more justifiably proud when, as a consequence of a second nomination, my past course had so commended itself to the electorate that my majority was some dozen or fifteen times larger. But I consider it the crowning honour of my little political career that, after having served my native county for eight years, I should receive so gratifying a proof of the confidence of the friends to whom I owe so much, and whom I value so highly, to the flattering degree of the third consecutive nomination for the position of your representative. But, gentlemen, this is not a campaign of compliments,

BUT A FIGHTING CAMPAIGN, and here, I may say, that, so far as my personal endeavours are concerned, there shall not a stone be left unturned to justify, so far as my personal efforts are concerned, the wisdom of the choice made in the selecting of a candidate to-day. (cheers). I shall leave no legitimate means unemployed to place your candidate in the front on the day of polling—come that day sooner or later. I feel more confident of the happy issue of this campaign when I see before me the men, who in two triumphant campaigns stood shoulder to shoulder in fighting the battle of good government, and to whose loyal support of the principles that underlie good government more than to any personal merit, I can credit past successes. Then again, the old proverb says, "Thrice is he armed whose cause is just," and I feel that the cause of

is a just one in the fullest sense of that term—a government which for twenty-two years has administered the affairs of this province with a wisdom, prudence, economy and carefulness that I may safely say has never been equalled in the history of representative government—a Government which has under the same honoured head received on six consecutive occasions the signal confidence of the people of the most enlightened, critical and progressive province of the Dominion. (cheers). With the prestige of past success in the riding, with an invincibly just cause, with the united, cordial and loyal support of the friends of honest administration. I see no reason why we should not confidently look forward to a triumphant issue of the present campaign. True, this sanguine outlook may be somewhat modified when it is remembered that a gentleman who now since my nomination, I may regard as since last September. As you are aware Mr. H. C. Winch is the opponent of the Government in this contest. Of this gentleman I have not a word to say in disparagement. Personally he and I have always been on the most friendly terms, and I hope this condition of things will continue throughout the campaign. Mr. Winch has been a member of the Town Council, and the people, of the town especially, have a standard to judge of his ability as a representative. But the real question to decide is, so far as I am concerned, have I performed my duties faithfully in the past; has my discharge of the duties, with which the electors have twice honoured me, been of such a character as to justify my re-election? My answer to such a question—yours will be given on the day of polling—is that, so far as my knowledge of the duties of a representative have gone, so far as the utmost exercise of my abilities have availed to give effect to that knowledge, I have endeavoured perform the duties of your representative. If I have in any sense failed, it has been more from error in judgment than in intention. I have tried at all times and under all circumstances to cheerfully and promptly answer any call that may have been made upon me as a representative of this riding; I have, I think I may justly claim, neglected no interest of any section of the constituency—town or country, and I have endeavoured to recognize the claim of every elector upon my services, whether he were a political friend or political opponent. I have endeavoured to deal justly by all, and in so far as I have been successful I think I can fairly claim the hearty support of the electors of West Peterborough. I do not need to make any extravagant promises; my course in the past has been as I shall make it in the future. I have done my best and no man can promise to do more than his best in the future. It is only necessary for me to again give my cordial thanks for the honour of the nomination and to accept it in the hearty spirit in which it is offered and to pledge myself to do whatever I can to give your nomination effect. But I must ask my friends to bear in mind that the nomination of a candidate is not electing him. No man can carry on a campaign without assistance, and judging from the past, I feel that I can count on all friends of honest and efficient administration to rally heartily to the support of the candidate of the Mowat Administration and to stand shoulder to shoulder till the last day of the contest shall witness our banner waving far in the front. (Loud and long continued Applause).

MY OPPONENT, HAS BEEN IN THE FIELD

TO HONOURABLY AND FAITHFULLY

TO REPRESENT WEST PETERBOROUGH FAITHFULLY,

RESOLUTION OF CONFIDENCE.

Dr. Bell prefaced the reading of the following resolution by a cordial tribute to the great value on the services which Mr. Stratton had rendered every section and interest of the West Riding and also passed a warm eulogy of the brilliant and pure record of the Mowat Administration. He then moved this resolution:

Moved by Dr. R. W. Bell, seconded by Mr. John Delaney, and resolved. That this convention of the supporters of the Mowat Administration desires hereby to place upon record its emphatic appreciation of the blessings of wise and careful government this Province has enjoyed at the hands of that Administration for the past twenty years—a circumstance to which its foremost position and progressive character are very largely due; and to affirm,

That while a wise liberality has characterized the expenditure upon the public service, so that little has been left undone that should be done, this expenditure has been made with such a strict regard to economy, that a handsome surplus of several million dollars of assets over liabilities stands to the credit of the Province: that in connection with the vast aggregate disbursement of the past fifth of a century the Opposition have been unable to fix a single charge of corrupt expenditure; that wise legislation for the welfare of every class, calling and interest has been enacted; that every legislative and administrative want of a great and growing Province has been promptly and fully met—as the circumstances warranted; that progressiveness and prudence, liberality and economy have gone hand in hand with honest methods; that such a government with such a record—unparalleled in length of continuous existence, ability and purity of administration in the history of responsible government is worthy of the continued support of every patriotic citizen of the province, who makes the best interests of his country the first consideration, and that this convention hereby heartily expresses its entire confidence in the Mowat Administration, whose retention in power is the best guarantee for continued wise and successful administration of provincial affairs.

Mr. John Delaney seconded the resolution which was very heartily carried.

[As our report closes at the time of going to press, Hon. R. Harcourt, Provincial Treasurer, is addressing the meeting. The remainder of the report will appear in next issue.]

More than all, the liver—and that's the key to the whole system. You have pure blood or poisonous blood, just as your liver chooses. The blood controls the health, the liver controls the blood, the "Discovery" controls the liver.

You can escape just about half the ills that flesh is heir to, by being ready for them. Brace the system up with this medicine, which prevents as well as cures. For all diseases caused by a disordered liver or impure blood—dyspepsia, biliousness, the most stubborn skin, scalp and scrofulous affections, the "Discovery" is the only remedy so certain and effective that it can be guaranteed. If it doesn't benefit or cure, you have your money back.

"LOOKING BACKWARD."

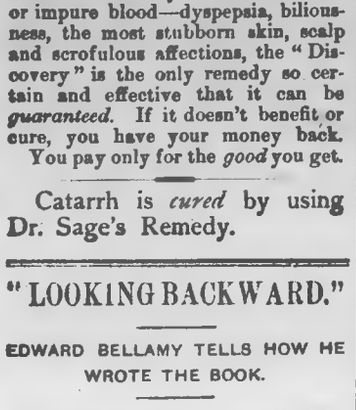
EDWARD BELLAMY TELLS HOW HE WROTE THE BOOK.

Travel in Europe First Gave His Mind the Hint that its Rent Required—An Echo of the Past—The Work Itself an Evolution.

Up to the age of eighteen I had lived almost continuously in a thriving village in New England, where there were no very rich and few very poor, and everybody who wanted to work was sure of a fair living. At that time I visited Europe and spent a year there in travel and study. It was in the great cities of England, Europe, and the hovels of the peasantry that my eyes were first fully opened to the extent and consequences of man's inhumanity to man.

So it was that I returned home, for the first time aroused to the existence and urgency of the social problem, but without as yet seeing any way out. Although it had required the sights of Europe to startle me to a vivid realization of the inferno of poverty beneath our civilization, my eyes having once been opened I had now no difficulty in recognizing in America, and even in my own comparatively prosperous village, the same conditions in course of progressive development.

The other day rummaging among old papers I was much interested by the discovery of some writings indicative of my state of mind at that period. If the reader will glance over the following extracts from the manuscript of an address which it appears I delivered before the Chicopee Falls



EDWARD BELLAMY.

Village Lyceum along in 1871 or 1872, he will probably admit that their youthful author was quite likely to attempt something in the line of "Looking Backward" if he only lived long enough. The subject of this address was "The Barbarism of Society," the barbarism being held to consist and result from inequality in the distribution of wealth. The concluding paragraphs were:

"Ah, no; has the world then dreamed in vain? Have the ardent longings of the lovers of men been toward an unattainable felicity? Are the aspirations after liberty, equality and happiness implanted in the very core of our hearts for nothing?

"Not so, for nothing that is unjust can be eternal, and nothing that is just can be impossible."

Since I came across this echo of my youth and recalled the half-forgotten exercises of mind it testifies to, I have been wondering, not why I wrote "Looking Backward," but why I did not write it, or try to, twenty years ago.

Like most men, however, I was under the sordid and selfish necessity of solving the economic problem in its personal bearings before I could give much time to the case of society in general. I had, like others, to fight my way to a place at the world's work bench where I could make a living. For a dozen or fifteen years I followed journalism, doing in a desultory way, as opportunity offered, a good deal of magazine and book writing. In none of the writings of this period did I touch on the social question, but not the less all the while it was in mind, as a problem not by any means given up, how poverty might be abolished and the economic equality of all citizens of the republic be made as much a matter of course as their political equality. I had always the purpose, some time when I had sufficient leisure, to give myself earnestly to the examination of this great problem, but meanwhile kept postponing it, giving my time and thoughts to easier tasks.

Possibly I never should have mustered up courage for an undertaking so difficult, and indeed so presumptuous, but for events which gave the problem of life a new and more solemn meaning to me. I refer to the birth of my children.

I confess I cannot understand the mental operations of good men or women who from the moment they are parents do not become intensely interested in the social question. That an unmarried man or even a man childless though married should concern himself little about the future of a race in which he may argue that he will have no personal stake, is conceivable, though such indifference is not morally edifying.

From the time their children are born it becomes the great problem with parents how to provide for and safeguard their future when they themselves shall no longer be on earth. To this end they painfully spare and save and plot and plan to secure for their offspring all the advantages that may give them a better chance than other men's children in the struggle for existence.

They do this, knowing sadly well the while, from observation and experience, how vain all such safeguards may prove, how impossible it is for even the wisest and wealthiest of fathers to make sure that the cherished child he leaves behind may not be glad to earn his bread as a servant to the children of his father's servants. Still the parent toils and saves, feeling that this is the best and all he can do for his offspring, little though it be. But is it? Surely a moment's thought will show that this is a wholly unscientific way of going about the work of providing for the future of one's children.

This is the problem of all problems to which the individualistic method is most inapplicable, the problem before all others of which the only adequate solution must necessarily be a social solution. Your fear for your child is that he may fall into the ditch of poverty or be waylaid by robbers. So you give him a lantern and provide him with arms. That would be all very well if you could not do better, but would it not be an infinitely wiser and more efficient method to join hands with all the other equally anxious parents, and fill up the ditch and exterminate the robbers, so that safety might be a matter of course for all? However high, however wise, however rich you are, the only way you can surely safeguard your child from hunger, cold and wretchedness and all the deprivations, degradations and indignities which poverty implies, is by a plan that will equally safeguard all men's children.

According to my best recollection it was in the fall or winter of 1886 that I sat down to my desk with the definite purpose of trying to reason out a method of economic organization by which the republic might guarantee the livelihood and material welfare of its citizens on a basis of equality corresponding to and supplementing their political equality. There was no doubt in my mind that the proposed study should be in the form of a story. This was not merely because that was a treatment which would command greater popular attention than others. In adventuring in any new and difficult field of speculation I believe that the student often cannot do better than to use the literary form of fiction. Nothing outside of the exact sciences has to be so logical as the thread of a story, if it is to be acceptable. You may make a sermon or an essay or a philosophical treatise as illogical as you please, and no one knows the difference, but all the world is a good critic of a story, for it has to conform to the laws of ordinary probability and commonly observed sequence.

The stories that I had written before "Looking Backward" were largely of one sort, namely, the working out of problems, that is to say, attempts to trace the logical consequences of certain assumed conditions. It was natural, therefore, that in this form the plan of "Looking Backward" should present itself to my mind. Given the United States, a republic based upon the equality of all men and conducted by their equal voice, what would the natural and logical way be by which to go about the work of guaranteeing an economic equality to its citizens corresponding with their political equality, but without the present unjust discrimination on account of sex? From the moment the problem first clearly presented itself to my mind in this way, the writing of the book was the simplest thing in the world.

"Looking Backward" has been frequently called a "fanciful" production. Of course, the notion of a man's being resuscitated after a century's sleep is fanciful, and so, of course, are the various other whimsies about life in the year 2000 necessarily inserted to give color to the picture. The argument of the book is, however, about as little fanciful as possible. It is, as I have said, an attempt to work out logically the results of regulating the national system of production and distribution by the democratic principle of the equal rights of all, determined by the equal voice of all.

Many excellent persons, not without sympathy with the idea of a somewhat more equal distribution of this world's wealth, have objected to the principle of absolute and invariable economic equality underlying the plan developed in "Looking Backward." Many have seemed to think that here was an arbitrary detail that might just as well have been modified by admitting economic inequalities in proportion to unequal values of industrial service.

Moreover, under any system proportioning wealth distribution to industrial performance, how could women be assured an indefeasible equality with men, and their yoke of economic dependence upon the other sex, with all its related and implied subserviences, be finally broken?

I have stopped by the way to say these few words about the plan of "Looking Backward" as the result of the rigid application of the democratic formula to the social problem, and concerning the feature of absolute economic equality as a necessary effect of that method, because it is in these points and their implications that Nationalism, as suggested by "Looking Backward," is, perhaps, most strongly differentiated from some other socialistic solutions.

As to the form of the story, my first notion was, while keeping the resuscitated man as a link between the two centuries, not to make him the narrator, or to write chiefly from his point of view, but rather from that of the twentieth century. This would have admitted of some very interesting effects and about half the story was at first written on that line. But as I became convinced of the practical availability of the social solution I was studying, it became my aim to sacrifice all other effects to the method which would enable me to explain its features most fully, which was manifestly that of presenting everything from the point of view of the representative of the nineteenth century.

I have been frequently asked if I anticipated any considerable effect from the publication of "Looking Backward," and whether I was not very much surprised at the sensation it produced. I cannot say that I was surprised.

When I first undertook to work out the results of a democratic organization of production and distribution based on the recognition of an equal duty of individual service by all citizens and an equal share by all in the result, according to the analogies of military service and taxation and all other relations between the State and the citizen, I believed, indeed, it might be possible on this line to make some valuable suggestions upon the social problem, but it was only as I proceeded with the inquiry that I became fully convinced of the entire adequacy of the principle as a social solution, and, moreover, that the achievement of this solution was to be the next great step in human evolution.

Knowing that "as face answereth to face in water, so the heart of man to man," I could not doubt that the hope that moved me must needs, in like manner, move all who should come even in part to share it.

As well as I can remember "Looking Backward" began in earnest to be written in the fall or winter of 1886, and was substantially finished in the following six or eight months, although rewriting and revisiting took up the following spring and summer. It went to the publishers in August or September, 1887, and although promptly accepted did not appear till January, 1888. Although it made a stir among the critics, up to the close of 1888 the sales had not exceeded ten thousand, after which they leaped into the hundred thousands.

THE NEFF CASE.

The Hamilton Doctors are Puzzled About this Remarkable Cure—They Could not Cure this Case of Kidney Disease, but Dodd's Kidney Pills have Done so.

Hamilton, April 16.—The doctors of this city are showing great interest in a remarkable cure reported from Port Colborne. Harvey H. Neff, of the latter town, had an aggravated form of kidney disease, consequent on an attack of typhoid fever. Physicians could not cure the kidney disorder, but Mr. Neff has regained his health after taking five boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's was the first kidney remedy in pill form ever offered the public. Its wonderful success in curing all forms of kidney disease has led to the introduction of numerous cheap and worthless imitations. Purchasers, for their own safety, should insist on getting Dodd's Kidney Pills. Sold in large boxes; price, fifty cents, or six boxes for $2.50. To be had of all dealers.

Having Suffered

over two years with constipation, and the doctors not having helped me, I concluded to try Burdock Blood Bitters, and before I used one bottle I was cured. I can also recommend it for sick headache.

Attention

In time to any irregularity of the Stomach, Liver, or Bowels may prevent serious consequences. Indigestion, costiveness, headache, nausea, biliousness, and vertigo indicate certain functional derangements, the best remedy for which is Ayer's Pills. Purely vegetable, sugar-coated, easy to take and quick to assimilate, this is the ideal family medicine—the most popular, safe, and useful aperient in pharmacy. MRS. M. A. BROCKWELL, Harris, Tenn., says:

"Ayer's Cathartic Pills cured me of sick headache and my husband of neuralgia. We think there is

No Better Medicine,

and have induced many to use it.

"Thirty-five years ago this Spring, I was run down by hard work and a succession of colds, which made me so feeble that it was an effort for me to walk. I consulted the doctors, but kept sinking lower until I had given up all hope of ever being better. Happening to be in a store, one day, where medicines were sold, the proprietor noticed my weak and sickly appearance, and, after a few questions as to my health, recommended me to try Ayer's Pills. I had little faith in these or any other medicine, but concluded, at last, to take his advice and try a box. Before I had used them all, I was very much better, and two boxes cured me. I am now 80 years old; but I believe that if it had not been for Ayer's Pills, I should have been in my grave long ago. I buy 6 boxes every year, which make 210 boxes up to this time, and I would no more be without them than without bread."—H. H. Ingraham, Rockland, Me.

DYSPEPSIA CURED BY B.B.B.

MR. GEO. READ.

Read the Proof.

DEAR SIRS.—I write you to say that for some time I had been suffering from acute indigestion or dyspepsia, and of course felt very great inconvenience from same in my general business. I thereupon decided to try Burdock Blood Bitters, and after taking two bottles I found I was quite another man, for B.B.B. entirely cured me. I have also used it for my wife and family and have found it the best thing they can take, and from past experience I have every pleasure in strongly recommending B.B.B. to all my friends.

I write you because I think that it should be generally known what B.B.B. can accomplish in cases of indigestion.

Yours faithfully,
GEORGE READ,

Suicided Because His Wife Was Dying.

NEW YORK, April 17.—Walter Venable, 39 years old, a salesman, who lived with his wife on Eighth avenue, crossed over to Williamsburg yesterday and committed suicide in the house of a relative by cutting his throat with a penknife. Venable is the son of Commodore Thomas P. Venable, now on the retired list of the navy. His domestic life was very happy, and it is said by his friends that he and his wife idolized each other. Recently, however, Mrs. Venable's health had been failing her, and a short time ago the husband was told by the doctor that the woman had not long to live. This seemed to affect him deeply, and since then his conduct has been very strange.

Railroad Strikes in the West.

CHICAGO, April 17.—It is stated that it is now settled that within the next week or ten days strikes will be declared on several northwestern roads running out of Chicago. Arrangements are about completed for the inauguration of a struggle with Pacific Coast lines, which is expected to result in the settlement for some time to come of the differences existing. The contest will involve all the existing brotherhoods, after the manner of a three-cornered fight, in which the older organization will seek to annihilate the American Railway Union.

Eight Hour Agitation in Vienna.

VIENNA, April 17.—The agitation for an eight hour day has been carried on so energetically by the labor leaders in anticipation of May day that several trades have been demoralized. Many master tradesmen and manufacturers are refusing to make contracts for early delivery of goods or performance of work. Yesterday 13,000 joiners and carpenters met and resolved to strike for an eight hour day and minimum wages of ten florins weekly. Some 16,000 metal workers threaten to strike for an eight hour day on May 1.

A Lynching in Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, O., April 17.—Seymour Newland, a negro, assaulted Mrs. Jane Knowles, a respectable white woman, 81 years old, and was hanged by a mob. Newland was an ex-convict and had once before been found guilty of a similar crime. Mrs. Knowles is not expected to live.

A Lone Highwayman's Haul.

STOCKTON, Cal., April 17.—A lone highwayman robbed the stage near Milton of the Wells Fargo treasure box containing $2,000.

Canadian Baseball League.

MONTREAL, April 16.—The Canadian Baseball League has been formed and Montreal will see good professional ball this summer. It is regretted that the American teams are not in the project, but as it is a three club league will put up all the ball that is expected of players in this part of the country, for the time being at least.

Longshoremen Strike.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., April 16.—All the longshoremen, including the lumber shovers and freight handlers, have gone on strike because of reduction in wages. The leading lake lines were to start their first vessels to-day. The longshoremen were on hand in large numbers, but as soon as they received the announcement that they would only get 20 cents an hour they decided to strike.

THE RULING MARKETS.

TORONTO, April 17, 1894.

Local security market is firm.

Bull points on sugar continue to circulate in Wall street.

THE FARMERS' MARKET.—No receipts of grain on the street yesterday and prices are nominal.

For the greater part of the session in the Chicago wheat market prices were dominated by bearish news, but at the close prices were hard, having gained 1¼c from the lowest point, the net appreciation over Saturday's close, however, being but ¼c.

The United States treasury statement reflects last week's withdrawals of gold for export The decrease in the gold balance from that reported Saturday was $5,131,126; and at least one-half of the withdrawals for export are shown by the statement to have been made by presentation of treasury notes of 1890.

English wheats have averaged 24s 6d a quarter. Business has been quiet and foreign wheats have been steady. California averaged 24s 9d a quarter, and Manitoba 25s 9d. Corn has been held in American cargoes at 18s a quarter. Barleys have been firm and oats a shade dearer. Barley and oats are 3d higher and beans and peas dull.

You Can't get to Much

Of a good thing. This is eminently the case with Polson's Nerviline, and great pain cure. It is an honest remedy, for it contains the most powerful, the purest, and most certain pain subduing remedies known to medical science. It is honest, for it does all it claims to do. It is honest because it is the best in the world. It only costs 25 cents to try it, and you can buy a bottle at any drug store. Nerviline cures toothache, neuralgia, pain in the back and side. All pains are promptly relieved by Polson's Nerviline.

The most agreeable, restorative tonic and mild stimulant is Milburn's Beef, Iron and Wine.

Dr. Andrew Grant & Co., Toronto.

Dear Sirs,—Your "Hairene," I believe to be a wonderful remedy. It certainly produced the most unexpected results in my case, my hair had been falling out very freely for some time, becoming anxious about the matter I thought I would experiment upon the properties of "Hairene," and one application actually "topped it at once. I applied it once or twice afterward, using in all about a quarter of one bottle, and have not required to use it since. It seems to have given renewed and healthy vigor to the scalp, and I can recommend it in all confidence.

PROTECTION AGAINST MOTHS.

Some Simple Methods of Warfare With These Insects.

The most destructive of the household pests is the moth, and the principal requisite for protection against it is promptness and care. The best way to protect garments from the ravages of this busy creature is to wrap them in newspapers, being very careful to leave not even the slightest crack by which a miller may find its way in. This should be done as early in the season as the garments can be spared, and they should be well beaten and brushed before wrapping, in order to dislodge any eggs that may have been already deposited on them. If they are put away late, it is safer to open them sometime during July. The worm will then be hatched, if any eggs had chanced to be left in the garments, and can be seen and killed before it does any damage. Ceder chests are of no more use in keeping out moths than any other tight box. Gum camphor is sometimes put among woolen garments, and tobacco is also used; but though these may have some effect in keeping the miller away, they are not always safeguards, and the surest way is the simplest, that of wrapping the garments so that nothing can gain an entrance. To keep them out of carpets, sprinkle the floor with turpentine or benzine before laying the carpet, and with a small, flat paint brush apply freely under the surbase and in all cracks. Benzine poured over furniture and carpets where moths are will kill them. Great care should be taken not to use the benzine near a flame of any kind and there should be no flame or fire in the room until the fumes have passed away.

The Stoke-holds of Ocean Racers.

Well, in these days of great mechanical improvement, stoke-holds are losing their terrors. They are getting to be quite comfortable. Great strides have been made in the last twenty years in increasing the speed of ships, and it isn't too much to say that some of it comes through better and stronger boilers. Twenty years ago the boilers of the fastest ships sustained only 70 pounds of steam-pressure to the square inch, but now they sustain with ease 165 pounds. This means more than double the steam than formerly, and much faster twisting of the screws. It also means more coal and more stoking, but not near so much in proportion to the gain in steam. This is because furnaces have also been improved, but the work of feeding their angry throats is hard enough; so hard, indeed, that steamship owners have found that it pays to look after the comfort of the stokers as well as others of the crew, and hence stoke-holds are beginning to be ventilated and to be more comfortable as working-places. The temperature of stoke-holds is still above 100° when brisk work is going on, but ventilators keep pouring fresh cool air into the place, and the stokers almost never suffer from exhaustion in new steamships.

The stoker works only eight hours a day, and this is divided into two "watches" of four hours each. That is, he works four hours, then has eight hours' rest, and then works four hours, and doesn't think his lot is such a bad one after all. To be sure, on merchantmen he has to be hounded all the time to do his work properly, and he expects it, for he has a chronic objection against working without being driven to it, and oftener than not doesn't think it worth while to wash his face in his eight hours' interval of rest. He probably wouldn't thank you for your sympathy if you tried to tell him that his life is hard.—Harper's Young People.

True Friendship.

Friendship originates in harmony of sentiments, accompanied by kindly feeling. It cannot spring up in a night, for the harmony cannot be proved to exist except after long intercourse. It grows unconsciously; there is no purpose in it. One does not set out to establish friendships and calculate in advance on the advantages to be derived therefrom, for, as Cicero remarks, "In friendship we find nothing false or insincere; everything is straight-forward and springs from the heart." No author has written on this subject with more appreciative insight than Cicero, and here are two more of his observations:

"Everyone loves himself not that he may exact from himself some reward of his affections, but that, for his own sake, every one is dear to himself. And unless this same principle be transferred to friendship, a true friend will never be found; for such an one is, as it were, a second self * * * It is an old principle of genuine and real friendship that friends should always have the same wishes, nor is there any surer bond of friendship than an agreement in and community of designs and wishes." To complete the picture of true friendship one may quote from George Ebers, that "friendship is indeed genuine when two friends without speaking a word to each other can, nevertheless, find happiness in being together;" and this from George Eliot: "It is hard to believe, long together, that anything is 'worth while' unless there is some eye to kindle in common with our own, some brief word uttered now and then to imply that what is infinitely precious to us is precious alike to another mind."

Many rise in the morning with a headache and no inclination for breakfast. This is due to torpidity of the liver and a deranged condition of the stomach. To restore healthy action to these organs, nothing is so efficacious as an occasional dose of Ayer's Pills.

DISCUSSING THE TARIFF

The Dominion House in Committee of Ways and Means.

THE GOVERNMENT INSINCERE.

Their Promises of Reciprocity at the Last Elections Were Forgotten in Subserviency to the Wishes of Monopolists — Several Changes Made.

OTTAWA, April 18.—The House of Commons went into committee of ways and means to consider the new tariff. Schedule "A," dealing with ales, beers, wines and liquors, was first taken up.

In reply to Sir Richard Cartwright, Hon. Mr. Foster said that judging from past years he estimated the annual loss of revenue consequent upon the reduction of 30 per cent. on French wines under the French treaty at $74,312.

Replying to Mr Laurier, Sir John Thompson said the provisions of the French treaty would be embodied in a bill which the House could discuss.

When the item of opium was reached during the consideration of the tariff,

Mr. McMullen moved that opium purchased for smoking should be placed upon the prohibited list. The tariff provided a duty of $5 per pound.

Hon. Mr. Foster said he wished opium on the prohibited list to show that Canadians did not counte nance opium smoking.

Mr. McMullen's motion was lost on division.

On the item "Live stock, 25 per cent. ad valorem,"

Hon. Mr. Foster moved an amendment that the tariff be 1½ cents per pound, also that meats be classed as follows:—"Meat, n.e.s., 2 cents per pound; meats, fresh, n.e.s., 3 cents per pound; canned meats and canned poultry and game, 25 per cent. ad valorem." This brought pork under the "meats, n.e.s., 2 cents per pound."

Dr. Gillmor raised an objection against putting a protection on pork in the interests of the farmer or anyone else.

Mr. Fairbairn said the Opposition were a happy family, truly. One man wanted to aid the farmer, and the other one didn't.

Mr. Foster's amendment carried.

On the item of mutton and lamb, fresh, which was changed from 3 cents per pound to 35 per cent. ad valorem, considerable discussion arose.

Hon. Mr. Foster explained that this change was a reduction in the protection, the object being to assist trade with Australia.

Mr. Mara explained that heretofore the people of British Columbia had had to buy mutton and lamb from across the border.

Mr. Martin held that the reduction of this duty would militate against the Manitoba and Northwest farmer.

The item was passed.

The item of lard now reads: "Lard, lard compounds and similar substance and cottolene 2 cents per pound."

Hon. Mr. Foster moved that condensed milk be 3 cents per pound. This was to prevent condensed milk of low quality being brought in from the United States.

This item was carried.

The tariff bill contained this clause: "Provided that green or ripe apples, beans, buckwheat, peas, potatoes, rye, rye flour, hay and vegetables, n.e.s., or any of them, shall be free of duty when imported into Canada from the country of production, if such country whence any of the above products are imported imposes no duty on like products imported thence from Canada."

In answer to Mr. Charlton, Sir John Thompson said the United States had not been notified of this change.

The House rose for recess.

After recess further discussion took place on the reciprocity clause.

Mr. Charlton said Canada had not acted in a bona fide manner with the United States.

Dr. Sproule thought that Mr. Charlton had been known as the member for the United States too long.

Mr. Charlton said fifty years' residence in Canada ought to have naturalized him, but he was not ashamed that he was born in the United States sixty-four years ago.

Sir Richard Cartwright blamed the Government for blocking the removal of trade restrictions between Canada and the States.

Dr. Gillmor said the United States Government had never made Canada a fair offer.

Messrs. Davin and McDonald spoke and the provision was carried.

The next item considered was barley, on which the Government proposed to leave the old duty of 15 cents a bushel.

Hon. Mr. Mills and Mr. Sproule spoke.

Mr. Davies said it was the fault of the Dominion Government that reciprocity did not now exist between Canada and the States.

Hon. Mr. Foster rose at 11 o'clock to answer Opposition speakers. He said that from 1854, when the United States was drawn into a treaty with Canada, she made every effort to abolish it, and in 1866, the first opportunity, it was abolished. In 1866, 1868, 1869, 1871, 1872 and 1874 Canada made futile advances. Mr. George Brown's negotiations fell flat. Mr. Alexander Mackenzie often told his followers that Canada had made all the advances that it was prudent for her to make. Mr. Foster went on to say that the present Government had always been anxious to enlarge the trade relations between Canada and the States, but the Government had also been anxious at the same time to see that no interests of Canada should be sacrificed.

The United States made the condition of reciprocity preferential treatment against Great Britain. This was a bar to further negotiations. The Opposition was annoyed because the Government was getting credit for legislation favorable to the farmer. The Opposition wanted free trade and at the same time they desired to give the United States a preferential treaty. The two ideas were incongruous. He (Mr. Foster) was sure of the support of the Dominion electorate.

Mr. Laurier asked why, if the Government believed reciprocity was impossible, they had gone to the country at the last election with a proposal for a broad measure of reciprocity. The Government had never been sincere in their reciprocity proposals? And why? Because their master, the monopolist, would not allow it.

The amendment was rejected and the provision as above carried.

The items of dutiable breadstuffs, buckwheat meal, cornmeal and oats, were carried, and the committee reported progress.

Mr. Baker presented the Public Accounts Committee's report and it was agreed to discuss it on Thursday.

Mr. Davies said Prince Edward Island had been without mails ten days and asked if any steps had been taken in the premises.

Sir A. P. Caron said a tug had been sent out.

The House adjourned.

In the Senate.

Hon K. F. Burns, the newly-appointed Senator, was introduced into the Senate yesterday by Hon. Messrs. Bowell and Angers and took his seat.

Hon. Mr. Bowell moved the second reading of the insolvency bill, which was read a second time and referred to a special committee.

DISCRIMINATING AMENDMENT

Introduced at Washington to Force England to Adopt Silver Coinage.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—In the Senate, Mr. Lodge (Massachusetts) gives notice of an amendment to the tariff bill which will have the effect, if passed, of placing discriminating duties against all manufactures and products of Great Britain and her colonies, until England shall enter into an agreement with the United States and other powers for the coinage and use of silver as money.

The amendment proposed restores the McKinley duty on Australian wool, thus debarring it from the free wool provision of the pending bill; doubles the duty on all manufacturers and products where any duty is imposed by our tariffs and where any articles on the free list comes from England or any of her colonies, a duty of 35 per cent. is to be levied.

When an international arrangement for the use of silver shall have been made to which England is a party, these discriminating duties are to be revoked.

A. E. VanGIESON,

Chief Inspector of New York Board of Fire Underwriters, writes: "I have taken your K. D. C. with satisfactory results; I can freely recommend it to any suffering from dyspepsia; I think I had it as bad as anyone could well have it, but I am now free of it. I gave your goods a fair trial, and shall always have a bottle on hand for use to correct indiscretions in diet."

POLICE COURT NEWS.

There was quite a heavy docket for the consideration of the police magistrate this morning. The first case taken up was that of Alex. Ralph, charged with riding a horse at a furious rate of speed through the streets. Ralph stated that the horse was frightened and beyond his control, but the evidence showed that he was making no effort to subdue it. He was fined two dollars and costs, which he paid fortwith.

The case of the small boys who were alleged by Samuel Hall to have thrown stones at his dwelling door, was then taken up. Joseph Guerin stated that James Kane threw the stones, and Kane was positive that it was Guerin who was the culprit. As there was both a brick and a stone thrown, Mr. Hall didn't see what more was needed and thought both youths should be "salted" for the offence. Each boy however, protested his innocance, and though the magistrate announced himself as determined to suppress this hoodlumism in the south end, yet he could not see his way clear to a conviction in this case, and dismissed the boys with a solemn warning not to appear before him again if they valued their liberty.

Samuel Sharp, a motorman, was the next to face the magistrate, which position he occupied for having neglected to stop his car on Charlotte street, at the corner of Bethune, so that the conductor could get off to see if the Grand Trunk track was clear and safe to cross. He thereby endangered the lives of seven passengers on the car and the Street Railway were desirous of pushing the matter as a test case, and a warning to other of their employees Sharp had the option of standing his trial before a jury at the June assizes or else being tried summarily by the magistrate. He elected to take his chances in the Police Court, and in his evidence explained that the brake on his car was defective and refused to work and although he had turned the power off at Aylmer street the car ran on under its own volition till it crossed the track. He rang the bell for the conductor to put on the brakes, in the rear, but the conductor didn't hear the bell. He could have stopped the car only by reversing, but did not think the necessity warranted such an extreme measure.

The conductor stated that although the brake in question was certainly defective, it would have been all right if Sharp had taken up the slack before he started as was always the custom on this car. The motorman was displeased at having to make an extra run and it was only after some coaxing that he consented to take the car over the line.

The magistrate was of the opinion that he man in his temper at having to make the extra run didn't care whether he stopped at the crossing of the railway track or not, but on account of the alleged defect in the brake, gave him the benefit of the doubt, and after some warning discharged him. He was sure that Sharp in taking the action which he did, could not have realized the responsibility that rested on his shoulders in taking a car full of passengers across the track.

Richard Andrews, charged by Mrs. McGill with creating a disturbance around her house in the south end, together with a number of other boys, was discharged.

GALWAY.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

A pleasing matrimonial event took place on the third day of April at the residence of Mr. Thos. O'Neil, of the township of Galway, when his third daughter, Miss Maggie, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. Adolphus McNeil, an employee of Mr. M. Boyd, of Bobcaygeon. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Father O'Connell, of Fenelon Falls, at the Roman Catholic church in Galway, in presence of a large gathering of friends and relatives. The bride, who was handsomely attired, was assisted by her sister, Miss Annie O'Neil. The bridegroom was ably supported by his brother, Mr. Geo. McNeil. After the nuptial knot was tied, the bridal party returned to the residence of the bride's father, where they partook of an elaborate wedding dinner. In the evening the friends gathered from far and near and indulged in a merry dance, the music being supplied by the McMahon brothers in an efficient manner. Mr. and Mrs. McNeil will take up residence in Bobcaygeon, where their numerous friends will wish them every success and prosperity as they journey through life together.

Last Saturday Mr. Edward Allen, of the township of Galway, who is about 80 years of age, and his son Robert, were driving to Kinmount with a pair of colts, and having with them on the waggon Mr. Thos. McNamara. When they reached within two miles of the village. The old gentleman feeling too warm, rose in the waggon to pull off his overcoat. The colts immediately took fright and ran at a great speed, throwing the two young men from the waggon. But Mr. Allan with advanced years was not so easily floored, but stayed right with them, and when they had run about a distance of one mile and had left a part of the waggon box on the road, Mr. Allan succeeded in getting a hold on the reins and had the horses pretty well conquered when he met a person coming the opposite direction who caught the team by the head and stopped them. Mr. Allen's son and Mr. McNamara were considerably hurt, but the old gentleman did not receive a scratch.

Indigestion is stubborn, but K. D. C. overcomes it.

L. Becker & Co.'s Failure.

HAMILTON, April 18.—There is likely to be considerable litigation over the failure of L. Becker & Co., private bankers, of Waterford. It is alleged that certain mortgages and deeds were made to Lewis H. Slaght and Mrs. Slaght which should have been made to Becker & Co., as the money belonged to that firm. Nesbitt & Gould, acting for Becker, issued a writ against Mr. and Mrs. Slaght. Slaght was a partner in the concern.

Halifax Cotton Factory Strike.

HALIFAX, April 18.—The strike at the cotton factory, because of a reduction in wages, is nearly over. About sixty strikers have gone back to work. It was reported to the police that some of the strikers were interfering with non-strikers and had thrown missiles at them. The chief immediately took steps to prevent reoccurrence of such actions.

Moulding Shop Burned.

AYR, Ont., April 18.—The moulding shop of the Hilborn plough works caught fire last evening, and despite the efforts of the firemen and citizens it was burned to the ground. There was no damage to surrounding buildings. Loss, $400; no insurance.

PUBLIC SCHOOL GRANTS

An Interesting Discussion on This Subject in the Legislature.

WHO THE PATRONS SUPPORT.

Mr. Meredith's Assertion That Sir Oliver Courted the Hostility of the New Organizations Meets a Prompt Denial—Separate School Ballot Bills.

TORONTO, April 19.—Dr. Meacham moved in the Legislature yesterday for a return showing what amount of the public shool grant—not including the poor schools grant—was apportioned to cities, towns and those incorporated villages containing high schools and collegiate institutes for the years 1893 and 1892 respectively, and the amount to the remaining municipalities of the province.

Dr. Meacham claimed there were defects in the present school system, that text books were too expensive, and that the standard of education was too low in the fifth form.

Hon. Mr. Ross replied that the decrease in the grants to rural schools was not the fault of the department. The last census would show that the rural population had decreased, as compared with the urban population, and, as the hon. gentleman knew, the grants were based upon the population. He maintained the schools were thoroughly efficient and improvements were being effected all the time.

Mr. Preston advanced reasons why the high schools were being maintained at the expense of the poor schools.

Dr. Ryerson went into the dealings between the Government and Mr. Nelson, publisher, of Edinburgh, a large stockholder in the Globe and the Gage Publishing Company. He contended that the province had been put to unnecessary expense in regard to granting patronage to the rival publishers. He claimed that the children were being educated without knowing the underlying principles of the British constitution. Several of the most brilliant events of British history were eliminated from the text books at the evident instigation of certain parties.

Hon. G. W. Ross said the department had not yet been served with a writ for the infringements of copyrights in the preparation of their text books, but he intimated that it might be found necessary to compound with the holders of these rights. He said that it was in response to the feeling that the high school entrance course was too heavy that British history had been removed from among the subjects of examination.

Mr. Meredith asked what right had the Minister of Education to arrogate to his department the right to give a monopoly of school books to any firm in the country? The Minister of Education withdrew the study of English history from the subjects of examination because he thought it was in the public interest that should be done. He receded from that position, however, on the ground that so much clamor was raised in the country that he was compelled to give in instead of maintaining his position, even at the sacrifice of being driven from office, for what he believed to be in the interest of the country, the hon. gentleman preferred to yield for the sake of keeping office. They had the leader of the Government declaring that he courted the hostility of a certain organization that had sprung up in the country. The Patrons of Industry, as well as the other organization, whose existence the Premier deplored and whose hostility he courted, were causing the Government much anxiety.

Sir Oliver Mowat denied indignantly that he had ever said he courted the hostility of anybody. The Patrons of Industry would not support Conservatives. They were supporting Reform candidates, and the number was increasing all the time. The Government's course had not provoked the birth of the Patron's organization. In thirteen or fourteen of their planks the Liberals agreed with the Patrons.

Mr. Meredith—You told that at North Bruce.

Sir Oliver Mowat—I tell it everywhere, because it's a fact. I hope there will not be much disturbance in the elections. There were indications that the appearance of hostility were weakening and passing away. The attack on the Minister of Education is made because of his strength, and because of the successful administration of his department.

Railway Bonuses.

Dr. Gillmour moved the second reading of a bill providing that municipalities might return to ratepayers money voted to railways, where the franchise granted had been cancelled.

The motion was agreed to.

High Court Local Sittings.

Sir Oliver Mowat moved the second reading of a bill to provide for local sittings of the High Court in London and Ottawa.

Mr. Meredith thought the bill was one in the right direction, and hoped that it would be still further extended so that it might apply to suits begun at either Ottawa or London. He was afraid that the bill would be of very little practical effect unless the number of judges were increased.

The House then went into Committee of Supply and after passing a number of items for the maintenance of public institutions, reported progress.

Separate School Ballots.

Mr. Meredith enquired what Government bills would be taken up to-day, and also asked when Mr. Conmee's bill regarding the ballot for Separate schools would be proceeded with.

Sir Oliver Mowat replied that he could give no information regarding Mr. Conmee's bill.

Mr. Meredith asked if the Attorney-General did not frame and hand the bill to the hon. gentleman.

Sir Oliver Mowat—I never saw it.

Meredith's Question Comes Back.

Hon. Mr. Hardy asked if Mr. Meredith would tell them whether he revised Mr. McCallum's bill.

Mr. Meredith—I have nothing to do with it. I never saw it. (Government "Oh, oh's.")

Sir Oliver Mowat said the Government would make what progress they could with Government measures, including the Registration of Voters' bill, up to 6 o'clock.

The House adjourned.

House Notes.

Hon. Mr. Gibson has introduced a bill respecting benefit societies, which was given a first reading.

Mr. Garrow has withdrawn his bill to amend the Ontario Elections Act. He stated that the lateness of the session would deprive the measure of the thorough discussion its importance demanded.

THE HOUSE OF COMMONS.

Col. Amyot Speaks Out of Order—A Liberal Caucus.

OTTAWA, April 19.—In the Commons Mr. Rider introduced his bill to facilitate the voting by employes at elections for members of the House of Commons by providing that every employe shall have two hours at noon for the purpose of casting his vote. The bill was read a first time.

Col. Amyot asked whether the Government was aware that on March 2, 1892, Mr. John Fisher, president of the Liberal Association and a member of the Manitoba Legislature, had in a speech delivered in the Legislature stated that the Liberals in Manitoba had been pledged not to interfere with the institutions of the French, their language or their school laws. Mr. Martin had been quoted as saying that it had never been the policy of Liberals to interfere with the language or institutions of the French Catholic population, and Mr. Martin had appealed to them to trust the Liberals. Col. Amyot also asked whether the Government had any official information regarding two solemn declarations by the Very Rev. Joachim Allard, O. M. I., of St. Boniface, and W. F. Allaway, in which Mr. Greenway was shown to have pledged himself to guarantee under his Government the maintenance and conditions then existing as to the Catholic separate schools, the official use of the French language and the French electoral divisions. Mr. Allaway was present at the interview between Mr. Greenway and Vicar General Allard, on behalf of the Rev. Archbishop Taché, when these pledges were given, and substantiated the declaration of the vicar-general.

Hon. Mr. Foster—Let the question stand. The First Minister is just now out of the House.

Hon. Mr. Mills—This question, Mr. Speaker, is out of order because it is based on disputable matter.

Mr. Speaker ruled the question out of order, and it was stricken from the order paper.

Sir Hector Langevin moved for copies of all papers relating to the northern and north-eastern boundaries of Quebec.

The motion carried.

Mr. McDougall, of Cape Breton, moved for copies of all correspondence between the Dominion Government and her Majesty's Government on the subject of the seizure by the Russian cruiser Zabiaka of the Canadian schooner Harry McGowan on the North Pacific ocean in June, 1893.

The motion carried.

Hon. Mr. Laurier moved for copies of all memorials and petitions of seal fishermen in British Columbia for compensation by the Imperial Government or the Canadian Government for losses arising out of the award of the Behring Sea Court of Arbitration.

Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper said in answer that no memorial had been received.

The motion was withdrawn.

Mr. McGregor moved for copies of all orders-in-council and departmental orders now in force in the province of Ontario concerning fisheries therein, and of all petitions received by the department with regard to the same.

The House rose for recess.

After recess the following private bills were read a second time:

Sir James Grant—To incorporate the Ottawa Electric Company.

Sir James Grant—Respecting the Chaudiere Electric Light and Power Company (limited), and to change the name thereof to the Ottawa Electric Company.

The House then proceeded to consider the motion of Mr. Tarte for all the papers and documents in regard to Manitoba and Northwest schools.

Mr. Davin entered into a criticism of Mr. Tarte's remarks on this motion.

The House adjourned.

Parliamentary Notes.

D. E. Thompson, Q.C., representing the Toronto Board of Trade, spent some time with Hon. Mackenzie Bowell, Minister of Trade and Commerce, going over the new insolvency law. He also saw Sir John Thompson on the same business.

Sir John Thompson has been presented with a petition signed by a large number of residents of East York asking for the release from the penitentiary of T. G. Williamson, ex-reeve of Markham, who was convicted in 1888 of forging the name of his brother to a mortgage. Williamson skipped to the States, was extradited, tried, convicted and sent to the penitentiary for seven years. The petition alleges that Williamson is in ill health, and that his wife and family are without means of support. Sir John promised to look into the case.

The first Liberal caucus of the session was held yesterday. All the members of the party at present in the city were in attendance. Mr. Scriver, M.P., occupied the chair. Mr. Laurier addressed his followers and was received with great enthusiasm. There was general unanimity as to the course the party should pursue in the important questions before the House. One of the subjects discussed was the refusal of the Government to permit witnesses being examined on oath at the Public Accounts Committee. It is understood that some strong measures will be taken to compel the Government to do so should they still persist in the mode of action they have adopted, which would simply prevent the investigation of some very serious charges which are now waiting to be ventilated.

TIED UP STILL TIGHTER

The Strike on the Great Northern Is Now on in Earnest.

AN INJUNCTION IS SECURED

To Restrain the Strikers From Rendering the Company's Property Unfit for Use—Several Other Branches Join the Strike—Men Idle at Yankton.

ST. PAUL, April 19.—The crisis has come in the Great Northern strike and the company will from this hour play its hand with sternness. Judge Sanborn, of the U. S. Court of Appeals, has granted an injunction against the strikers in both Minnesota and North Dakota, and cited them to appear in his court in St. Paul on April 27 to show cause why "Each of them should not be enjoined and restrained from disabling or rendering in any wise unfit for convenient and immediate use any engines, cars or other property of the Great Northern Railroad Company for use in interstate commerce, the carrying of mails or government supplies, and from interfering in any manner with the possession of any locomotives, cars or any other property of said Great Northern Railroad Company."

The developments out along the line are in the direction of tieing up the road a little tighter The shopmen, switchmen, trainmen and sectionmen at Barnesville have quit their places and the short branch from Morris to Brown's Valley was tied up by the refusal of the men at Morris to move their trains.

At Yankton, S. D., the strike is now complete. Not a wheel turned to-day, and all the trainmen and section laborers are idle.

WASHINGTON IN PREPARATION.

Patrolmen Put Through their Paces in Anticipation of Trouble With Coxey.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—The precautions to prevent any possible disturbance from the Coxey mob have been about completed and are of the most thorough nature. A map of the city was examined and points located where the Coxey men might be corralled. At all the stations the patrolmen are put through the riot drill every afternoon. Under the leadership of a sergeant the men go through a regular system of tactics. Formerly every police station had several stacks of Springfield rifles for use in emergencies, but in 1878 these were exchanged for Colt's revolvers, then the latest improvement in firearms. These guns are at every station and are being overhauled and placed in condition for use. They are of 48-calibre, the chamber holding six cartridges, and have a rifled barrel a foot long.

These riot guns have seen use, having been used with deadly effect at the time of the labor troubles over the building of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, when a general riot was precipitated and several rioters killed by these guns. Capt. Austin, then lieutenant of what is known as the First Precinct, at the corner of Seventh and "D" streets, had a conflict with a mob in which several more men were killed.

The Committee on Rules of the Senate and House, who have charge of the capitol grounds, have made all provisions for a sufficient force to prevent the Coxey men entering these grounds as an organized body, and especial precautions have been taken for the protection of the White House and its occupants.

Fatal Fire in Yokohoma.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 19.—The China steamer Peru brings news of a great fire which half destroyed the Yoshiwari of Yokohama, the quarter devoted to fallen women. The houses were cheap affairs of bamboo and paper and burned like tinder. An eighth of a square mile was burned over. Hundreds of women ran screaming from their little homes. Two United States marines and four Japanese women, incapable from indulgence in brandy and opium, perished. The Yoshiwari is very carefully guarded by the police and is surrounded by a high fence. Only four hours after the fire the burned district was enclosed by a fence 10 feet high to keep out intruders.

Uprising of Unemployed.

YORK, Pa., April 19.—There is an uprising of unemployed workmen in this city against the importation of colored workmen. The street railway recently made a contract with a Baltimore contractor for the building of several miles of a new road in this city. Work on the new line has commenced, and colored laborers from Baltimore were put to work on the job. Several hundred unemployed laborers of this city applied for work without success. The men then formed in a body and called on the mayor of the city and the president of the street railway, but as the matter is in the hands of the contractors nothing could be done by the officials. Threats of violence are being made. Trouble is feared if the contractors do not yield.

Two Big Fire Losses.

BURNHAM, Pa., April 19.—The Logan Iron and Steel Works have been totally destroyed by fire. The plant when running full time employed 800 men. Loss $150,000, partly covered by insurance.

PRESCOTT, Ariz., April 19.—Jerome, the largest mining camp in Arizona, has been entirely destroyed by fire. Loss $50,000.

Constables Killed by a Murderer.

LOUISVILLE, April 19.—It was reported from Pike County that Frank Phillips and Detective Bevins have been killed. They were shot near the Virginia border by the Pickett brothers, whom they were trying to arrest for a murder committed in West Virginia.

Tobacco to be Free.

BERLIN, April 19.—The Reichstag committee, to which was referred the tobacco taxation bill, has rejected the clause imposing a duty on manufactured tobacco. This clause was regarded as the essence of the bill and its rejection is regarded as assuring the defeat of the measure.

FIGHT WITH STRIKERS.

Detroit Police Officers Have a Desperate Encounter With Poles.

TWO RIOTERS ARE SHOT DEAD

A Dozen or More Seriously and Some Fatally Injured—The Sheriff Beaten Insensible With Spades and Picks—Fifty Rioters Located in Jail.

DETROIT, April 19.—In a fight which occurred in Grosse Point township, just over the easterly county line, between a force of striking Polish laborers on the city water works extension and sheriff's officers, Sheriff Collins was probably fatally injured, two Polish rioters were shot dead, half a dozen more were seriously injured, and at least three fatally. A police officer was badly hurt and the county jail is filled with 50 of the rioters.

The trouble really began on Tuesday, when Engineer Williams, of the water works, sought to introduce a system of paying the men by the cubic yard of excavation instead of a daily wage. The Polish laborers rebelled at this, and as a result the water board decided to suspend operations.

Yesterday Engineer Williams and a small force of men, accompanied by Sheriff Collins and five deputies, went to the scene of the disturbance to remove city water department tools. There were 500 Polish laborers there and they made demonstrations of violence on the arrival of Williams and his men. Sheriff Collins and Deputy Sheriff Steyskall addressed the men in English and German and advised them not to break the peace, when a Polander in the rear of the crowd made some inflammatory speech, and the Polanders who had picks and shovels made a rush on Foreman Cathey. Cathey was one of those who sympathized most strongly with the demands the workingmen had made. Then somebody struck Cathey a blow on the head which felled him to the bottom of the excavation.

Sheriff Collins called to the mob to stand back, but no attention was paid to what he said, and he drew his revolver and aimed point blank at the crowd. One, two, three the shots rang out from his weapon fast as he could pull the trigger, when a long-handled shovel upraised behind descended swiftly and a corner of it pierced his skull. As he fell another shovel struck him on the calf of the right leg and a stream of blood spurted from this new wound. A dozen gathered around him and were aiming fresh blows at him when a man rushed in under the uplifted shovels and cried out: "He is dead. Leave him alone." The sheriff was carried by some friendly workingmen to a shanty about a furlong distant.

Cathey did not escape with the first blow. Again and again did the sharp shovels fall on his head and his uplifted hands until consciousness left him and he sank downward into the water which covered the bottom of the excavation. He was rescued by James P. Murtagh, a reporter, and carried to a place of safety.

Early in the fight Steyskall was struck on the head and shoulders. He was not badly hurt. Patrolman Andrew Bersig was struck several times on the head with shovels and badly cut. He escaped by running through a field. Another patrolman received a bad gash in the side. He succeeded in escaping to a neighboring house. The remainder of the deputies fled towards the river, and in the shelter of the woods and bushes near the bank managed to elude pursuit.

ANTWERP'S SOCIAL SENSATION.

A Fashionable Society Woman Under Arrest Charged With Poisoning Relatives.

ANTWERP, April 19.—Madame Marie Therese Joniaux, wife of M. Henry Joniaux, chief state engineer of roads and bridges in the province of Antwerp, is under arrest on a charge of having poisoned several of her relatives in order to obtain the amount of the insurance on their lives.

As Mme. Joniaux occupied a prominent position in society in Antwerp and in other social centres of the kingdom her arrest has created profound sensation.

Mme. Joniaux, who was born in 1843, is the daughter of the eminent Belgian, Gen. Albay, and the niece of a former aide-de-camp on the staff of King Leopold. Though she was never wealthy in her own right her high family connections and the great wealth of many of her relatives assured her an enviable social position.

Mlle. Ablay was married at about the age of 23 to Frederick Faber, the author of a book entitled "The French Theatre in Belgium" and other works, and lived with him until he died in 1884. In 1886 Mme. Faber was married to M. Joniaux. Although her husband's income was confined to a salary of only 10,000 francs a year, and his wife was virtually without private means, they lived in grand style, maintaining a magnificently appointed establishment in a large mansion in the Rue De Nerviers, where they entertained lavishly and where the relatives died for whose murder Mme. Joniaux has been taken into custody.

The first of her alleged victims was her own sister, Mlle. Leonie Ablay, who was unmarried and resided with her. A short time subsequent to her burial it was learned that her life had been insured for 70,000 francs in favor of her niece, the daughter of Mme. Joniaux by her first husband.

The next victim was Mme. Joniaux's brother, Alfred Ablay, who was formerly a captain in the Belgian army, but had been retired, presumably on account of his dissolute habits. Shortly after his retirement he emigrated to Buenos Ayres, where he led a dissolute life. After pursuing the career of a gambler in various parts of the Argentine Republic for some time he obtained employment as a railroad conductor, but was unable to hold his position on account of his habits, and in 1877 he returned to Antwerp to live with his sister. A few weeks after establishing himself with his sister he died, as it was given out, from heart disease. His life was insured for 100,000 francs for the benefit of his sister a few days before his death, the premium, as in the case of Mlle. Ablay, being paid by the Joniauxs.

The third victim was Jacques Vanden Kerchove, a wealthy uncle of Mme. Joniaux, who was extensively engaged in cotton manufactures in Ghent. M. Kerchove paid a visit to his niece. While he was a guest there he died, as it was said, from cerebral congestion. M. Kerchove's life was insured for a large sum in favor of Mme. Joniaux, the policies having been taken out only a few weeks before his death and a few days after his arrival at Mme. Joniaux's house.

The succession of sudden deaths at Mme. Joniaux's residence of persons whose lives were insured for her benefit aroused the suspicions of the police and their investigations have developed overwhelming proof of her guilt.

The three bodies have been exhumed and examined, with the result of finding unmistakable traces of poison in each.

Did Peixoto Sink the Aquidaban?

NEW YORK, April 19.—No confirmation of the report that Admiral Mello's former flagship, the Aquidaban, was sunk by President Peixoto's torpedo boat, Gustave Sampaio, off Desterro, has been received as yet either by the Brazilian Consul or by local firms interested in that country. At the office of the Brazilian Consul the report is received with much hesitancy. The consul cannot understand why, if the Aquidaban was surrendered by the insurgents, the Government would deliberately proceed to sink her. Either the report that she was surrendered or the report that she has been sunk, the consul thinks, must be untrue.

An Odd Collection.

A man in Colorado has a quaint collection of bottles. It is divided into two sections. Section one is large. Section two is not. Section one contains hundreds of bottles, the contents of which his wife swallowed hoping to find relief from her physical sufferings. Section two contains a few bottles that once were filled with Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It was this potent remedy that gave the suffering wife her health again. It cures all irregularities, internal inflammation and ulceration, displacements and kindred troubles It has done more to relieve the sufferings of women than any other medicine known to science.

No other smoking tobacco seems to have supplied the universal demand for a cool, mild, sweet smoke like the "OLD CHUM." The name is now a household word and the familiar package has become a member of the family.

MONTREAL

David Dudley Field's Will.

NEW YORK, April 19.—The last will and testament of the late David Dudley Field has been filed for probate. Most of the estates, the value of which is not stated, is left to his daughter, Lady Musgrave, and her children. To the town of Stockbridge, Mass., where he says so many of his ancestors are buried, he gives $5,000, so that the town grave where his ancestors lie may be kept in order and the bell in the belfry which he erected may be tolled once a day. He gives $5,000 to his native town of Haddam, Conn., so that the Field parks may be kept in order.

Boycotting a Mayor.

TORONTO, April 19.—It is stated here that in every town where there is a branch of the License Holders' Protective Association a boycott is in operation by the hotelkeepers against the firm of Sampson, Kennedy & Co., wholesale dealers. When the convention of liquor men was held in this city Mayor Kennedy refused to welcome the delegates in his official capacity, as it would be contrary to his principles. It is on this account, it is said, the boycott has been declared.

A Bloodthirsty Italian.

OMAHA, Neb., April 19.—Russo Frank, an Italian, went to the house of J. West last night and assaulted Mrs. West. He bit out one large mouthful of her cheek, then seized her left arm in his mouth and tore it as a dog would. He bit her in both thighs, tearing out one large piece of flesh, and then jumping with both feet on her face, threw a lighted lamp at her. Mrs. West's screams brought assistance just as the lamp exploded. Frank was locked up. Mrs. West's injuries are dangerous. She was bitten 17 times.

Smuggling Arms to Cuba.

NEW YORK, April 19.—Arturo Baldasano, Consul-General of Spain, had a conference with Collector Kilbreth, concerning an attempt to supply Cuban insurrectionists with arms and ammunition smuggled out of the port of New York. The tramp ocean steamer Alert cleared this port on March 28 with 200 Remington rifles and 40,000 cartridges. These, it is said, were safely landed at Neuvitas.

They Want Earlier Train Service.

COLLINGWOOD, April 19.—The Collingwood Board of Trade has decided, in connection with the Boards of Trade of Orillia, Penetang, Stayner, Thornbury, Meaford and Gravenhurst, to memorialize the managers of the Grand Trunk railway and ask for such changes in their time table as will at least give these towns a train one hour earlier in the forenoon. Passengers arriving on the first train in Meaford or Gravenhurst barely get time to dine before the train leaves for Toronto or intermediate stations, or they are obliged to stay over until next morning.

Want Sealers Warned.

VICTORIA, B.C., April 19.—At the request of a deputation of leading sealers, Collector Milne has wired Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper, Canadian Minister of Marine and Fisheries, urging that a warship be sent immediately to warn sealers to stop on April 30 and thereby avoid trouble. One vessel can easily do it, as there are only 23 schooners working north of the Queen Charlotte islands, along the Alaskan shore.

To Succeed Sir Charles Russell.

LONDON, April 19.—Sir John Rigby, the present Solicitor-General, will be transferred to the office of Attorney-General to succeed Sir Charles Russell, who will become a Lord Justice of Appeals, and Robert T. Reid, M. P. for Dumfries, will become Solicitor General.

AFTER TYPHOID FEVER.

Harvey Neff Has Kidney Disease, Which Doctors Could Not Cure Dodd's Kidney Pills Restored Him to Perfect Health.

PORT COLBORNE, April 9—In March, 1893, Harvey H. Neff, of this place, had a bad attack of typhoid fever. Good nursing and medical attendance brought him around, but the attack left him a victim of kidney disease. This the doctors failed to cure, but Dodd's Kidney Pills, the infallible remedy, did the same good work in his case as in all others and Mr. Neff is well to-day. Dodd's was the first kidney remedy in pill form ever offered the public. Its wonderful success in curing all forms of kidney disease has led to the introduction of numerous cheap and worthless imitations. Purchasers, for their own safety, should insist on getting Dodd's Kidney Pills. Sold in large boxes: price, fifty cents or six boxes for $2.50. To be had of all dealers

THE NEWFOUNDLAND CRISIS.

The Editor and Proprietor of the Telegram Fined for Contempt of Court.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., April 19.—Mr. Parsons, the editor, and Mr. Perder, proprietor of Evening Telegram, were fined $113 each by the Supreme Court for contempt in publishing articles attributing partisan feelings to Justice Winter in unseating and disqualifying Woods and Moores.

The Telegram published two violent articles, one on Governor O'Brien, the other on condition of the local banks. The first denounces the Governor as being unfaithful to the interests of the people over whom he is placed, as being false to his duty in this crisis, catering more to the caprices of his imperial masters than to needs of the colony in its present complicated situation. It demands that he dissolve the Legislature immediately and take the consequences.

The second makes alarming charges on the condition of the banks, and alleges that the mercantile community is engaged in a conspiracy to obtain the reins of Government so as to secure control of savings bank deposits to utilize them to bolster up their own business concerns. It advised the people to be on their guard. The Telegram boasts also of the small penalty imposed by the Supreme Court for contempt, which is practically victory for the paper.

A HUNTSVILLE HOLOCAUST.

Thirty-two Business Places Destroyed by Fire—Many People Homeless.

HUNTSVILLE, Ont., April 19.—A rubbish heap was being burned in rear of H. S. May's hardware store yesterday, which in some way got connected with the shop and before it could be put out it spread to some coal oil barrels near by, and then took Mr. May's store building, and from that it spread to the whole of the business places in the easterly part of main street. In less than two hours the whole was gone to ashes, comprising one hotel, grist mill and thirty-two business places. The Episcopal church, telegraph and telephone offices, post-office and the steamer Excelsior, owned by G. F. Marsh, were also burned. The fire engines from Bracebridge and Gravenhurst came, but too late to save anything. Loss estimated about $120,000. Insurance about $10,000. Many people are homeless.

A Missing Young Englishman.

NIAGARA, Ont., April 19.—A young Englishman named Fred Austin, aged 23, came to this country about five months ago to learn farming with James Sandham, of this locality. On Sunday morning he dressed himself in his old clothes and started out for a walk. When last seen he was standing on the Milloy docks. No reason can be given for his disappearance. It is thought he has done away with himself.

Shot a Cashier Dead.

SYDNEY, N.S.W., April 19.—Two masked robbers entered the commercial Bank of Barraba, in the Darling district, and summoned the manager, Mr. MacKay, to give up the money contained in the safe. Mr. MacKay refused and was shot dead. The murderers escaped.

It would be worth while for the ladies to bear in mind that if they take a gentle course of Ayer's Sarsaparilla in the spring they will have no trouble with "prickly heat," "hives," "sties," "boils," or "black heads," when summer comes. Prevention is better than cure.

Skin Diseases

Dr. Grant's "Hairene," contains nothing poisonous or injurious. For sale by all druggists.

Unsightly pimples, blotches, tan, and all itching humours of the skin are removed by using Dr. Low's Sulphur Soap.

Fashions for Men.

IN COATS.

There is more length to the new Coats for 1894 than has been used in Men's Dress since the 60's.

THE DOUBLE BREASTED FROCK is the most fastidious garment man has put on in a generation. It adds to the stature of the man and conceals defects of figure. It is short waisted, snug fitting, long tailed and beautifully moulded to the figure. The Skirts are hollow at the top and form a beautiful curve, which is the most distinctive thing about the new styles.

Then there is the THREE BUTTON CUTAWAY Coat which is a high favourite. It is popularly described as the "Pigeon Wing" on account of its sloping tails. The sleeves are of modern size and are closed with a vent for three buttons. If properly made it will cling rather closely to the hips.

The new CUTAWAY SACK COAT for business wear is one of the most popular of the season. It has caught the fancy of the young men. All the pockets should have flaps. The collar rolls low and is not faced with Silk.

Any of these garments made up to order to please the most fastidious dresser and with faultless devotion to the fashion plates

A Government BOMBSHELL

THROWN INTO THE

LIFE INSURANCE CAMP!

The following statement comes from the government Blue Book. It covers a period of sixteen years, and is sworn to as correct by representatives of each Company:

Statement of Premiums received and Cash Profits paid back (to Policy Holders from 1877 to 1892, both years inclusive:—

COMPANY.	Premiums Received.	Dividends Paid to Policy Holders.	Ratio of Dividends to Premiums, %
CANADA LIFE	$16,966,207	$2,946,433	18.18
Confederation Life	6,165,432	637,025	10 35
North American	2,327,062	32,857	1.41
Ontario Mutual	3,878,086	433,294	11.17
Sun Life	5,527,720	355,280	6.43

Never in the history of Life Insurance has the struggle for business been keener. Never has the conflict been hotter. Never have the Companies felt as they feel now, the necessity for throwing all the energy at their command into the field. The most intelligent and best men have to be employed. All kinds of plans of insurance are submitted. Each Company determined in securing the supremacy in the good will of the public, in establishing their name, the utterance of which, shall convey to the minds of the people the essential characteristics of

UNDOUBTED SECURITY,
RIGID ECONOMY,
GOOD INVESTMENTS,
LARGEST PROFITS

WHY?

Because millons of dollars are being paid annually for Life Insurance, and the Companies that can show these features have attained a position which will guarantee their future success, for money will flow freely into the best investments.

The Canada Life Policy Holders can look at the above statement with a smile of satisfaction, yet sympathise with their friends who are not so favourably situated.

They can throw their Life Policies down in the face of opponents and successfully challenge the production of more profitable policies, they can stand the onslaught of Agents who will almost cover them with literature and estimates of Tontine, Semi-Tontine, Return Premiums, Reserved Dividends, Annuity and Endownment plans of insurance, and with a quiet assurance feel that

As The Canada Life is Making the Most Profits, She Can Pay the Largest Profits.

READER. If you want Life Insurance choose the Canada Life and join the throng of contented policy holders who are insured with the Company carrying about 45 per cent. of the total insurance in force of the above named Companies

Down With the Poles.

Some years have elapsed since the City Council caused the removal of telegraph and telephone poles from a portion of Front street, and experience has shown that the movement was beneficial in all respects. Now, it is evident, the time has arrived for the extension of the same regulation to all streets on which the buildings are built close up to the sidewalk, as in addition to every other objection to the poles and wires, they positively endanger property by interfering with the pouring of streams of water on burning buildings. We commend the matter to the City Council as being worthy of their serious consideration and early action. The poles must go, and that speedily.—Belleville Intelligencer. These remarks are some what applicable to the state of affairs in Peterborough.

Poison in Tea.

In England tea has been discovered contaminated with lead, undoubtedly from being wrapped in packages containing lead. This is a matter which is being enquired into, inasmuch as lead is a dangerous poison and its presence in so many packages of tea may well cause grave public alarm. Mason & Co., grocers, have no confidence in package teas, as their English blends surpass all teas placed on the market.

To-night's Concert.

M. Blight, accompaniste. Doors open at 7.30. Ticket holders will please be seated as long before eight o'clock as possible.

Chopped Down! Chopped Down!

Assize Sittings Without a Jury—Cases Disposed of.

The non-jury sittings of the High Court of Justice opened at the court house at 10 o'clock this morning, Mr. Justice Meredith presiding.

Messrs. W. F. Walker, Q.C., of Hamilton; Geo. H. Watson, Q.C., of Toronto; and R. Ruddy, of Millbrook, represented the outside bar. Messrs. Jno. Burnham, Q.C., A. P. Poussette, Q.C., E. B. Edwards, G. M. Roger, W. A. Stratton, L. M. Hayes, R. R. Hall, A. Stevenson and W. H. Murray representing the local bar.

The first case called was

Irwin v. Bearman, which is an action brought by infant devisee by her next friend for her share of her father's estate, the defendant's executors claiming it was forfeited by plaintiff's marrying without the consent of her guardians. It is alleged on behalf of plaintiff that such consent was given, and infant was entitled to her property on her marriage. The defendant, Jas. Bearman, who is the residuary devisee under said will, being yet an infant, it was considered by His Lordship that the action should stand until he became of age. Judgment accordingly. Edwards & Murray for plaintiffs; Walker & Phelps for defendant's executors; Hall & Hayes for official guardian.

Smith vs. Smith.—Enlarged to next court by consent. Cameron & Lee, of Toronto, for plaintiffs John Burnham, Q.C., for defendants.

Brealey vs. Tully is an action brought by Jas. J. Brealey, of this town, against Joseph Tully, George Young and Robert Dunlop, as trustees of Kathon Grange to cancel a lease of 21 years, given by Brealey to the grange in May, 1878, for recovery of the lands and for damages, the plaintiff complaining that the grange has become extinct, that they have not paid their rent and that they have been sub-letting the leased premises without leave and contrary to the provisions of the lease. The defendants claim that Brealey handled the funds of the grange, and has in his hands money of the grange unaccounted for more than sufficient to pay all rent. That plaintiff as master of the grange did any sub-letting that was done and was responsible for its inactivity.

Judgment for defendants with costs, with reference at plaintiff's option as to whether or not any rent due. McPherson, Clark & Jarvis, Toronto, for plaintiff; G. H. Watson, Q.C., and G. M. Roger, for defendants.

Bradd vs. Cochrane.—This was an action brought by Dr. F. J. Bradd, the plaintiff, of Omemee, against Dr. Charles E. Cochrane, the defendant, also of Omemee, for an injunction to restrain the defendant from practising medicine, surgery and midwifery in the village of Omemee and surrounding townships on the ground that the defendant had on the 19th day of September, 1892, sold to the plaintiff his practice in Omemee and agreed with the plaintiff not to practice there in opposition to him. Injunction granted as prayed for by the plaintiff with full costs of suit. Stratton & Hall solicitors for the plaintiff, and A. Stevenson solicitor for the defendant.

SPRIGHTLY SUMMER SPORTS.

On the Lacrosse Field, the Crease and the Diamond—Triple A. Topics—The Bicycle and Football.

It is very interesting to hear "Tobe" Fitzgerald tell how he got that wild goose which fell to his gun the other day. It appears that the party spotted the flock of geese feeding in a field, but dare not approach them on account of the watchfulness of an old gander who apparently stood sentinel over the remainder of the flock. There wasn't a bush behind which to hide or which would serve as a screen behind which to get within gunshot of the flock. "Tobe," however, worked his way across two ploughed fields in a furrow "snake fashion," and by a snap shot put a bullet through the head of the sentinel gander.

The statement that Mr. Gibson proposed to amend the game law so as to prevent the shooting of partridge, snipe and woodcock until 1897 proves, on examination of the bill, to be incorrect. It is the sale, not the killing of these birds that is so forbidden. The provision is a wise one, and will be entirely satisfactory to sportsmen.

THE OTONABEES ELECT OFFICERS.

Canoeists gathered in force in Mr. A. Clegg's office last night in response to a call for the annual meeting of the Otonabee Canoe Club. The election of officers was taken up first with the following result:—

Commodore—Thomas Barrie.
Vice-Commodore—F H. Dickson.
Secretary—J. H. Connal.
Assistant Secretary—R. Strachan.
Treasurer—A. Clegg.
Executive Committee—J. Tucker, W. Sharp, J. H. Smith, A. E. Turner, R. McWhinnie, and Felix Brownscombe, together with the other officers.

Mr. Tom Barrie suggested that it would be a good idea to hold canoe races in the event of a demonstration being held in town on the 24th of May. The idea was eagerly taken up by the other members present and a prolonged discussion followed. The suggestion was finally turned over to the Executive for action thereon.

All members of the Otonabee Canoe Club will please notice that rack rents are due and must be settled for at once. All racks not paid for by May 1st, will be sold. By order J. C. CONNAL, Secretary.

Any person wishing to rent a canoe rack will find it to their advantage to call on the secretary of the O. C. C. Our boat house is lighted by electricity and all canoes are insured. There are a few empty racks.

EVANGELISTIC SERVICES.

Services Drawing to a Close—Rev. G. M. Lehigh Preaches a Very Practical Sermon.

Last evening Rev. G. M. Lehigh spoke from Matt. 27, 50-51, and Heb. 10, 19-20, and in a remarkably plain and forcible manner explained how, by the death of Christ, the veil of the temple was rent in twain and the way to God opened up to all. All ceremonies are done away with and the door through Christ opened to everyone who will simply exercise faith and believe in Christ's finished work. The preacher is an eloquent speaker and thoroughly interested everyone who heard him. His topic was practical and he handled it in a very able manner.

Miss M. Barker sang the solo, "Jesus is Calling You Now," in her usual manner, accompanying herself on the autoharp. Rev. Mr. Lehigh also added interest to the meeting by singing a solo.

To-night and to-morrow night the meetings will commence at the usual hour, 7.45. To-night the pastor will speak particularly to those who have recently been converted.

Her Parents were in Despair

But She Was Brought Into Healthy Girlhood by

HOOD'S

Mr. Edward Hilbert, of 183 Broadway, Lawrence, Mass., sends us the following:

"Ten years ago our child was born. Having lost six children we were naturally anxious as to the health of this one. What was our dismay and sorrow to find that she was apparently doomed to the same fate as the others. She had little strength as a baby, and did not improve as she grew older. When about 2 1-2 years old she began to have

Fainting Spells,

dropping wherever she happened to be. At these times she would turn black and appeared at the point of death. Doctors told us she was in a very bad way from

Heart Trouble

Nothing that we gave her did any good until, in utter desperation, we began giving her Hood's Sarsaparilla. She gradually began to improve, the fainting fits became less and less frequent and finally ceased entirely. Her general health improved until at the end of a year, having taken seven bottles, we stopped giving it to her. At this time she was 4 years old, and, although anxious lest the troubles might return, we ceased to worry, she seemed so well. She is now 10 years old and is as a child as you will find anywhere and has never shown any indication of a return of the heart difficulty. During the past 6 years perhaps she has taken 3 bottles in all, we only giving it to her irregularly at times when she has complained of feeling tired in the spring and early summer. We feel that we owe a great deal to and cannot say too much in favor of it." EDWARD HILBERT, Lawrence, Mass.

Healthy and Rugged

HON. R. HARCOURT'S MASTERLY REVIEW

OF PROVINCIAL POLITICAL QUESTIONS.

The Provincial Treasurer's Brilliant Address—The Leading Issues of the Day Ably Dealt With—The Grand Record of the Mowat Government—Worthy of a Renewal of Public Confidence.

The following is the continuation of the report of the grandly successful mass meeting of the friends and supporters of the Mowat Government, held in the opera house on Wednesday afternoon, at which Mr. J. R. Stratton, M. P. P., was unanimously re-nominated to contest the representation of West Peterborough in the Local Legislature. After Mr. Stratton's address, accepting the nomination, the speaker of the day, the Provincial Treasurer, delivered a brilliant address.

HON. R. HARCOURT, PROVINCIAL TREASURER, in opening his address stated that for a number of reasons he was very glad to pay a visit to the town of Peterborough and regretted that this was the first occasion upon which he had had the opportunity of visiting what is known as the most enterprising and progressive town in the province. As he drove through the streets to-day he was delighted to observe such plain evidences of the prosperity which was enjoyed by the merchants and manufacturers. The size and appearance of the audience was another thing he was glad to see, as by appearances he judged that he had the pleasure of addressing a meeting which was representative of the agriculturalists as well as the business men of the municipality. Another thing which gave him pleasure in this his first visit to Peterborough was the opportunity of seeing as the chairman, Mr. Sanderson, a venerable old gentleman, who for 60 long years had taken an earnest interest in public affairs and who was as intent to-day in matters political as he was two score years ago. He was much pleased with the

in the Administration which had been passed and by the speeches which accompanied its passage, but above all the pleasures which he had experienced to-day, stood the pleasure he felt when the convention accorded his friend and their friend, Mr. J. R. Stratton, its unanimous nomination to stand as the Liberal candidate at the next general election. He remembered him eight years ago when he first entered the Legislature. At that time he prophesied that he (Mr. Stratton) would make his mark. He knew that one possessing such ability, combined with such an apt knowledge of mercantile affairs, could not but be a warm friend and earnest advocate of the views of his constituents. He knew at once that he was the kind of a representative who would be known to every corner of his constituency, that every portion of it would be visited by him and that he would acquaint himself thoroughly with the views of all his constituents; and he also knew that he would represent—not the views of one section of the community or of one denomination in the community—but of the West Riding of Peterborough, taken in its entirety. He believed the convention in giving honour to Mr. Stratton. (Cheers.) Speaking for Sir Oliver and his other colleagues, he could say that the members of the Government felt that the electors could confer no greater benefit on West Peterborough than by returning Mr. Stratton to the Legislature.

HAD DONE THEMSELVES HONOUR

Turning to subjects more general, Mr. Harcourt likened the electors to the jury in a great assize court. The case of the government had been presented through the medium of the press and all were doubtless conversant with the leading political questions of the day. As all were aware but one premier had been known to hold office for twenty-two or three long consecutive years. No province in the Dominion—the Dominion Government or the Government of Old England itself could make a like boast. The very fact that he had held faithful to him the people of the Province for so long was an evidence of the firm hold the Liberal policy had upon the feelings of the electors. The past of this Province had belonged to Liberalism, and he had no hesitancy in saying that the future of it would also. As long as a man like Sir Oliver Mowat can be found to administer public affairs, in the manner in which they had been administered, so long would it be given to Liberal opinions to guide the destinies of the banner Province of the Dominion.

The Liberal Government was the people's Government. It meant that the people ruled and that consideration for the condition of the masses was supreme. There was no class legislation. The leader of the Conservative party in England held that the masses were a dangerous class. What did his opponent, Gladstone, think? By one single Act of Parliament the latter had placed the ballot in the hands of 2,000,000 of them.

I order to arrive at a fair opinion as to the efforts of the two parties to do what is best for the people, it was necessary to learn the opinion of all classes of the people. Just before the last election the Liberal party was able to quote from almost every independent newspaper complimentary remarks concerning the Mowat Administration. The testimony of these independent witnesses was worthy of the convention's earnest consideration. The situation was much the same now as then. The speaker then read extracts of a most complimentary character from such well-known independant journals as the Montreal Star, the Montreal Witness and the Toronto Evening News. The first two papers referred in terms of extravagant praise to upon which the Mowat Administration had placed the Province of Ontario.

"Now," said the speaker, "you might ask, 'What about our critics?' What do those who oppose the Administration say? You have noticed in the press the two or three matters against which they have directed their attacks." Mr. Harcourt then went into the question of biennial sessions. The Opposition, he stated, argued that if the sessions of the Legislature were held every two years, instead of every year, money would be saved thereby; but the Administration, although it always kept the question of economy in its mind, did not propose to sacrifice efficiency in order to effect a saving. He was sure if the chairman would speak of the underlying principle of biennial sessions, he could give the convention many reasons against the holding of them. Why, he queried, did county councils hold frequent sessions? Why did bank directorates hold frequent meetings? Why did large business corporations hold frequent meetings? Did the question not simply resolve itself into giving the managers an opportunity to ascertain to the fullest extent their exact position in regard to their financial condition? Surely the same rule would apply to the Legislature. At prerent the Legislature allowed the Government to control the expenditure of $3,500,000.

IF THE SESSIONS OCCURRED

only once in two years that amount would have to be doubled and the sum of $7,000,000 placed to the Government's credit and two years would be allowed to go by before the members of the Legislature had an opportunity to look into the expenses and receipts of the Province, which would be most unbusiness-like and a course worthy of the condemnation of every financier in the country. The people of England clamoured for long years for frequent sessions of the Parliament. They wanted to have the power in their hands to call the Government to book, if necessary, at frequent intervals. "What is the reason given for the desired change?" asked Mr. Harcourt. Because it has been the practice in some of the States in the Union. Are we then, queried he, to look for precedent and model in the United States or to old England? Those who criticised the Liberals a few years ago were very loyal in their protestations and professions to England, and yet they are now asking us to take example by our cousins across the line. Is not our system of government, he asked, better than that in vogue in the Union? We can vote a ministry out of power on any question which is agitating the public mind, while there it takes a very long time indeed to remove an objectionable government.

Another question in which they ask us to imitate our American cousins is in the election of certain county officials and the speaker thought that American elections were perhaps the most objectionable thing in their form of government, Why, only the other day he had picked up an American paper in which was described an election in one of the western states. The article was headed, startling but not uncommon there. Yet not a man could tell of an election in this province in which a paper could with reason put a heading of that description on a narration of the affair. If the province decided to elect these county officials and initiated the Americans in this respect, the province might find itself drifting into the same state of lawlessness which characterized these American elections In which he termed the foundation and basis of the well-being of Canada, Mr. Harcourt stated that the Liberal party always had believed in and advocated the cause of the farmer. They had always done their best to promote anything and everything which would have a tendency to raise the standard of Canadian agriculturists. He thought he had hardly to remind his hearers of the cheese industry or call to their recollection the fact that Canadian cheese met with such astonishing success at Chicago that it carried 90 per cent. of the prizes awarded. That, he said, was something to be proud of, and he then proceeded to point out what steps the Mowat Government had taken to forward this industry in the province together with the pursuit of agriculture in general. In the last three years $13,505 had been spent in the maintenance of the travelling dairy. It had journeyed through every township in the province almost, and in the last three years had held 659 meetings. This effort had resulted in promoting the interest taken in dairying to a wonderful extent. The Governour-General in speaking of agricultural matters had given Hon. John Dryden, Provincial Minister of Agriculture the warmest credit for advocating and forwarding the interests of the Agricultural College at Guelph, which he had visited as well as viewing their exhibit at Chicago.

"BALLOTS, BULLETS AND BLOODSHED,"

The Conservative party says to the farmer, through their organs, that he should be more economical. This Mr. Harcourt thought was RATHER CHEAP ADVICE.

The Mowat Government gave grants of money anywhere and everywhere if it could only be shown that such grant would be of benefit to the agricultural interests of the province. Again the Conservative newspapers advised the farmers to try more improved methods of farming. This was another sample of cheap advice as the Ontario farmer was undoubtedly as progressive, to say the least, as any farmer in any state in the union. The results at the Chicago Fair were ample proof of this. Some of the advice given was most ridiculous, as for example farmers were advised to paint their fences and again to give up keeping dogs, as though these picayune matters affected their position as agriculturalists. The Mowat Administration did not talk that way, but in response to deputations for grants did everything it could to and benefit his condition. Now, continued Mr. Harcourt, what is the policy of our opponents on this question? The Empire says in its report of the speech of the President of the Conservative Club in Toronto that the office of Minister of Agriculture should never have been created. The department was one which could easily be managed in connection with any of the other Departments—being of small importance. That is the way, said he, in which the Opposition speak of the Department of Agriculture.

A few years ago when the Mowat Government began to fully realize the importance of fostering and advancing the interests of the farming community, it at once secured, in Mr. Dryden, to place at the head of a department which would have for its sole function the advancement and improvement of the conditions under which the agriculturalist labours. The Mowat Government believes in building up and widening the sphere of usefulness of this department, and the Opposition want to wipe it out of existence. Yes, continued he, want to wipe out that department which concerns the interests of the farming community so vitally. The Mowat Government would be content to rest their claim for a return to power on this single question.

A PRACTICAL FARMER

"Just let me speak for a few minutes on our cheese exports," continued the Treasurer. In 1880 we exported $3,893,000 worth and ten years later it had increased to $9,372,000. Last year it amounted to $13,687,000. In three years, therefore, the export trade in cheese had quadrupled itself, and this, he claimed, was largely due to the great efforts put forth by Hon. Mr. Dryden to build up the interest of the agriculturalists and because of that he should secure the votes of the agriculturalists and the friends of the agriculturalists in the province.

Last year there was 169 pupils in attendance at the

GUELPH AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE,

60 of whom took the special course in dairying. No less than 90 were refused admittance on account of lack of accomodation, so popular has the dairy interest grown under the support of the Minister of Agriculture.

Since Sir Oliver has been premier, stated the speaker, the amount of $4,541,076 has been expended in the way of grants for agricultural purposes, but it was none too large, as it was devoted to the promotion of those interests which were the basis of the prosperity of the people of the Province. (cheers.)

The eloquent speaker then proceeded to speak on the importance of the

upon which he thought the House should never divide on party lines. Ontario had reason, he thought, to be proud of the phenomenal and astonishing success which her sons and daughters had achieved at the Chicago Exposition in regard to the educational exhibit. The Government had succeeded in placing a good primary education at the disposal of every child in the province in which regard Ontario was far ahead of any State in the Union. The position of the Province in this respect was a proud one. She opened her educational doors so wide that if a child has any energy and ambition he can reach any position within the gift of the people. In the eyes of the Government the interests of the public school took precedence of educational matters of a higher grade as they considered the public school as nearer to the interests of the masses. Only last night the sum of $662,521 went out in checks from his office for the benefit of the schools of the province. An easy answer was found to the question of "Where does all the money go," when one dollar out of every six went to the schools. Yet there were those he continued, who by consciously or unconsciously, were injuring the school of this country. The people, however, rebuked them by closing their ears to any and every argument that would divide them into sects and by making every effort to support a Government which had done so much for the Public School system. In the last four years the number of Public Schools had been increased by 379 and the number of High Schools by 95. In 1893 there were 65 more Mechanics' Institutes, all receiving grants from the Government, than in 1889 and $11,000 more had been spent on Mechanics' Institutes and Free Libraries in '93 than in '89. Mr. Harcourt thought that the fact of the number of the schools having increased so materially was a sufficient guarantee, no matter what the critics said, that the schools were growing in efficiency and usefulness throughout the province.

In alluding to the poor schools, Mr. Harcourt stated that the Government was always glad to increase their number and was giving $10,000 more this year than last to that end.

As his time was growing short, the speaker could do no more than just touch on the salient

FEATURES OF THE FEE SYSTEM.

The Government's critics spoke of the appointment of Public School inspectors, deputy registrars and gaolers by the Government, when the Government did not have anything whatever to do do with these appointments. Regarding the sheriffs, registrars and High School inspectors, the Government certainly did appoint them, but the practice of making these appointments was not introduced by the present Government by any means. They are appointed just as they were long before Sir Oliver Mowat was premier. Concerning the division court clerks and bailiffs, the municipalities never did have the appointing of them in their power; the county court judges did that, and all present were aware of what human nature was, so the result of it was that the relatives of the county judges received the appointments. This was not considered in the interests of the public weal, therefore the Government took over these appointments to itself, but, be it distinctly understood, it did not take them away from the municipalities.

In touching on the subject of voters' lists, Mr. Harcourt denounced the system of the Dominion Government as most iniquitous. The provincial lists, he stated, were prepared by men elected by the people, while the Dominion Government took their lists away from the people and placed them in the hands of revising barristers. That was a clear instance of taking the power from the people, and it was not in the interests of the public weal either. Who will say, queried he, that the lists are as good as they used to be? The Dominion voters' list is three years old now, and if a bye election was brought on in Peterborough to-morrow, how would it be? People who had been living here for a couple of years would have no vote, and it would be found that some who were in their graves years ago would cast a ballot just the same.

AS TO THE REGISTRARS,

it is said some of them get too much. Well, maybe they do, but it is untrue that the Mowat Government gives by fees what it dare not give by salary. The Blake Act provided against registrars getting above a certain salary. This very county, he stated, had by percentages received back from the registrar in the last ten years the sum of $4,327. This amount helped to repair the registry office and keep down the expenses. But what about the policy of John Sandfield Macdonald? asked Mr. Harcourt. He divided the counties up and created two registry offices where before only one existed. By this it was plainly apparent, he hoped, that the Government which had preceded Sir Oliver's had saddled the country with additional expense by creating ten additional registry offices.

A commission, Mr. Harcourt stated, had already been appointed to inquire into this question, and it was now sitting—examining witnesses as to how these officials' emoluments could be kept within bounds. The country would soon have the testimony of all the prominent men in the country who were likely to be acquainted with the subject. The government would then sift the evidence with the object of seeing if a change was desirable. He promised that Sir Oliver would do what was in the matter. (Cheers.)

The speaker then spoke of the characters of the men who were raising all the noise about this fees question. Wood, of Hastings, he stated, who introduced the motion on the question, had in 1890 drawn the sum of $3,895 from the Dominion Government by way of fees in connection with the Trent Valley Canal and $600 more the same year for attending the session of the Legislature. Mr. Harcourt preferred judging Mr. Wood by the fees he received rather than the statements which he made in the Legislature. Then there was Mr. E. F. Clarke, who for 79 days last summer drew $10 a day from the Dominion Government for serving on a commission, and, in addition to that, drew $4 a day for living expenses and also presented a big bill for hacks and cartage and railway expenses at the end of 79 days. These were the kind of men who were running down the Mowat Administration and led the debate on the question of the reduction of fees. One solicitor had drawn in fees from the Dominion Government in 1884 the sum of $9,943, in '85 he drew $22,000, in '86, $12,000; in '87, $18,000 and in the last nine years he had been paid the enormous amount of $101,940. This man was Mr. D. O'Connor, of Montreal and his bills of costs had never been taxed, and therefore he was practically allowed a free hand in the way of drawing fees. It didn't become these men, who had taken a great deal more themselves than the men they attacked, to raise such a cry about nothing. It came with from such a quarter, he thought. Mr. Harcourt considered it healthy to have a strong Opposition in the House, but considered opponents like Mr. Wood and Mr. Clarke not honest Opposition. He judged them by their acts, not by what they said. The Opposition didn't seem to be in the Legislature to argue, but simply to contradict and oppose.

Last year the sum of $778,000 was expended for the maintenance of public institutions, one dollar out of every five spent going in this direction, 4,893 helpless insane people had been cared for. Every day it cost the province $1,370 to maintain the asylums, so important were becoming. Peterborough had received from the Mowat Administration, as equivalent to what would have had to be spent if these services had been maintained by the municipalities: $98,573 for maintaining lunatics, $6,000.65 for keeping prisoners in the Central Prison, $7,525.19 for keeping boys in the Reformatory, $11,270.51 for maintenance of the blind, $10,035.74 for defraying the expenses of educating the deaf and dumb, $157,130 came to the county to aid the schools, $46,375.77 for the administration of justice, $32,921 for agricultural societies, and $10,128.10 by way of grants to the Mechanics' Institutes, totalling up the enormous sum of $389,999 (cheers), which amount does not include the direct grants made to the Nicholls Hospital, St. Joseph's Hospital and the Protestant Home, which in the aggregate amounted to no inconsiderable sum (cheers). The boast of the Goveonment, the speaker declared, was that it managed its public institutions efficiently as well as most economically. Mr. Meredith claimed that there was an asylum in New Brunswick which took care of its patients cheaper than the Ontario Government did. Well, the Government took this rather as a compliment than otherwise, as of the hundreds of public institutions in Canada if Mr. Meredith could only pick one which was conducted on a

MORE ECONOMICAL SCALE,

it was saying a great deal for the Ontario institutions. Out of a list of 78 leading asylums of the United States only three were found which were run cheaper than those in Ontario, (cheers) and of course it was not possible to find out if the patients received as good care there as they did here. In nearly every instance in the United States the municipalities sending the insane patients had to contribute towards their support. This province pays the whole bill with the exception of cases where the patients are rich enough to defray their own expenses. The Mowat Government does two things equally well. It maintains those institutions efficiently and it maintains them economically. (Cheers.)

The speaker then went on to point out that the Ontario government had spent one million dollars upon the Parliament Buildings and to this hour no member of the Opposition had been able to criticise an item. (Cheers). In the whole matter of the construction there was no appearance of a "job." This was something that could not be said of any other government in any other country. During the long career of twenty years of Hon. C. F. Fraser, Commissioner of Public Works, to whom the speaker paid a high eulogy, millions of dollars had been spent and no one could say that a single dollar of all these millions went astray in all these twenty years. Was not that something to boast of—something to boast of to our children? It was that we had three Ministers Sir Oliver Mowat, Hon. Mr. Fraser and Hon. Mr. Hardy, holding office for the long period of twenty years without a single blot to stain their record. (Cheers). This was something particularly creditable in these days when the new parties say that there is no trust to be put in the old parties to see three statesmen of the Liberal party winning such a character. The speaker went on to say that promises were good, but performance was better, and the audience was urged to remember the performance of these man for twenty years and to contrast the position of Ontario under their rule to that of Quebec. "To-day," said the Provincial Treasurer, "I can draw a cheque for $1,425,000 and have it honoured from a special deposit of Ontario funds." Quebec has, instead of a large surplus like Ontario, a debt of thirty millions, and the treasurer of Quebec has to draw a cheque for $1,500,000 to pay interest on the debt. (Cheers.) The Dominion had a huge debt and all the other Provinces were similarly burdened. The speaker, in dealing with the record of the Liberal party, said that party made for peace. We, of all nationalities and different religious beliefs, must work together shoulder to shoulder if we would be a great Province. We had boundless natural resources, unsurpassed institutions of every kind and we could only and take advantage of our opportunities by working unitedly. We should erect no barriers founded on differences of worship and belief. In working out our great destiny we must forget all race and religious distinctions and be Canadians. (cheers.) That man, the speaker declared, was an enemy to Canada who raised race and creed cries in the treatment of civil matters.

The speaker closed his brilliant address, which was considerably abbreviated in order to allow him to catch the train for Toronto, by referring to the franchise as a freeman's privilege, and urged the electors to vote as freemen, to vote honestly and conscientiously on the fair issues of the contest, and he had no fear that a triumphant endorsation of the Mowat Government in the province and of their candidate in this riding would not result. (Loud and long continued applause.)

The highly successful and satisfactory meeting was brought to a close with cheers for Mr. Harcourt and the Mowat Government and the Queen.

In the necessary haste of preparing yesterday's report mention was omitted of the fact that Mr. Charles Mackenzie, who had intended to be present and address the meeting, was detained in Toronto by parliamentary duties which required his personal attention.

The Change from Girlhood to Womanhood — is fraught with dangers. At this period the young woman is especially sensitive, and many nervous troubles, which continue through life, have their origin at this time. If there be pain, headache, and nervous disturbances, or the general health not good, the judicious use of medicine should be employed. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the best tonic and nervine at this time. The best bodily condition results from its use. It's a remedy specially indicated for those delicate weaknesses and derangements that afflict womenkind at one period or another.

For all women, at all times of life, in all cases of peculiar nature, the "Prescription" is the safe agent that builds up, strengthens, and cures.

In catarrhal inflammation, in chronic disorders and displacements common to women, it is guaranteed to benefit or cure, or the money is refunded.

A great many medicines "relieve" Catarrh in the Head. That means that it's driven from the head into the throat and lungs. But, by its mild, soothing, cleansing and healing properties, Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy perfectly and permanently cures.

A MECHANICAL MARVEL

EDISON'S KINETOSCOPE A SEQUEL TO HIS KINETOGRAPH.

Marvelous Mechanism—"A Little Nickel-in-the-Slot-Machine"—What It Does and How It Does It—Edison's New Title to Fame—Sandow Honored.

"The kineto cope does for th e eye what the phonograph does for the ear." That is a phrase which has often been on the lips of Thomas. A. Edison during the past several weeks, and it conveys an idea which has been very much in his mind for several years. It is a perfect epigrammatic definition of his latest invention, for it is a fact that the kinetoscope reproduces to the eye the effect of motion just as the phonograph reproduces to the ear the effect of sound. How this is done and what the machine that does it is like, it is the purpose of this article to tell.

Several days ago the writer called by appointment at the Edison laboratory in West Orange, N.J., and sent his card up to Mr. Edison. Mr. Edison sent back word that W. K.L. Dickson would show and explain the kinetoscope to me, and that afterward he himself would talk with me about it. Mr. Dickson greeted me cordially, and pointed to an oak cabinet standing in the middle of one of the rooms of the photograph department. It was the kinetoscope. In appearance it is very like the nickel-in-the-slot phonograph, with which most people are already familiar. If an oak parlor organ with the keys covered were reduced somewhat in size, it would look somewhat like that kinetoscope. Mr. Dickson took a piece of brass exactly the size of a nickel and dropped it into the slot, while I looked into a glass in top. An electric light was burning inside, and the noise of rapidly running machinery was audible. The scene that was reproduced was that of a barber shop, and a placard on the wall informed the observer that it was "The Latest Wonder, Shave and Haircut for a Nickel." It pictured a man being shaved while two others sat by and enjoyed a joke which one of them had discovered in a comic paper. All the movements of the different persons were reproduced clearly and precisely as they took place before the camera. This is the picture that has been shown oftenest to those who have looked into the kinetoscope. Many other pictures are ready to be put into the marvelous instrument, and before long twenty-five of the machines will have been sold and stationed in public places, where any one may enjoy them for five cents a look.

The kinetoscope is a sequel to the kinetograph, the invention of which was announced some time ago. The business of the kinetograph is to take the pictures, and the function of the kinetoscope is to display them to the eye, one after another, so rapidly that they all seem like one scene, with the figures moving about as they do in actual life. The forerunner of these inventions was the zeotrope, a child's toy, which passed before the gaze of the beholder four pictures in a second, and created a semblance of the effect of motion. Then Muybridge got a battery of cameras that would take from eighteen to twenty impressions in a second. But neither of these was quick enough to deceive the human eye—that is to say, if eighteen or twenty pictures a second were presented to the sight the eye could easily detect when one went and another came. Mr. Edison discovered that, in order to create the illusion of a stationary or continuous picture forty-six views would have to be presented every second, and each one of them would have to pause about the one forty-sixth part of a second, and then be replaced by the next in the one hundred and eighty-fifth part of a second. This is the rate at which the impressions are received by the kinetograph, and reproduced by the kinetoscope. In the kinetoscope every picture must stop in exactly the same place as every other picture. If it did not there would be a tremor which the eye would notice, and the illusion would be dispelled.

SANDOW

Suppose, for example, it were desired to show a man in the act of taking a step. While he was moving his feet through the air a number of pictures would be recorded, each one of which would show the foot and the whole of his body in a slightly different position, as the step progressed. The series of pictures would be passed before the eye so rapidly that only one picture would appear, and there would be a perfect reproduction of the step.

The kinetoscope runs about thirty seconds every time a nickel is dropped into it, and in that time, it will be seen, more than a thousand separate views are slid under the little glass window in the top.

As we left the building in which the kinetoscope stood Mr. Dickson pointed to the remarkable phonographic theatre in which the kinetograph does it work. It is called the "Black Maria," and it is so arranged upon a pivot and track that one can easily move it around to the position required to meet the light of the sun. We then walked to the room on the second floor of the laboratory in which Mr. Edison was sitting.

He was deep in thought, and did not seem to notice that we had entered; but when Mr. Dickson spoke to him he drew two chairs close together, sat down on one, bade me be seated on the other, and signified that he was ready to be questioned.

It is said to be a peculiarity of Mr. Edison's habit of thought that he cares comparatively little for what he has done, and dwells with pleasure on the prospect of what he is about to do. This would seem to be true with regard to his estimate of the kinetoscope. He speaks of the nickel-in-the-slot machine that we have just been considering as though it were a mere toy, but becomes enthusiastic in unfolding the future greatness of the invention.

"Mr. Edison," said I, "what do you expect to accomplish in the development of the kinetoscope?"

"I expect to be able to reproduce a whole opera, showing the people on the stage in their natural size and moving around, and to make their voices heard just as they sang and talked. I expect to be able to show any celebrated orator on the platform delivering a speech, so that people may see how he looked and acted and hear the sound of his voice. This I will do by throwing the scenes from the kinetoscope on a large screen by means of a stereopticon and having the sounds issue from a phonograph at the proper moment to comport with the movements of those who made them.

"I may say that this has already been done. Down in the library perhaps you noticed a large white screen, extending across one end of the room, wound upon a ratchet roller. I have also a stereopticon, and with these, the kinetoscope and the phonograph, we have r ached some very satisfactory results. It will be some time, however, before we secure that absolute perfection which we aim to achieve before we give any public exhibition. You should see the figures on the screen," said he, with a glow of pardonable pride, showing that he contemplated that part of his work with sincere pleasure.

"The pictures that are taken at present for the kinetoscope are one inch by three-quarters of an inch in size. The difficulty increases with the dimensions of the picture, because the larger the picture is the further it must move during the fraction of a second that elapses between the time one view disappears and another takes its place. We expect, however, to be able to work successfully with pictures an inch and a half high, and that, we think, will be the limit of the possibilities of the kinetoscope."

"Do you expect to make any money out of this invention?"

"No, I do not see where there is anything to be made out of it. I have been largely influenced by sentiment in the prosecution of this design. But," said he, with a merry twinkle in his eye, "as I have no steam yacht, or fast horses, or anything of that sort, I thought I could afford to sink a little money in the kinetoscope.

"That little nickel in-the-slot affair is only intended to let the people know what our idea is."

Sandow, the strong man, is an intimate friend of Mr. Dickson, which accounts for his being the first celebrity to have his frame perpetuated by the kinetoscope. The picture shown herewith is only one of a hundred, which include Sandow's complete performance. It has been stated that Sandow was photographed while holding Mr. Edison out at arm's length with one finger, but this is not true. Sandow could easily have done it, even had Mr. Edison been a much heavier man than he is, and during his visit to the laboratory it was suggested that such a picture should be taken, but for some reason or other the idea was not carried out.

These inventions, the kinetograph, the kinetoscope and the phono-kinetoscope, put Mr. Edison as certainly in the foremost place among photographers and electro-photographers as the other products of his ius entitle him to rank first in the school ectricians. It is difficult, while the revelation is fresh in our thoughts and new to our understanding, to estimate what the kinetoscope will contribute to the progress of science and the education of man. It will disclose movements that hitherto have eluded the eye, and as to which speculation has been misleading, and it will make the great leaders of the present live again in the future as their contemporaries see and know them. What other uses will be found for it it is too early to say. That it will enhance Mr. Edison's fame and increase the sum of the world's debt to him is beyond question.

GEORGE M. SMITH.

THE BRITISH ARMY.

A Year's Cost of the Present Establishment—Few Changes Contemplated.

The estimates for the British army, including the ordnance factories, amount to $90,405,000 for the year 1894-95. This is an increase of $1,390,500 over those of a year ago.

It appears from the official memorandum accompanying them that on January 1 last the total number of effectives, including India, was 219,400. Excluding those serving in India, the number in the home and colonial establishments is 155,347. What is known as the first class army reserve numbered 80,349 at that date, against 76,595 a year earlier. It is noted that during the year recruiting for the English army was quite easily effected. Indeed, even a year ago so numerous were the applicants as compared with the force needed that it was found practicable to dispense for a time with the enlistment of specials, and to raise the standard for enlistment in the foot guards. Measures had been adopted also to equalize the number of battalions at home and abroad, but it is said that "circumstances have not yet admitted of a reduction of the force in Egypt sufficient to effect this desirable result." In the volunteers the number of efficients continues to increase, and there is a much larger attendance at brigade camps. The recruiting for the militia has been briskes. A noteworthy provision is that by which a soldier, instead of accepting his new allowance of clothing, may retain his partly worn clothing, and receive commutation with fewer restrictions than heretofore. It is believed that beneficial results may be expected from the change when it is in full force.

Large supplies of magazine rifles for the infantry have been received, so that a good part of the work at the factories during the coming year will be devoted to carbines. On the whole, very little change in Great Britain's military establishment seems to have been planned for the coming year, and this is an indication that neither the condition of the army nor its prospective service point to the necessity of noteworthy changes.

The King of the Belgians.

The mysterious movements of the King of the Belgians during the last day or two have caused more surprise in this country than in his own. For a lame monarch, activity of Leopold II. is unparalleled. He has been known to bathe in the morning at Ostend, sign dispatches in Brussels at noon, and be shooting in the Ardennes before nightfall. His arrangements are frequently made without premeditation. He is an enthusiast in railway matters, hates horse riding, is never seen in his own capital except in a closed English brougham, and would appear to have now added a tricycle to his means of locomotion.

Ought to be Successful.

THE NEFF CASE.

The Hamilton Doctors are Puzzled About this Remarkable Cure—They Could not Cure this Case of Kidney Disease, but Dodd's Kidney Pills have Done so.

Hamilton, April 16.—The doctors of this city are showing great interest in a remarkable cure reported from Port Colborne. Harvey H. Neff, of the latter town, had an aggravated form of kidney disease, consequent on an attack of typhoid fever. Physicians could not cure the kidney disorder, but Mr. Neff has regained his health after taking five boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's was the first kidney remedy in pill form ever offered the public. Its wonderful success in curing all forms of kidney disease has led to the introduction of numerous cheap and worthless imitations. Purchasers, for their own safety, should insist on getting Dodd's Kidney Pills. Sold in large boxes; price, fifty cents, or six boxes for $2.50. To be had of all dealers.

Attention

In time to any irregularity of the Stomach, Liver, or Bowels may prevent serious consequences. Indigestion, costiveness, headache, nausea, biliousness, and vertigo indicate certain functional derangements, the best remedy for which is Ayer's Pills. Purely vegetable, sugar-coated, easy to take and quick to assimilate, this is the ideal family medicine—the most popular, safe, and useful aperient in pharmacy. Mrs. M. A. BROCKWELL, Harris, Tenn., says:

"Ayer's Cathartic Pills cured me of sick headache and my husband of neuralgia. We think there is

No Better Medicine,

and have induced many to use it.

"Thirty-five years ago this Spring, I was run down by hard work and a succession of colds, which made me so feeble that it was an effort for me to walk. I consulted the doctors, but kept sinking lower until I had given up all hope of ever being better. Happening to be in a store, one day, where medicines were sold, the proprietor noticed my weak and sickly appearance, and, after a few questions as to my health, recommended me to try Ayer's Pills. I had little faith in these or any other medicine, but concluded, at last, to take his advice and try a box. Before I had used them all, I was very much better, and two boxes cured me. I am now 80 years old; but I believe that if it had not been for Ayer's Pills, I should have been in my grave long ago. I buy 6 boxes every year, which make 210 boxes up to this time, and I would no more be without them than without bread."—H. H. Ingraham, Rockland, Me.

Honey Hunting Bears.

No bee hunter can line and find a bee tree with more precision than the American black bear can and does. When he finds the tree, he climbs it, stopping every little distance to hammer on the trunk with one of his paws, so that he will know by the sound when he reaches the hollow place where the honey is stored. When the spot is located, the bear scratches and paws and bites away the wood until he has a hole big enough in the hollow stem to thrust his paw in and reach the coveted sweets. He sops the honey out and licks it off his paw and smacks his lips like a boy licking taffy.

If it is warm weather, the bees buzz about his head and dip him with their stingers, but bruin shuts his eyes and laughs and keeps on sopping up the honey. The bear has just as sweet a tooth for domestic honey as he has for the wild, and it is no trick at all for him to step into the backwoods farmer's yard and walk off with a beeskip under his arm.

A Marvelous Time Recorder.

One of the most wonderful machines in these days of miraculous mechanism is the chronoscope. It took form under the skillful hands of Wheatstone, the mathematician, who needed an instrument to measure smaller intervals of time than his clock or watch could indicate. Many improvements have been made in the chronoscope since Wheatstone patented it in 1840, and now the machine is employed to measure the flight of projectiles from a gun. So accurate is it that it will detect and record a difference of time amounting to a millionth part of a second and, electricity being used in recording the passage of a projectile, it is possible to determine to a very small fraction the rate of speed with which a shot flies from a gun.—London Standard.

A Fox Up a Tree.

Sir Watkin Wynn's hounds had a singular experience the other Saturday. The meet was at Styche, but the big wood proved blank, and none of the other covers were tried, but the hounds were taken on to Shavington. In the big wood a fox was met with that ran from cover within the park, then off for the far lodge and past the gas house and into Bow Hills, where he was killed after a very fast twenty minutes. When returning across Shavington Park it was suggested by the keeper to try an old tree, and after a time Reynard was spied in the branches, and shortly afterwards dropped close to the hounds. The fox made a splendid run and got away.

Fweddy's Sneeze.

"It's no use," said Fweddy, disconsolately. "I've been twying to see how I look in the glawss when I sneeze, and when the sneeze comes I cawn't help closing my eyes to save my life, don't y'know."—New York Mercury.

THE RULING MARKETS.

TORONTO, April 19, 1894.

Local stock securities were quiet and firm.

Chicago markets were strong. May wheat sold at 60¼c about 2 o'clock and July at 62 3-8c. May corn sold at 39½c and May oats at 32½c.

On Wall street Chicago interests sold St. Paul around 62½c. The statement of net earnings for March, due next week, is likely to be bad. Some demand in loan crowd for Union Pacific. The minority party in D. & H. has decided to abandon the fight for control.

THE FARMERS' MARKET.—One load of oats offered and sold at 41c. Wheat nominal at 62c for white and 58c for goose. Barley is quoted at 43c and peas at 63c to 63½c. Hay firmer, 13 loads selling at $10 to $12 for timothy and at $7 to $8.50 for clover.

You Can't get to Much

Of a good thing. This is eminently the case with Polson's Nerviline, and great pain cure. It is an honest remedy, for it contains the most powerful, the purest, and most certain pain subduing remedies known to medical science. It is honest, for it does all it claims to do. It is honest because it is the best in the world. It only costs 25 cents to try it, and you can buy a bottle at any drug store. Nerviline cures toothache, neuralgia, pain in the back and side. All pains are promptly relieved by Polson's Nerviline.

The most agreeable, restorative tonic and mild stimulant is Milburn's Beef, Iron and Wine.

Dr. Andrew Grant & Co., Toronto.

DEAR SIRS,—Your "Hairene," I believe to be a wonderful remedy. It certainly produced the most unexpected results in my case, my hair had been falling out very freely for some time, becoming anxious about the matter I thought I would experiment upon the properties of "Hairene," and one application actually "topped it at once. I applied it once or twice afterward, using in all about a quater of one bottle, and have not required to use it since. It seem to have given renewed and healthy vigor to the scalp, and I can recommend it in all confidence.

BETROTHAL OF DON CARLOS.

His Engagement to Princess Marie Berthe de Rohan Not Popular with Legitimists.

The announcement of the bethrothal of Don Carlos to Princess Marie Berthe de Rohan has been coldly received in the circle of the legitimist French nobility who dwell in that aristocratic Parisian quarter known as the Faubourg St. Germain. Like their ancestors of the epoch of the Restoration they are more royalists than the king himself and they consider that it is a mesalliance for the head of the royal house of Bourbon to ally himself with any but a royal and reigning family. Don Carlos is not only the pretender to the throne of Spain; he is also the head of that branch of the Bourbons which descends in direct line from Louis XIV., for the male line of Louis XV. became extinct on the death of the Comte de Chambord, while the Orleans line, the head of which is the Comte de Paris, descends from the Duc d'Orleans, brother of Louis XIV. This latter monarch, when he placed his second son, Philip, on the Spanish throne, was forced, owing to the Peace of Utrecht, to exact from him a renunciation for himself and his descendants of all possible claim to the French crown. So no chance to make such a claim arose until the death of the Comte de Chambord, when those French legitimists who refused to accept the Comte de Chambord set up Don Jayme, the son of Don Carlos, as a pretender, and formed a party known as the "Blancs d'Espagne," which has never secured any following.

Charles Marie de los Dolores Jean Isidore Joseph Francois Querin Antoine Michel Gabriel Raphael Prince de Bourbon Duc de Madrid, known for short as Don Carlos, is now in his forty-sixth year. He is a widower. His wife, a princess de Bourbon, and a niece of the Comte de Chambord, to whom he was married in 1867, died in January of last year. He has five children, the eldest of whom, a daughter, is the wife of Archduke Leopold Salvator of Austria. He has but one son, the Don Jayme already referred to, now in his twenty-fourth year.

Since 1869 Don Carlos has been a prominent figure in Spanish politics. He has made several armed efforts to establish his rights to the throne of that country, and the agitation on his behalf is carried on with unremitting activity by an organization specially subventioned by him—something he is well able to do, for he is a man of great wealth, having added to his private fortune that of the late Comte de Chambord, who made him his sole heir. His claim to the Spanish throne is genealogically well founded. He is the direct male heir of the Spanish line of kings. On the death of Ferdinand VII., in 1833, without male issue, the succession passed, according to the legitimist theory, to his brother, Charles V. In 1855 the latter renounced his rights in favor of his son, Charles VI., Count of Montemolin, who was succeeded in 1861 by Don Juan, the father of Don Carlos, and Don Juan renounced his rights in favor of Don Carlos in 1868.

DON CARLOS DE BOURBON.
[Pretender to the Spanish throne and betrothed to Princess Marie Berthe de Rohan.]

Meanwhile the throne was ascended in 1833 by Ferdinand VII.'s daughter, Isabella, grandmother to the present King Alfonso XIII. The contention of her supporters was that the Salic law—that is to say, the law which confined the inheritance to the throne to males—has been abolished by a decree issued in 1830 by Ferdinand VII.; but, on the other hand, it is alleged that he was without the right of altering the constitution.

The contemplated second marriage of Don Carlos is not uninfluenced by his position as a pretender. He has only one son by his first wife, and it is said that he is anxious to insure the succession of his branch of the Spanish royal house when a favorable occasion may arise.

The Princess Marie Berthe de Rohan, upon whom Don Carlos' choice has fallen, does not belong to either of the royal categories which fill the first two divisions of the Almanach de Gotha. The Rohans are a non-sovereign princely house, although by descent they may claim to consort with the ruling houses of Europe. They are the descendants of the former sovereign dukes of Brittany, and they enjoy a large number of French titles, including those of the Prince de Guemenee, the Prince de Leon, the Prince de Soubise, the Prince de Rochefort and the Duke de Bouillon.

For some generations the main branch of the family has been settled in Austria, where the chief of the house enjoys the title of Highness, and is an hereditary member of the House of Peers. The bride of Don Carlos is a sister of Prince Alvin de Rohan, the present head of the house, and was borne in Teplitz in 1860.

Many rise in the morning with a headache and no inclination for breakfast. This is due to torpidity of the liver and a deranged condition of the stomach. To restore healthy action to these organs, nothing is so efficacious as an occasional dose of Ayer's Pills.

CONTRIBUTES TO THE CELEBRATION GUARANTEE.

The Work of Last Night's Special Session—A Deputation Received and Heard—An Oratorical as well as Holiday Demonstration—Other Matters Dealt With.

A special meeting of the town council was held last night. All the members were present except Mr. Hall.

After routine the following

were read:—

From E. B. Edwards, re by-law referring to street loafing and from the same inclosing copy of Town Bill now before the Legislature.—Referred to Supervision of Police Committee.

From A. Mercer and eighteen others petitioning the council in reference to the bicycle by-law.—Received.

From Thomas White, re dog tax.—Statutory declaration.

From Jas. McKelvie, asking remission of taxes.

On motion to grant the remission, Messrs. Roger and Dawson objected on the ground that the property was good for the taxes, and remitting the taxes to the tenant was practically remitting to the landlord. A motion to remit the taxes was carried.

From E. B. Edwards re by-law for closing billiard rooms.—Received.

From T. A. S. Hay, inclosing a resolution of the Board of Trade, respecting the calling of a meeting to promote the prosecution of further work on the Trent Valley Canal.—Received.

Referred to Finance Committee.

CLOSING BILLIARD ROOMS.

Mr. Hughes, chairman of the License Committee, reported recommending that billiard rooms be closed at 7 o'clock on Saturday nights, and, as the action taken by the committee in regard to bicycle riding on sidewalks was, in the opinion of the town solicitor, illegal, the committee asked further time to deal with the subject.—Received.

STREET WATERING.

Mr. Kelly, from Fire, Water and Light Committee, reported that ten tenders had been received for street watering, and that the contract for the southern district had been awarded to Geo. Henry at $227, and for the northern district to John Faucett at $225.—The report was adopted.

SHERBROOKE STREET DRAIN.

Mr. Best, chairman of the Street and Bridge Committe, reported recommending that the Town Engineer be instructed to prepare a plan of the property on Sherbrooke street to be benefitted by the drain petitioned for by the residents of that street.—Report adopted.

CELEBRATING THE TWENTY-FOURTH.

A deputation of the Board of Trade was heard, soliciting the council for a guarantee in aid of a celebration of the 24th.

Mr. A. L. Davis pointed out that in the past the people of the town had, in absence of local attractions, got the habit of leaving town on such occasions, and spending, as it is estimated, some seven or eight thousand dollars. If proper steps were taken to remedy this defect by holding a good local celebration, not only would this amount be kept in town, but it would be largely added to, if not, in fact, duplicated. The committee of the Board of Trade had circulated a guarantee list and had met with liberal responses from the citizens. The total amount of the guarantee up to date amounted to $1,200 or $1,300. In answer to Mr. Best, Mr. Davis explained that the committee was asking for a grant of $500, which would be first drawn on in case an unfavourable day resulted in a loss. Port Hope had many times guaranteed against loss but never had been called upon.

Mr. J. W. Garvin said that in the town of Woodstock a sum had been frequently guaranteed by the council, but it never had been called upon to pay it. The present grant was solicited in the interest of the town generally, and, in case of failure, it was not fair that individual citizens should bear the brunt of the loss, and, therefore, the council was asked for a grant. He pointed out that Kingston had given for the Twenty fourth $300 outright. If the day should be fair, the committee felt sure that there would be no loss.

Mr. G. B. Sproule said it was proposed to increase the guarantee list to $2,000, for the purpose of giving an enjoyable treat to the citizens of the town generally and the council would receive no displeasure from the citizens if they added one-fourth to the popular guarantee. He dwelt upon the benefits of retaining money in the town, instead of sending it out by thousands to other towns. The committee was asking the council to assist a score or two of enterprising citizens to conduct an enterprise for the benefit of the town. The committee proposed a grand demonstration which would attract a gathering that would leave in the town a thousand dollars for every hundred the town was asked to grant or guarantee.

Mr. Bradburn endorsed the remarks that had been made.

Mr. Elliott said that as one of the committee he had been met with the greatest cordiality by the citizens in his circulation of the guarantee list.

Mr. Bamford was in favour of a demonstration. He had heard it suggested that 200 tickets be placed in the hands of the Charity Committee to be distributed to those who could not afford to attend the attractions.

Mr. A. P. Poussette said that Peterborough in the departure of citizens and absence of attractions was about the deadest possible town on the 24th. The council represented the great body of the citizens, who would endorse a liberal policy on the part of the council in aiding a demonstration.

Mr. Garvin suggested that a member of the council be added to the committee.

FOCUSSING THE QUESTION.

Mr. Brady moved, seconded by Mr. Kelly, that a sum of money not exceeding $500 be granted to the Board of Trade to assist them in providing a suitable demonstration on Her Majesty's birthday. It is a condition, however, that the money, or any portion of it, is only to be paid over in case the receipts in connection with the celebration should not be sufficient to pay expenses, and then only to the extent of the deficiency, and that Messrs. Kendry and Brady be added to the Board of Trade committee.

Mr. Hughes objected to the expenditure, because the grant would be illegal, and he favoured referring the matter to the Finance Committee to get the town solicitor's opinion.

Mr. Dawson said the times were too hard to spend $500 in that way.

Mr. Kelly was in favour of a celebration of the 24th May, for that was his Birthday as well as Her Majesty's. (Cheers and laughter.

Mr. Roger said he could hardly see his way clear to vote for the motion. The last communication but one, the council had received from the Board of Trade, was a warning to keep within financial bounds and now we have a demand for a big sum for a demonstration.

Mr. Brady said we could only benefit by money spent in the town.

Mr. Best thought the council was justified in assisting the board of trade in this matter.

Mr. Hughes moved, seconded by Mr. Dawson, that the matter be referred to the Finance Committee to consult the town solicitor.

Mr. McElwaine suggested that the town share the guarantee pro rata with the citizen guarantors.

Mr. Poussette and Mr. Cahill pointed out that a large amount of money could not be spent in town without conferring a general benefit. Mr. Cahill was in favours of a direct grant of, say $300, which, if the day were successful, could, with any other surplus, be added to the board of trade fund for future demonstrations.

Mr. Cahill moved in amendment, that a grant of $300 be made to the board of trade committee.

Mr. Davis said that the committee had considered the matter and felt that $300 direct grant would not warrant the committee going on with the demonstration.

Mr. Cahill withdrew his motion and Mr. Hughes his.

The motion of Mr. Brady was put and declared lost, on the following division:—

Yeas—Messrs. Cahill, Best, Kelly and Brady—4.

Nays—Messrs. White, Hughes, Dawson, Roger, Sutton, McIlwain and Mason—7.

BY-LAWS.

A by-law was duly passed granting the Horticultural Society the sum of $400.

A by-law was duly passed to amend the license by-law by requiring that billiard rooms be closed at eleven o'clock on week day evenings and at 7 o'clock on Saturday evenings to remain closed until six o'clock Monday morning.

AN EXPERIMENT IN GALVANIZING.

A resolution was adopted requesting the mayor to call a meeting in Peterborough to promote the Trent Valley Canal construction.

A motion was adopted requesting the Board of Education and Town Commissioners to furnish the council an estimate of the moneys required to be raised.

A SECOND ATTEMPT.

Mr. McIlwain moved, seconded by Mr. Brady, that the council authorize its Finance Committee to join with the citizens in guaranteeing the Citizens Committee, arranging for a celebration for the 24th May next, against loss to the extent of one-fourth of the whole guarantee list, not in any event to exceed $500, and that this council be represented on said committee by the Mayor, E. H. D. Hall and Thos. Brady.—Carried on the following division:—

Yeas—Messrs. Cahill, White, Best, Kelly, Roger and Brady—8.

Nays—Messrs. Hughes, Dawson and Mason—3.

SEWERAGE.

Mr. Best moved, seconded by Mr. Kelly, that a sewerage committee be appointed to consider the advisability of constructing an output sewer for George street, to consist of Messrs. Cahill, Best, Dawson, Sutton, Hall, Hughes and Rogers, the committee to report at the next meeting of the council.

The council adjourned.

BRIDAL BELLS AT BELLEVILLE.

Nuptials of Mr. R. M. Roy, Town, and Miss Mary Wragge, of Belleville—A Brilliant Social Function.

An interesting society event took place in St. Thomas' church, Belleville, this afternoon at 2.30 p.m., being the marriage of Mr. Robert Maitland Roy, of Peterborough, to Miss Mary A. A. Wragge, daughter of Thos. B. Wragge, of the "Vines," Belleville. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Canon Burke, assisted by Rev. F. C. Powell in the presence of a limited number of guests (who were relatives and very intimate friends.) The church was filled with interested spectators, for the youthful couple were well known and great favourites in the city. The bride wore a handsome travelling dress of a lovely shade of fawn lady's cloth, trimmed with golden brown silk velvet, hat en suite, trimmed with pink roses, and carried a large bouquet of cream Marechal Niel roses, the gift of the groom. The bridesmaids were Miss Clare Wilkins, of Belleville, Miss Mabel Roy, sister of the groom, and Miss Beatrice Clara Wragge, the young sister of the bride. All were dressed in shades of fawn, with pink trimmings, and carried bouquets of pink and white carnations. Mr. Roy was assisted by his brother, Mr. Edward Roy, of Montreal. The groom's presents to the bridesmaids were lovely solitaire pearl rings, and to the bride a ruby brooch with pearls. The bride's mother was handsomely attired in black satin, trimmed with rich old point lace, and grey bonnet, trimmed with mauve. The bride was given away by her father. Mrs. Campbell presided at the organ and gave a grand wedding march as the bridal party entered the church, preceded by the ushers, Messrs. W. Thomson, Harry Thompson and J. B. Wallace. A reception was held at the residence of the bride's father after the ceremony. The happy couple left by evening train for the west. A large number of beautiful presents were arranged in the library of "The Vines." The bride's parents presented her with a handsome sterling silver tea service, with sterling silver tablespoons, desert and teaspoons. The Children's Church Missionary Guild, of which Mrs. Roy was assistant superintendent, made a nice little presentation with an address. Mrs. Roy, grandmother of the groom, gave a ruby ring and a work basket of her own handiwork. A lovely marble clock was the gift of the father of the groom, Mr. R. M. Roy, of Peterborough. A silver pudding dish came from Mr. and Mrs. D. Murphy, of Trenton, and a handsome antique oak chair upholstered in plush from Mr. and Mrs. Y. P. C. Phillips, of Belleville.

Quite a number of tramps, evidently having hoofed it for the Plate Glass City, via the C. P. The building took fire but the flames were put out by the workmen employed on the new steamer, "City of Peterborough," before much damage was done.

Mr. Thomas Emerson, an old Peterborough boy, died at Chicago yesterday. He was a brother of Mrs. Wm. Neild, Lake street, Ashburnham. He leaves a widow and six children—five girls and a boy. The ages of the children range from one to fifteen years. The remains will be interred in Morgan Park cemetery, Chicago. Much sympathy is expressed by the deceased's many friends in this district.

OUR TIMBER LIMITS

Policy of the Crown Lands Department Upheld by the Legislature.

HON. MR BRONSON ATTACKED

The Member for Ottawa Explains to the Opposition Why He Has a Seat in the Cabinet—Names of the Deceased on the Voters' Lists.

TORONTO, April 20.—The following bills received their third readings in the Legislature yesterday:

To make further provision respecting the solemnization of marriages—The Attorney-General. To consolidate the debenture debt of the town of Toronto Junction, and for other purposes—Dr. Gilmour. To consolidate the debt of the town of Port Hope and for other purposes—Mr. Campbell (Durham). Respecting the law of libel—Hon. Mr. Harcourt.

The Voters' Lists.

Hon. Mr. Harcourt moved the House into committee on the bill respecting the voters' lists, which provides for the removal of the names of dead persons from the lists.

Mr. Meredith said a large number of voters were disfranchised by moving from one district to another a short time previous to an election. He considered this an objectional feature of the measure and an unjust one.

Hon. Mr. Harcourt held that the present system, even with its imperfections, was far better than any change under which the evils complained of might be intensified.

Mr. Balfour agreed with Mr. Meredith's remarks, and thought a system of registration would remedy this.

Hon. Mr. Ross thought a man who moved from one place to another just before the election ought not to complain at being disfranchised. The present system was far better than the old law, inasmuch as it got rid of the corrupt practices resulting from bringing voters from a distance.

Mr. Meredith said the hon. gentleman was unseated because his agents paid the expenses of persons coming from outside the constituency, and therefore he was quite able to speak with a knowledge of the matter. He did not like to hear the hon. gentleman say that because a man chose to change his residence a short time before the election he did not see why they should not be disfranchised. The people to whom this would apply more particularly were the poorer classes. Why should they be disfranchised because of a change of residence they were often compelled to make?

Mines and Mining Lands.

Hon. Mr. Hardy moved the House into committee on the bill regarding mines and mining lands. He moved to amend the bill by providing that lands hereafter sold or leased shall hereafter be exempt from royalties up to Jan. 1, 1900, instead of for five years only.

Mr. Conmee moved an amendment to abolish royalties on all lands heretofore sold or leased. He would like, he said, to see the abolition of royalties altogether.

The amendment was agreed to and the bill reported.

Division Courts Act.

Hon. Mr. Gibson moved the House into committee on the bill to amend the Division Courts Act.

Mr. White moved to add an amendment providing for the payment of witness fees to defendants who were called to testify in their own cases.

The motion was defeated.

Mr. White also moved an amendment, the effect of which was to abolish imprisonment for debt, by adding these words: In no case, however, shall they have or exercise any greater or other power than that in similar cases a judge of the High Court may have or exercise.

This amendment was also defeated.

After recess the bill was further considered in committee, and a number of amendments made to the bill was then reported.

Local High Court Sittings.

Sir Oliver Mowat moved the house into committee on the bill to provide for local sittings of the High Court at London and Ottawa.

Mr. Meredith moved an amendment, which was lost. Other clauses were passed and the bill was reported.

Timber Resources.

On the motion to go into committee of supply, considerable discussion was created over a motion of Mr. Miscampbell, condemning the Government in connection with the management of the Crown Lands Department.

Mr. Miscampbell held that the Government should husband the timber resources of the province, one of the most valuable of its assets. As an argument to show the timber was becoming rapidly exhausted, he mentioned that some years ago the size of the sawing cut was 160 feet, whilst to-day it was down to 100 feet to the piece.

Mr. Conmee followed, contending that the value of timber of the province was not added to by its being left as it was. He denied that the timber resources were being exhausted. Not one-tenth of the total area had been cut. The fact that logs were of smaller measurement did not prove that the timber was being exhausted. Through using different machinery lumbermen could use logs of small size.

Mr. Whitney said that the Hon. Mr. Bronson was improperly a member of the Cabinet, by reason of his being largely interested in timber lands. No hon. gentleman who was engaged in transactions depending upon the good will of the Government, had a right to a seat in that administration. It was contrary to the principles of representative institutions. He declared himself convinced that the position of the member for Ottawa was in direct violation of the spirit of the law providing for the independence of the members of the Legislature of Ontario.

Hon. Mr. Bronson's Reply.

Hon. Mr. Bronson defended the Government's policy with regard to timber. In answer to Mr. Whitney's criticisms, he said it was news to him that a man who devoted himself to developing the resources of the country should be declared unfit to be a representative of the people. The people of Ottawa did not take any such view. They knew he was engaged in the lumber industry, and at the last election returned him by a substantial majority. The firm with which he was connected had never purchased timber limits from the Ontario Government; they had always bought from a third party. If the House took the view that his connection with a lumber firm did not entitle him to a seat in the House he would resign at the earliest possible moment.

Clancy referred the power in the hands of the Government with regard to the disposition of timber limits, and contended that it was not in the interest of the province that a gentleman connected with any interest which affected the revenues of the province should be a member of the Government.

Messrs. Tait and White (Essex) also spoke, and the House divided upon Mr. Miscampbell's resolution, which was defeated by 53 to 29. Mr. McCallum was absent, and Mr. McNaughton voted with the Government.

The House then went into committee of supply and passed one item, and adjourned at midnight.

To Hold Morning Sessions.

It is understood that the House will sit to-morrow morning, and morning sessions will be held next week until the business is concluded.

THE HOUSE OF COMMONS.

Right of Examining Witnesses in the Public Accounts Committee.

OTTAWA, April 20.—On the adoption of the first and second reports of the Public Accounts Committee yesterday, Mr. Mulock moved in amendment that in accordance with the resolution unanimously adopted by the House in 1891-2, it is desirable that any witnesses appearing before the Public Accounts Committee shall be examined under oath or affirmation touching any matters coming before that committee. Mr. Mulock took the ground that all witnesses before the Public Accounts Committee ought to be placed under the sanctity of an oath. He said the Government was attempting to gag the Public Accounts Committee, but Mr. Speaker called him to order and he withdrew the word "gag." The investigation which the Opposition had on hand just now was the matter of the Curran bridge, and they wanted evidence under oath in the matter.

Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper said that Mr. Mulock's motion was one thing and his speech another. He desired to see the business method adopted, namely, that when it was deemed necessary the permission of the House should be asked to examine under oath, otherwise a regular staff of shorthand reporters would be required to no purpose. The House of Commons itself had no such power as was asked for the committee. Before a man could be sworn by order of the House a prima facie case had to be made out. Why should more power be given a committee than belonged to the House itself? He moved in amendment that the committee should be allowed authority to examine under oath when it appeared necessary.

Hon. Mr. Davies said that this would be of no use, because the Government majority on the committee would be continually against investigation.

Mr. Weldon did not think that the power given to the committee in 1891 was constitutional. It was a period of panic, however, and drastic measures were required.

Mr. Davies—Yes, you were in a panic.

Sir John Thompson—The panic has changed to the other side of the House now.

After recess Hon. Mr. Haggart continued the debate, stating that the power of examining witnesses in England was falling into disuse

Hon. Mr. Mills went into a long legal argument showing that in the Imperial Parliament the power of administering oaths was conferred upon all committees.

Sir John Thompson said all should agree that the committees of the Canadian Parliament should have all the powers allowed under the statute. As a member of the House he himself would insist upon this. It had never been the contention on the Government side of the House that the power asked should not be granted. What he contended was this, that the power should be asked for by the committee with regard to particular inquiries, upon a statement being made by a member of the committee, or of the House, that for certain reasons, which he may state, he desires to have an examination under oath.

Sir Richard Cartwright congratulated the First Minister upon the fairness of his speech. He said it might have been expected, however, because of his judicial training. He (Sir Richard) to a very great extent agreed with the conclusions of the First Minister. He did not think that a prima facie case should be made out.

The amendment was carried on a division of 110 to 64.

Mr. Guay asked if it was the intention of the Government to advise that communication be made to the Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba and to his responsible advisers, urgently requesting that the complaints set forth by the Roman Catholics of that province before the Dominion Government in their petition since 1890, be carefully enquired into, and that the whole subject be reviewed by the Government and the Legislative Assembly of that province, in order that redress be given by such laws or amendments as may be found necessary to meet the just grievances and complaints of the said Roman Catholics.

Sir John Thompson said in reply that it was the intention of the Government to communicate with the Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba with reference to some of the petitions which had been presented since 1890.

The House adjourned.

EVICTED TENANTS BILL

Mr. Morley's Measure Provides for a Board of Arbitration.

IRISH CHURCH TEMPORALITIES

Funds for the Disposal of the Arbitrators to be Drawn From the Revenues of the Irish Church—Compensation to New Tenants.

LONDON, April 20.—John Morley, Chief Secretary for Ireland, introduced the evicted tenants bill in the House of Commons yesterday. Mr. Morley said it was proposed to establish a Board of Arbitration whose term of existence would be three years. This board would be empowered to issue orders reinstating tenants upon being petitioned to do so. These orders would be made conditionally, but if there was no opposition on the part of landlords, the order would be made absolute. In cases where landlords opposed the issuance of such orders, the Board of Arbitration would investigate the matter and decide it finally. Meanwhile the tenant would re-occupy his holding until a fair rental was paid either by the Board of Arbitration or the land commissioners. Mr. Morley said the arbitration might, according to the terms of the bill, direct the payment of the arrears and costs to an amount not exceeding the sums of two years' rental at the old figure.

In case a reinstated tenant's house should have been destroyed, Mr. Morley said the board of arbitration would have power to advance to him a sum not exceeding £50 to be used in restoring the building. No evicted tenant's petition would be heard before due notice should have been served on the new tenant. If the new tenant should offer any objection, that objection must be treated as an absolute block on the jurisdiction of the board. If the new tenant should give his assent to the matter, the arbitrator would then proceed to fix compensation. Coming to the question of funds at the disposition of the board, Mr. Morley said it was proposed to appropriate £100,000 from the temporalities of the Irish church. Opposition cries of "Oh, oh," and loud Irish cheers greeted this statement. This sum, said Mr. Morley, would be used by the arbitrators only for the purpose already mentioned. The expenses of administration and the salaries of the arbitrators and their official staff would be paid from the consolidated fund.

"This measure is not brought forward in any spirit of partisanship," said Mr. Morley in closing. "There is no desire to give either party a triumph over the other. The Government wish to heal the deep wound in the social condition of Ireland. For this purpose of healing they commend the measure to the House.

Mr. Balfour opposed the bill. He contended that the Land Act amply provided redress for evicted tenants, and if they had not profited by its provisions it was either their own fault or due to the bad advice given to them by the agitators who controlled them. He would like to know, he said, what principle was to regulate the fixing of the fair rent. Would the rent be fixed according to the condition of the farm when the tenant left it or when he returned to it? Mr. Balfour disapproved of the plan of drawing the board's funds from the temporalities of the Irish Church. This church fund, he said, was already heavily mortgaged. The use of the fund to assist in a plan of campaign for the tenants had never been dreamed of by those who set the money apart for the whole of Ireland.

Grand Trunk Will Economize.

LONDON, April 20.—The semi-annual report of the Grand Trunk Railway Company has been issued. It attributes the disappointing results of the past year's traffic to the severe business depression in the United States, the low price of wheat and the uncertainty of the tariff changes. These and other causes so interfered with the traffic that the loss amounted to no less than £130,000 in freight receipts alone during the past half year. The directors have instructed the general manager to spend only the money absolutely necessary to secure safety and to enforce the strictest and even exceptional economy in every department. This policy is to be extended to the utmost possible extent.

International Copyright Law.

LONDON, April 21.—In the House of Commons yesterday Mr. Charles B. Stuart-Wooley, Conservative, asked the government whether the Dominion of Canada had notified the Colonial Office of the cessation of the royalty of 12½ per cent. on reprints of British copyrights. Mr. Mundella, President of the Board of Trade, said the Government had not as yet received such notice. The Government was aware that Canada was not satisfied with the international copyright and wished to be released from the operation thereof. The Government and the Dominion of Canada were still in communication on the subject.

Steamship Companies Protest.

LONDON, April 20.—The number of emigrants from England to Canada during the month of March was 2,363, making a total of 3,399 for the first quarter of the year. The companies controlling the existing lines of steamships plying between England and Australia have made representations to the Marquis of Ripon, Secretary for the Colonies, opposing the projected fast line and Pacific cable services and protesting with the powerful influence at their command against any subsidy being granted to a scheme which would expose them to the risk of financial injury.

Rudyard Kipling on Americans.

LONDON, April 20.—The St. James Gazette prints an interview with Rudyard Kipling, now in London, in which he is reported as having said: "There is a dyspepsia epidemic in America. They don't understand comfort. Everything is too temporary for that. They are in a railway-station-waiting-room stage of civilization, and it is hardly worth while yet for any one to settle down and be solidly comfortable. America feeds like one vast camp."

Primrose Day in England.

LONDON, April 20.—Primrose day, the anniversary of the death of Lord Beaconsfield, was more generally observed yesterday than it has been in former years. The usual decorations were placed on the Beaconsfield statue.

FRIDAY, APRIL 20, 1894.

CORDAGE is one of the articles upon which Mr. Foster has thought proper to increase the customs duty for purposes of protection. Yet the output of cordage in Cadada is controlled by a combine composed of Mr. Stairs, M. P. for Halifax; and a number of the citizens of the United States. The combine is paying, out of enormous profits, subsidies to the owners of a number of small twine factories to induce them to keep their establishments idle—thus throwing many persons out of employment. No doubt Mr. Foster has given Mr. Stairs' combine increased protection on rope as compensation for the reduction of the duty upon binding twine. The Halifax Chronicle says that while cordage made by Mr. Stairs' combine is being sold in Newfoundland and St. Pierre Miquelon for 7½ cents per pound, none can be purchased in Nova Scotia for less than nine cents per pound. Mr. Stairs can sell rope to foreigners for less than he charges his own countrymen—the latter being completely at his mercy, thanks to Mr. Foster's tariff.

THE Toronto Empire has at last found a foeman worthy of its steel; it is pitching into the baby school children—the kindergartens. The attack is due to lack of knowledge. The kindergartens are not nurseries, as the Conservatives organ alleges; they are institutions in which object lessons quicken the observant faculties of the little ones and where alternate work and play make the transition from home to school life easy. No parent whose child has had the advantage of a kindergarten training would approve the abolition of this valuable adjunct to our Public school system.

THE more the superannuation of Mr. Vankoughnet is inquired into, says the Toronto News (Conservative), the more unjustifiable does the action of the Government appear. The ex-Deputy Superintendent General of Indian Affairs was only 56 when removed from active duty; he was, according to his own statement, never in better health than at the time of his removal; during a term of service extending over 32 years he had only been absent on sick leave once. And yet this officer was pensioned off at $2,112 a year. The whole affair is a gross outrage on the taxpayers of the country.

THE repeated attempts of members of the Ontario Opposition to make the impression that it was the Mowat Government that stirred up the sectarian feeling between Protestants and Catholics is remarkably audacious. It is in utter contradiction of historic facts. The clamor against the "Scripture Readings," the attacks on the French Schools and the denunciations of the amendments made to the Separate School law, were all unjust attempts to rouse ultra-Protestant feeling against the Liberal Government.

RID OF A TOUGH GANG

United States Marshals Exterminate the Notorious Dalton Outlaws.

EIGHT KILLED IN THE FIGHT

Officers of Oklahoma Pursue the Outlaws Who Make a Desperate Attempt to Resist Capture—Two of the Deputy Marshals Lose Their Lives.

PERRY, O. T., April 20.—News of a terrible fight between the notorious outlaws, Bill Dalton, Bill Doolan, "Bitter Creek Kid," and three others and a number of deputy marshals, about forty miles east of here, near Ewen Mountain, has been received here by messengers. The three outlaws and a woman and her little girl were shot dead, as were also two deputy marshals.

Marshal Nix, of Oklahoma, who has been planning for some days to catch the Dalton gang, and Marshal Barrell Cox, with Heck Thomas and Bill Tilgeman, of Perry, and a crowd of fourteen marshals, left some days ago for the eastern part of the Cherokee strip in pursuit of the Daltons.

The marshals met Bruce Miller, one of the gang, and the fight commenced. This was on McElroy's ranch, fifteen miles this side of Ingalls. Bill Dalton and Bill Doolan were near by when the fight occurred and went to Bruce Miller's assistance and a regular fight took place. When the messengers left the place of conflict eight persons had been killed and a running fight was still in progress. It looks very much as though the outlaw gang will be swept out of existence. The price for Bill Dalton's capture, dead or alive, is $2,500, and the price for Bill Doolan's head is $1,500.

A later report from the scene of the battle states that the whole of the Dalton gang has been wiped out of existence.

THE SINKING OF THE AQUIDABAN.

Mello's Warship Made a Determined Resistance—To Rescue Da Gama.

RIO DE JANEIRO, April 20.—President Peixoto's Minister of Marine has received advices from the captain of the port of Desterro, where the Aquidaban was sunk Tuesday, saying that when the Government fleet sailed into the harbor to attack the town they unexpectedly found the Aquidaban there. Her commander was requested to surrender, but he refused and a battle followed which lasted three hours, until the Aquidaban was sunk by torpedoes. She made a good fight and wounded one officer and several of the Government squadron. President Peixoto has ordered his squadron to go to Buenos Ayres and bring the abandoned rebel warships here.

An expedition of sympathizers with the Brazilian insurgents left Buenos Ayres to attempt the rescue of Admiral da Gama, who is confined aboard the Portuguese warship Mindello.

Boycotting Wealthy Hebrews.

LONG BRANCH, N.J., April 20.—Mrs. Norman L. Munro, owner of Norwood park, comprising over fifty cottages, has notified all her agents not to rent any cottages to Hebrews this season. The cottages for years have been occupied by the wealthiest people of New York and Philadelphia. Many will be barred out now. Miss Norma Munro said to-day: "We are not going to allow any Hebrews in our cottages this season. We have instructed our agents to that effect and all those Hebrews that were here last year will have to seek other quarters. Mr. Munro before his death attempted to do the same thing from year to year, but never enforced the rule. This will cause great annoyance to many wealthy people who figured on securing these cottages for the season.

British Hay Crop Runs Short.

CHICAGO, April 20.—A cablegram despatch has been received in this city from the English War Department, ordering the immediate shipment to the Government victualling yard at Portsmouth of a sample consignment of 500 tons of compressed fodder for horses, a combination of crushed oats, corn and chaffed hay. This is the first indication that the English Government has been compelled to resort to this country for fodder as a result of the famine in the British hay market.

Worthless Pianos and Organs

Are made in large quantities, because foolish people buy where prices are lowest, without giving a thought to quality. Any one who thinks, will not buy a "Piano at $170, or an Organ at $30, guaranteed for nineteen years," because it is cheap. Any one who thus thinks will avoid learning by experience that it would have been cheaper to pay, say $300, for his piano.

We can furnish an Organ for $30, but we will not. We live here and have to "face the music" this year and other years to come.

PUT UP

—in glass vials, hermetically sealed, and always fresh — is the way Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets come. When you take pills it's an important point to have them small—provided they have equal strength and efficacy. You'll find what you want in these little liver pills of Dr. Pierce. They're put up in a better way, and they act in a better way, than the huge old-fashioned pills. What you want when you're "all out of sorts"—grumpy, thick-headed and take a gloomy view of life, is these Pellets to clear up your system and start your liver into healthful action. Sick Headache, Bilious Headache, Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, and all derangements of the liver, stomach and bowels, are prevented, relieved, and cured. They're the cheapest pill you can buy, for they're guaranteed to give satisfaction, or your money is returned.

THE ROYAL WEDDING.

Marriage of Grand Duke Ernest Louis to Duke Alfred's Daughter.

COBURG, April 20.—An immense throng of visitors and members of the imperial and royal families assembled here to attend the marriage ceremony of Grand Duke Ernest Louis, of Hesse, to his cousin, the Princess Victoria Melita, of Saxe-Coburg. The ceremony took place in the palace chapel, and began with the wedding procession, in which Emperor William of Germany escorted the Duchess of Saxe-Coburg, mother of the bride. Ex-Empress Frederick walked alone, and side by side walked the Prince of Wales and the Czarwitch of Russia. Queen Victoria was escorted by her son, the Duke of Saxe-Coburg (Edinburgh), father of the bride. In gorgeous apparel and magnificent jewels it was an incomparable gathering. Queen Victoria wore a crown of diamonds and remained seated throughout the ceremony. Rev. Dr. Mueller addressed the bridal couple and read the responses. He was assisted by the court chaplain.

After the benediction the bride and bridegroom turned to the Queen and kissed her affectionately.

The bride, robed in white silk with orange blossom, entered the church on the arm of her father. Her train was borne by her sister the Princess Beatrice, who was dressed in pink and white.

Prof. Mueller in his address to the couple referred to the mighty families to which they belonged, and in invoking the blessings of the Almighty upon the marriage quoted the words of Ruth to Naomi. The rev. doctor then enjoined the bridegroom to guide and protect the woman who was his wife, and the 118th and 124th Psalms were sung by the chapel choir. The marriage rings were handed to the couple on a silver plate. When the groom took the bride's hand all the ministers placed their hands on the clasped hands of the couple and invoked God's blessing upon them. Tears were starting from the bride's eyes as she descended from the altar and embraced and kissed her grandmother the Queen and then kissed her father and embraced and kissed her mother.

The wedding cake, which was cut and distributed in the Fiesensaal, was over five feet high and weighed 160 pounds. The Grand Duke of Hesse, in commemoration of his marriage, gave one thousand marks each to twenty deserving bethrothed couples in his grand duchy. The civil marriage ceremony was performed in Queen Victoria's room in the palace at noon, prior to the departure of the bridal party for the chapel. The presents received by the bride were numerous and beautiful. In the afternoon the bridal pair drove to the Chateau of Roseneau. They will remain there two days, when they will go to Kranichstein, the Grand Duke's shooting seat. On Sunday the Grand Duke and Duchess will make their entry into Darmstadt in state.

Fainted at the Altar.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., April 20.—There was a large attendance in the St. James' Episcopal church to witness the marriage of Elizabeth Glendenning, daughter of the late Robert Glendenning, a noted Philadelphia banker, and Clayton Fotterall McMichael, son and junior partner of Clayton McMichael, publisher of the North American. The ceremony had begun, and as the clergyman asked the all important question, the bride gave a scarcely audible yes, turned pale and fell into the arms of the bridegroom in a dead faint. The latter, assisted by some of his attendants, quietly carried her into the vestry room. The audience was in a commotion at once. Restoratives were applied to the bride, and in a few minutes she emerged, leaning on her husband's arm, and walked slowly out.

AFTER TYPHOID FEVER.

Harvey Neff Has Kidney Disease, Which Doctors Could Not Cure Dodd's Kidney Pills Restored Him to Perfect Health.

PORT COLBORNE, April 9—In March, 1893, Harvey H. Neff, of this place, had a bad attack of typhoid fever. Good nursing and medical attendance brought him around, but the attack left him a victim of kidney disease. This the doctors failed to cure, but Dodd's Kidney Pills, the infallible remedy, did the same good work in his case as in all others and Mr. Neff is well to-day. Dodd's was the first kidney remedy in pill form ever offered the public. Its wonderful success in curing all forms of kidney disease has led to the introduction of numerous cheap and worthless imitations. Purchasers, for their own safety, should insist on getting Dodd's Kidney Pills. Sold in large boxes: price, fifty cents or six boxes for $2.50. To be had of all dealers

Attempt to Burn Niagara Roller Rink.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., April 20.—Another dastardly attempt was made to burn Buckley's roller rink on Park street. The building is a large frame structure and occupied by M. H. Buckley & Co. as furniture warerooms. The blaze was noticed by Night Clerk O'Neil of the G. T.R. refreshment room while on his way home, who gave the alarm. The fire was started in the basement, and was extinguished before any damage was done to the building or contents. This is the third time this building has had the torch applied to it during the last three years.

A Young Quebec Forger.

QUEBEC, April 20.—The young man Bisson, who forged and discounted a check for $673 at La Banque du Peuple three days ago, and then ran away, has been arrested at Pointe aux Trembles. Bedard, his accomplice, was arrested on the train at Champlain. About $400 was found on him. Altogether there is about $120 missing. Both Bodard and Bisson appeared before Judge Chauveau and were taken to jail pending the enquiry.

Supposed Toronto Man Drowned.

MARQUETTE, Mich., April 20.—The body of Alexander Stewart, a lumber man, was brought in for burial from Yellow Dog River. He was thrown into the river by a pile of logs breaking loose, and was drowned. He was supposed to have been from Toronto, Ont., and was unmarried.

Was the Witness Murdered?

CHICAGO, April 20.—A city paper prints a story to the effect that Jos. McLaughlin, a witness who was wanted by the prosecution in the Cronin trial, was murdered while en route to this country from Scotland, or immediately on his arrival in the country. McLaughlin has not been seen or heard of by his friends since last January, and it is said his sister, Mrs. Foy, believes he was killed to prevent him from corroborating her testimony in the trial of Dan Coughlin.

THE RULING MARKETS.

TORONTO, April 20, 1894.

Business on the local security market is fair.

The bank clearings in this city this week were only $4,884,962, as against $5,285,294 last week and $6,267,281 the corresponding week of last year.

THE FARMERS' MARKET.—No grain was offered on the street yesterday. Wheat nominal at 62c for white and 58c for goose. Barley is quoted at 42c, oats at 41c and peas at 63 to 63½c. Hay firm, ten loads selling at $10 to $12 for timothy and at $8 to $9.50 for clover.

Chicago wheat was weak at the start, strong in the centre and weak at the end. No outside business was transacted and the principal feature was the very large export clearances at the seaboard. This caused the market to become strong but free offerings again weakened it and the close showed a loss of ½ cents from yesterday. Corn followed wheat and closed a shade lower. Oats were firm.

There was in New York's stock market neither a tendency to recovery nor a general disposition to weakness. At the start the so-called Vanderbilt group of stocks scored a rather sharp decline, which was, however, checked after the first hour and followed by a return to opening prices. This early decline seemed to be due to selling of some actual long stocks. The general market toward the close showed some small signs of reviving strength, due in all probability to the change in the gold export outlook.

A Government BOMBSHELL

THROWN INTO THE

LIFE INSURANCE CAMP!

The following statement comes from the government Blue Book. It covers a period of sixteen years, and is sworn to as correct by representatives of each Company:

Statement of Premiums received and Cash Profits paid back (to Policy Holders from 1877 to 1892, both years inclusive:—

COMPANY.	Premiums Received.	Dividends Paid to Policy Holders.	Ratio of Dividends to Premiums, %
CANADA LIFE	$16,368,307	$2,946,433	18.18
Confederation Life	6,165,432	637,925	10 35
North American	2,327,082	32,857	1.41
Ontario Mutual	3,878,096	433,284	11.17
Sun Life	5,527,720	355,280	6.43

Never in the history of Life Insurance has the struggle for business been keener. Never has the conflict been hotter. Never have the Companies felt as they feel now, the necessity for throwing all the energy at their command into the field. The most intelligent and best men have to be employed. All kinds of plans of insurance are submitted. Each Company determined in securing the supremacy in the good will of the public, in establishing their name, the utterance of which, shall convey to the minds of the people the essential characteristics of

UNDOUBTED SECURITY,
RIGID ECONOMY,
GOOD INVESTMENTS,
LARGEST PROFITS

WHY?

Because millons of dollars are being paid annually for Life Insurance, and the Companies that can show these features have attained a position which will guarantee their future success, for money will flow freely into the best investments.

The Canada Life Policy Holders can look at the above statement with a smile of satisfaction, yet sympathize with their friends who are not so favourably situated.

They can throw their Life Policies down in the face of opponents and successfully challenge the production of more profitable policies, they can stand the onslaught of Agents who will almost cover them with literature and estimates of Tontine, Semi-Tontine, Return Premiums, Reserved Dividends, Annuity and Endownment plans of insurance, and with a quiet assurance feel that

As The Canada Life is Making the Most Profits, She Can Pay the Largest Profits.

READER. If you want Life Insurance choose the Canada Life and join the throng of contented policy holders who are insured with the Company carrying about 45 per cent. of the total insurance in force of the above named Companies

A New Sign by a New Firm.

A fine new sign, executed by a new firm, H. W. Watson & Son (Ocean), has been placed in front of Grafton & Co's. new clothing premises, George street. The words "Grafton & Co." in gold, rest on a black smalt background, and are flanked by beautiful carved ornaments, turned out at Mr. J. R. Donnell's establishment, Mr. John Plunkett being the executant. Messrs. Watson & Son have done the high class work on this sigh that might have been expected of them.

Burglary at Havelock.

Last Thursday evening constables Cumming and Williams arrested a trio who gave their names as Henry Tripp, Bert Robinson and S. Wells, charged with house breaking. They entered William Mitchell's house, a short distance north of the village, by knocking some of the boards off the summer kitchen and then bursting in the door. Once in they ransacked every trunk, box and drawer in the house, but evidently failed to find much that suited them as nothing seemed to be missing only bread, cakes, etc. From Mr. Mitchell's they went to Mr. Parcel's and entered his residence by bursting the lock off the door. Here they turned everything inside out as in the other case, but left without taking anything of value. They secured ten eggs and three cents, which they took to Jas. Maiden's store and exchanged for tobacco. Messrs. Matheson, Brown and Johnston, before whom they were tried, committed them for trial before the county judge at Peterborough. — Havelock correspondent of Norwood Register.

A Legal Decision.

Decision has been arrived at in the following case, as reported from Osgoode Hall:—

Henderson v. Mather.—Judgment on motion by plaintiffs to attach one David Henderson for contempt and resisting the execution of a writ of hab. fac. poss. by the sheriff of the county of Peterboro' gh. Held, that David Henderson, having entered upon the lands while the action of ejectment was pending, could not resist the sheriff even if he asserted a paramount title, and even if he did not enter under the defendant, but was left to his action. Held, upon the evidence in this case, that David Henderson had got into possession by arrangement with the defendant, and was therefore in no better position than the defendant, as against the court. Held, also, upon the evidence, that he had resisted the sheriff. Attachment awarded, but not to issue for a week. Her remarks were listened to with the closest attention, and at the close of her address the warmest appreciation was expressed.

At the afternoon meeting Mrs. J. Allum was to read a paper on "Mite Offerings" and the formal address of welcome was to be delivered by Mrs. Taylor, of Charlotte street church, to which Mrs. Mason, of Pontypool, was to respond.

Chopped Down! Chopped Down!

Messrs. Jos. Armstrong & Co. give the above forcible expression to the general reductions they have made in dry goods all over their store for the next eight days. No other word could better convey the idea they wish to express than "chopped down." They are in earnest. See their ad. in another column, and get a copy of their attractive "chopped down" price list. Saturday night after seven o'clock they will give away 75 ladies' waterproofs, worth $3, for $1.50.

Baptist Special Services.

To-night the last service of the series will be held at 7.45. For the past five weeks these revival meetings have continued, and in every respect have proved a success. A full attendance of members and others is hoped for to-night when the special service will close.

A COLLISION ON THE TRACK.

Two Horses Attached to Delivery Wagons Come Together With a Crash on Charlotte Street.

The horses attached to the Peterborough Steam Laundry delivery wagon met with an accident this morning which resulted in a broken rib for the animal. As it was being driven across the railway track at the corner of Bethune and Charlotte streets the Metropolitan Grocery delivery wagon, driven by Robert Brown, came along and the horse attached to it shying at the Belleville train which was just pulling in, almost threw itself on the laundry wagon horse. The result was that the shaft of the former vehicle was brought forcibly in contact with the laundry horse's ribs, breaking one of them. The hair was also rubbed off the animal's ribs to no inconsiderable extent.

MILLS BROS.

LAST NIGHT'S BRILLIANT CONCERT.

A Large and Select Audience—A Splendid and Diversified Programme Excellently Presented.

Mr. Hoover's past successes in presenting high class musical entertainments received hearty endorsation last night, and another was added to his signal success in this direction. A large and appreciative audience filled the opera house last night, and they had abundant opportunity to show, as they did do, their appreciation of the excellent programme provided. All the accessory arrangements, stage decorations, etc., were duly attended to. The programme opened with a brilliantly performed pianoforte solo by Mrs. Blight, accompaniste—a Caprice, by Raff. This was followed by Becker's "Spring Tide," sung by Mrs. Fenwick in a manner to place her high in the good graces of her hearers. Her voice is a clear, pure soprano, used with ease in the most trying passages. An insistent recall brought an exceedingly beautiful rendering of "Annie Laurie," sung with exquisite tenderness and taste. Mrs. Fenwick's reputation as a singer of Scotch ballads was amply justified by her production of the "Land o' the Leal," which was very sweetly sung and very heartily applauded. Mrs. Fenwick has long been a popular favourite, and her excellent vocal work last night made her better musically beloved than ever. What may well be called the treat of the evening was the recitation, by Miss Lola Ostrom, of Aldrich's "Beacon Light," and the realistic and natural manner in which she read this selection stamps her a veritable wonder as an elocutionist. The thunderous applause that greeted her compelled her re-appearance—in a quaintly humourous selection, "Grandma's Angel," which was marvellously well done. This little lady showed a remarkable self-possession and correctness of interpretation that the majority of adult professionals might envy, and if she fulfils the promise of her childhood she has a wonderfully brilliant career before her. The enthusiastic applause she received was accentuated by the present of a bouquet, which she handled with the grace of a fifth-season society belle. Her second number was an arrangement of Tennyson's "May Queen," also remarkably recited, but the effort was too fatiguing to admit of her answering a hearty recall. To the lover of strings, perhaps the most satisfactory and artistic work of the evening was contributed by Herr Rudolf Ruth, of the Toronto College of Music violoncello virtuoso, who opened with a double number, a Chopin Nocturno and a Mazurka by Popper. Herr Ruth has a fine large, rich tone, plays with great firmness, exhibits admirable technical proficiency, and artistic and just interpretation. He was very heartily applauded and in response to a loud recall gave an exquisitely sweet and masterly performance of Schuman's beautiful "Abenlied." Herr Ruth's second number—double also—was another artistic treat. The broad full tone and intense expression of Goddard's "Sur le Lac" was very satisfying and formed a fine foil to its successor, Popper's dashing Spinning Wheel song. Herr Ruth met with the exacting executive difficulties the piece presents with apparent ease and positive success. The enthusiastic applause he won was emphasized by the present of a bouquet of flowers. He scored a distinct success last night, confirmed his high reputation and reflected credit upon the excellent school of music in which he heads a department. Mr. Douglas Bird in his first number, Molloy's "Carnival, fully met the high expectations of the audience and in answer to a stirring recall gave a beautiful singing of "Songs of Araby." Mr. Bird's voice, while not of a robust character, has a beautiful quality of purity, and a pleasing resonance which suggests the clear ring of a silver bell. He makes artistic use of a singularly sweet falsetto. His singing of Blumenthal's "Evening Song" was a beautiful bit of work and his encore number, Moore's charming "Oft in the Stilly Night," was also sung with great expression and taste. Mrs. Mackelcan, in the ballad of "Lucy Gray," completely justified her reputation as a contralto of unusual power and sweetness. Her voice is full, round and pure. It is under admirable control and is used with a sympathy that always responds to the demands of her selections. Her second number, a double one, was, "O That We Two Were Maying" and "My Love Has Come," both of which received admirable treatment. Her encore numbers to both her pieces, showed that she was equally at home in lighter selections. She was most enthusiastically received and left an impression that is equivalent to a warm welcome should she ever appear here again. Denza's duet, for contralto and tenor, was admirably sung by Mrs. Mackelcan and Mr. Bird. The programme closed with the strong trio "Hail Mighty Power," sung with fine effect by Mesdames Fenwick and Mackelcan, and Mr. Bird; though at times it seemed that there had been insufficient opportunity for rehearsal. Mrs. Blight's accompaniments were all that could be desired. On the whole the concert was a great success and the large audience retired, highly delighted with the rich and varied musical treat they had enjoyed.

DR. SEXTON AT ST. PAUL'S.

Brief Sketch of This Distinguished Preacher.

Dr. Sexton will preach in St. Paul's church next Sunday morning and evening. He will also deliver a lecture in the same place on Tuesday evening. Dr. Sexton was educated at British and German Universities, and when twenty-one years of age was ordained to the Christian ministry. He become a skeptic soon afterwards, and resigned his pastorate to begin the study of medicine. Five years were devoted to this re-education and ten more to the practice of the profession, when a series of circumstances led him to a reconsideration of the faith he had abjured. From that time, which was about 1872, he resumed the ministry, and ten years ago he came to America. Dr. Sexton is a member of nearly all the best known European Scientific Societies, holds an honorary Professorship of Natural Science in the University of Naples, is a most voluminous author—his works covering almost every branch of knowledge—and is now pastor of a Presbyterian church in Western New York. Personally he is a man of commanding appearance, and speaks with an elegance of diction and a gracefulness of gesture which greatly impress the line of his argument upon an audience.

A meeting of the bicycle club is called for Monday evening in the rooms over the Palace Restaurant. Arrangements will be made for the holding of regular runs club nights. A full attendance of members is desired.

The gun club did not hold its regular weekly shoot yesterday, but, inspired with a desire to emulate the achievement of Mr. "Tobe" Fitzgerald, went off on a wild goose chase. The results are not as yet in evidence.

A meeting of the Gun Club is called in Monday evening next in S. Ray's store for order that final arrangements may be made with regard to the Campbellford Gun Club's invitation to shoot a friendly match on the 24th. All members are requested to be in attendance.

The Lindsay curlers have long been handicapped for want of a proper curling rink and at last they have decided to erect a new one. It will probably be erected on the vacant lot at Russel street and Victoria avenue, and will be one of the most convenient and commodious, for curling purposes only, in the province. The promoters are now seeking purchasers for the stock and they have already met with such success that they propose to go on with the building at once.

OVER IN LINDSAY.

The Following Items of Interest are Taken From Lindsay Watchman.

Mr. W. A. Stratton, barrister, of Peterborough, was in town on legal business on Monday.

Mr. M. Fawcett, of Peterborough, was in town on Friday.

Mr. A. Gough, of Gough Bros., Peterborough, was in town on Friday. He evidently likes to visit a live town now and again, just to keep his hand in and do a good stroke of business on the side.

Mr. G. L. Schaeffer, of the construction staff, of the Bell Telephone Co., an old Peterborough boy, was in town yesterday "sizing up" for the improvements to be made here. After an examination, he states that the Lindsay office, when moved, will be one of the best appointed and equipped in the province.

Lieut. Williamson, of the 45th Battalion, has been notified to report at Montreal in June to sail for England with the Bisley team. He has forwarded his acceptance and will be duly on hand, if nothing turns up in the meantime to prevent it.

Mr. Wm. Ferguson, of Peterborough district, agent of the Excelsior Life Insurance Co., gave us a call last week.

Mr. Richard Sheehy, of Peterborough, who has many friends in Lindsay, was among our callers last week.

Mr. J. M. Donovan, of Peterborough, was in town last week introducing a new style of pocket knife. It is a useful novelty and he secured a large number of orders.

Real merit is characteristic of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and is manifested every day in the remarkable cures the medicine accomplishes.

A POPULAR OFFICIAL.

Station Master Hayden's Woodstock Friends Regret to Part With Him.

As further evidence of the appreciation in which the new station master was held in Woodstock, the Board of Trade of that town placed the following resolution on record the other evening:—

Moved by John A. McKenzie, seconded by A. J. McIntosh, and resolved

That we, the members of the Board of Trade of the town of Woodstock, being informed of the final determination of the Grand Trunk Railway Company to remove from its agency here to a more responsible position in the city of Peterborough, Mr. William Hayden, take this opportunity of placing on record this resolution as commemorative of our high appreciation of his services rendered to the business men of the town of Woodstock.

And that we deeply regret the removal from our midst of one who has been with us during the past fifteen years, and for many years an active member of this Board, who by his uniform kindness and courtesy has endeared himself to us all.

And that we wish him every success in his new sphere of labour, fully realizing our loss as Peterborough's gain.

And that a copy of this resolution be signed by the President and Secretary and forwarded to Mr. Hayden.

A SALVE PEDDLER CREATES A COMMOTION.

He Takes a Fit on George Street and Has Not Yet Recovered Consciousness.

A salve peddler named Silverside, hailing from Uxbridge, who has been boarding with Mrs. Elliott, of George street for the past several days, took a fit on George street last night on the sidewalk just in front of the Pullman Restaurant. He was carried into Frank Fairen's and Dr. Brennan, who was passing, pronounced that the man was suffering from hysteria. Although the man was greatly deformed, the task of holding him when the spasms seized him proved almost beyond the strenghth of four men. From nine until eleven p. m. the man continued to struggle at intervals after which he lapsed into unconsciousness and was shortly afterwards removed to Nicholls' Hospital, where he is at present lying in a comotose state.

Poison in Tea.

In England tea has been discovered contaminated with lead, undoubtedly from being wrapped in packages containing lead. This is a matter which is being enquired into, inasmuch as lead is a dangerous poison and its presence in so many packages of tea may well cause grave public alarm. Mason & Co., grocers, have no confidence in package teas, as their English blends surpass all teas placed on the market.

THE DEMONSTRATION BOOM COLLAPSES.

The Citizens Will Have to Go to Campbellford for the Queen's Birthday Celebration.

The demonstration boom has collapsed and the committee in charge blame it all on the council. They think that the town fathers should have passed such a resolution in connection with the guarantee fund, as would have enabled the committee to draw on the town guarantee to the extent of its amount, in case of a shortage, before appealing to the citizens for aid. The manner in which the resolution was worded precluded any hope of such action being lawful and so the committee in disgust resolved last night to wash their hands of the affair. Campbellford may therefore expect an influx of visitors from Peterborough on the anniversary of the day of the birth of Victoria.

Although the celebration of the 24th has now been declared off, yet Peterborough evidently intends to make a strong bid for the holding of a big demonstration in town on Dominion Day. Before the idea had ever been mooted to hold a 24th celebration here, a committee composed of some of Peterborough's most hustling citizens had already drawn up a programme of sports, etc., to go into effect on the First of July. When the celebration of the Queen's Birthday was boomed they quietly let their scheme drop. They have already decided, however, to again take up work on their original idea and boom it for all it is worth. Neither the council nor citizens will be asked for a guarantee, but the members of the committee have entered into an agreement among themselves whereby each member goes down into his pocket and "puts up" his share of the expenses before the demonstration comes of. If a loss results, the members of the committee are the losers and if profits accrue, a nest egg is thereby secured to be a nucleus for a fund with which to hold a demonstration next year.

PETERBOROUGH MINING MATTERS.

Gold Hunting at Havelock.

The Toronto World says:—

The Ledyard Gold Mines Co. (Limited) are rapidly developing their gold property near Havelock, having had about 30 men at work some weeks past erecting necessary buildings and taking out ore. The machinery now on the ground will be placed in position as soon as the buildings are ready. Recent experiments at the School of Science show the sulphurets in this ore to run very rich in gold, confirming previous assays, and that there will be no difficulty in extracting from 95 to 98 per cent. of gold by chlorination process.

This process is now and has been for some years past in North and South Carolina in successful operation on an ore yielding only $4 per ton of gold, while a mill test made by Ricketts & Banks, of New York, gave $25.40 gold per ton of ore from the Ledyard gold mines.

[If this enterprise is a success, and there is every prospect that it will be a success, there is no reason why several other mining properties should not receive similar attention. Money and enterprise wisely expended and directed would do much in developing the mineral wealth of this county.

IN COATS.

There is more length to the new Coats for 1894 than has been used in Men's Dress since the 60's.

THE DOUBLE BREASTED FROCK is the most fastiduous garment man has put on in a generation. It adds to the stature of the man and conceals defects of figure. It is short waisted, snug fitting, long tailed and beautifully moulded to the figure. The Skirts are hollow at the top and form a beautiful curve, which is the most distinctive thing about the new styles.

Then there is the THREE BUTTON CUTAWAY Coat which is a high favourite. It is popularly described as the "Pigeon Wing" on account of its sloping tails. The sleeves are of moderate size and are closed with a vent for three buttons. If properly made it will cling rather closely to the hips.

The new CUTAWAY SACK COAT for business wear is one of the most popular of the season. It has caught the fancy of the young men. All the pockets should have flaps. The collar rolls low and is not faced with Silk.

Any of these garments made up to order to please the most fastidious dresser and with faultless devotion to the fashion plates

THE CARE OF CHILDREN.

THE WORK OF THE CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETIES.

Foster Homes in Place of Penal Institutions for the Homeless Youth of the Province—Pitiable Scenes in Police Courts.

When the "Blue Laws" were first drawn up it could never have been intended that children would come under their operations, for no exceptions of any kind were made, nor were there provision for any work of a distinctively reformatory character. As a result many unhappy and undesirable cases were constantly occurring in which young and apparently innocent children would be herded in police cells and gaols with old and vicious criminals for offences that could hardly be called other than the indiscretions of youth and inexperience. In many countries this defect in the legal machinery has since been remedied by the insertion of clauses providing that children should be separately and privately tried, and, instead of being consigned to goal, should be handed over to a philanthropic organization to be taught a trade and removed from the evil environment that led to his or her apprehension. Canada has made as yet but little progress in this direction. It is a standing reproach against this country, that in the crowded police courts of such cities as Toronto and Hamilton, young boys and girls, whose feet have but just strayed from the path of rectitude and who are not inherently bad, are subjected to all the defilements and corrupting influences of prison and criminal associations. It is a most pathetic sight to see in the prisoners' dock, almost hidden from view by the besotted wretches who have made crime a vocation some golden-haired youngster accused of a petty theft or a young girl whom the glitter of wealth and fashion, or perhaps the loneliness of her life has tempted to leave the path of virtue. Paraded as they now are, before the pitiless gaze of a police court crowd and a magistrate who is too much in a hurry to care for their future, they have but slim chances of reformation, and it is not to be wondered at that the whole procedure instead of saving them, becomes another agency to force them downwards. These children, especially young girls, are afterwards spotted by the gang and subjected to advances and insults which effectually prevent any tendency to a change of conduct. Little wonder then that the boys graduate to fill reformatories and the girls go out to swell the ranks of the fallen—and for the whole thing the present defective system is responsible.

The need of improved methods in the interests of the general community as well as of the children has long been felt by those engaged in child-saving work, and at their request Hon. G. W. Allan has taken the matter in hand and will introduce a bill at the present session of the Dominion Senate, dealing with the desired changes. Petitions are being extensively circulated throughout the province asking Sir John Thompson, as Minister of Justice, to see that the children as future citizens and voters should have a fair chance to grow up without the contamination of prison life. Full provision is made so far as the laws of this province are concerned in the Children's Protection Act, introduced by the Hon. J. M. Gibson, Provincial Secretary, and passed by the Legislature in '93. Unfortunately, however, nearly all the youthful offenders are accused of larceny, which is an indictable offence and subject to Dominion law and procedure.

The tendency of the age is to pay more attention to first causes. In saving the little ones from contamination, the Children's Aid Societies that are being established throughout Ontario under the direction of Superintendent Kelso, will be doing a noble work. These will enable charitably disposed and philanthropic people to pay more attention to the claims of children. The Hon. Joseph Chamberlain said recently in a speech endorsing the work of similar societies in England:

"The helplessness of these little ones, their dependence upon others, the fact that they are not responsible for the evils they endure, all plead loudly on their behalf.

It is proposed to have in each city and town of Ontario an incorporated children's aid society. These organizations will be given authority by the Government to receive the guardianship of all deserted, orphaned or neglected children. The regularly constituted agent of any society is an officer who will have power to bring before the courts any child under fourteen found begging or thieving who is without proper guardianship, who is found associating or dwelling with a thief, drunkard or vagrant, or who by reason of the neglect or drunkenness or other vices of the parents is suffered to be growing up without salutary parental control or education or in circumstances exposing such child to an idle, dissolute life.

Every citizen who knows a child to be ill-treated or to be living with immoral people is expected to notify the society at once. The agent or secretary will then issue a "warning notice," to the offender, setting forth that unless there is immediate improvement the child will be taken away. Should this latter course be necessary the little one is removed to the Children's Shelter and the judge applied to for a date of hearing. Witnesses are summoned in the usual way and the parents have the right to attend and give rebuttal evidence. If the judge decides to give the parent another chance the Society is instructed to exercise supervision and see that the home is improved, that the child attends school daily and is properly treated. If, however, it is considered in the best interests of the child as a free-born citizen and a future voter that the Society should be appointed its guardian, the judge makes out an "order of delivery" to the Society, appointing that body the legal guardian until the boy or girl is 18 years of age.

Having received charge of the child, the next duty of the Society is to provide it with a home. An important point in the law is that these children are not to be put into institutions to be artifically reared, but must be provided with foster homes—that is placed under the care of kind-hearted Christian people, who will strive to train them as good citizens under the influence of love and sympathy. This system, in addition to being by far the simplest and happiest solution of the problem, is also vastly more economical than the orphanage or industrial school plan. It has proved eminently successful in Scotland, Australia and other countries. It is believed that many good homes and hearts throughout Ontario will be opened to receive and bless these unfortunate little ones.

To aid the societies in finding such the law provides for committees of men and women in all the electoral districts. These committees will also be the local guardians of the societies' wards when placed out and will be a valuable aid to maintain the state's protectorate over the children.

All the children's aid societies will work in unison and will assist each other in providing homes for their proteges. For instance; if the Hamilton society should have a child they wished to place some distance off they would call in the assistance of the Brantford, London or Paris society, and vice versa, each society exchanging information and aiding each other in a hundred ways. If any reader has a childless home and longs to hear the patter of little feet and feel the caress of chubby, grateful arms they should send their names to the children's aid society. Just address your request to the secretary of the Children's Aid Society of St. Thomas, Toronto, Ottawa, Hamilton, Barrie, Peterboro' or any other large centre, and it will reach the right parties, only be sure and don't make this mistake: don't say you want to adopt a healthy, well-educated boy or girl of 11 or 12, for they are very scarce and very valuable. Apply for a baby or a little tot of 4 or 5, and then you have a human soul that you can train for God, and a little heart you can teach to love you and call you by the sweetest of all names—mother.

There is no better service anyone can render to church or state than the training of a child for good citizenship. It is a noble task and worthy of even some trials and disappointments. Numerous touching stories are told of the gratitude of these boys and girls to faithful foster parents after they have grown up and gone out to make their way in the world.

This work is one of the most important to the community that could possibly be taken up, and every citizen should do his best to advance it. In time it will make institutions for children unnecessary and it will provide justice and good home surroundings for the unfortunate little ones now treated so shamefully by indifferent and unworthy parents.

The first report of the Superintendent of Neglected and Dependent Children of Ontario of which this is a brief notice, marks a new and noteworthy era in the history of the philanthrophic work of the province. It means that hereafter the state in addition to providing costly prisons for the detention of criminals will also seek to stay the stream of crime by giving timely aid and recognition to child-saving work. Nursed in hot beds of vice and denied reasonable opportunities of acquiring either moral or intellectual training it is little wonder that many children have grown up to be the thieves and vagrants of the community, a constant source of unrest and insecurity. Mr. Kelso, the state superintendent, should be heartily and generously supported by the philanthropists of Ontario so that the neglected or morally-abandoned children of the province may have that care and justice secured to them which it is in the interests of all of us they should obtain.

Florence Dauenfert Hill, in her famous work, "Children of the State," says:—

"We shall probably always have among us parents who are vicious, or indolent, or incapable, or afflicted. But what we may reasonably hope, and it is much, is that more and more will their children be saved from the brand of pauperism, and passing under the control of the State, receive at her hands the good gift of honest and loving family life; then, neither disgracing her in after years, nor ashamed themselves of her guardianship, shall they rise up to call her blessed."

Religion in China.

China proper is divided into nineteen provinces. Most Chinese are Buddhists and Confucianists at the same time; many of them are also Taoists. The Mahomedans in China number about 30,000,000, and are found chiefly in the northeast and southwest. There are about 1,000,000 Roman Catholics, Protestants number 60,000. Many of the natives are still nature worshippers. There are at work in the Flowery Kingdom about 66 societies, 18 of which are British, 13 Continental and 17 American, and they support about 1,500 missionaries. Native helpers number over 20,000 and native churches 525. Last year over 500,000 copies of the Bible were distributed.

THE NEFF CASE.

The Hamilton Doctors are Puzzled About this Remarkable Cure—They Could not Cure this Case of Kidney Disease, but Dodd's Kidney Pills have Done so.

Hamilton, April 16.—The doctors of this city are showing great interest in a remarkable cure reported from Port Colborne. Harvey H. Neff, of the latter town, had an aggravated form of kidney disease, consequent on an attack of typhoid fever. Physicians could not cure the kidney disorder, but Mr. Neff has regained his health after taking five boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's was the first kidney remedy in pill form ever offered the public. Its wonderful success in curing all forms of kidney disease has led to the introduction of numerous cheap and worthless imitations. Purchasers, for their own safety, should insist on getting Dodd's Kidney Pills. Sold in large boxes; price, fifty cents, or six boxes for $2.50. To be had of all dealers.

Attention

In time to any irregularity of the Stomach, Liver, or Bowels may prevent serious consequences. Indigestion, costiveness, headache, nausea, biliousness, and vertigo indicate certain functional derangements, the best remedy for which is Ayer's Pills. Purely vegetable, sugar-coated, easy to take and quick to assimilate, this is the ideal family medicine—the most popular, safe, and useful aperient in pharmacy. Mrs. M. A. BROCKWELL, Harris, Tenn., says:

"Ayer's Cathartic Pills cured me of sick headache and my husband of neuralgia. We think there is

No Better Medicine,

and have induced many to use it.

"Thirty-five years ago this Spring, I was run down by hard work and a succession of colds, which made me so feeble that it was an effort for me to walk. I consulted the doctors, but kept sinking lower until I had given up all hope of ever being better. Happening to be in a store, one day, where medicines were sold, the proprietor noticed my weak and sickly appearance, and, after a few questions as to my health, recommended me to try Ayer's Pills. I had little faith in these or any other medicine, but concluded, at last, to take his advice and try a box. Before I had used them all, I was very much better, and two boxes cured me. I am now 80 years old; but I believe that if it had not been for Ayer's Pills, I should have been in my grave long ago. I buy 6 boxes every year, which make 210 boxes up to this time, and I would no more be without them than without bread."—H. H. Ingraham, Rockland, Me.

VANISHED.

I was engaged to be married. My mother had died when I was aged 15, and since her death I had been my father's housekeeper and companion. My brother, two years my elder, was at the bar.

We occupied a suburban villa residence—rather superior to a villa—it had a large garden in front, and a drive to the door, and a terrace on which the drawing room window opened. We liked to regard ourselves as a cut above suburban villa people. We kept a carriage and pair and had a butler and had a greataunt who was an honorable, and so I believe we were what we believed ourselves to be.

My father had been in South Africa. He had made his fortune in the Kimberley diamond mines and had made it somewhat rapidly, having had the good fortune to find a number of stones of great size and water.

One of the finest he had not disposed of. He kept it as a specimen or as a nest egg. It was rather a cause of anxiety to us, as he carried it about with him in his purse. He would not trust it in the house. He thought it safer on his person. So it might have been had he not been wont to produce it after dinner, as well as at other times when servants were present and show it and expatiate on its beauty and value.

We had a butler whom we did not like. We called him the bandit, from his wild and savage appearance. His dress was right enough, but he had a forbidding face.

He conducted himself harmlessly enough till on one occasion he got drunk at a dinner party we gave. Then my father dismissed him, and he took up his residence not far from our house, where there was a sort of slum inhabited by persons of no very fixed occupation.

My father refused him a character, or rather he said that if he were called on for a character he would state the truth concerning the man and not give a false character, as is so often done out of good nature in order to give a servant another chance. It is singular that employers should be so considerate for the employed and so little considerate for their brother employers as to let them engage servants whom they know to be unsatisfactory and likely to give trouble.

The bandit of course knew that my father carried the diamond about with him.

It was odd that the bandit should have settled in the neighborhood.

These two thoughts did not strike me, or strike me as connected, till later.

My father was, I dare say, somewhat troubled at my engagement. He would lose me, as I was going to India with my husband, and, as I have said, I was his companion and housekeeper after my mother's death. But my father was not a man of demonstrativeness, and he made no show of greatly concerning himself at my loss. He took the prospect more coolly than I perhaps liked.

My father belonged to a good family. The honorable greataunt was his aunt, not my mother's. He had been intended for the church and a family living, but had preferred going to South Africa, and eventually, through the death of an uncle, some money came to him, which in addition to what he had made in the diamond fields enabled him to retire and live up to the honorable aunt—I mean to keep a carriage and pair and a butler and have a house a cut above a villa.

In a couple of months I was to be married.

One evening I sat up late, thinking over the fire.

The season was October, the air was a little chilly, but not cold, so a fire was desirable, but not necessary. The blinds and curtains were not drawn, at my desire, as the hunter's moon was shining and was nearly full, and I am at all times fond of moonlight. When one is in love and anticipating marriage, one simply adores it. So I had told the servant not to close the shutters and draw the blinds. The windows were such as are called French—that is to say, they opened to the ground and were windows and doors in one. They unmanded the terrace.

It was my father's habit every evening before retiring to smoke a pipe on the terrace, and as I sat by the fire, with the lamp turned down so as to enjoy the moonlight, I could see him walking up and down the terrace. I could see him if I chose—I actually saw his shadow. The moonlight fell through the two long windows on the polished oak floor and oriental rugs. As I sat I saw his shadow flung on the floor before window No. 1, then a couple of seconds later on the floor before window No. 2. Then ensued a minute, as he walked to the end of the terrace, then in reverse order came his shadow in the light of No. 2, and then, after a momentary interval, his shadow obscured the light from No. 1.

How long this went on I cannot tell. Presently it stopped. I did not particularly notice when. I was thinking of my presents.

Some time after the butler came in and asked if he should lock up the house and shut the shutters. I answered "Yes," as my father, I said, had done his pipe and come in. I concluded he had come in, because I no longer saw his shadow, and I judged from his invariable habit of always coming indoors when he had done his pipe.

Next morning I came down to breakfast as usual and waited for him.

"Please, miss," said the housemaid, "master left the lamp burning in the study all night."

"Did he?" said I. It was unusual. He was so methodical in all he did.

The tea would spoil unless he came quickly. I rang for the butler. "Will you call your master? He must have overslept himself. Say there is grilled partridge, and it is getting cold, and the tea will taste bitter."

Presently the butler returned.

"Please, miss, the master is not in his room. He has not been there all night. The bed is undisturbed. The hot water has not been taken in."

My father had disappeared.

Not a trace of him could we find. Suddenly, in the moonlight, he had vanished. The last I had seen of him was his shadow cast on the drawing room floor on the previous night. As I considered, I could not say in which direction I had seen his shadow pass for the last time. I could not tell within half an hour when I had last seen it. I could not indeed swear that the shadow I had seen was that of my father, as I had not looked at him through the window.

All that I could say was that it was his custom about that time every night to walk the terrace, and that therefore probably he had walked it the night he disappeared, and his shadow it probably had been that I had seen flung on the drawing room floor.

Days, weeks passed, and not a trace of my father was found. I had not the smallest doubt as to what had become of him, nor had my brother nor any of the neighborhood. The bandit had murdered him and made away with his body for the sake of the diamond.

Of course we took action the moment we were sure he had absolutely vanished. The police watched the bandit, they searched his house, where they did find some articles that had belonged to my father, but which the ex-butler protested he had purloined while in our service. There was a handkerchief that had my father's initials, a tie to which I could swear and a breastpin, but I could not be sure that he had worn these when he disappeared.

My father did not dress for dinner when we were alone, so that he may have worn the tie and breastpin on the last occasion we dined together. I cannot say. I had not noticed what he then wore.

Nothing further to compromise the man was discovered, but that was not wonderful—four days elapsed since the disappearance of my father before the police searched the bandit's lodgings—time enough for him to make away with the diamond. What he had done with my father's body, where he had secreted it, we could never find.

We could not imagine how he had lured my father away from the terrace and down a back lane, where we conjectured the murder had been committed. Not that we found evidence there of a struggle, but that it was the only place in the immediate neighborhood where a murder could have been committed.

We had no moral doubt whatever that the bandit had murdered my father and had murdered him in the back lane I mention; that he had made him insensible by means of chloroform before dispatching, and that my poor father's body was secreted somewhere near our villa.

Nevertheless it was not possible to bring the murder home to the man, and when he disappeared shortly after we were all morally certain he had gone away to enjoy the profits of the sale of the diamond—cut maybe into two or three, so as to render it incapable of identification.

After awhile—eight months—I married and went to India. My brother let the house, as he was unmarried.

Five years later I returned from India with a couple of children, whom the climate of India did not suit. As the house was then unlet, I took it off my brother, although associated with such painful recollections. The honorable greataunt came to pay me a visit and make the acquaintance of her great-great-nephew and niece, the latter of whom was called after her.

One moonlight evening after the children had been sent to bed we were sitting together in the drawing room, when we began to talk of my poor father.

"It is rather odd when you come to think of it," said the honorable greataunt, "that Jack may be said to have disappeared before."

"How so, aunt?"

"He was intended for the church, but didn't fancy it. The living of Willowslopcum-Sludge was a family living and intended for him. We all wished it, but when sent to Oxford he did not read and was plowed at his examinations and then, ashamed to be seen, dashed away to South Africa, and there, as it happened, did well."

As we talked a shadow passed before the window No. 1. A second, and it passed before the window No. 2. Then a minute, and in reversed order it passed No. 2, and in another moment No. 1.

Our hearts stood still. I was nigh on fainting. A minute later, a step—my father's step—in the hall. Another minute he—not his shadow, he in the flesh—was in the drawing room, and I in his arms.

How came it all about?

"My dear Ethel," said my father, "to tell you the truth, I had had enough of civilization. Before I got too old I thought I'd make another venture at free life in the wilds. I've been cattle ranching, I've been a cowboy—enjoyed myself famously. When Tom was getting on at the bar, you about to be married and going to India, I did not see that I had any particular call to keep me in England. I had grown deadly tired of suburban villa life, of social conventionalities, sick to disgust of English politics. I heard that a society paper was going to send an interviewer to draw me out as the wealthy diamond man, and so the fit came on me to hook it.

"I hooked it once before and told no one. So I hooked it again and told no one. I was ashamed to tell the truth—that I was dead sick of civilization; that I loathed it to the toes. But I was, so I bolted.

"I sold my diamond in New York. By the way, I've not made money this time—I've lost it. By the way also, I've had a chap put over me in the ranch that was my butler here once. We called him the bandit. He told me he'd been accused of having murdered me, and the accusation had hung on him and forced him to leave old England. He is not a bad chap. He advanced me the money to come home and sent his respects to you, Ethel, and asked me to tell you that he did not rob and murder me and conceal my corpse."

"Oh, papa, are you now home for good?"

"Yes, I think so—but can't say. I shall have to hook it again some day, but that will be into another world altogether."—S. Baring Gould in Scotsman.

You Can't get to Much

Of a good thing. This is eminently the case with Polson's Nerviline, and great pain cure. It is an honest remedy, for it contains the most powerful, the purest, and most certain pain subduing remedies known to medical science. It is honest, for it does all it claims to do. It is honest because it is the best in the world. It only costs 25 cents to try it, and you can buy a bottle at any drug store. Nerviline cures toothache, neuralgia, pain in the back and side. All pains are promptly relieved by Polson's Nerviline.

The most agreeable, restorative tonic and mild stimulant is Milburn's Beef, Iron and Wine.

DEAR SIRS,—Your "Hairene," I believe to be a wonderful remedy. It certainly produced the most unexpected results in my case, my hair had been falling out very freely for some time, becoming anxious about the matter I thought I would experiment upon the properties of "Hairene," and one application actually "topped it at once. I applied it once or twice afterward, using in all about a quater of one bottle, and have not required to use it since. It seem to have given renewed and healthy vigor to the scalp, and I can recommend it in all confidence.

Annie Laurie.

A Pittsburg magazine, The Youth's Journal, has hunted up the history of Annie Laurie. She was not a creature of imagination, but an actual verity of whose ancestry honorable mention is made in Scotch history. Stephen Laurie was a flourishing merchant of Dumfries before James VI became king. Prior to 1611 he married Marion, daughter of Provost Coran, getting with her a handsome marriage portion. Being a man of many acres, he took the designation of Maxwelton, leaving at his death his lands and titles to his eldest son, John. The next head of the house was Robert, a baronet. He was twice married and had, by his second wife, three sons and four daughters. The birth of one of the latter is thus entered in the family register by the father, "At the pleasure of the almighty God, my daughter, Annie Laurie, was born upon the 16th day of December, 1682, about 4 o'clock in the morning, and was baptized by Mr. George Hunter, the minister of Glencairn." The well known lyric was composed by Mr. Douglas Finland, an ardent admirer of "Bonnie Annie," who did not, however, return his affections, but married his rival, Alexander Furguson.

PRESENTATION AND ADDRESS.

Mr. John Brown Remembered by His Friends.

Last evening a number of the employees of the Canadian General Electric Coy's works and other friends, met at the residence of Mr. John Brown, Lake street, to express their sympathy and regret at his leaving them, and also to show in a practical way their appreciation of his Christian character and the high esteem in which he has been held by them. The following address was read by Mr. Joseph Smart:

To Mr. John Brown:

DEAR FRIEND,—We your fellow-workmen in the employ of the Canadian General Electric Company, having learned that you are about to remove from among us, desire to express our regret at your departure and our respect and high regard for you as a fellow-employee. By your consistency of character and christian bearing you have now a warm place in our hearts, and we trust that in Lower Canada, where Providence is leading you, both you and your family may meet with prosperity.

We feel that it would not be right to let you go without showing in some real way the esteem and good-will we bear towards you. We ask you therefore to accept as a small token of our regard for you this cane, which you may find helpful to lean upon and a copy of the church hymnal, and last but not least this copy of the Word of God. We say of the Bible "not least," for it is an unerring guide to the feet and will furnish a never failing staff to lean upon and its statutes will supply songs for your pilgrimage.

Wishing you and your family a hearty God-speed, we remain yours ever.

GEO. J. TOVEY, R. HOLLAND,
A. POMFRET, W. C. MORRIS,
R. CARSON, S. POTTER,
A. BARRIE, M. PARMENTER,
JOS. SMART.

Mr. Parmenter presented the cane, hymnal and Bible, after which Mr. Brown replied in a few feeling words of thanks. He said words could not express the joy it gave him to be thus remembered by those he had gone in and out amongst for so long. He felt deeply the sorrow of parting with so many of his late fellow-workers, who had always shown so much kindness towards him. The handsome gifts thus presented to him would always be held as a remembrance of the pleasant days in Peterborough and of his shop-mates. He trusted that if all should never meet together here again, they would meet in the Home above, where there should be no more parting. A very social evening was spent together.

Mr. Brown leaves for Sherbrooke on Wednesday next.

—Four young maids stood upon the scales at Mr. J. J. Howden's meat market, George street, last evening to ascertain which one should meet the winner of the Corbett-Jackson fight, the heaviest, of course, to be the one. Their respective weights were 101, 125, 141, 145. The latter was duly elected and is anxiously waiting the result. She says she will go in training at once.

EXECUTIONS IN PARIS.

HIGHLY DRAMATIC LIKE EVERY OTHER FRENCH EVENT.

Thousands of Curiosity Seekers Fill the Place de la Roquette Whenever M. Deibler Calls the Guillotine Into Requisition—Simplicity of the Machine.

The French are nothing if not dramatic. There is not a page in their history that does not supply a stage picture. Their everyday life is full of situations. They are, says the Illustrated American, born comedians and, like members of old-fashioned stock companies, are fully capable of playing tragic roles when called upon.

You recognize this dramatic instinct on the prize day at the Lycee, when M. C. Maire crowns the most deserving pupils, and all the relations, with tears pouring down their cheeks, embrace the lucky youths. You see it when the outgoing rosiere tears off the wreath that has been hers for a year the moment another wreath is placed upon the brows of her successor in virtue. The dame de la halle may use as bad, nay, even viler language than her sister of Billingsgate, when she is paying compliments to a rival market woman, but then she does it so much more picturesquely. She never forgets what she owes to her audience. The statesman in the chamber of deputies or in the senate plays to the gallery. The criminal on trial is continually striking attitudes. And should it happen that he be condemned to death, he has the consolation, at least, that his last moments will be spent in the midst of most dramatic surroundings.

The president has refused to exercise executive clemency. The criminal confined in the "Depot des Condamnes" of the prison of La Roquette must die in a few days.

A rumor spreads early one morning that "Monsieur de Paris," his assistants, and the well known wagon containing the implements of death, have appeared on the Place de la Roquette. It spreads like wildfire. The rabble arrives and finds that barriers have been raised at the ends of the streets that run into the place. Infantry lines the avenue that runs between the "Depot des Condamnes" and the "Depot des Detenus"—the prison of those who have been tried and condemned and of those still awaiting trial.

There is a heavy tramp of cavalry and a troop of the splendidly mounted Gardes ride by. Some take their places at the debouches of the place; others draw up in two lines opposite the guillotine, raised on four stones placed crosswise.

The very simplicity of the guillotine adds to the effectiveness of the scene, contrasted as it is with the uniforms of the cavalry and the still more brilliant uniforms of blue and silver worn by some officials who hover about the instrument of death—the whole dimly lit up by the gas lamps. A carriage drives up to the gateway, and a judge in his official robes descends. For a brief moment a hush falls upon those within the barriers—for even they have not been above coarse badinage. In a few minutes the victim will be aroused from his slumbers, and be told to prepare for the last toilette and death.

The dawn breaks gray and cold. The gas man turns out the last lamp. Sparrows twitter in the trees or hop about the guillotin. The crow of a cock in the "Depot des Detenus" is answered by one from the "Prison of the Condemned," and all the cocks of the neighborhood join in. M. Deibler, the executioner, in black frock coat and tall silk hat, comes out of the prison and tests the guillotin. When he is satisfied that it will work all right, he returns. Presently the gateway opens and the procession of death is seen. The cavalry draw their sabers, the infantry present arms, and all hats are raised as the prisoner, in his shirt with the collar cut off, his hair close cropped, his arms bound behind his back, and his feet tied together so that he can only shamble along, appears. A priest, walking by his side, holds a crucifix before him. The guillotine is reached in a few seconds. The prisoner is embraced by the priest. Deibler's two aides seize him by his pinioned arms, throw him against the bascule (see-saw), which swings into place; the lunette falls and stretches the neck; "M. de Paris" touches a spring; down comes the weighted knife; the head falls into a basket; a great stream of blood shoots from the trunk; the body is rolled into a box; basket and box are placed in a wagon; the cavalry wheel into line, and "M. de Paris'" latest victim is carried off to Ivry.

It has seemed a long quarter of an hour between the moment that the prisoner first appeared and that when the procession started for Ivry. We have timed it with a stop watch. It was exactly forty-two seconds.

A Printer's Error.

After all there is nothing so refreshing as a printer's error. It is frequently the most readable thing in a publication. Only the other day a colonial journal, soaring aloft with scientific aspirations, said: "There need be demand no longer for Jules Verne's and other blackguards' works of imagination." The colonial journal felt that some reparation was due to Jules Verne and "other blackguards." In a subsequent issue the following request appeared: "For 'other blackguards' please read Rider Haggard's."—London Brief.

Quaker Help for General Booth.

A second contribution has been received for the "Darkest England" scheme, per Councillor J. H. Lloyd, from the Society of Friends in Birmingham, amounting to £1636. This is of increased value (the Salvationists say), as it has only been paid after careful investigation of the work done, and as coming from a body of shrewd business men.—Westminster Gazette.

Toronto Woman Sues for Divorce.

NEW YORK, April 20.—Mary Adelyn Torrance, who was married on July 16, 1879, at Toronto, Canada, to George W. Torrance, has begun an action in the Supreme Court against him for an absolute divorce, and Judge Beach has granted an order for the service of the summons on him by publication. Mrs. Torrance has resided in this city since October, 1891. Her husband lives in Toronto, Canada, where he has resided for fifteen years. She charges that he has been living with another woman since November 1 last. Messrs. Edgar and Lourey are the counsel for Mrs. Torrance.

Smallpox in New Brunswick.

SUSSEX, N.B., April 20.—This village is somewhat excited on discovering that a case of smallpox exists in the place. Dr. Byrne is the victim. He returned home from New York on Monday, where he had graduated with high honors. He had been in attendance on smallpox cases just before leaving New York. The house has been quarantined and the Government has ordered vaccination of all people in the place in view of the amount of travel between this place and St. John. It is not unlikely that a general vaccination will be ordered within the next day or two.

Beheaded by a Train.

HALIFAX, N.S., April 20.—Thomas Boutilier, a city employe, was working on a sidewalk on Upper Water street. He took a weak turn and fell on the Intercolonial railway branch running to Government wharf. A train of cars came along and passed over his head, almost severing it from his body. Death was instantaneous. Boutilier was 49 years old, married and leaves a wife and two children. He was subject to fits.

Little Girl Badly Burned.

VANCOUVER, B. C., April 20.—An unfortunate accident occurred in the household of Mayor Anderson. His three-year-old daughter in some manner became possessed of a bundle of matches with which she began playing. They became ignited and some bedding and the child's clothing caught fire. The little one was horribly burned before the flames were extinguished. Her recovery is doubtful.

Parliamentary Librarian Insane.

OTTAWA, April 20.—Charles A. Martin, employed in the parliamentary library, is in the police cells for safe-keeping. He shows a weakening of mind. His cousin, the M.P.P. for Provencher, Manitoba, is looking after the sick man, who was removed last evening to Montreal for treatment.

Buffalo Woman Suicides.

BUFFALO, April 20.—Mrs. Nancy Gardiner, 50 years of age, a woman in fairly comfortable circumstances, suicided by taking poison. She left a note addressed to her servant, saying that the writer had decided that she was no longer of any use on earth and would destroy herself by taking prussic acid.

Gave Birth to Twins at Fifty-Seven.

BALLSTON, N. Y., April 20.—Mrs. James Webster, living in Milton, aged 57 years, gave birth last Sunday evening to twin boys. There is no parallel case in medical records.

Our Boys' Suits are very popular and fast sellers. Mothers and fathers are invited to bring in their boys and examine our Suits and learn our little prices. 3,000 Boys' Suits, at LESS than wholesale price, to select from.

Dr. Gilmour's Bill Creates a Long and Spirited Discussion.

REPORTED FROM COMMITTEE

An Amendment to the Bill Erecting Nipissing Into a Provincial Judicial District Lost on Division—To Finish Work on Thursday.

TORONTO, April 21.—The bill respecting Upper Canada College was referred back to Committee of the Whole yesterday and a number of amendments were made. The bill was then reported and the third reading fixed for Monday.

District of Nipissing.

On the motion for the third reading of Sir Oliver Mowat's bill to erect Nipissing into a provincial judicial district, Mr. Meredith moved in amendment that the bill be referred back to Committee of the Whole with instructions to amend it by providing that unless the Lieutenant-Governor by the 1st of June designates by proclamation the place which is to be the district town, then a vote of the people of the district shall be taken. He said under the bill as it stood the government had the power to select the district town. The object of the amendment was to prevent them from dangling this matter before the people in the district of Nipissing at the coming election.

The House divided, and the amendment was rejected by 49 to 29. The bill was then read a third time.

Appointing Deputy Police Magistrates.

On the motion for the appointment of deputy police magistrates, Mr. Meredith moved to refer the bill back to the committee of the whole, for the purpose of adding an amendment preventing the deputy magistrate from obtaining for his own use while he is acting for the police magistrate the fees attached to the office, but providing that they shall go to the municipality. The House went into committee on the bill. The amendment was agreed to, and the bill was reported and given a third reading.

Settlement of Small Estates.

Mr. Baxter enquired whether it was the intention of the Government during the present session to introduce any legislation to provide for the lessening of expenses in connection with the settlement of small estates under wills of deceased persons.

Sir Oliver Mowat replied that the Legal Committee had recommended that in all estates under $1,000 the costs should only be one-half of what they now are. Something, however, might also properly be done in regard to estates over that figure. It might be advisable that the rules should be suspended in regard to estates over $1,000, except where the interested parties desired to call into activity the jurisdiction of the court. The Government had not prepared any measure dealing with this question, but perhaps the report of the Legal Committee might be adopted, and, as he had suggested, the rules might be suspended in the case of estates over $1,000 until after next session.

Goderich Police Magistrate.

Mr. Whitney moved for a return of copies of all correspondence and communications which have passed between the municipal council of the town of Goderich or any officer or member thereof, or any ratepayer of the said town, and any member or officer of the Government with reference to the appointment of a police magistrate for the said town; and also of all petitions for or against the appointment. He explained that from information he had received it would appear that the majority of the inhabitants at Goderich were opposed to the suggested appointment of a police magistrate. The town council, it was alleged, had endorsed such an appointment against the wishes of the majority of the inhabitants, and he was instructed that a petition, which was signed by 475 out of 670 persons who voted at the last municipal election, had been sent to the Government opposing it.

Sir Oliver Mowat replied that he knew nothing of the controversy going on. Only one petition had been received by the Government asking for the appointment, and also a letter stating that a difference of opinion prevailed. If a petition against the appointment had been forwarded he had not seen it.

License Law in Rat Portage.

Mr. Marter moved for a return of copies of all papers, letters, statements and documents in reference to the enforcement or non-enforcement of the Liquor License Act in the town of Rat Portage for the years 1891, 1892 and 1893, and up to the present time of the year 1894. He said he had received a letter from Mr. Robert E. Foy, a resident of the place, which charged that the inspector of Rat Portage did not pay any attention to the enforcement of the law. It was charged that liquor was sold from one week's end to the other, and that the law in regard to closing hours was not observed. Complaint had been made, Mr. Foy declared, to the member for West Algoma, but without result. These complaints were brought to the attention of the Attorney-General when he visited Rat Portage by a deputation, and he promised that a provincial inspector would be sent there to make an investigation.

Mr. Conmee said it was true that charges were made against the license officials, but they were afterwards withdrawn. The hotelkeepers at Rat Portage were Conservatives, and the Mayor was also a Conservative.

The motion created considerable discussion. Mr. Whitney read a letter from Mr. Foy in question, giving the particulars of the interview the temperance people of Rat Portage had with Sir Oliver Mowat. Sir Oliver Mowat said it was rather a remarkable thing that up to now he had not received a single communication on the subject from this gentleman.

Hon. Mr. Harcourt stated that an inspector was sent up to Rat Portage to investigate the charges made, but they were withdrawn. He had no reason to doubt the bona fides of the letters read by Mr. Marter, but none of the gentlemen mentioned had written to the department concerning the subject.

The motion passed.

Passed in Committee.

These bills passed through committee: To amend the Street Railway Act—Mr. Balfour. To amend the General Road Company's Act—Mr. Wood (Brant). To establish the Workman's Lien for Wages Act—Mr Sharpe. To amend the High Schools Act—Mr. Godwin.

Mr. Tait withdrew his bill to limit the hours of labor on Saturday. He said the bill had been printed for distribution, and it was regarded with a good deal of favor. It would be re-introduced at a future time

Canal and Aqueduct Bill.

The House then went into committee on Dr. Gilmour's bill incorporating the Georgian Bay Ship Canal and Power Aqueduct Company.

This bill created the discussion of the day, and was debated until the House rose for recess. Hon. Mr. Fraser opposed it, and said he considered the canal but a visionary scheme. Mr. Clarke (Toronto) also strongly opposed the bill, declaring the scheme was held up to catch the public eye. Hon. Mr. Gibson did not favor the bill personally, but deputation after deputation waited upon the Private Bills Committee in its support, and there was no disposition on the committee's part to throw it out.

After recess Dr. Gilmour renewed the discussion, supporting the measure.

Mr. Meredith objected to the bill on the ground that proper notice had not been given. It would be a most unheard of thing to allow this company to be originated, and to permit them to rove anywhere they pleased over the province.

Hon. Mr. Fraser agreed that the bill gave a roving charter. There was not a single phrase in the bill that bound the company to do one dollar's worth of work on the canal.

Hon. Mr. Gibson said that he did not intend to see the bill murdered without a protest. The objections raised should have been made when the bill was before the committee.

Messrs. Conmee and Davis supported the bill.

Hon. Mr. Fraser and Mr. Meredith suggested amendments to the bill, which were allowed to stand as notices of motion.

The bill was reported and will be considered at a later date.

The bill to incorporate the Hamilton Radial Railway was considered in committee and reported.

Drawing to a Close.

It was arranged that under the understanding that the House would wind up business by Thursday there would be no sitting to-day, as had been intended, and the House adjourned.

THE MONTANA CONFESSION.

Strong Affidavit Made by the Sheriff of Gallatin County.

BOZEMAN, Montana, April 21.—Sheriff White Caldwell, of Gallatin county, has made a very strong affidavit before District Clerk John McLeod, denouncing W. J. Stevenson in strong terms.

He swears that it would have been next to impossible for the man Dutton to have got away had he existed, owing to the strict search the police made for him, and adds:

"I do not believe the statement made by the said Stevenson to be true, either wholly or in part, and if the same were supported by his affidavit in addition to the notarial certificate already made by him I would still disbelieve it, his character for veracity being such as I consider would justify me in doing so.

"That I believe it to be a fake of the rankest kind fabricated by Stevenson alone, with or without a purpose, and that no such person as Robert Dutton or any other person ever made or offered to make such affidavit of confession."

Failures for the Week.

NEW YORK, April 21.—R. G. Dun & Co. report the failures of the past week to have been somewhat more important than usual. They number 219 in the United States against 186 last year, and 45 in Canada against 23 last year.

Bradstreet's reports that the number of failures in the United States continues relatively small, numbering 212 this week against 211 last week and 217 in the week a year ago. Special telegrams from leading cities in the Dominion of Canada show continued quiet in mercantile and industrial circles. There are 31 business failures reported from the Dominion of Canada this week against 38 last week and 31 last week a year ago.

A Painter's Narrow Escape.

LONDON, Ont., April 21.—A railway crossing accident with a remarkable termination occurred at the asylum crossing of the Grand Trunk at Pottersburg. John Robinson, a painter in the employ of R. Lewis & Co., was coming to work and had to come over the crossing on his way. He is very deaf, and just as he stepped on the track he was struck by a freight train and carried about a quarter of a mile before the train could stop on the down grade just east of the city limits. Strange to say the man escaped almost scatheless.

Appointed Sheriff of Wentworth.

HAMILTON, April 21.—The rumor is current here that John W. Murton has secured the Shrievalty of Wentworth county and the new sheriff is being congratulated on all sides. Mr. Murdon on being interviewed did not desire to make any statement for publication, but indicated positively that the rumor is correct. Dr. McMahon, of Dundas, who was a candidate for the office, has sold his practice in the valley city and is moving to Toronto.

NON-JURY ASSIZE SITTINGS.

The Business Concluded—Attempt of the Cases Tried.

Following is the conclusion of the report of the assize sittings without a jury, held by Mr. Justice Meredith. It required a long night session to reach the end of the docket.

Wilkins vs. Lytle—Was an action to set aside the transfer of a lot on Chamberlain street from Mrs. Wilkins to her half sister, Mrs. Lytle. For an insufficient consideration it was claimed that plaintiff's illiteracy was taken advantage of and a $700 property conveyed for $50, plaintiff retaining a life interest. A compromise was effected—defendant on receiving $200 giving up the property. Messrs. Dumble & Johnston for plaintiff; Mr. Stone for defendant.

Dumble vs. Hurley et al—Was an action for trespass, the plaintiff claiming that defendants had trespassed by placing buildings that encroached on his land, which were on the line of the old Peterborough and Chemong Railway. Judgment for plaintiff. Messrs. Dumble & Johnston for plaintiff; Mr. Stone and Mr. Watson, Q.C., for defendants.

Walker vs. McHugh—An action brought by the widow of the late Geo. Walker on behalf of herself and infant child, to fix the responsibility of the executors of her husband's will, for certain money, which one of the executors had appropriated to his own use. Two of the executors had left the limits, and though the remaining executor admitted his liability the case was referred to Toronto to fix terms of judgment. Messrs. Dumble & Johnston for plaintiff, Messrs. McIntyre & Stewart for defendants.

Dickson Company vs. Mulhern.—An action brought by the Dickson Company to recover from Mr. H. A. Mulhern, arrears of rent, $1375; of Otonabee flouring mills and $250 for use of storehouse adjoining on the east. The defence was that the amount of head of water the plaintiff was entitled to was 16 feet though he actually had as it was claimed he knew, only from seven to ten feet. The term of lease was ten years, the rate being $2,500 per year for the first half, and $3,000 for second half. At the end of last September, defendant returned the keys to plaintiff, who refused to accept them, and instead brought action to recover the amount of three quarters rent. His Lordship held that the defendant's contention as to the head of water was only an evasion of responsibility. Judgment for plaintiff and full claim and costs, the defendant to carry out the terms of the lease. Mr. A. P. Poussette, Q.C., for plaintiff; Mr. Stone and Mr. Watson, for defendants.

BLAZE AT MILLBROOK.

The Queen's Hotel Stables Destroyed by Fire.

Last Thursday night, 19th inst, the stables of the Queen's Hotel at Millbrook, were discovered to be on fire. This is not the first time by any means, that this has occurred, in fact it is the third within a few months, and the public are weary of its recurrence. This time the fire originated in the loft. Mr. R. Roddy, the tenant of the hotel, says he saw a man come to the front of the stable and when observed retreat to the rear. At 8.30, a few minutes after this, the fire broke out. It was dark and rainy at the time, so that anyone seen could not be clearly distinguished. The firemen promptly turned out and worked well, succeeding in confining the fire to the stables alone, the sheds being saved. No damage was done to the hotel or adjoining buildings, though Mr. Alex. Ferguson's place had a narrow escape. One unfortunate circumstance was the loss of a horse valued at about $100, which Mr. Rutherford, of South Monaghan, had just driven in and put up while he attended the entertainment of the Foresters—the poor animal perished in the flames. The loss on the building and contents, feed, etc., is estimated at $800 to $1,000, insured. Mr. George Thorne, owner of the building.—Port Hope Guide.

THE NEFF CASE.

The Hamilton Doctors are Puzzled About this Remarkable Cure—They Could not Cure this Case of Kidney Disease, but Dodd's Kidney Pills have Done so.

Hamilton, April 16.—The doctors of this city are showing great interest in a remarkable cure reported from Port Colborne. Harvey H. Neff, of the latter town, had an aggravated form of kidney disease, consequent on an attack of typhoid fever. Physicians could not cure the kidney disorder, but Mr. Neff has regained his health after taking five boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's was the first kidney remedy in pill form ever offered the public. Its wonderful success in curing all forms of kidney disease has led to the introduction of numerous cheap and worthless imitations. Purchasers, for their own safety, should insist on getting Dodd's Kidney Pills. Sold in large boxes; price, fifty cents, or six boxes for $2.50. To be had of all dealers.

SATURDAY, APRIL 21, 1894.

WE SHOULD DEMONSTRATE.

Another of Her Majesty's birthdays is to pass without an organized civic observation of this great anniversary. Of course loyalty does not consist in gun club pops, squibs and athletic and equine sports, but it is a reproach on our own enterprise that the day, of all others, calling for public rejoicing and merry-making, is suffered to pass by without providing our citizens without some relaxing amusement. The natural tendency of human nature—and Peterborough human nature is of the average quality—is to see sights and to assist at demonstrative functions, and if these are not provided at home our citizens will most certainly go abroad to—places where there is more public spirit displayed. No one will object in the abstract to citizens going out of town. But the objection is to their taking good money out of town and spending it there, when we should, as our position, importance and ability fit us to do, arrange to attract outsiders here to spend their money. The extraordinary doctrine was propounded at the council meeting on Wednesday night that money, spent in town on a demonstration day, would only benefit the hotel-keepers, confectioners and eating houses. No money, however spent, is wasted. A local jeweller illustrates this. He relates that at one time a hotel-keeper had been "dickering" with him for the purchase of a gold watch for his wife, but lack of funds on the part of the Boniface prevented the transaction being consummated. But a big demonstration day came—the celebration of the Queen's Jubilee—and thousands of people visited the town. The hotel-keeper had a big day also, and the day following was a big day for his wife, for he visited the jeweller with his hundred dollars and took the watch home to his wife. The jeweller then had the money to pay an employing carpenter a bill which he owed him; then the carpenter could pay his workmen, the workmen could then pay the "butcher and baker, the tinker and tailor." A score of hotel-keepers and several confectioners and eating houses had money to pay hundreds of bills and there was a widespread financial benefit from the thousands spent in town on the 20th of June, 1887, just as there would be if we could attract thousands of visitors to spend thousands of dollars here on May 24th or July 1st. Besides our citizens would have a holiday worth having at home, with the added consolation that outsiders were footing the bill. The demonstration idea is too good to be knocked out in the first round. Keep it alive.

A BILL providing for a succession tax has been introduced in the Legislature of Prince Edward Island. The Ontario act came into force on July 1, 1892. It exempts all estates which do not exceed $10,000 and near relatives, such as father, mother, children, husband and wife, pay no duties unless the estate exceeds $100,000. In this way the act exempts 981 estates out of every 1,000, judging from the results of 1893. The receipts in that year amounted to $45,507, and were paid by 27 estates. Two estates, one in Ottawa and the other in Toronto, paid $29,227, more than half of the whole amount of the duties paid during the year. These two were estates of unmarried men, whose property passed to collateral and not near relatives of the deceased, such as wife or children, and this was an estate in Toronto valued over the $100,000 limit.

THE Ottawa Citizen claims that Ottawa heads the list of cities for the greatest number of hotels in proportion to population—one for every four hundred. Is this to be accounted for by the necessity for stimulants which the presence of a large body of hardworking statesmen and senators creates?

Indigestion is stubborn, but K. D. C. overcomes it.

THE arguments and objections of Mr. Miscampbell in the House with regard to the timber policy of the Government of Ontario imply too much. The great burden of the complaint was that by selling timber limits the timber supplies of the country are lessened. This is in the main true, but the country has received value for what has been sold. But if the objection is good against selling timber limits now, it is equally forcible against ever selling any timber; for timber can never be sold without diminishing the quantity of timber owned by the country. Is the timber of the country to be forever kept from sale or use?

THE Empire says Hon. Mr. Ross met his match in Dr. Ryerson.—a Lucifer match—since the extravagant statements upon which Dr. Ryerson has so often been tripped up in the House, suggest an association of ideas with the father of lies—but the Speaker objects to unparliamentary language.

MR. J. M. GIBSON'S bill amending the law in regard to benefit societies makes special provision for the benefit schemes in connection with trades unions. It will enable them to obtain the privilege of registration for a nominal fee, and simplifies the processes connected with it.

ANCIENT, MIDDLE AND MODERN

Modern Records of a Wonderful Agency.

History is divided into three parts, ancient, middle and modern. It is the guide of the statesman and the favourite study of the enlightened scholar. It is the common school of mankind, equally open and useful to princes and subjects. Modern history teems with records of grand reforms inaugurated for the benefit of the masses. Medical science has wrought a complete reformation in the work of treating sore throat, hoarseness, coughs and dangerous croup. Scientific research has given the world Harvard Bronchial Syrup, the most efficacious remedy ever compounded. The best physicians on this continent have sanctioned its use and prescribe it daily. Thousands in Canada can boast of pleasant and happy results from Harvard Bronchial Syrup; thousands of young children attacked by croup have been saved from death. Harvard Bronchial Syrup is our great national remedy.

HOW TO CELEBRATE THE DAY.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Appearances point to the fact that there will be a celebration on Her Majesty's birthday in this town, and schemes for drawing the people out are invited by the committee in charge of said celebration. No doubt that there will be considerable expense in connection with the day's doings, but the events in the morning and afternoon ought to draw—and will draw—sufficient patronage if rightly managed to pay all expenses and allow the general public to see the display of fireworks in the evening free of charge. And we all know that there is nothing that gratifies the juvenile heart, and also the feminine heart, more than a pyrotechnical display. I think that this would be a move that would meet with universal favour. I also think that this display should take place up-town—at the Central Park for instance. The driving park is altogether too far away to go to at night with three or four children, have to pay car fare there and back for each, and admittance into the grounds besides for each. It makes a big hole in a man's pocket-book, particularly in these hard times. If the committee are unable to give us the fireworks free at the Central Park let them erect a number of seats in a "charmed circle" and charge 25c. each for those who are able and willing to pay. Let us hear the opinions of others.

CITIZEN.

[Though "Citizen's" letter was evidently penned before he was aware that the contemplated demonstration was off, still it may serve to show, that there is a public interest in the matter, and how the subject of celebration is popularly regarded.]

It may be that he had in mind
That draught which seems to make a truth
Out of the fable ages old,
For drinking it the old grow young;
It is, indeed, a draught of gold,
Surpassing all by poets sung.

The draught meant is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, of course. It is a most potent rejuvenator of the weakened and debilitated system. It drives out all poison, all impurity, enriches the blood, and makes the old and worn out feel young and vigorous. Ponce-de-Leon didn't discover it, but Dr. Pierce did, and he rightly named it when he called it a "Golden Discovery."

The physical discomfort endured by ladies who have to wear an ill-fitting pair of Corsets is a punishment that need not be borne any longer.

FIRST.—Avoid all dealers who carry old stock so long that they are forced to reduce the price of their "torture packs" to the bare cost of the material in order to get rid of them; or who send out girls totally ignorant of the harm they do by taking measures regardless of the form or figure.

SECOND.—Consult MRS. ENSIGN at her private parlours on Simcoe St, who will personally fit you with a pair of Corsets conducive to health and comfort, and will give you just exactly the support and beauty of figure you so much need and admire.

Our Boys' Suits are very popular and fast sellers. One mother from near Lakefield, who prides herself on being a good judge of Boys' Clothing, says she "never buys from us without first examining the 'Great Bargains' offered by our neighbours," but she always decided that "our every day value in any line of Clothing beats them all."

Mothers and fathers are invited to bring in their boys and examine our Suits and learn our little prices. 3,000 Boys' Suits, at LESS than wholesale price, to select from.

As Lacrosse and Baseball will be boomed this summer, we have decided to give with Every Boys' Suit, his choice of a Lacrosse Stick and Ball, or a Bat and a Ball.

Worthless Pianos and Organs

Are made in large quantities, because foolish people buy where prices are lowest, without giving a thought to quality. Any one who thinks, will not buy a "Piano at $170, or an Organ at $80, guaranteed for nineteen years," because it is cheap. Any one who thus thinks will avoid learning by experience that it would have been cheaper to pay, say $300, for his piano.

We can furnish an Organ for $30, but we will not. We live here and have to "face the music" this year and other years to come.

Fashions for Men.

IN COATS.

There is more length to the new Coats for 1894 than has been used in Men's Dress since the 60's.

THE DOUBLE BREASTED FRONT is the most fastidious garment man has put on in a generation. It adds to the stature of the man and conceals defects of figure. It is short waisted, easy fitting, long tailed and beautifully moulded to the figure. The skirts are hollow at the top and form a beautiful curve, which is the most distinctive thing about the new styles.

Then there is the THREE BUTTON CUTAWAY Coat which is a high favourite. It is popularly described as the "Pigeon Wing" on account of its sloping tails. The sleeves are of moderate size and are closed with a vent for three buttons. If properly made it will cling rather closely to the hips.

The new CUTAWAY SACK COAT for business wear is one of the most popular of the season. It has caught the fancy of the young men. All the pockets should have flaps. The collar rolls low and is not faced with Silk.

Any of these garments made up to order to please the most fastidious dresser and with faultless devotion to the fashion plates

HONOR TO DARTMOUTH.

Prof. Edward E Phelps, M.D., LL. D., Whose Giant Intellect Discovered Paine's Celery Compound.

Two giants among men—the greatest statesman and the greatest physician that America has produced—Daniel Webster and Edward E. Phelps—have both done honour to Dartmouth college, one as a student, the other as an instructor.

To Prof. Edward E. Phelps, M.D., LL.D., the world to-day owes longer life and more freedom from sickness than to any other physician.

Every Dartmouth alumnus of more than a dozen years' standing remembers the awe in which he held the keen observer whose name appeared in the college catalogue next to that of the president as professor of materia medica; and every younger graduate has admired the complete museum of medical botany which Dr. Phelps gave to the college.

But it was the world-famed discovery of Prof. Phelps of an infallible cure for those fearful ills that result from an impaired nervous system and impure blood which has endeared the great doctor to the world and made his life an era in the practice of medicine.

Prof. Phelps was born in Connecticut and graduated from military school at Norwich, Vt. He studied medicine with Prof. Nathan Smith, of New Haven, Conn., and graduated in medicine at Yale.

His unusual talent soon brought him reputation and prominence among his professional brethren. In 1835 he was elected to the professorship of anatomy and surgery in the Vermont university. In 1841 he was appointed lecturer in materia medica and medical botany in Dartmouth college. The next year he was chosen professor of the chair, then vacated by Prof. Robby, and occupied the chair, the most important one in the country, until a few years before his death in 1880.

He had for years foreseen the dangers of the American way of living. He went about to find a scientific, common sense remedy to cure the common evils that, under one name and another, result from an unhealthy state of the nervous system, and within a score of years have seemed to be sweeping over the country like an epidemic.

He succeeded.

He gave to the medical profession a celebrated remedy, which has since come to be known the world over as Paine's Celery Compound.

It was Dr. Phelps' prescription which ever since has been freely used and prescribed by the most eminent of the profession. The formula was furnished to all reputable physicians. They found the wonderful remedy to be exactly what was claimed for it, a great nerve and brain strengthener and restorer. It was demonstrated beyond doubt that Paine's Celery Compound would cure nervous debility and exhaustion, neuralgia, sleeplessness, dyspepsia and all blood diseases.

It was as harmless as it was good, and it was the universal advice of the medical profession that the compound be placed where the general public could secure it, and thousands of people have every year proven the wisdom of this good advice.

Paine's Celery Compound has given the people of Canada the best and strongest testimonials ever published. No other medicine before the public has ever been favoured with such a mass of home evidence. All classes, from the labourer to men and women of national reputation, have declared that Paine's Celery Compound is worthy of all that has been said in its favour.

As a well known physician in this city says:

"Paine's Celery Compound is not a patent medicine; it is not a sarsaparilla; it is not a mere tonic; it is not an ordinary nervine—it is as far beyond them all as the diamond is superior to cheap glass.

Fire in an Orphans' Home.

OTTAWA, April 21.—The St. Patrick's Orphans Home was badly scorched yesterday. It is thought the fire was the work of an incendiary. During the excitement a woman jumped from the second storey, after having made an attempt to reach the fire escape. She was pretty badly bruised. Medical care was immediately afforded. All the children at the first signs of danger were safely conveyed out of the building and distributed among the neighbors. The building is considerably damaged.

Very Considerate Burglars.

NEWMARKET, April 21.—Burglars entered the butcher store of Mr. Charles Denning and drilled the safe. There was only 50 cents in the cash drawer, but the midnight mechanics took 40 cents and left 10 cents with a note informing the proprietor that he could buy himself a drink with it in the morning.

Czarewitch Will Marry.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 21.—The betrothal is announced of the Czarewitch to the Princess Alix Victoria Helena Louise Beatrice of Hesse, all obstacles having been removed. The Czarewitch is 26 years old. Princess Alix is four years younger and is the sister of the Grand Duke of Hesse, who was married on Thursday.

THE RULING MARKETS.

TORONTO, April 21, 1894.

Local security market is fairly active and firm.

THE FARMERS' MARKET.—Grain is nominal in absence of receipts. Wheat nominal at 63c for white and 58c for goose. Barley is quoted at 42c, oats at 41c and peas at 63 to 63½c. Hay firm, 15 loads selling at $11 to $13 for timothy.

In Chicago there was a quiet market in wheat. Offerings were light and there was but little actual business. The close showed a gain of ½c for the day. Corn was firm closing with a fractional gain. Oats steady. Receipts for to-day were: Wheat, 90 cars; corn, 275 cars; oats, 247 cars; hogs, 15,000 head.

Bank clearings for eighty-two principal cities in United States for week ending April 19, 1894, $909,389,815, decrease 26.9. Clearings, Dominion of Canada: Montreal—$10,751,143; increase, 1.0. Toronto—$4,884,982½ decrease, 22.5. Halifax—$989,342; blank. Hamilton—$619,-1 299; decrease, 36.0. Winnipeg—$760,130; blank. Total—$17,244,766. Last week's total not included.

Bradstreet's to day says: With the exception of the prospect for a still further extension of strikes and other labor disturbances no plainly retarding influence is manifesting itself. Exports of wheat (flour included) from both coasts this week amount to 3,019,000 bushels, a gain of 33 per cent over the preceding week. In the like week last year the total exported was 3,968,000 bushels.

New York's stock market was of a purely professional character. But it was at the same time a reaction from a decline quite as professional and to that extent might be construed as normal. Despite much argument to the contrary the movement of prices showed that the St. Paul Company's March report was construed as favorable. The Granger securities led the recovery, and the day's conspicuous advances elsewhere were in stocks such as Western Union, New York Central and Louisville, the stocks whose movement is usually the faithful index of financial sentiment. The orders of export gold for to day fell a little short of expectations.

Don't Delay.

It is your duty to yourself to get rid of the foul accummulation in your blood this spring. Hood's Sarsaparilla is just the medicine you need to purify, vitalize and enrich your blood. That tired feeling which affects nearly every one in the spring is driven off by Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great spring medicine and blood purifier.

HOOD'S PILLS become the favorite cathartic with everyone who tries them.

ARRANGING TERMS OF PEACE.

General Silviera Martins Defines His Conditions of Capitulation.

BUENOS AYRES, April 21.—An envoy deputed by President-elect Moraes of Brazil has arrived in the Argentine capital and had a conference on Wednesday and again on Thursday with the insurgent general, Silviera Martins, with a view of arranging terms of peace in the state of Rio Grande do Sul. The emissary of President-elect Moraes asked the insurgent general to define conditions of peace that would be acceptable to himself and his associates, and under which all danger of a future uprising would be removed. Gen. Martins defined his conditions, in which were included these stipulations:

Senhor Castilho, the Governor of the State of Rio Grande do Sul, must be at once deposed; a new and entirely free election must be held throughout the republic of Brazil. All the insurgent military and naval officers must be reinstated in the posts they formerly held and amnesty granted to all political offenders.

Senor Moraes' envoy will return to Brazil in a few days to lay before the President-elect the terms specified by General Martins. It is stated that Admiral da Gama will be landed in Buenos Ayres. It is reported Gen. Saralva, with 5,000 of his insurgent followers, is on the north-western frontier of Rio Grande do Sul.

The New York Examiner says: Every mother and housekeeper must often act as a family physician in the many illnesses and accidents that occur among children and servants. For many of these cases I have used Davis' PAIN-KILLER, and consider it an indispensable article in the medicine box. In diarrhœa it has been used and effected cures. For cuts and bruises, it is invaluable. 25c. for the New Big Bottle.

THE ANTWERP SENSATION.

Madame Joniaux Rumored to Have Confessed Her Guilt.

ANTWERP, April 21.—It is asserted Mme. Fabre, the first mother-in-law of Mme. Joniaux, accused of poisoning relatives to obtain their life insurance, long suspected her of having poisoned her first husband, and communicated her suspicions to the authorities. Fabre was insured in favor of his wife and died in 1886, supposedly from natural causes.

The Government has only ascertained facts going to prove that a considerable dose of morphine was found in the body of Alfred Ablay, and that Mme. Joniaux had purchased a quantity of morphine herself from a Brussels chemist two days before his death.

It is freely rumored in Antwerp that M. Joniaux is about to be arrested. Public opinion is very divided as to his guilt. He is closeted in his house and said to be terribly downcast, whereas Mme. Joniaux is represented as maintaining a very calm demeanor in prison.

It is rumored that Mme. Joniaux, who is under arrest on charges of having poisoned her sister, brother and uncle, to obtain the insurance on their lives, has confessed her guilt under the three charges. It is said she procured large quantities of morphine from chemists in Brussels by means of forged orders.

EVICTED TENANTS BILL.

The Standard Says It Reflects Credit on Mr. Morley's Justice and Moderation.

LONDON, April 21.—The evicted tenants' bill, which Mr. Morley introduced in the House of Commons on Thursday, fell like a wet blanket upon the government supporters. What little enthusiasm was manifested by them was plainly perfunctory, and it is doubtful whether the measure will be pushed to a final vote. The apathetic attitude which many of the Irish members have assumed towards the bill, and the open hostility displayed toward it by the remainder of the Irish party cannot fail to have a disheartening effect upon the moderate Liberals. The Radicals may possibly support the bill, but it is ascertained that the Unionists will not, and it is known that the Conservatives will fight it tooth and nail.

The Standard says: "The bill reflects credit on Mr. Morley's sentiments of justice and moderation, but will hardly need Mr. Harrington's prophecy of a revival of the reign of terror to realize that the government's plan of pacification may end in the return of chaos."

A Government BOMBSHELL

THROWN INTO THE LIFE INSURANCE CAMP!

The following statement comes from the government Blue Book. It covers a period of sixteen years, and is sworn to as correct by representatives of each Company:

Statement of Premiums received and Cash Profits paid back to Policy Holders from 1877 to 1892, both years inclusive:—

COMPANY.	Premiums Received.	Dividends Paid to Policy Holders.	Ratio of Dividends to Premiums, %
CANADA LIFE	$16,368,307	$2,946,433	18.13
Confederation Life	6,165,432	637,926	10 35
North American	2,327,082	32,857	1.41
Ontario Mutual	3,878,086	433,284	11.17
Sun Life	5,527,720	356,280	6.43

Never in the history of Life Insurance has the struggle for business been keener. Never has the conflict been hotter. Never have the Companies felt as they feel now, the necessity for throwing all the energy at their command into the field. The most intelligent and best men have to be employed. All kinds of plans of insurance are submitted. Each Company determined in securing the supremacy in the good will of the public, in establishing their name, the utterance of which, shall convey to the minds of the people the essential characteristics of

UNDOUBTED SECURITY,
RIGID ECONOMY,
GOOD INVESTMENTS,
LARGEST PROFITS

WHY?

Because millons of dollars are being paid annually for Life Insurance, and the Companies that can show these features have attained a position which will guarantee their future success, for money will flow freely into the best investments.

The Canada Life Policy Holders can look at the above statement with a smile of satisfaction, yet sympathise with their friends who are not so favourably situated.

They can throw their Life Policies down in the face of opponents and successfully challenge the production of more profitable policies, they can stand the onslaught of Agents who will almost cover them with literature and estimates of Tontine, Semi-Tontine, Return Premiums, Reserved Dividends, Annuity and Endownment plans of insurance, and with a quiet assurance feel that

As The Canada Life is Making the Most Profits, She Can Pay the Largest Profits.

READER. If you want Life Insurance choose the Canada Life and join the throng of contented policy holders who are insured with the Company carrying about 45 per cent. of the total insurance in force of the above named Companies

At a meeting of the Kingston bicycle club it was decided that every member who lends his wheel be fined one dollar.

A novel contest was decided at Hunsley, England, recently, when H. Hemingway, of Leeds, attempted to walk one mile in 15 minutes, carrying a dumb-bell weighing 115 pounds. There was considerable money laid that he would not succeed. Hemingway got well in front of time and covered the distance in 13 min. 23 3-5 sec., thus winning by 1 min. 36 2-5 sec. He was very much exhausted at the close.

The new game law proposed by Hon. Mr. Gibson protects partridge, snipe and woodcock from shotguns until September 15th, 1897 and it will not be lawful to shoot quail or wild turkeys until October 15th, 1897. The act will also take away from the game wardens all power to issue licenses to foreign sportsmen. These licenses must be procured from the provincial secretary and limit the game bag of such sportsmen to two deer and fifty ducks. Most sportsmen would prefer a license that would guarantee such a sumptuous result.

Poison in Tea.

In England tea has been discovered contaminated with lead, undoubtedly from being wrapped in packages containing lead. This is a matter which is being enquired into, inasmuch as lead is a dangerous poison and its presence in so many packages of tea may well cause grave public alarm. Mason & Co., grocers, have no confidence in package teas, as their English blends surpass all teas placed on the market.

Hay and oats advanced in price, hay being sold at $9 and $9.50 per ton, and oats at 38c. a bushel.

In the meat market veal sold for 5 and 6c.; lamb, 7 and 8c.; mutton, 6 and 7c.; dressed pork, 5 and 5½c.; dressed pork by the quarter, 6.7c.; live weight pork, 4½ to 4¾c.; beef, 4½ and 5c.; beef live weight 3½c. Onions, $1 per bushel; potatoes, 50c. per bag; apples, $1.25, to $1.75 per bag. Green onions and rhubarb put in their first appearance this season. Harvey Neff Has Kidney Disease, Which Doctors Could Not Cure Dodd's Kidney Pills Restored Him to Perfect Health.

PORT COLBORNE, April 9—In March, 1893, Harvey H. Neff, of this place, had a bad attack of typhoid fever. Good nursing and medical attendance brought him around, but the attack left him a victim of kidney disease. This the doctors failed to cure, but Dodd's Kidney Pills, the infallible remedy, did the same good work in his case as in all others and Mr. Neff is well to-day. Dodd's was the first kidney remedy in pill form ever offered the public. Its wonderful success in curing all forms of kidney disease has led to the introduction of numerous cheap and worthless imitations. Purchasers, for their own safety, should insist on getting Dodd's Kidney Pills. Sold in large boxes: price, fifty cents or six boxes for $2.50. To be had of all dealers

Hood's Sarsaparilla Rescued Their Child from Scrofula.

For Scrofula, Salt Rheum, and all other foul humors in the blood of children or adults, Hood's Sarsaparilla is an unequalled remedy. Read this:

Suffering Children

Our girl was a beautiful baby, fair and plump and healthy. But when she was two years old, sores broke out behind her ears and spread rapidly over her head and forehead down to her eyes, and into her neck. We consulted one of the best physicians in Brooklyn, but nothing did her any good. The doctors said it was caused by a scrofula humor in the blood. Her head became offensive to the smell and dreadful to look at. Her general health waned and she would lay in a large chair all day without any life or energy. The sores caused great itching and burning, so that at times we had to restrain her hands to prevent scratching. For 3 years with this terrible humor. Being urged to try Hood's Sarsaparilla we did so. We soon noticed that she had more life and appetite. The medicine seemed to drive out more of the humor for a short time, but it soon began to subside, the itching and burning ceased, and in a few months her head became entirely clear of the sore. She is now perfectly well, has no evidence of the humor, and her skin is clear and healthy. She seems like an entirely different child, in health and general appearance, from what she was before taking

She Suffered Fearfully

MILLS BROS.

THE DISTRICT CONVENTION.

WOMEN'S FOREIGN MISSIONARY SOCIETY'S CLOSING SESSION.

Many Able Addresses Delivered During the Afternoon and Evening, Which Prove Both Interesting and Instructive—Millbrook Wants the Next Convention.

When the delegates assembled after lunch yesterday to continue their work, the opening exercises were conducted by Mrs. W. R. Young, of George street, after which the District Organizer reported that nine auxiliaries existed in the district, of which eight presented reports, showing the work to be in a prosperous condition and the membership to be increasing in number and interest. There were forty-six delegates present at the different sessions, including Miss Dawson, Bailliieboro, whose name was omitted from the list published first.

Miss Allum followed with a very excellent paper on "Mite Giving," which was followed by a short discussion on the various methods of giving.

A duet by the Misses Smith, of Mark Street Church, was well rendered, after which Mrs. Taylor, of Charlotte Street Church, spoke a few words of kindly welcome to the visiting delegates, to whom she expressed the pleasure it gave the ladies of Peterborough to receive them.

Mrs. Williamson, of Pontypool, replied on behalf of the delegates.

An interesting model auxiliary meeting was then held by the Lakefield delegates. The meeting opened with the singing of "All Hail," after which prayer was offered and a reading of a short portion of the Scriptures took place. Mrs. J. Sanderson, of Smith, then read a paper on the liquor traffic, and Mrs. S. T. Bartlett, of Lakefield, followed with an address on the evils of the opium habit. The remainder of the delegates thought that these exercises constituted what might truly be called a model auxiliary.

A solo by Mrs. Lightfoot, of Monaghan, was listened to with appreciation, after which a half hour in testimony was led by Mrs. (Rev.) McCamus. Many of the delegates told of the pleasure and benefit which they had received through engaging in foreign mission work.

Mrs. J. C. Sherin, of Lakefield, had charge of the Question Drawer and gave appropriate replies to its contents.

The full parliament conducted by Mrs. Taylor, of Charlotte street church, brought to view the different fields occupied by the W. F. M. S., the names of those employed in each place, requirements of candidates, their motives for entering the work and many other matters of interest to mission workers.

The session closed by a short prayer being offered by Mrs. (Rev.) McCamus.

In the interval elapsing before the opening of the evening session the ladies of Peterborough belonging to the society served a tea in the Sunday School room, which attention was greatly appreciated by the visiting delegates.

THE EVENING SESSION

was opened by Rev. George Edwards with a reading from Scripture. After the singing of "All Hail" by those assembled, Rev. S. T. Bartlett, of Lakefield, led in prayer.

Mrs. Kendry, in assuming charge of the meeting, stated that the programme which would be followed during the evening session would be found to vary somewhat from the printed slips distributed. It had been thought best not to have the district reports read in public session. In regard to them, Mrs. Kendry explained that the tenor all through was most encouraging.

A trio, composed of Messrs. Stephens, Steers and Squires, was then called on by Mrs. Kendry for a contribution. A selection entitled "Nearer Home" was sung in a manner extremely pleasing.

Mrs. Locke, of Toronto, whose address had been looked forward to during the entire convention, was now asked for her paper on "Does missionary work conflict with local church work?" as follows:—

On the testimony of some who had had almost unlimited scope of observation, and many years of experience in these lines, we might promptly answer this question by a decided negative, but for the sake of others who have not studied this matter, and whose experience has been confined within narrow bounds we will endeavour in this short paper to demonstrate and establish the fact that missionary work does not conflict with church work at home, but rather assists and enriches it.

Let us try to get a distinct conception of the missionary idea from the standpoint of the Divine Missionary. The spirit of missions is the spirit of the Gospel. "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature." This means, do not live for yourself, for what you have, or what you can get, but for others, and what you can give, and so the Master said: "It is more blessed to give than receive."

Truly, there is only one sin and that is selfishness in some form or other, whether it follows some selfish gratification of which the soul whispers is not of God, or whether it neglects the giving of itself in Christian sacrifice for others; one is the active, the other the passive form of the same sin. And just as there is only one sin, so there is only one duty—that of love or self-sacrifice. The Christian duty is the missionary duty, whether it is exercised towards those in foreign lands or those at home. The bond of love is the spirit within all Christian service, but, nevertheless, that service is a positive duty. Paul, who so wondrously caught the spirit of his Master, has many words which show that love's very essential quality is unselfish helpfulness.

Is it not a fact that we do not recognize as we should the true missionary spirit? We think of ourselves, of our possessions, of our homes and our expensive churches, of our favoured country, of how we can best minister to our own comforts and pleasures and too often forget that there is but one work, "The Master's," and one field, "The World."

Might we not hear the Lord's voice questioning us in regard to our treasured accumulations: "Lovest thou Me more than these?" The idea that is growing in the church in some places is to multiply the privileges of those who have always had the Gospel and leave the heathen to perish without help. Some of God's people have not yet learned that the conditions of vitality in a church are not only self-government and self-support, but self-propagation. The seed that sprang up among thorns grew long and spindling, but it all run to stalk; there were no kernels in the ear. This picture is true of any church, however prosperous outwardly she may seem, where all interests and thoughts are centered on self. If churches now having only a name to live, would nourish and cherish the spirit of missions, there would be growth, both in numbers and graces.

In our present day church work, we incur great financial responsibility, and thus most of our efforts are directed, not to spread the Gospel, but to meet obligations, and, working on this false basis, those who bear the financial burden deem it a great hardship to have a dollar go in any other direction than that of home necessities.

We find in our missionary report that home missions get over 50c. on the $. Indian gets 20c., Japan 9c., China 2c. While it is not our province to discuss home and foreign missions here, yet we note the fact of the large percentage to home missions. By personal enquiry we find a much larger percentage given to home church work. In many of our churches where there are Ladies' Aids, the ladies contribute from $3 to $5 per year to that fund alone, and $1 to the Missionary Society. In some of our city churches the interest on the debt alone amounts to more that ten times the amount contributed to missions. It would seem as if there were not anything approaching a conflict.

The W.M.S. has two purposes. One is to send missionaries to the heathen, the other is to develop and enrich spiritually and intellectually the women at home. These purposes are links of one chain; they are as cause and effect. Who will deny that the women of our land, who are engaged heart and soul in this grand work, have become nobler, truer, more unselfish in the spirit of their lives. The reflex influence of this work is developing them into broader women, better wives, wiser mothers and more Christ-like Christians. The Church has grown richer in intelligent consecrated women ready to work in any way so that the Lord's name be honoured. Talents long buried have grown bright in the loving service of prayer and work.

In our conventions we are constantly hearing such testimonies as these: "I have done little for our society but have received great blessing through being engaged in this work," "Thank God my eyes have been opened to see the great privilege I have of helping my poor degraded and dying sisters." One lady said: "A few years ago there was not enough money in Toronto to induce me to address an audience, but now love impels me to do it." Then there are many empty houses in our country from whom our dear ones have flown, and aching mothers' hearts are asking, "What has life for us?" To many such this work has come as a benediction, inspiring new purpose, filling the aching void and thus comforting the sore spirit. Indeed, instead of robbing or hindering home work it is developing talents that the that the Church has never utilized. The gifts of heart and energy and time and money are the outcome of enlarged sympathies not of transferred affections or interests. There is no friction, but a beautiful symmetry in all God's plans. Those who are interested in missionary work are invariably the ones who do the best work in other departments of the church. "There is that scattereth and yet increaseth, there is that withholdeth more than is meet and it tendeth to poverty." We need not think that in giving out of our petty store we shall impoverish ourselves. It is by selfishly withholding our little that impoverishment will come to us. But if we pay our debt of love and share our little it will multiply and last unto the end. Mrs. Bishop said the duty of every Christian had been summed up in the words "Go, let go, help go." Duty is ours, results are God's.

A soul is a soul with God, whether found in Canada or China, and the unsaved in Japan or any other heathen nation are as dear to Him as the unsaved at home.

"Tell your people," said a Chinese woman, "how fast we are dying and ask them if they cannot send the Gospel faster."

"Thus they long for truth and beg for light,
In that heathen land who roam;
They have heard, mayhap, of a heaven bright,
But say you have closed its door so bright,
You have doomed them to darkness and endless [night,
Because of the work at home.

And, oh! When they in God's presence stand,
With you at that great day,
When every nation of every land
To judgment is called away;
Say, say, can you stand in God's presence then,
And remember that cry, "O Come!
We are dying, we know no Saviour's name!"
Can you plead the excuse, will it not be vain?
Will it weigh with God, though it did with men,
"There's enough to do at home."

A very entertaining feature of the evening's programme was a dialogue between nine young ladies, in costume, who made a strong appeal for the work of foreign missions. Those taking part were: Misses Ella Owens, Edith Robinson, Maud Detcher, Sarah Robinson, Lettie Meharry, Gertie Kendry, Lulu Morrow, Eva Rutherford and Lillian Hill.

Miss Munro, who has recently returned from the Tokio mission in Japan, delivered an address, in which she succeeded in placing before the audience in a most graphic and touching manner the hardships and discouragements experienced by the missionaries in Japan. It was very difficult, she stated to get into spiritual touch with the natives. The women seemed superficial and with no depth, being characterized by such shallowness as one would expect to find in a young child. Then there was great difficulty in obtaining the services of even non-christian interpreters.

Miss Munro was of the opinion that those at home could not enter into a realization of the work by simply glancing through the report. This document, she thought, was not read carefully enough by those at home. Every word in the report was fraught with meaning and when it was set forth that it was with a heart full of gratitude that the missionaries looked back on the results of the year's work, it meant a heart full indeed. So full in fact that in endeavouring to explain how grateful to the Almighty were the missionaries, Miss Munro lost control of her feelings and almost broke down. By this time the audience had become fully alive to the interesting nature of the address which was being made, and the satisfactory remarks of the missionary regarding the gradual growth in grace of the scholars at the Tokio school, was listened to with the closest attention.

During the evening the delegates from Millbrook extended to the society an invitation to hold its next annual meeting in that town.

Mrs. R. A. Hamilton's solo "I know that the way is weary," was given in a clear, melodious voice, and was greatly appreciated.

J. W. Beale, M. A., formerly superintendent of the Tokio mission school, gave a short address, which was listened to with marked attention, after which the meeting was brought to a close by the pronouncing of the benediction by Rev. George Edwards.

The Evolution

BILIOUSNESS should not be neglected. To keep the blood pure it is necessary to take open-air exercise and keep the digestive organs active and the system regular. A doctor advises for a health-giving laxative the use of Eseljay's Liver Lozenges.

BOOTS AND SHOES

TO TAKE THE PLACE OF

A Queen's Birthday Demonstration!

The boy said: "This Shoe business is altogether too brisk," when his mother chastised him with a slipper. That's what other shoe dealers think of us, for we not only command the largest and finest shoe trade in Peterborough, but our popularity extends for a hundred miles around.

The loyal people of Peterborough needn't feel disappointed if the boys didn't get up a big demonstration for the Queen's Birthday. We have put on foot A THUNDERING RACKET IN BOOTS AND SHOES, and propose to keep it going until after the 24th, without asking the council or the merchants to guarantee us against loss.

We're always busy. No dull times with us. But, for the present, we have turned on enough extra power on our Electric Battery of Low Prices to "raise a Thundering Racket" in Boots and Shoes, and to keep it booming for over a month.

Last week we bought for 55c. on the dollar the large Wholesale Stock of a City Manufacturer who had stuck on the rock of hard times and was shivering in his boots for ready cash. This stock, we are determined, shall not remain long on our hands. GO, IT MUST! and that the public may see that there's nothing in the way of its going off fast enough, "we touch the button" and give you a few random shocks from OUR MAGNET OF OUTRIVALLED PRICES:—

A MIRACLE OF TO-DAY.

THE STARTLING EXPERIENCE OF A YOUNG LADY IN ST. THOMAS.

A Constant Sufferer for More Than Five Years—Her Blood Had Turned to Water—Physicians Held Out no Hope of Her Recovery—How Her Life Was Saved—A Wonderful Story.

From the St. Thomas Journal.

"The Angel of the Lord encampeth round about them that fear Him, and delivereth them." Such is a verse of holy writ made familiar to very many residents of St. Thomas by the well-known evangelist, Rev. J. E. Hunter. In letters of gold on the stained glass fanlight over the door of his residence, No. 113 Wellington street, is the text "Psalm XXXIV, 7." Though we live in an age noted for its energetic, zealous Christian endeavour, this idea of Mr. Hunter's to impress the truths of the Scriptures upon those who read though they run, is altogether so original and so novel that it at once excites the curiosity. Those not familiar with the text make a mental note of it, and at the first opportunity look it up. This is just what was done by a representative of the Journal, who had occasion to visit Mr. Hunter's residence the other day. But with the object of the visit and the information obtained the reader will be more concerned. The reporter was assigned to investigate a marvellous cure said to have been effected in the case of a young lady employed in Mr. Hunter's family, by that well known and popular remedy, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. And it was a wonderful story that the young lady had to tell, and is as undoubtedly true as it is wonderful. Last June the same reporter interviewed Mrs. John Cope, wife of the toll gate-keeper on the London and Port Stanley road, who had been cured by Pink Pills of running ulcers on the limbs after years of suffering, and after having been given up by a number of physicians. The old lady had entirely recovered, and could not say too much in praise of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which had given her a new lease of life. As it was with Mrs. Cope, so it was with Miss Edna Harris, the young lady in the employ of Mrs. Hunter's family who has been restored to health and strength by Pink Pills. Miss Harris has just passed her twentieth year, and is a daughter of George Harris, who lives at Yarmouth Heights, and is employed by Mr. Geo. Boucher, florist and plantsman.

"I believe Dr. Williams' Pink Pills saved my life, and I am quite willing that everyone should know it," was the reply of Miss Harris, when asked if she had been benefitted by Pink Pills, and if so would she make public her story. Continuing, she said, "When I was twelve or thirteen years of age I was first taken sick. The doctors said my blood had all turned to water. For five years I suffered terribly, and was so weak that I could barely keep alive. It was only my grit and strong will, the doctors said, that kept me alive at all. If I tried to stand for a short time, or I got the least bit warm I would fall over in a faint. My eyes were white and glassy and I was so thin and pallid that every one believed I was dying of consumption. During the five years I was ill, I was attended by five physicians in St. Thomas, two in Detroit, one in London and one in Aylmer, and none of them could do anything for me. I was so far gone that they had no hopes of my recovery. Towards the last my feet and limbs swelled so they had to be bandaged to keep them from bursting. They were bandaged for three months, and my whole body was swollen and bloated, and the doctors said there was not a pint of blood in my body, and they held out no hopes whatever. Two years ago I saw in the Journal about a man in Hamilton being cured by taking Pink Pills. I thought if they could cure him they would help me, and I decided to try them. Before I had finished three boxes I felt relieved; the swelling went down and the bandages were removed. I continued taking Pink Pills until I had taken seven boxes, then irregularly I took three more, one of which Mr. Hunter brought back from Brockville. I am perfectly cured. I have not been ill a single day since I finished the seventh box of pills. I came to Mrs. Hunter's a year ago, and she will tell you I have never been ill a day since coming here, and I always feel strong and able to do the work. I can and do strongly recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills," said Miss Harris in conclusion. Her appearance is certainly that of a strong, healthy young woman.

Mrs. J. E. Hunter, wife of the evangelist, told the reporter that Miss Harris was a good, reliable and truthful girl, and that perfect reliance could be placed in her statements. "She looks like a different girl from what she was when she came here a year ago," said Mrs. Hunter.

The facts above related are important to parents, as there are many young girls just budding into womanhood whose condition is, to say the least, more critical than their parents imagine. Their complexion is pale and waxy in appearance, troubled with heart palpitation, headaches, shortness of breath on the slightest exercise, faintness and other distressing symptoms which invariably lead to a premature grave unless prompt steps are taken to bring about a natural condition of health. In this emergency no remedy yet discovered can supply the place of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which build anew the blood, strengthen the nerves and restore the glow of health to pale and sallow cheeks. They are certain cure for all troubles peculiar to the female system, young or old. Pink Pills also cure such diseases as rheumatism, neuralgia, partial paralysis, locomotor ataxia, St. Vitus' dance, nervous headache, nervous prostration, the after effects of la grippe, and severe colds, diseases depending on humours in the blood, such as scrofula, chronic erysipelas, etc. In the case of men they effect a radical cure in all cases arising from mental worry, overwork or excesses.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold only in boxes bearing the firm's trade mark. They are never sold in bulk, and any dealer who offers substitutes in this form is trying to defraud and should be avoided. The public are cautioned against other so-called blood builders and nerve tonics, put up in similar form, intended to deceive. Ask for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and refuse all imitations and substitutes. Can be had from all dealers or by mail from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont., or Schenectady, N.Y., at 50c. a box or six boxes for $2.50.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s Report.

NEW YORK, April 21.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: Extensive storms checked improvement in business only for a time, and numerous strikes have not yet arrested it. Distribution of products to consumers seems larger, for more people are earning, and therefore more able to buy. The improvement thus far realized is based on actual increase in orders for consumption, but part of this was to cover belated demands for the spring season. A considerable portion of the industrial force is still unemployed, and with wages much lower than a year ago consumption is not as large. New orders for future distribution are still materially restricted by uncertainty about action at Washington, and about the extent and outcome of labor difficulties. Payments through all clearing houses for the week are 27.2 per cent. less than last year, 29.6 at New York and 23.9 elsewhere.

South Carolina's Liquor Law.

CHARLESTON, S.C., April 21.—The news of the overthrow of the dispensary law by the State Supreme Court has been received here. An hour later upwards of two hundred "blind tigers" had miraculously recovered their eyesight and were in full blast. In many of them signs appeared inviting the passers-by to walk in and have one with the house, and people were by no means slow in accepting the invitation. The general impression here is that Governor Tillman will call an extra session of the General Assembly, pass a new law and then take it up to the State Supreme Court, which by July 1st will be Tillmanite in policy by the qualification of Justice E. B. Gary. In that event the court will reverse its action.

The Price of Sitting Bull's Capture.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—From a bill pending before Congress it appears that the United States has never fully paid for the capture of the famous Indian chief, Sitting Bull. Mr. Baker of New Hampshire, by request, has offered in the House a bill for the relief of Jean Louis Legare of Canada. The measure appropriates $13,412 for full compensation to Mr. Legare for services rendered and money expended in bringing into the United States and procuring the surrender of Sitting Bull and his followers under direction of the war department. The Committee on Claims takes an adverse view of the claim.

Grand Trunk Half-Yearly Report.

LONDON, April 21.—The Grand Trunk Railway Company's report for the half year ending Dec. 31, 1893, shows the gross receipts for that period to be £2,155,183, and the working expenses £1,571,860. The net traffic receipts are £600,237, and the Chicago & Grand Trunk and Detroit & Milwaukee deficiencies reduce the net revenue to £577,505. With the preference charges deducted the net revenue further shrinks to £84,902 and the outlay for the new station at Toronto will leave the surplus to barely exceed £5,650. It is more than probable that the shareholders will be asked to sanction a fresh borrowing by the directors. The Financial Times, Financial News and Echo comment unfavorably on the report.

Spanish Elections.

LISBON, April 21.—The elections for members of the Cortes, held throughout Portugal on the 15th inst., resulted in the return of 109 supporters of the government, 42 Progressionists, 11 Independents and 2 Republicans.

Attention

In time to any irregularity of the Stomach, Liver, or Bowels may prevent serious consequences. Indigestion, costiveness, headache, nausea, biliousness, and vertigo indicate certain functional derangements, the best remedy for which is Ayer's Pills. Purely vegetable, sugar-coated, easy to take and quick to assimilate, this is the ideal family medicine—the most popular, safe, and useful aperient in pharmacy. Mrs. M. A. BROCKWELL, Harris, Tenn., says:

"Ayer's Cathartic Pills cured me of sick headache and my husband of neuralgia. We think there is

No Better Medicine,

and have induced many to use it.

"Thirty-five years ago this Spring, I was run down by hard work and a succession of colds, which made me so feeble that it was an effort for me to walk. I consulted the doctors, but kept sinking lower until I had given up all hope of ever being better. Happening to be in a store, one day, where medicines were sold, the proprietor noticed my weak and sickly appearance, and, after a few questions as to my health, recommended me to try Ayer's Pills. I had little faith in these or any other medicine, but concluded, at last, to take his advice and try a box. Before I had used them all, I was very much better, and two boxes cured me. I am now 80 years old; but I believe that if it had not been for Ayer's Pills, I should have been in my grave long ago. I buy 6 boxes every year, which make 210 boxes up to this time, and I would no more be without them than without bread."—H. H. Ingraham, Rockland, Me.

DYSPEPSIA CURED BY B.B.B.

MR. GEO. READ.

Read the Proof.

DEAR SIRS.—I write you to say that for some time I had been suffering from acute indigestion or dyspepsia, and of course felt very great inconvenience from same in my general business. I thereupon decided to try Burdock Blood Bitters, and after taking two bottles I found I was quite another man, for B. B. B. entirely cured me. I have also used it for my wife and family and have found it the best thing they can take, and from past experience I have every pleasure in strongly recommending B.B.B. to all my friends.

I write you because I think that it should be generally known what B. B. B. can accomplish in cases of indigestion.

Yours faithfully,
GEORGE READ,

FORGOTTEN!

And Yet This Man Designed the Stars and Stripes Flag.

Beneath a little mound in Greenwood Cemetery, New York, neglected and weed-covered, without even a headstone to mark the spot, lie the remains of an American hero, the designer of the American flag. It is a spot that very few Americans have ever heard of, and its position in the big cemetery is as inconspicuous as the humblest grave in Potter's field. He is utterly forgotten by the nation which stands by the flag he designed.

Surrounded by the elaborate mausoleums and granite monuments that adorn the last earthly resting places of private citizens, the grave of Capt. Samuel Chester Reid is situated in the little plot at the intersection of Cypress avenue and Zephyr path. Capt. Reid's achievements during the war of 1812 are among the most noteworthy in that memorable strife.

It was while serving as sailing master of the United States navy that Capt. Reid made his suggestion that the original thirteen States be represented on the United States flag by thirteen stripes, and that a new star be added whenever a new State should be added to the Union. His design was adopted, and on April 13, 1818, the first flag of the present design was raised over the House of Representatives at Washington.

There have been many claims for the honor, says the New York World, but the best authorities agree that Capt. Reid designed and propdsed the present United States flag.

To him are also due the Sandy Hook Lightship, which he established, and the invention and erection of the signal telegraph at the Battery and the Narrows. Capt. Reid also proposed the regulation of the pilot boats of New York. This suggestion of Reid's was adopted, and to-day every pilot boat hailing from New York is known by its number. He died on Jan. 28, 1861.

In Greenwood Cemetery the guides will tell you that they do not know the grave of Capt. Reid, but at the Superintendent's office you will be directed to plot 13,108, corner Cypress avenue and Zephyr path. That is all the record they have. Six other graves occupy this plot besides Capt. Reid's, and none of them is marked.

The plot is beautifully situated at the foot of Ocean Hill.

The Mariner's Compass.

A Scotchman one day was bragging in Thebbear's company that it was a countryman of his that had the honor of inventing the compass. Thebbear took his part against the rest, who differed from him, and he said he could further tell them the occasion of it. The Scotchman seemed much pleased at having so good an advocate, when Thebbear proceeded as follows: When the captain of a ship was coasting with all that caution necessary before the invention of the compass, a storm suddenly sprang up and drove him out to sea. Not knowing where he was, and expressing his concern for the safety of the ship, a Scotchman among the crew bid him not to be under so much uneasiness, for he could at least tell him in what direction they were. "Well, that will be something," says the captain. "Then here it is mon," says the Scotchman, pulling a louse out of his head and placing it on a sheet of white paper, "watch that fellow's motions well, for I'll be d——d if ever you saw a Scotch louse that did not always travel south."

The Ladies First.

A class of boys in a boarding school were being examined in Scripture. "What can you tell me about Moses?" asked the inspector; "what sort of a man was he?" "Please, sir, he was a gentleman," piped forth a pale-faced, bright-eyed lad of eleven or thereabout, "Gentleman!" repeated the inspector, with a look of surprise; "what do you mean?"

The little boy promptly replied: "Please, sir, when the daughters of Jethro went to the well to draw water, the shepherds came and drove them away, and Moses helped the daughters of Jethro, and said to the shepherds: 'Ladies first, please, gentlemen.'"—Good News.

Will Hold a Millennial Anniversary.

BUDAPESTH, April 21.—The proposal to hold an exposition in 1896, in celebration of the millennial anniversary of the establishment of the Hungarian monarchy, was unanimously approved by the Chamber of Deputies. A committee of sixty was appointed to make arrangements.

A Grocer's Horrible Suicide.

MAYVILLE, N.Y., April 21.—Henry E. Barden, a grocer, committed suicide by cutting the arteries in his heels with a razor, then shooting himself through the head with a rifle. Cause, financial trouble.

You Can't get to Much

Of a good thing. This is eminently the case with Polson's Nerviline, and great pain cure. It is an honest remedy, for it contains the most powerful, the purest, and most certain pain subduing remedies known to medical science. It is honest, for it does all it claims to do. It is honest because it is the best in the world. It only costs 25 cents to try it, and you can buy a bottle at any drug store. Nerviline cures toothache, neuralgia, pain in the back and side. All pains are promptly relieved by Polson's Nerviline.

The most agreeable, restorative tonic and mild stimulant is Milburn's Beef, Iron and Wine.

Dr. Andrew Grant & Co., Toronto.

Dear Sirs,—Your "Hairene," I believe to be a wonderful remedy. It certainly produced the most unexpected results in my case, my hair had been falling out very freely for some time, becoming anxious about the matter I thought I would experiment upon the properties of "Hairene," and one application actually "topped it at once. I applied it once or twice afterward, using in all about a quater of one bottle, and have not required to use it since. It seem to have given renewed and healthy vigor to the scalp, and I can recommend it in all confidence.

MINERS OUT ON STRIKE

Workmen to the Number of 132,000 Throw Down Their Tools.

TEN STATES REPRESENTED

Nearly Another Fifty Thousand Expected to Join the Movement by May Day—Anthracite Miners to the Number of 125,000 Will Go Out.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, April 21.—The great strike among the coal miners went into effect to-day at noon, according to the decree issued recently by the United Mine Workers.

President McBride of the United Mine Workers gives the following statement of the number of miners that are out and their distribution among the states:

Pennsylvania, 50,000; Ohio, 26,000; Iowa, 5,000; West Virginia, 6,000; Tennessee and Kentucky, 5,000; Missouri, 3,000; Alabama, 3,000; Colorado, 4,000; Indian Territory, 2,000. The total is 132,000.

He feels sure that others will join in the strike, and on or before May 1 he is confident that the movement will be joined by 20,000 miners in the coke regions of Pennsylvania and 25,000 miners in Southern Illinois, Missouri and Kansas. Eventually, he says, the anthracite miners will join in the strike, numbering 125,000 men.

Encouraging telegrams were received from organizers Tom Farr, in West Virginia, and Cameron Miller, in Indiana, this morning.

TELEPHONE LINEMEN KILLED.

A Live Wire Causes the Death of One Man and Injures Three Others.

PHILADELPHIA, April 21.—Amos Waters, 40 years of age, was instantly killed, and John Ricardo, aged 38 years, William Pike, of the same age, and William Hamarratta, aged 25, were badly injured yesterday by being shocked by an electric light wire.

The victims were Bell Telephone linemen, and were repairing a wire which became entangled with a live electric light wire. Waters was at the top of a pole and seeing Ricardo, Pike and Hamarratta, who were on the ground, reeling under the effects of the deadly current, he reached out and caught hold of the wire. The shock killed him and he fell twenty-five feet to the street. All of the others were rendered unconscious. Pike was the first to recover. He cut the wire with a cobblestone and thus probably saved the lives of his companions.

Ricardo is the most seriously injured and is not out of danger.

SENATORS SLIGHTLY SHOCKED.

A Bolt of Lightning Disturbs the Dignity of the New York State Senate.

ALBANY, April 21.—Just as the Senate adjourned in the height of a storm a bolt of lightning entered the Senate chamber by way of the shaft of the big chandelier hanging from the centre of the chamber ceiling. The fluid darted from the hundred incandescent burners, and a report, which was sufficiently loud to bring Lieut.-Governor Sheehan running from his private room into the chamber, followed. A number of Senators experienced slight shocks.

A Small-Sized Naval Engagement.

CRISFIELD, Md., April 21.—A pitched battle took place on Nettles Rock between the Virginia boat Tangier and five Maryland oyster dredge crafts. The latter claim they were in Maryland waters when fired upon by the Tangier. They returned the fire with rifles, about a thousand shots in all being exchanged, but without serious results as far as known. The Marylanders are indignant, and laid in a fresh supply of ammunition on reaching this port.

Germans Fight a Duel.

BERLIN, April 21.—A duel was fought between Freiher von Kiderlen-Waechter, chief of the political department of the Foreign Office, and Herr Polstorff, editor of the comic paper Kladderadatsch. The weapons were pistols, and three shots were fired. At the third shot Polstorff was hit in the armpit and hostilities ceased. Polstorff's wound is painful.

Hanged for Horse Stealing.

WOODWARD, O. T., April 21.—"Doc" Bishop and Frank Latham were lynched by settlers near Watonga, O.T., for horse stealing.

Lord Rosebery's Celerity.

In regard to Lord Rosebery's celerity in movements, just now so much talked about, I met to-day, says the London correspondent of the Liverpool Post, a gentleman of the late Lord Granville's staff when Lord Granville held the Foreign Office portfolio. He told me that when Lord Granville was a young man he was asked to dine with the Prince Consort and the Queen at Buckingham Palace, and, forgetting the dinner, he had five minutes to dress and reach the palace. He got into his brougham somewhere in South Audley street as an ordinary gentleman, and stepped out at the portals of the palace a fully dressed Privy Councillor. Within the time he had to draw on silk stockings, knee breeches, silver-buckled shoes, and a short, gold embroidered tunic, buttoned, luckily, to the throat. I myself knew Mr. Gladstone, some ten years since, to leave Downing street for St. James' Palace for a levee, stepping into his brougham in ordinary dress and coming out of it on arrival at the palace, in the gorgeous uniform of Prime Minister.

It has just been determined that the structure shall be so arranged that a room will be assigned to each Southern State.

Port Hope, Ont., April 4th, 1894.

Dr. Andrew Grant & Co., Toronto.

Dear Sirs,—My hair had been falling out for nearly a year, and was getting very thin and dry. I procured one bottle of your celebrated "Hairene," which has thoroughly restored my hair, and removed all dandruff. And I can cheerfully recommend so valuable a preparation.

Yours truly, GEORGE T. MAYNARD.

RIVER AND LAKE RIPLETS.

(From a Correspondent.)

The steamer "Beaver" is undergoing a thorough overhauling, under the supervision of Mr. John Cragg, shipcarpenter, Port Hope. The steamer in all likelihood will be in running order by June 1st, when she will commence her popular Saturday market trips to Peterborough. The farmers in and about Northumberland County, consider the Peterborough markets much superior to those of that county.

The P. S. & N. Co. have purchased a lot at the end of George street, at which point they propose erecting a commodious landing stage for the convenience of passengers and freight. The company will make no move, however, in the direction of commencing building operations until the Street Railway Company have started laying down the line of the new extension along George street. Applications have already been made for the lease of portions of the lot for the purpose of erecting boat liveries thereon. As the point which has been selected is a good one upon which to erect boat liveries the new extension would doubtless prove a source of considerable revenue to the Street Railway Co.

Mr. Hickey, shipbuilder of Port Hope, intends moving his family to Peterborough and will commence operations in building a canoe and skiff factory at once. It is known that Peterborough already has a half dozen similar factories and an estimate can now be formed of the importance of the business which has been created here in this special line. Not a few of the canoes manufactured are disposed of in Peterborough, as sailing on the Otonabee is one of the favorite pastimes of the citizens.

The Canadian Pacific Railway is going to start running a morning local from Tweed to connect with the P. S. & N. Co.'s steamers at this point. The local will return to Tweed in the evening, thus giving excursionists ample time for an outing on the river and lake.

Capt. Samuel Lambard goes to Bobcaygeon Monday and will commence caulking the Boyd & Company's barges at that point.

Quite a number of eels are being caught in the Dickson Company's race.

Mr. Henry, Smith, of Allandale, who is manager of Mr. Hops' saw mill, had the misfortune to lose his arm the other day by having it caught in the spokes of a fly wheel. Drs. Harrison and Shaw, of Keene, dressed the wound.

Richard Lund has received the appointment of firemen on the new steamer, "City of Peterborough."

WILL REACH MANHOOD OR WOMANHOOD.

THE CONDITIONS ARE SIMPLE

The Right Food Will Do the Work.

How many babies reach manhood and womanhood? Unfortunately the number is far too small. Imperfect infant dieting is the primary cause of our large infantile mortality.

With a daily diet of health-giving Lactated Food, babies will grow up fleshy, strong and healthy, and will surely reach the estate of manhood and womanhood in the flush of strength and beauty.

There are no complicated or vexatious rules to observe; the conditions are few and simple. With Lactated Food everything is plain sailing for baby's future. Hundreds of grateful mothers in Peterboro' know what Lactated Food has accomplished in the past. Hundreds of Canada's best physicians know all about Lactated Food and recommend it at every opportunity.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

Mr. K Mark will address the young men's meeting this evening at 8 o'clock.

We are to be favoured with an address by Rev. Dr. Sexton, at 4.15 to-morrow afternoon on the subject of "Christ for the world and the world for Christ."

Gospel and song service will be held at 8.30 o'clock on Sunday evening as usual.

The boiler which burst last Saturday has been replaced, and baths can now be obtained as usual.

MR. GRUNDY'S REVERSIBLE EVIDENCE.

His Tearful Tale in the Public Accounts Committee Qualified by his Affidavit and by Documentary Evidence.

As will be seen from the following reports of the evidence given by the Registrar and Deputy Registrar of Peterborough, before the Public Accounts Committee, the evidence given by the Deputy Registrar, Mr. Grundy, seems in connection with the affidavits and correspondence published below to have been as much of a surprise to himself as it was to the members of the committee, and those in Peterborough conversant with the facts. So far as Mr. Stratton in concerned we are authorized to most emphatically declare that he never registered any instrument in the registry office personally, but always had this business done through his solicitors, and it was paid for in the usual course of business. Mr. Morrow's letter and the letter of Messrs. Stratton & Hall, and even the letter of Mr. Grundy himself, furnishes a complete exoneration of Mr. Stratton from the charge insinuated in Mr. Grundy's evidence before the Public Accounts Committee, that Mr. Stratton was using the registry office without the payment of the usual charges. It is not necessary to make any lengthened comment, as the following correspondence, read in reference to the evidence of Mr. Grundy, fully explains itself, showing that under the excitement of the moment he used language which did not express what he intended to convey, and which upon cooler reflection he has reason to greatly qualify.

With regard to the intimidation insinuated in Mr. Grundy's evidence, Mr. Stratton desires it to be most flatly and positively contradicted. It will strike the reader as peculiar that Mr. Grundy should come to Mr. Stratton's office—as he did on several occasions till he found him in—seeking to be intimidated. In addition to Mr. Stratton's denial and the affidavit of Mr. Glover, Mr. Grundy's own letter and declaration published below give a complete contradiction to the impression in reference to Mr. Stratton, which Mr. Grundy's evidence before the committee tended to convey.

MR. STRATTON TO MR. GRUNDY.

THE DAILY EXAMINER, Peterborough, Monday, April 23, 1894.

Mr. H. Grundy, Registry Office, Peterborough:

DEAR SIR,—Will you kindly let me have, before three p.m., to-day, a statement, in detail, showing any instrument ever registered by me or my solicitors, in which I was directly or indirectly interested, which has not been paid for?

Yours truly,
J. R. STRATTON.

MR. GRUNDY'S REPLY.

REGISTERY OFFICE, Peterborough, 23rd April, 1894.

J. R. Stratton, Esq.:

DEAR SIR,—In answer to your favour of this morning, I would state that the only instrument registered in this office that I am aware of, in which you were directly or indirectly interested, that was not paid for in usual course by your solicitors, is one of very recent date, a deed from Mr. A. E. Dixon to yourself. I am not positive but that your solicitors may have paid for that, but it does not appear in the books as having been paid by any one. I cannot recall to memory your having at any time appeared personally at the registery office to register any document. In my conversation with you in your office before I went to Toronto you did not say to me: "Do not say anything that will compromise or implicate the Government," but you merely asked me some questions in regard to the working of the registery office, and advised me to be careful in my answers and see that they were correct.

Yours truly,
H. GRUNDY,
Dep. Registrar.

MR. STRATTON TO MR. MORROW.

THE DAILY EXAMINER, Peterborough, Monday April 23rd, 1894.

B. Morrow, Esq., Registrar, Peterborough:

DEAR SIR,—I observe that your deputy, Mr. Grundy, is reported by the Toronto Evening "Telegram" and "Star" of Saturday last, as having stated before the Public Accounts Committee, that I had made use of your office for filing instruments without paying the fees thereon. I presume you have observed his remarks in the papers referred to.

I beg the favour that you investigate the truthfulness of the statement and let me have your reply as early to-day as possible.

I never asked to have, nor on the other hand have you ever offered to register any instruments free of charge for me. Since you were appointed Registrar I never had any instruments registered in my behalf outside the firm of Stratton & Hall and I have always been charged by them regular fees.

I would like you to make careful investigation of all instruments registered, which I am directly or indirectly connected with, and you will do me the favour to let me have your reply as early to-day as possible.

Yours very truly,
J. R. STRATTON.

MR. MORROW'S REPLY.

REGISTRY OFFICE, Peterborough, Monday, April 23rd, 1894.

J. R. Stratton, Esq., M.P.P., Peterborough:

DEAR SIR,—I beg to acknowledge receipt of your letter of this morning. In reply thereto I beg to state that since my return from Toronto last Saturday, on which day I gave evidence before the Public Accounts Committee, I have carefully investigated all instruments in this office which have been registered and in which you were either directly or indirectly interested, and I state positively that in each and all cases all such instruments were registered for you by your solicitors, Messrs. Stratton & Hall, and the full statutory fees for such registrations were made, and in every case were paid for promptly by them in the usual course and in the usual manner.

The only instrument registered in which you were interested and not yet paid for, is a very recent deed to you from Mr. A. E. Dixon, which was directed to be charged to Messrs. Stratton & Hall, and which will no doubt be paid by them.

In addition to the above, I am happy to say that you never asked me as Registrar for a favour, and in consequence I never had an opportunity to refuse you.

Yours truly,
B. MORROW,
Registrar.

This is the letter referred to in my declaration hereto annexed.

H. GRUNEY.

LETTER TO MESSRS. STRATTON & HALL.

DAILY EXAMINER OFFICE, Monday, A.M., April 23rd, 1893.

Messrs. Stratton & Hall, Barristers, etc., Peterborough:

GENTS,—I observe in the Toronto Evening papers of Saturday, that the Deputy Registrar of Peterborough, Mr. Henry Grandy, stated when before the Public Accounts Committee on Saturday that I had made use of the registry office at Peterborough for the fyling of instruments without paying the fees thereon. I will be glad to have as soon as possible this morning, a statement over your firm signature as to the correctness of this statement.

As you have without exception performed all my legal work and transacted all my business in the registry office, and as you have from time to time rendered bills to me showing moneys paid to the registry office on my account, I cannot understand how such a statement could be truthfully made unless you have failed to make payments which you have charged against me.

Yours truly,
J. R. STRATTON.

MESSRS. STRATTON & HALL'S REPLY.

Office of STRATTON & HALL, Barristers, etc., Peterborough April 23rd, 1894.

J. R. Stratton, Esq., M.P.P., Peterborough:

DEAR SIR,—We beg to acknowledge receipt of your letter of this morning. If any person states that prior to the first of April, 1894, our firm ever registered any instruments in the Registry Office at Peterborough, and that the statutory fee for the registration of any such instrument was not paid for, he states what is a wilful, deliberate falsehood.

Without a single exception we have paid promptly for the registration of every instrument registered by us in the Peterborough Registry office, except such instruments as have been registered since the 1st of April inst., and the sole reason for such instruments not having been paid for is that a registry office account is rendered monthly, and the account for the current month will not be rendered to us until the expiration of this month.

So far as we know, neither the registrar at Peterborough nor his deputy nor any of his subordinates, ever registered any instrument in which we were either directly or indirectly interested without making his legal charges and being paid therefor, nor did we on your account, nor on our own account, nor on any other person's account ever ask Mr. Morrow nor any one under him to register, nor do we know of them registering any instrument gratuitously.

Since October 1888, we have paid to the Registrar at Peterborough at least $50.00 for the registration of instruments in which you are interested.

As you request an immediate answer, it is impossible this morning to give a detailed statement of your dealings with the Registry Office through us. If you so desire, we will give you in detail a statement of every transaction you ever had with the Registry Office—day, date, instrument and amount paid, but this will require some considerable time, which we regret to be unable to give you to-day.

Yours truly,
STRATTON & HALL

This is the letter referred to in my declaration hereto annexed.

H. GRUNDY.

MR. GRUNDY'S DECLARATION.

COUNTY OF PETERBOROUGH, To Wit: } In the matter of the Registry Office for the County of Peterborough.

I, Henry Grundy, of the Town of Peterborough, in the County of Peterborough, Deputy Registrar, do solemnly declare:

1. That I am Deputy Registrar of the County of Peterborough.

2. That I have carefully read the two letters hereunto annexed, one written by B. Morrow, Esquire, Registrar of the County of Peterborough, and the other written by myself, and I positively state that each and every statement contained in said two letters is true in substance and in fact, except that I was not present when Messrs. Stratton & Hall handed said registrar said deed from A. E. Dixon to said Stratton for registrar.

3. That I have also read the letter of Messrs. Stratton & Hall hereunto annexed, and I also positively state that each and every statement contained therein is true in substance and in fact.

And I make this solemn declaration conscientiously believing it to be true and knowing that it is of the same force and effect as if made under oath and by virtue of "The Canada Evidence Act, 1893."

MR. GLOVER'S DECLARATION.

COUNTY OF PETERBOROUGH, To Wit: } In the matter of the Registry Office for the County of Peterborough.

I, Roland Maxwell Glover, of the village of Ashburnham, in the county of Peterborough, stenographer, do solemnly declare,

1. That I am a stenographer in the office of J. R. Stratton, M. P.P., and the PETERBOROUGH EXAMINER.

2. That Henry Grundy, deputy-registrar of the county of Peterborough, called at the office of the EXAMINER three or four times to see said Stratton about the end of the week ending the 14th inst. and at last he saw him on Saturday, the 14th inst.

3. That I was present during a part of the conversation which took place between them regarding the Peterborough registry office, and I state positively that I never heard said Stratton say anything which could in any way be construed as intimating to H. Grundy that he was not to tell all the facts in connection with the Peterborough registry office.

4. That said Stratton asked said Grundy if the registry office was regularly run and properly conducted, and he answered "Yes."

5. That the whole conversation with said Grundy lasted about three minutes. That said Stratton was exceedingly busy at the time and did not seem to be paying very much attention to said Grundry, who was doing nearly all the talking.

And I make this solemn declaration conscientiously believing it to be true and knowing that it is of the same force and effect as if made under oath and by virtue of "The Canada Evidence Act, 1893."

R. M. GLOVER.

Declared before me at the town of Peterborough, this 23rd day of April, 1894. } R. R. HALL, A Notary Public.

On Saturday morning Mr. B. Morrow, registrar, and Mr. H. Grundy, deputy-registrar, appeared before the Public Accounts Committee. The Evening Star publishes the following sensational version of Mr. Grundy's testimony:—

"Did anyone tell you how to swear?" said Sol. White to Henry Grundy, the deputy-registrar for Peterborough.

"Gentlemen, I don't wish to answer," said the witness. "I am a poor man with a wife and seven children. I have worked in this office for nineteen years. If I answer that question I will go back to Peterborough on Monday and my situation will be gone."

"Go on and tell the truth; the Government will protect you," said Mr. Awrey.

"Well, Mr. J. R. Stratton, M.P.P., told me about coming."

"Well, what did he tell you?"

"He said that I should not give any evidence that would complicate the Government."

J. R. Stratton is the member for the division.

Grundy said the office was behind in its work.

Many deeds were marked compared when they had never been examined. Outside parties would come in and alter deeds before they were filed.

Changes were made in black ink, while the statute demanded red.

Some instruments were entered and never charged.

"Did J. R. Stratton, M.P.P., ever enter any instruments which were not charged?" asked Mr. White.

"Yes, Mr. Stratton did. I dont know how many."

THE TELEGRAM'S VERSION.

The Evening Telegram reports Mr. Grundy's appearance before the committee as follows:—

Deputy-Registrar Grundy, of Peterborough, gave evidence. Registrar Morrow was asked to retire from the room. Mr. Grundy admitted that outside parties had been allowed to come and alter deeds and instruments filed in the registry office and that oftentimes other parties had been allowed to register deeds without charge.

"I think the member, Mr. Stratton, was one," he said, when asked the names of some who had used the office free.

Mr. White asked him if any one had spoken to him in regard to the evidence he should give since he received first summons from the House.

After some hesitation Mr. Grundy said Mr. J. R. Stratton, the member for Peterborough, had spoken to him.

"What did he say?" asked Mr. White.

For a few minutes Mr. Grundy was silent.

"Go on," said Mr. Awrey. The witness looked up and appealed to the committee.

"You see the position you put me in, gentlemen; for nineteen years I've worked in that office. I have a wife and seven children. I get $400 a year. If I go back to Peterborough and they tell me they have no further use for me, I cannot do anything. I am not fit for other work, and I shall be helpless."

Chairman Awrey assured the witness that he could tell the truth. The Government would protect him.

"Mr. Stratton told me if I had to go to Toronto I must not say anything that would in any way complicate the Government or act to its detriment.'

"Did he tell you that you must swear 'black was white'" asked Mr. Sol. White.

"No, he did not use those words,"

THE GLOBE'S VERSION.

The next witness was Mr. Henry Grundy, Deputy Registrar of Peterboro' for nineteen years. He answered slowly, sometimes not at all, always in a subdued, deputy voice, and once he appealed to the committee on behalf of his wife and seven children. At one time he startled himself and all the listeners by bearding the whole committee and defying any one to browbeat him. But the members were surprised rather than angered, and sought more to allay his fears than to reduce him by pressure of the rules of order. When he first received the summons it became at once the talk of the town. About 200 people had warned, cautioned, pitied and lamented with him. He could not walk the street without being stopped by sympathetic friends, and even strangers had frequently accosted him about the matter. Lawyers and others visiting the office had filled his ears with terrible stories of the atrocities of the Public Accounts Committee. A leading lawyer had shaken him sadly by the hand as he left for the station, telling him that the committee would doubtless incarcerate him for an indefinite time. Some of the lawyers had told him he was going to turn out the Government and upset the constitution. And here he looked around in sad surprise at the laughing committee. He went to Mr. McWilliams, the crown timber agent, for advice, and was told the best course was to tell the truth. Here there was another laugh, and chairman Awrey quietly expressed the hope that the advice was not necessary. He had consulted with Mr. Zimmerman, his clergyman, and had received advice of a similiar nature. He went to Mr. Stratton the member for the riding, and, although he gathered from an excited recollection of the conversation that Mr. Stratton was not actuated by the same lofty motives which guided his other comforters. On cross-examination his reasons for suspecting Mr. Stratton disappeared, but he still clung to the suspicion. Mr. Stratton had asked him if Mr. Morrow, the registrar, could do the work without a deputy, and if he was "as good a registrar" as his predecessor. To both of these he had answered "no." Mr. Morrow had cut his salary from $850 to $800 a year. Mr. Stratton had asked how much of the work Mr. Morrow did, and had expressed the hope that he would not "complicate" the Government. He said nothing about upsetting the constitution.

HE HAD RECEIVED NO POSITIVE ADVICE

Mr. Sol. White held a brief on the office work, and his mild looks and quiet tones seemed to win Mr. Grundy's confidence. The first fact elicited was that corrections in registered instruments were not made in red ink, according to law. Mr. Grundy did not think the red ink act a good law, but his opinion on the point was laughed to scorn. Yet wisdom may proceed out of the mouths of deputies, for Mr. Grundy contended that most grades of red ink faded out in about ten years. It startled every one else when he told of changes made in the registered documents, but the case became less alarming when he explained that they were merely the corrections of unimportant errors and were made at the request of both parties to the instruments. The next point was the remission or omission of fees, and Mr. Grundy said that a dozen or more of his own mortgages, deeds and discharges had been registered gratis. He also remembered three instruments having been registered free for outside parties. One of these was for a Mr. Henry and one for Mr. Stratton. It was customary to run accounts with some customers. In the matter of copying. Mr. Grundy was so exact that he stamped his work "compared" without the formality of comparing it. He compared the signatures, dates, amounts and other things in which errors might occur. The comparing was done by himself and the Registrar's son. He was pressed for an answer as to the extent of the Registrar's knowledge regarding the imperfect system of comparing, but would not be definite. Mr. Grundy described the visit of the inspector, how he went through all the instruments, saw that the certificates were properly signed, took out bundles of documents here and there, and generally investigated the work of the office. Mr. Morrow, he said, was generally regular in attendance, receiving documents, making abstracts, attending to correspondence and generally supervising the work. His daughter and two sons also assisted in the work of the office. Mr. Harcourt, in cross-examination, succeeded in completely reassuring Mr. Grundy in regard to the peaceful intentions of the committee, and once he was actually seen to smile in sympathy with a robust laugh among the members.

After an intermission for lunch, Registrar Morrow, who had been excluded on the request of Mr. White during the examination of his deputy, was put through the shorter form of catechism. He said that as far as his knowledge went all documents stamped "compared" had been compared with the exception of the printed parts of the forms. He only remembered three documents, other than those belonging to his deputy, having been registered without the fee. One of these had been for a church, one for his brother, and one, a dissolution of partnership, had been handed to him on the street and he had neglected to collect for it. His daughter and two of his sons assisted in the work of the office. This settled the Saturday session.

A FULL REPORT OF MR. GRUNDY'S TESTIMONY.

Following is the Empire's report of the evidence of Mr. Grundy given before the Committee:—

Mr. Henry Grundy, a nervous but thoroughly honest looking man, who is deputy registrar of Peterborough, responded to an examination from Mr. Sol white. Some of the admissions made by him were of a most serious character, particularly one regarding a conversation he had with Mr. Stratton, M.P.P. The position Grundy was placed in was a painful one, and a good deal of sympathy was felt for him. He has filled his present position for 19 years.

Mr. Grundy said the registrar, Mr. Morrow, was not in his office all the time, but the son was. The copying and comparing was not done every day; it was allowed to accumulate and there was considerable back work. They had come across instruments that were not compared and were found to be incorrect. There were all of 250 instruments stamped as compared that were uncompared. In any containing alterations, the alterations were not made in red ink as required by the statue, but in ordinary black ink. Lawyers had been allowed to change instruments after they had been filed. The registrar knew this was done. A number of instruments had been entered in the book for which no fees had been collected. A number belonged to him. The non-collection of fees on instruments had been going on for years. He had had almost as many instruments last year for which no fees were paid as all the time before. There were perhaps a dozen on which the fees were uncollected last year. The fee in each case would be $3 or $4. He could recall that no fee had been collected on one instrument belonging to Mr. Kendry, of Peterborough.

Mr. White—I am instructed that Mr. Stratton has not paid. Is that so? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—That is Mr. Stratton, member for the county? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Was there any more than one? A.—I think not.

Q.—Is the registrar at the office constantly? A.—I cannot say constantly. He has never been away for a week.

Q.—How long would he be away for? A.—He is there about town. When he is in town he comes around.

Q.—Have you had any conversation with anyone as to what testimony you were to give here? A.—I did yesterday.

Q.—Had you any conversation with anyone as to what testimony you were to give here? A. (after a pause)—I talked with Mr. J. B. McWilliams, the Crown timber lands agent, of Peterborough. I told him I was coming. In what you do, he says, tell the truth.

Mr. White asked if witness had a conversation with anybody else.

Witness (hesitatingly)—Am I obliged to tell?

The chairman—If you had a conversation with anybody, say yes. You must answer that question.

Mr. White—Have you had any conversation with Mr. Stratton in reference to your coming here?

Witness (after a further pause)—When the first summons came I went to see Mr. Stratton to see what they wanted me for. I told him I would have to come before the Public Accounts Committee.

Mr. White—Tell the whole of it right out. We are here to hear it.

Witness (tearfully)—It's pretty hard for me to be put in a position like this. I am the deputy registrar of Peterborough. I can go back to Peterborough to-morrow and they can say: "I don't want you. If you were in this position you would feel the same as I do. I have got a wife and seven children. If I am put out of the position, what can I do to-morrow?

The chairman—We will assume nothing will happen.

No reply was vouchsafed by the witness, and the chairman consolingly said: You will be protected in what you say.

Witness—Mr. Stratton said that I would not want to complicate the Government in my testimony.

Q.—Did he say something like this: "You must say black is white?" A.—He did not say that.

Mr. White—Not exactly; well, what? A.—I told you the best way I could.

Q.—Is that what you understood? A.—He put it in the way I was not to do anything that would be detrimental to the Government.

In reply to Mr. Harcourt, witness said he did not know what would implicate the Government. He did not know that anything had occurred in the office for which the Government was responsible.

Mr. Harcourt—Did Mr. Stratton ask you to conceal or hide anything from this committee? Did he ask you not to tell the truth? A.—He put it in the way that I have given you; that I might give certain testimony that would be against the office.

Q.—What words did he use? A.—I cannot tell you the words.

Q.—Did he ask you if there was anything irregular in the office? A.—Mr. Stratton asked me how often Mr. Morrow was in attendance at the office.

Q.—What else did he ask you? A.—He asked me whether I would say that Mr. Morrow was a constant worker at the office.

Q.—Well, anything else? A.—I don't know particularly that it was in that line. I went to him to ask what I would be called upon to speak about when I came before this committee.

Q.—Mr. McWilliams, when you had a conversation with him, said: "Tell the whole truth." Did Mr. Stratton suggest to you that he did not want the truth told? Did you gather that from what he said? A.—He did not put it in the way that Mr. McWilliams did.

Q.—He did not use these words? A.—The thought was not the same.

Q.—Are you insinuating that Mr. Stratton gave you to understand he did not want you to tell the truth? A. (firmly)—I am, sir.

Mr. Harcourt pressed witness to repeat Mr. Stratton's own words. He remained

Daily Examiner.

MONDAY, APRIL 23, 1894.

THE Ottawa Journal has been making some inquiries as to the working of the liquor license law. It has submitted to chiefs of police and license inspectors in the eight chief towns of the province questions as to how many licenses have been cut off in the last three years, and the effect of the decrease, if any, on drunkenness and crime; whether a regulation for the removal of blinds from the windows of bars during prohibited hours has been in force and, if so, what have been the results? Information was secured with respect to Toronto, Hamilton, London, Guelph, St. Catharines, St. Thomas, Kingston and Brockville. The replies show that in Toronto there is a saloon for every 1,000 of population, for every 800 in London, for 583 in Guelph, for 575 in Hamilton, for 470 in St. Thomas, for 400 in Ottawa, for 337 in Kingston, for 315 in St. Catharines. The regulation as to blinds is enforced only in Guelph, St. Thomas and London. In these places the reports agree that the rule works well. The Journal says:—"The first conclusion to be drawn from the replies is that everywhere drunkenness is on the decline. Various reasons are attributed. One of the most striking is the influence of the benefit societies, to be insured in which requires a character for sobriety. The result is only credited to he vigilance of the authorities and the activity of the temperance people, but the main inference would seem to be that temperance sentiment is growing and that the large reductions of licenses that have taken place for the last twenty years is due to constant falling off of the drinking habit."

MR. MORLEY'S new Registration bill proposes to equalize voting power in England by providing that when a general election is held voting shall take place throughout the United Kingdom on the same day. He also intends that the registration of voters shall take place twice a year, and that three months residence in a constituency before the day of registration shall entitle a man to be enrolled as a voter. Voters who own property in more than one division are to have a choice as to where they shall vote, but shall not be entitled to vote in more than one constituency. The Tories are calling upon the House of Lords to defeat this measure, on the ground that if it becomes law the political power of the wealthy classes will be greatly curtailed, as it is claimed that half a million men who are now able to vote in more than one constituency will have their privileges restricted. It is asserted that simultaneous voting will deprive men of the power of voting more than once, but those who have observed how many men hustle around and vote in sometimes half a dozen constituencies at elections in the House of Commons in this country know better. The fight for "one-man-one-vote" in England is a square contest between the masses and the classes.

IN view of the lamentable cowardice displayed by the Dominion ministers in refusing to accept Mr. McCarthy's challenge to open Cardwell—an old-time Conservative hive—it is amusing to hear, says the Ottawa Free Press, Mr. Foster and his colleagues talk about the present government "enjoying the confidence of the country." They do not enjoy the confidence or respect of anybody excepting the combinesters, whose slaves they are. The Tories have not won a single contested by-election since Sir John Thompson became premier, and they are afraid to open any constituency in which the cry of "support the government and get something" is not all powerful. The government has already gerrymandered the Dominion in their own interest since the last election, but to such an extent do the ministers enjoy public confidence that they talk of introducing another gerrymander bill before venturing to appeal to the electorate. They secured a new lease of power in 1891 by fraud and falsehood, pretending that they had received an offer of reciprocity; whereas Mr. Foster now states that no such offer was ever received, and thus admits that he and his colleagues won votes by shameful lying.

THE CHEESE MARKET.

There was an advance in the Liverpool market for cheese last week, but there is no change in the markets on this side. The offerings of new cheese have been small. The market this season promises to be large. Many new factories are being erected in different parts of the Dominion, and the indications are that the make will be larger than last year's, which was the largest in the history of the trade. The English markets are commented on up to April 7, by the London Grocer as follows: "Inquiries for English cheese have been much restricted by the limited quantities offering, and, in some instances, the article is so scarce that it is difficult to name quotations. Cheddar, supplies of which are equal to all requirements, ranges in value from 64s to 74, with loaf at 66s to 70s, and lower grades and Somersets down to 60s and even 50s; besides Wiltshire 'culls' at 40s to 42s per cwt. Other sorts entirely without change. About 10,000 boxes Canadian have arrived here since our last report, but the demand for these, as well as States cheese, has been so contracted that only light quantities have been disposable and the value of really prime quality has ruled much the same as before, viz., firmly at 56s to 58s, though the outside figure, it must be confessed, is hard to obtain. There is a good inquiry for low-priced stuff, but next to none is to be had, and the prices mentioned are 52s to 51s."

It may be that he had in mind
That draught which seems to make a truth
Out of the fable ages old,
For drinking it the old grow young;

The draught meant is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, of course. It is a most potent rejuvenator of the weakened and debilitated system. It drives out all poison, all impurity, enriches the blood, and makes the old and worn out feel young and vigorous. Ponce-de-Leon didn't discover it, but Dr. Pierce did, and he rightly named it when he called it a "Golden Discovery."

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

H. LEBRUN & CO.

Our Boys' Suits are very popular and fast sellers. One mother from near Lakefield, who prides herself on being a good judge of Boys' Clothing, says she "never buys from us without first examining the 'Great Bargains' offered by our neighbours," but she always decided that "our every day value in any line of Clothing beats them all."

Mothers and fathers are invited to bring in their boys and examine our Suits and learn our little prices. 3,000 Boys' Suits, at LESS than wholesale price, to select from.

As Lacrosse and Baseball will be boomed this summer, we have decided to give with Every Boys' Suit, his choice of a Lacrosse Stick and Ball, or a Bat and a Ball.

Worthless Pianos and Organs

Are made in large quantities, because foolish people buy where prices are lowest, without giving a thought to quality. Any one who thinks, will not buy a "Piano at $170, or an Organ at $30, guaranteed for nineteen years," because it is cheap. Any one who thus thinks will avoid learning by experience that it would have been cheaper to pay, say $300, for his piano.

We can furnish an Organ for $30, but we will not. We live here and have to "face the music" this year and other years to come.

Fashions for Men.

IN COATS.

There is more length in the new Coats for 1894 than has been used in Men's Dress since the 60's.

THE DOUBLE BREASTED FROCK is the most fastidious garment man has put on in a generation. It adds to the stature of the man and conceals defects of figure. It is short waisted, long fitting, long tailed and beautifully moulded to the figure. The Skirts are hollow at the top and form a beautiful curve, which is the most distinctive thing about the new styles.

Then there is the THREE BUTTON CUTAWAY Coat which is a high favourite. It is popularly described as the "Pigeon Wing" on account of its sloping tails. The sleeves are of moderate size and are closed with a vent for three buttons. If properly made it will cling rather closely to the hips.

The new CUTAWAY SACK COAT for business wear is one of the most popular of the season. It has caught the fancy of the young men. All the coats should have flaps. The collar rolls low and is not faced with Silk.

Any of these garments made up to order to please the most fastidious dresser and with faultless devotion to the fashion plates

BEHRING SEA AWARD

British, Canadian and American Representatives Hold a Conference.

DISCUSS THE REGULATIONS

An Amicable Understanding Between the Diplomats as to the Situation and the Conditions of the Award Arrived At—The Sixty-Mile Zone.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—Sir Julian Pauncefote, the British Minister, Sir George Baden-Powell, representing the Canadian Government, and W. Edward Goschen, first secretary of the British Embassy, accompanied by Mr. Gresham, Secretary of State, called at the Treasury Department by appointment with Secretary Carlisle, for the purpose of discussing rules and regulations to carry out the findings of the Paris tribunal affecting Behring Sea interests.

Secretary Carlisle received the party in his private room of the Treasury building. Behind closed doors the conference was conducted for two hours, during which time Commander Evens, of the navy, who was in command of the United States fleet in Behring Sea in 1892, was called into the conference and participated in it.

At the conclusion of the conference Secretary Carlisle stated that a general interchange of opinion as to the scope of the instructions to be given the United States agent on the seal islands, and to the naval officers in the Behring Sea fleet took place and a better understanding of the situation and conditions was reached. The limit of catches allowed the North American Commercial Company has not yet been fixed by the United States. It is understood that they will be within the next few days. It is understood that another question discussed was from what point in the Pribyloff islands, the sixty-mile zone established by the Paris tribunal, should be measured, as the islands are a number of miles apart and oblong in shape, ranging in length from 10 to 20 miles.

WHITEWAYITES DISAPPOINTED.

The Governor Under Imperial Instructions Further Prorogues the House.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., April 23.—Governor O'Brien has further prorogued the Legislature to May 23, acting under instructions from the British Cabinet advising him to be guided by his ministers, promising to protect him in the matter of revenue and urging him to force trials to an issue. The Whitewayites were terribly disappointed. They counted on dissolution. It is certain now there is no prospect but to face their trials.

Montreal Tea Men Protest.

MONTREAL, April 23.—A meeting of about 20 of the leading tea and coffee merchants of Montreal was held in the Board of Trade to discuss the amended tea duties as brought down in the House of Commons. The general concensus of opinion was that the duties as explained by Mr. Foster on the 6th instant were entirely satisfactory, and on motion of Mr. W. D. Stroud, of W. D. Stroud & Co., seconded by W. Kearney, of Kearney Bros., it was resolved that the wholesale tea importers and wholesale grocery houses of the city of Montreal that the amendments to the tariff as reported by the newspapers do not meet with their approval, but decide to voice their warm approval of the tariff as expressed by the Finance Minister in Parliament on the 5th inst., and that all teas and coffees not imported direct from the country of growth on a thorough bill of lading should be subject to 10 per cent. duty, thereby increasing direct importation from the country of growth and production.

Coast Blockaded With Ice.

HALIFAX, April 23.—The whole coast of Nova Scotia, from Canso to the mouth of Halifax harbor, is completely blockaded with ice. Usually when the ice comes out of the Gulf of St. Lawrence it is carried to sea and is soon lost, but for two weeks almost continuously easterly winds have prevailed, and all this gulf ice has been blown on to the coast and packed up almost solid. Many of the harbors are entirely shut off from navigation, and but few steamers have succeeded in getting into Halifax during the past few days. It is stated that in 1852 there was a similar ice block off Halifax brought about by similar conditions. The weather has become much warmer the last two days, and this has caused the city to be enveloped in a fog arising from the ice denser than ever known here before.

Toronto Men Have a Narrow Escape.

BUFFALO, April 23.—George B. Boyd and A. Wilkie, of Toronto, Ont., had a narrow escape from death here on Saturday evening. They came in on the evening train and took a carriage at the depot for the Iroquois hotel. The rig had just turned to start when it was run into by a trolley car and both gentlemen were thrown out, but luckily escaped serious injury. They arrived at the hotel somewhat bruised and shaken, but later in the night were not feeling much the worse for what might have been a very serious accident.

Another Yankee Poacher Captured.

PORT COLBORNE, April 23.—The Government fishery inspector's tug Dolphin, Capt. Peterson, made another raid on the Buffalo firms' fishermen operating in Canadian waters off this port, and captured the Dunkirk tug Grace, Capt. Helwig, bringing her into this port together with her nets and fish found in them. The tug Grace has been tied up here by the fishery inspector, Mr. Kerr, of Hamilton, and put her in charge of the customs officials. Capt. Helwig says he was not aware that he was in Canadian waters.

Huntsville's Big Fire.

HUNTSVILLE, April 23.—The remains of Thursday's fire are still smouldering. Quite a number of families are now realizing their destitute condition. Time has been taken up by merchants in searching for and sorting their goods that were saved. The loss will come up fully to first report, $125,000; insurance about $40,000.

RANDY'S WILD SPEECH

Lord Churchill Makes a Spectacle of Himself in the Commons.

HIS TIRADE AGAINST RADICALS

The Debate on Duke Saxe-Coburg's Annuity Draws Out His Bitter Attack —A Once Promising Statesman Now a Physical and Mental Wreck.

LONDON, April 23.—Lord Randolph Churchill, once the pet and rising hope of the Conservative party, whose speeches, even after he had wrecked his chances of the highest political distinction, were always listened to with the deepest attention, was the principal in a regrettable spectacle in the House in the course of the debate on the ducal annuity.

During the speeches of Messrs. Labouchere and Storey, Lord Randolph made numerous irrevelant and incoherent interruptions, which were greeted with shouts of derisive laughter from all parts of the House. His own speech was a savage and vehement attack upon the Radicals in general and upon Henry Labouchere in particular.

The speech of Lord Randolph called forth a running fire of laughter from the Radical benches. He looked ill and was decidedly excited, and he appeared to forget his misrepresentation of previous speeches.

On the other hand, he strewed his own with such phrases as "revolting sentiments" and "vomiting radical trash." Lord Randolph Churchill also eulogized Mr. Gladstone's "unfailing patriotism," the suppression of which, he claimed, was a serious loss to the House. The speaker then described the welting which he claimed Mr. Gladstone would have administered to Henry Labouchere had the veteran Liberal leader been present on that occasion. The description which Lord Randolph then gave of Mr. Labouchere as "feasting and intoxicating himself on royal grants," was received with a roar of significant laughter.

During this remarkable speech Lord Randolph Churchill accused the Radicals of wanting to make the Duke of Edinburgh a crossing sweeper, whereupon Charles A. Conybeare (Radical) cried out: "His mother has plenty of money."

The Chronicle, commenting upon Lord Randolph's speech, says: "It would be merciful to draw a veil over the scene. Much to Mr. Balfour's relief, towards the end of his speech, Lord Randolph quieted and quoted an effective passage from a speech made by O'Connell."

It is understood that only private pressure has prevented the Paddington electors from holding a meeting a meeting to express their opinion of their representative, Lord Randolph Churchill. At least it is certain that he will not be elected again. His performance in the Duke of Coburg debate on Friday night was perhaps the worst thing he has yet done. Balfour sat on the bench beside him, hiding his face in his hands from very shame and pity. Papers here speak guardedly of Churchill's altered demeanor, but the fact is he has become both physically and mentally a wreck.

Earthquakes in Greece.

ATHENS, April 23. — Five shocks of earthquake were felt here, but they were very light in comparison to those experienced on Friday. The village of Neapille, on the Gulf of Atalanta, was destroyed by the shocks. Despatches received last evening state that many villages in the provinces of Larissa and Phocis were destroyed. Five persons are known to have been killed at Catacala. It is feared that large death lists will be reported from many places. Fifty more buildings in the Bea collapsed. The walls of the Royal Palace in Athens are much cracked. Adrian's Gate, near the Acropolis, is also damaged. A warship has started for the distressed districts with surgeons, engineers, 500 tents and a supply of provisions. Hundreds of people are camping in the fields.

Must Receive Permission to Marry.

PARIS, April 23.—President Carnot has signed a decree forbidding diplomats, consuls, consular agents, etc., to marry without the consent of the minister of foreign affairs. If the ambassador, minister, consul or other French official desires to marry a foreigner, permission must be obtained from the foreign minister one month before the first publication of the banns. Any infraction of this decree will be punished by the dismissal or recall of the offender. It is reported that this decree was provoked by the marriage of M. Jules Patenotre and Count Daunay to American ladies.

Joan of Arc Service in Paris.

PARIS, April 23.—A solemn service in honor of Joan of Arc was held yesterday in the cathedral of Notre Dame. The Archbishop of Paris officiated and Father Feuillette preached a sermon concerning Joan's unselfish devotion to God and France. Among the six or seven thousand persons present were many deputies, government officials, army officers and most persons who are conspicuous in Paris society.

The Italian Budget.

ROME, April 23.—There was a stormy debate on the naval budget in the Chamber of Deputies. Admiral Morin, Minister of Marine, spoke in opposition to the proposed economies in the navy, saying they would lead to the ruin of the fleet and to the dishonor of Italy. Premier Crispi supported Admiral Morin. The Chamber eventually, by a vote of 377 to 43, rejected a motion offered by the Marquis Compans, against the Government.

Dowe's Bullet-Proof Coat.

BERLIN, April 23.—The Kannheim tailor, Dowe, gave an exhibition of his bullet-proof coat before the surgeons' congress now in session here. The bullets fired at a twenty-five foot range failed to penetrate the coat or even startle Dowe, who was inside it. When the test was over Dowe was applauded heartily, and several members of the congress spoke flatteringly of his invention.

It is only of late years that rheumatism has been treated as a blood disease. But that this is a correct theory is proved by the extraordinary success attending the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, in this painful and very prevalent malady. It seldom fails of radical cure.

A Government BOMBSHELL THROWN INTO THE LIFE INSURANCE CAMP!

The following statement comes from the government Blue Book. It covers a period of sixteen years, and is sworn to as correct by representatives of each Company:

Statement of Premiums received and Cash Profits paid back [to Policy Holders from 1877 to 1892, both years inclusive]:—

COMPANY.	Premiums Received.	Dividends Paid to Policy Holders.	Ratio of Dividends to Premiums, %
CANADA LIFE	$16,368,807	$2,946,483	18.18
Confederation Life	6,165,432	637,925	10 35
North American	2,327,082	32,857	1.41
Ontario Mutual	3,878,086	433,284	11.17
Sun Life	5,527,720	355,280	6.43

Never in the history of Life Insurance has the struggle for business been keener. Never has the conflict been hotter. Never have the Companies felt as they feel now, the necessity for throwing all the energy at their command into the field. The most intelligent and best men have to be employed. All kinds of plans of insurance are submitted. Each Company determined in securing the supremacy in the good will of the public, in establishing their name, the utterance of which, shall convey to the minds of the people the essential characteristics of

UNDOUBTED SECURITY, RIGID ECONOMY, GOOD INVESTMENTS, LARGEST PROFITS

WHY?

Because millons of dollars are being paid annually for Life Insurance, and the Companies that can show these features have attained a position which will guarantee their future success, for money will flow freely into the best investments.

The Canada Life Policy Holders can look at the above statement with a smile of satisfaction, yet sympathise with their friends who are not so favourably situated.

They can throw their Life Policies down in the face of opponents and successfully challenge the production of more profitable policies, they can stand the onslaught of Agents who will almost cover them with literature and estimates of Tontine, Semi-Tontine, Return Premiums, Reserved Dividends, Annuity and Endownment plans of insurance, and with a quiet assurance feel that

As The Canada Life is Making the Most Profits, She Can Pay the Largest Profits.

READER. If you want Life Insurance choose the Canada Life and join the throng of contented policy holders who are insured with the Company carrying about 45 per cent. of the total insurance in force of the above named Companies

It's Not So

Notwithstanding reports to the contrary, still it is not true that Short Stop cures a cold too quickly. The fact is, Short Stop cures nautrally and without nauseating the stomach, by acting promptly on the bronchial tubes and lungs. For sale by Jas. Lynch, druggist, 168 Hunter street.

LAKEFIELD, April 10th, 1894.

H. Calcutt, Esq.,

DEAR SIR,—On the recommendation of my medical attendant, I have used your Dublin Porter and am happy to say that I have gained five pounds in weight in one month, and my health is quite restored.

Yours truly,

7d88 MRS. F. C——.

Dr. Sexton's Lecture.

Dr. Sexton will deliver a lecture in St. Paul's Church on Tuesday evening at eight o'clock upon "My passage from the Christian pulpit to the sceptical platform and back again." The importance of the subject, as well as the ability of the lecturer, ought to secure a large audience. A silver collection will be taken at the close.

Ashburnham Street Watering Tenders.

The Street and Bridge Committee of the Ashburnham council, with Mr. A. Rutherford in the chair, met Saturday evening and awarded the contract for the street watering to Mr. A. O'Brien for $227.50. The other tenders submitted were as follows:—G. A. Craig, $271; T. Mitchell, $260; W. H. Davidson, $250; B. Craig, $245.

Poison in Tea.

In England tea has been discovered contaminated with lead, undoubtedly from being wrapped in packages containing lead. This is a matter which is being enquired into, inasmuch as lead is a dangerous poison and its presence in so many packages of tea may well cause grave public alarm. Mason & Co., grocers, have no confidence in package teas, as their English blends surpass all teas placed on the market.

Didn't Know it was Loaded.

A boy named Dougherty, who accidentally shot himself in the foot at Indian River, was brought to the office of Dr. McGrath last night. The big toe was almost blown off the lad's right foot, a complete charge of bird shot having entered it. While the wound was being dressed, Dougherty's horse wandered away out of the doctor's yard and roamed around the town for over two hours. No damage however was done the vehicle to which it was attached.

SPRIGHTLY SUMMER SPORTS.

On the Lacrosse Field, the Cricket and the Diamond—Triple A. Tactics—The Bicycle and Football.

The Ottawa cricket club will give Peterborough a match on its way tarough to Toronto in July.

The Peterborough Lacrosse Club holds its practices Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays in each week.

The cricket club will probably take a short trip down east during the season. It has been suggested that the club play in Ottawa on the Saturday before July 1st, and take in Perth on Dominion Day on the way home.

The Cricket Club has finally made arrangements to secure the services of the Trinity School, Port Hope, professional coach at the terms offered by them. The local club will therefore not have to pay the "pro's" passage to England.

Work would have been commenced on the P. A. A. A. grounds this morning only it is has been ascertained that the iron roller belonging to the Association has been removed from the grounds by some party or parties, who did not take the trouble to say "by your leave," before so doing. The Association officers are considerably put out over the occurrence, as arrangements had been made to begin work on the grounds this morning. It is understood that those removing the roller are not in any way connected with the P. A. A. A.

After an experience of fifteen years, Dominion Pisciculturist Wilmot has reached the conclusion that all of his efforts to stock the streams with trout fry have come to naught simply because the little fish are savory morsels and are "gobbled up" by larger trout as fast as they are poured into the water. It is a little strange that fifteen years should necessary to make a discovery so simple and so logical. Mr. Wilmot purposes, now that his eyes have been opened, to establish nursing ponds in which the young fry can be kept until they are big enough to take care of themselves.

The members of the Gun Club are requested to meet in Mr. S. Ray's store this evening to make final arrangements for going to Campbellford on the Queen's Birthday, and to transact other business of importance.

A meeting of the Bicycle Club is called in the club rooms over the Palace Restaurant for this evening at eight o'clock. Among other business to be discussed, will be the selecting of a regular evening for weekly meetings and club runs.

The members of the Shamrock Lacrosse Club are requested to be in attendance at Riverside Park for practice this evening at 6.45.

The Collegiate Institute Association football team play a match at Keene next Saturday afternoon. The boys have been practicing daily and are expected to give a good account of themselves on their return.

The Peterborough Quoit Club will start its regular practices this week in the school yard where the members congregated last year. The club is considering the advisability of affiliating with the P. A.A.A., and a conference will doubtless be held in the near future to see what arrangements could be made for the accommodation of the quoit pitchers in the Ashburnham grounds. Mr. George Giroux, who is the club's star pitcher, will endeavour to get on a match with Claus, the eastern expert. Mr. Giroux pitched over 500 matches last season and claims to have come out a winner in each and every one of them. It is expected that he will give Claus a good match.

NEWS NUGGETS.

—St. George's Day.

—Town council to-night.

—Additional local matter on eighth page.

—Squad drill at the armoury to-morrow evening.

—The lake was dotted with canoes and skiffs yesterday afternoon.

—For biliousness or liver trouble, Madill's Stomach and Liver Pills are a sure cure.

—Rev. Dr. Sexton will deliver a lecture in St. Paul's church Tuesday evening on "Scepticism."

—A great number drove out to Lakefield yesterday and quite a few drove out to Chemong Park.

—The question of the celebration of the Queen's birthday in town is again expected to come up before the council this evening.

—Thousands of citizens took advantage of the fine weather yesterday to cross the C.P.R. bridge and view the new steamer "City of Peterborough."

—Lansdowne lodge, No. 25, Sons of England, holds its annual dinner in the Hunter street hall this evening. Dinner will be served at 9 o'clock.

—Mr. C. B. Routley has bought Miss Jenkins' stock of fancy goods, wools, patterns, etc., and is preparing for a great clearing sale at sweeping reductions.

—Walking sticks—a beautiful selection of Malacca, genuine Irish blackthorn and a variety of choice sticks just arrived at the Peterborough Bookstore. Boys, see them. A. H. STRATTON & Co. d

—The fire department was rung out yesterday afternoon, but the alarm was only caused by a blazing chimney in the rear of the Commercial House on Brock street. The neighbourhood was alive with citizens in the twinkling of an eye.

—You don't have to take a gallon of Short Stop before you cure your cold. "Part of a bottle knocked my cold out," says a grateful customer. Get it at Jas. Lynch's drug store, 168 Hunter street.

—A crowd of small boys who are making the market place their play ground in the evenings are occasionally no small trouble to the public. They are a smart lot of little rascals and at the first intimation that a guardian of the peace is approaching, take to their heels and decamp. A few windows have been broken in the vicinity and the police department is going to make an example of the first offender they can lay their hands on.

—A practice meeting of those concerned in the cricket club minstrel performance will be held at 7:30 o'clock this evening in the opera house hall. As the practices are now well under way, it is desirable that every member of the company be present. If a creditable presentation is to be made, there must be a diligent and concerted practice—a long practice, a strong practice and a practice altogether. Let every member be on hand to-night.

ST. JOSEPH'S HOSPITAL.

The Statue in Position.

The beautiful statue of St. Joseph, the solemn blessing of which took place on last Sunday, and of which a full account was given in THE EXAMINER on the following day, was carefully raised and placed in position in its niche in the central tower of St. Joseph's Hospital this morning, the Feast of St. George the Patron Saint of England. Since the blessing, the statue has been richly gilded with several coats of pure gold leaf, and now stands out brilliant, from a black background, and can be plainly seen from almost every part of the town. The grounds around the hospital are taking on their summer dress, a number of young trees have, during the past week been planted along the driveway and a quantity of shrubs set out, and altogether St. Joseph's is a prominent and striking ornament to Peterborough and vicinity.

CHURCH CHIMES.

The young women's chapter of the guild will meet in St. Luke's church on Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock.

The Friday evening prayer meeting will be held in St. Luke's as usual, the address by the rector being the epistle of St. James.

Mr. A. Davies, the new organist of St. Luke's, accompanied the services held in that church yesterday in a most acceptable manner.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A. will hold a prayer meeting in the ladies' parlour of the Association on Thursday afternoon next at four o'clock.

Rev. H. Symonds, the rector, occupied the pulpit of St. Luke's church, Ashburnham, at both services yesterday. In the morning he delivered an able discourse from John xvi, 8, and in the evening an equally instructive sermon was taken from the text James I, 18, "Of His own will begat He us with the words of truth, that we should be a kind of first fruits of His creatures."

There were fair congregations at both services in the Charlotte street church yesterday. In the evening the Rev. Mr. Edwards, pastor, preached an unusually thoughtful and earnest sermon from the first verse of the fifth chapter of St. Paul's Epistle to the Romans, "Therefore being justified by faith we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ." The subject was "Justification by Faith," and was handled in a most intelligent and able manner.

Yesterday, large congregations were again present in St. Andrew's Church, there being many strangers, especially in the evening. The Rev. Mr. MacWilliams in the morning gave an able sermon on Regeneration. The absolute necessity, the nature of, and the agent in regeneration were all fully dealt with; many false theories were considered and repudiated, reference was also made to the recent teachings of Dr. Henon in a series of lectures in Montreal. In the evening, Mr. MacWilliam's text was Hebrew, 3.19, "Excluded by unbelief." The singing of the choir was exceptionally fine, Mrs. H. Jones and Mr. Mulligan taking the solos with beautiful expression. During the offertory in the morning Mr. Mulligan sang "Ninety and Nine," and in the evening "The Resurrection." It is needless to say that all were delighted with Mulligan's singing. As a superior trainer and singer he is well-known by many in Peterborough.

The Rev. S. T. Bartlett, of Lakefield, who has been invited to the pastorate of of the King street Methodist Church as successor of Mr. Roberts, delivered his lecture on "Heroes," in the church on Tuesday evening. The audience was small, but those who were present were amply repaid, for the lecture was replete with instruction and inspiration. What constituted a hero was vividly depicted; his character and actions were eloquently unfolded, and examples given from almost every walk and department in life of the men and the women, who by courage and daring, by sympathy and kindness, by self-sacrifice and devotion, have duly earned the noble appellation. The lecturer urged the young to form just conceptions of life, to devote it to the the accomplishment of some service to humanity, and whatever position in life they were called to occupy, to fill it nobly and thereby secure the advancement of the right and the approval of God. A vote of thanks was moved by Mr. W. H. Hopper and seconded by Rev. Mr. Hay, to Mr. Bartlett for his excellent lecture.—Cobourg Sentinel-Star.

All who know Mr. W. D. Wentz give him the best of recommendations for honesty and integrity. For many years he has worked for Mr. D. P. Wilson, the harness maker and member of the Geneva Board of Health. He says:

I took pepsin compounds, bismuth, charcoal, cod liver oil and malt until my physician confessed that his skill was about exhausted and he did not know what else to try. Everything I took seemed like pouring melted lead into my stomach. I happened to think I had part of a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla that had been in the house for two or three years, that I found had benefited me previously for dyspepsia. I began taking it and soon began to feel better. I have now taken a little over two bottles and can truthfully say I feel well again and can eat anything without distressing me, even to silent, however, and the chairman observed: "Why don't you answer it? Why don't you answer that at once?"

MILLS BROS.

THE PETERBOROUGH REGISTRY OFFICE.

Witness—It is very much easier for you sitting there to say that, than it is for me.

Mr. Harcourt—What did he say to cause you to say that? That's a pretty strong reflection upon a man. What did he say to you to warrant the reflection? What reason have you for making the statement? A.—I have good reason.

Q.—Tell us. If you have good reasons let us know? A.—He spoke about Mr. Morrow's attendance at the office that I told you.

Q.—Well, what did he say? I hope you have told the truth about that. It's the truth, is it? A.—I have told the truth. It's a pretty hard thing to tell the truth and to be sitting in the position I am.

The Chairman.—I dont't know what the witness means by that. He has been saying that all along.

Witness—I have told you what it is. I am speaking against my bread and butter.

Mr. Whitney—That's hard.

Mr. Harcourt—I want you to give Mr. Stratton's words, not how you put them. What did he say? A.—Mr. Stratton said with regard to Mr. Morrow, he asked me if I could say that Mr. Morrow was not out of the office ten days in the year, and I said no, I could not say anything of the sort.

Q.—Give it all. A.—No, I cannot give it all.

Q.—I want to know what else there is. You are not going to hint and insinuate and keep things back. What else is there? Is there anything worse than that he simply asked you a question and you answered? That is as far as we have got. What other questions did he ask you? He did not suggest you should tell an untruth? Did you consider he suggested you should tell an untruth when he asked you that question? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—You do? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Did he ask you how much work he had in the office? A.—When you give me that suggestion it helps my memory. He said, "If you were asked, could you say Mr. Morrow could run the office?"

Q.—What answer did you make? A.—I did not answer either yes or no. Then he says, "Is he as good a registrar as Col. Haultain?" I said, "No, most certainly not."

Q.—Was Mr. Stratton, when he asked that question, suggesting you should not tell the truth? Did you take it in that way? A.—I took it in the way if I was asked that I might probably say yes, he could run the office himself.

Mr. Harcourt desired the witness to say who else he had conversed with.

Witness (sharply)—Oh, 150 people. (Laughter.) The matter is the talk of the town. I could keep you going from now until next week. (Renewed laughter.)

The Chairman—It did not make any difference to this committee if a hundred men spoke to you.

Witness—I have not come here to-day to do my worst against anybody. I am a pretty sick man over the business. I am worried to death. You would pity me if you only knew what I have had to undergo.

The chairman—I certainly do, if it alarms you.

Witness—Every person who came into the office would laugh over this, and for days and weeks they have been asking, "Oh, when are you going to Toronto? If Grundy went to Toronto he could upset the constitution." (Roars of laughter.)

Mr. Whitney—Have you any ill-feeling against Mr. Stratton? A. No, sir; I have not. Mr. Stratton is a friend of mine.

Q. How was it you thought of going to him? A. Because he was the member.

In answer to Mr. Harcourt witness said the alterations in the instruments were as regards matters of detail. They did not affect the interest of anybody. Witness had also spoken to Rev. Mr. Zimmerman about giving evidence, and was advised to tell the truth.

The Provincial Treasurer insinuated that witness was very willing to give evidence against Mr. Stratton.

Witness (warmly)—You're wrong if you think you are going to begin talking to me like that, sir.

Mr. Harcourt you had no objection to being cornered so far as Mr. Stratton was concerned.

Witness—I did not want to be cornered as far as Mr. Stratton was concerned. If I could have kept quiet I would have done so.

REPORT OF MR. MORROW'S EVIDENCE.

The committee adjourned at 1.15 and met again shortly after 2 o'clock, when Mr. Bernard Morrow, the registrar of Peterborough, was sworn and placed under examination. He had held the office since 20th January, 1884. He was in the office nearly every day between 9 and 9.30 a. m. until 4 p.m. The only time he was absent was a week in 1893. There were some covenants in the office that had not been thoroughly examined. In comparing duplicates before the certificate was put on instruments, mistakes had been found and these were remedied, but the changes were unimportant.

To Mr. Whitney, witness said in 1893 the inspector, when at the office, expressed his dissatisfaction at the arrears. He thought there were at that time a couple of hundred instruments in arrears. There were three or four hundred that were partially compared, and some not entered in the book. There were none stamped as compared that were not compared. He did not recollect the case of Mr. Stratton not paying a fee. There might be two or three cases of that kind. The deputy had a good many transactions, and he, good naturedly, allowed them to be registered without fee.

The committee adjourned, on concluding the examination, until 9 o'clock Tuesday morning.

Mr. Stratton has been requested to give evidence on Tuesday morning. It is stated that the revelations in the committee will interfere with the closing of the business of the House, as arranged, on Thursday.

OTONABEE.

From Our Own Correspondent.)

Council met on April 16th. John R. Borland made application to have the road changed through his lot west half, 29, con. 3, as the present road runs close to his buildings. On motion of Mr. Johnston, seconded by Mr. Lancaster, Mr. Anderson was appointed to deal with it as he thinks proper. On motion of Mr. Weir, seconded by Mr. Deyell, the treasurer was ordered to refund to R. J. and J. McCamus the taxes on $50 of assessment, as there is a difference of that amount on the 1893 schedule from what appears on the assessment roll on which the taxes were made up. A communication was received from John D. Armour, Cobourg, owner of lot 30, con. 12, saying he had been informed that a by-law had been passed widening the Norwood road through his lot. The clerk was instructed to inform him that there is no by-law nor is it the intention of the council to widen the road through this lot. Moved by Mr. Johnston, seconded by Mr. Weir, that $1,000 be expended on the highways which, with the $250 appropriated by the county council, makes it equal to last year's expenditure. Moved by Mr. Johnston, seconded by Mr. Deyell, that Messrs. Anderson and Lancaster be appointed commissioners to expend what money they consider necessary for the repair of the Asphodel and Otonabee boundaries, and that Messrs Anderson and Johnston be appointed for the same purpose and same power for the Otonabee and Douro boundaries, and Messrs. Johnston and Deyell for Otonabee and Ashburnham. The following accounts were passed: R. J. McCamus, work on council chamber, hall partition, $2.65; R. Borland, care of duck pond drain, $2.; H. Hastie, coffin for late Jas. Trotter, $8.

Council adjourned to meet as Court of Revision on Monday, 28th May, at 11 a.m.

BOOTS AND SHOES

TO TAKE THE PLACE OF

A Queen's Birthday Demonstration!

The boy said: "This Shoe business is altogether too brisk," when his mother chastised him with a slipper. That's what other shoe dealers think of us, for we not only command the largest and finest shoe trade in Peterborough, but our popularity extends for a hundred miles around.

The loyal people of Peterborough needn't feel disappointed if the boys didn't get up a big demonstration for the Queen's Birthday. We have put on foot A THUNDERING RACKET IN BOOTS AND SHOES, and propose to keep it going until after the 24th, without asking the council or the merchants to guarantee us against loss.

We're always busy. No dull times with us. But, for the present, we have turned on enough extra power on our Electric Battery of Low Prices to "raise a Thundering Racket" in Boots and Shoes, and to keep it booming for over a month.

Last week we bought for 55c. on the dollar the large Wholesale Stock of a City Manufacturer who had stuck on the rock of hard times and was shivering in his boots for ready cash. This stock, we are determined, shall not remain long on our hands. GO, IT MUST! and that the public may see that there's nothing in the way of its going off fast enough, "we touch the button" and give you a few random shocks from OUR MAGNET OF OUTRIVALLED PRICES:—

BRITISH POLITICAL GOSSIP.

Difficulty in the Evicted Tenants Bill—Welsh Church Disestablishment.

LONDON, April 23.—The Government has so over-weighted their Parliamentary programme for the session with contentious matter that not a single one of their measures has a chance of passing, unless the bills shall be so materially altered as to almost wholly transform them. The registration bill, the evicted tenants bill and the budget proposals each contain a sufficient number of objectionable provisions to excite the determined and prolonged opposition not only of the Conservatives, but of a considerable part of the Irish members and many Radicals and Unionists.

The restriction of plural voting by holding simultaneous elections is quite as offensive to some Liberals as to the Tories and Unionists.

The formation of a royal committee to consider the financial questions has dragged at every stage, and if its deliberations and the subsequent steps toward settlement of the matter should be attended with as much apathy, and as great delay the final act of the performance will be postponed until far into the future. It is true that Her Majesty has got to the stage of appointing the members of the commission, but it will be a long time before the commission will be able to do anything practical in the matter, perhaps not this session. The commission is composed of Sir Hugh E. Childers, as chairman, Right Hon. Geo. Goschen, Mr. Thos. Sexton, Hon. Edward Blake, Mr. John J. Clancy, Lord Playfair, Lord Farrer of Abinger, and Lord Welby (formerly Sir Reginald Welby).

The chief difficulty with the evicted tenants bill is the proposal to allow land grabbers the option of retaining their farms. The McCarthyites are carrying their allegiance to the Government to extremes in assenting to this proposal, as they must certainly be aware that the popular sentiment in Ireland will not be satisfied unless the land grabbers are cleared out. Mr. Sexton minimizes, in justification of himself and his associates in this matter, the importance of the question. He intimates that there are not above a hundred land grabbers in all Ireland, the most of whom, he says, are ready to vacate their farms at any time if they received adequate compensation for doing so. The Parnellites demand that the evicted tenants should have absolute power to reoccupy their holdings, that is to say, that nobody shall occupy a farm until the tenant evicted therefrom had decided whether he desires to reoccupy it under certain prescribed conditions or not. If the tenant decides to reoccupy it under those conditions the landlord shall have no power to prevent him. When the question comes to a vote it will be possible, in the event of the absence of a number of the McCartyites, for a coalition of Unionists and Parnellites to defeat the Government on this question.

The bill providing for the disestablishment of the Church in Wales will be introduced in the House of Commons by Mr. Asquith, Home Secretary, on Thursday. Like the evicted tenants bill, the registration bill and the budget proposals this measure will be fought to the death by the Conservatives. At a meeting of Conservative members it was decided to precipitate a division on the first reading of the bill, so that the fate of the measure may be decided before the end of the week.

The big majority in the House of Commons on Friday evening in favor of continuing the grant of £10,000 to the Duke of Edinburgh is by no means to be regarded as testifying to the Duke's popularity or as evidence of Parliament's obsequiousness to royalty. It is a matter of fact that the Liberals voted to continue the grant very largely out of respect for Mr. Gladstone, who made the arrangement whereby the grant was conferred upon the Duke. Mr. Gladstone has the fulfillment of his contract to continue the grant so much at heart that he told the Liberal whips that if the grant were not supported by the Liberals he would come into the House and speak in favor of its continuance, however ill he might be. If by any chance the supporters of the Government had been outvoted the Ministers would also have appealed to the House to consult their dignity in observing the provisions of any international marriage settlement. Underlying the debate was a strong feeling of contempt for the Duke of Edinburgh, which was only half concealed. It is an open secret that both the Queen and the Prince of Wales intervened with the Duke and urged him to surrender the whole annuity after his succession to the Coburg duchy, and it is also well known that Lord Salisbury and Mr. Gladstone, with whom the Duke consulted, gave him advice similar to that given by the Queen and Prince of Wales. It was with the greatest difficulty that they persuaded him to surrender the £15,000, but nothing that could be said would induce her to give up the remaining £10,000 as the Radicals will annually renew their protests against payment of the grant. Royalty, generally, will have abundant reason to regret the Duke's meanness. His select English circles are circulating the report that the Duke intends to expend the entire sum of the grant in a month's junketing at Clarance house, his London residence.

Public money continues to maintain Clarence house for him, but he will have to alter his character mightily if he becomes as lavish in his hospitalities as his friends intimate, even at the expense of somebody else.

A conference of the National Liberals Federation will be held in June for the exclusive consideration of the questions affecting the statutes of the House of Lords. After private consultation between the Executive Committee of the Federation and Ministry, it is the intention of the Federation to commit the Government to a definite policy in regard to the House of Lords, which they are determined shall be brought to an issue.

NEW ORLEANS, April 23.—A special from Oaxaca, Mexico, says: Reports have been received here of severe shocks of earthquake which were felt in the southern part of this State, doing considerable damage in the towns of Tequistlan and San Carlos by wrecking buildings. No loss of life yet reported.

The Hamilton Doctors are Puzzled About this Remarkable Cure—They Could not Cure this Case of Kidney Disease, but Dodd's Kidney Pills have Done so.

Hamilton, April 16.—The doctors of this city are showing great interest in a remarkable cure reported from Port Colborne. Harvey H. Neff, of the latter town, had an aggravated form of kidney disease, consequent on an attack of typhoid fever. Physicians could not cure the kidney disorder, but Mr. Neff has regained his health after taking five boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's was the first kidney remedy in pill form ever offered the public. Its wonderful success in curing all forms of kidney disease has led to the introduction of numerous cheap and worthless imitations. Purchasers, for their own safety, should insist on getting Dodd's Kidney Pills. Sold in large boxes; price, fifty cents, or six boxes for $2.50. To be had of all dealers.

"For eight years, I was, most of the time, a great sufferer from constipation, kidney trouble, and indigestion, so that my constitution seemed to be completely broken down. I was induced to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and took nearly seven bottles, with such excellent results that my stomach, bowels, and kidneys are in perfect condition, and, in all their functions, as regular as clock-work. At the time I began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla, my weight was only 129 pounds; I now can brag of 159 pounds, and was never in so good health. If you could see me before and after using, you would want me for a travelling advertisement. I believe this preparation of Sarsaparilla to be the best in the market to-day."

COAL MINERS' STRIKE

President McBride Does Not Fear Canadian Competition in Coal.

COAL PRODUCTION SUSPENDED

In Pittsburg District Alone Nearly 20,000 Coal Miners Are Standing Idle—The Strike Already Gives Appearance of Being a Success.

COLUMBUS, O., April 23.—President McBride, of the National Miners' Association, has received many requests for information from local assemblies, asking him if the local operators accede to the terms of the strikers what they shall do. In answer McBride says: "The fight for living wages is a general fight and no local settlements will be authorized or recognized. Until a general settlement has been declared the following rule must be obeyed by all miners in all localities: 'As ordered by the national convention, coal must not be loaded at any price or for any purpose, but where companies want engines run, water hauled, timber or any other kind of repair work done it will be permitted provided wages are on account the scale demanded by the convention.'"

These questions touch the point in this strike upon which the leaders base their hope of success; that is the working of the whole as a unit. In former strikes they have found that permitting the mines of one district to resume operations as soon as the local operators agree to pay the scale helped to supply the coal demand and injured the chances of their brother miners in other districts to win their fight. The result of this strike probably depends upon the managers of it to enforce this order and prevent the miners going to work where there is dispute as to wages. Mr. McBride gave out the following telegram from the president of the American Federation of Labor: New York, April 21.—Executive Council, American Federation of Labor in session, sends fraternal greetings and express sincere sympathy with the movement to insure fair conditions and some degree of justice for miners. If in any way we can co-operate to make the effort successful we are at your service. (Signed) SAMUEL GOMPERS.

President McBride said he did not think there was any considerable coal mined ahead compared with the amount of consumption, and stopping the mines would result very quickly in a fuel stringency that would force a settlement of the question at issue. He said he did not fear that coal from Canada would come in to take the place of American coal during the strike. Indeed, he laughed at the suggestion. "To give you an idea of the small figure the much-talked of Nova Scotia mines cut in the market," said he, "let me tell you that there are five counties in Ohio any one of which produces more coal yearly than all the Nova Scotia mines combined.

The headquarters of the United Mine workers are closed to-day. President McBride said he had received no significant despatches since, but would have interesting reports to-day. He reports the strike an unqualified success.

PITTSBURG, April 23.—Between 17,000 and 19,000 miners in the Pittsburg district are idle and the production of coal practically suspended.

HUNTINGTON, Pa., April 23.—All the miners in the Huntington and Broad Top regions are at work except those on the Shoups Run branch who stopped work on Saturday. These miners and those on the six-mile run and Sandy Run branches, which includes all the operatives numbering 500 in the Huntington and Broad Top regions, have signified their intention to work as usual. Despatches from Cumberland say that the miners there were working and will continue till Thursday next when a mass meeting will be held to determine whether they will enter upon a general strike.

BRAZIL IS PEACEFUL.

The Insurgents Refuse Peixoto's Offer of Amnesty.

NEW YORK, April 23.—The Herald's Rio Janeiro cable says: The government has notified the diplomatic corps that the republic is at peace. The action of Congress on the question of the state of siege is awaited with anxiety.

A seizure of the personal effects of Admiral da Gama was made recently by the government police. Among the papers found were documents which the loyal papers print, showing complicity of the British and Portuguese officials with Da Gama to restore the monarchy and expressing full sympathy with the rebel cause. The government organ, O'Tiempo, openly charges Great Britain and Portugal with aiding the revolt.

MONTEVIDEO, April 23.—The Brazilian insurgents, who surrendered to the Uruguayan authorities, have completed their period of quarantine and have landed here. All are in a pitiable condition. They blame Gen. Salgado for the failure of the insurrection. All say they will decline President Peixoto's offer of amnesty.

Germany's Jesuit Bill.

BERLIN, April 23.—There is still any amount discussion here concerning the Reichstag to let the Jesuits return to the empire. Although they know that the Federal Council will veto the proposal of the deputies, the clericals are not discouraged. They are negotiating with the Chancellor for a measure which will allow every German state to deal with the Jesuits according to its own law. For the immediate future, however, any concession obtained from the Chancellor would be little more than a moral victory, as prohibitive laws against the Jesuits exist in Bavaria, Saxony, Wurtemberg and Prussia. The hope of the Clerical leaders is that the repeal of the imperial law would move the individual States to similar steps.

Another Petition for Mrs. Maybrick.

LONDON, April 23.—Another attempt has been made to obtain the release of Mrs. Maybrick, who is undergoing a life term in Woking prison for the murder of her husband. A petition has been presented to Mr. Asquith, Home Secretary, praying for her discharge from prison, and a number of affidavits are also submitted. These affidavits are to the effect that for many years Mr. Maybrick was a confirmed opium eater and was also addicted to the use of arsenic.

Uncle Dick Tooley Withdraws.

LONDON, Ont., April 23.—At the convention of East Middlesex Conservatives here on Saturday, to nominate a candidate for the Legislature, Mr. Tooley, M.P.P. for East Middlesex for the past 20 years, withdrew, and was tendered a hearty vote of thanks. Mr. James Gilmour of Dorchester was chosen as candidate.

MRS. JAS. CHASE.

Worst Kind of Scrofula.

DEAR SIRS.—I had an abscess on my breast said scrofula of the very worst kind, the doctors said. I got so weak that I could not walk around the house without taking hold of chairs to support me. The doctors treated me for three years, and at last said there was no hope for me. I asked if I might take B.B.B. and they said it would do me no harm, so I began to take it, and before three bottles were used I felt great benefit. I have now taken six bottles and am nearly well. I find Burdock Blood Bitters a grand blood purifier and very good for children as a spring medicine.

OTTAWA GOSSIP.

Imperial Writing Machine Company—Inland Navigation School.

OTTAWA, April 23.—The Lake Winnipeg Fish Company is applying for letters patent of incorporation with capital of $25,000.

The Imperial Writing Machine Company is the name under which a number of Montreal capitalists are seeking incorporation by letters patent. Capital $400,000. Sir Donald Smith and Senator Drummond are directors, and with them are associated several United States investors. The company will go into the manufacture of typewriters

A deputation made up of Senator Sullivan, of Kingston, and the following members of Parliament: Messrs. Taylor, Northrup, Corby, Carscallen, Craig and Bergin, waited upon Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper and asked for the establishment at Kingston of a Government school for the purpose of imparting technical instruction in inland navigation. The Minister of Marine, in reply to the deputation, said that the Government was fully aware of the great importance of a matter so vitally connected with the navigation of the great lakes as the establishment of such an institution as that which the deputation had asked for, and held out the hope that although nothing could be done in that direction this session the matter would in all probability be dealt with next year.

The Rev. Mr. Mackay, the well known missionary of Formosa, preached last night in St. Andrew's church, giving a history of his labors on that island. He referred to the trouble he had with the customs officials at Vancouver over the demand made on him for a poll tax on his wife and family before they could arrive in Canada. Although the officer who demanded this had wrongly interpreted the law, so far no apology was extended to him for the vexatious trouble he was put to. He said that he would never rest until such time as the law was changed so as to admit a student to come to Canada for a few months to attend college without being obliged to pay poll tax. He would say that much, without making any difference to the general poll tax, an exception should be made in such cases. The treatment he had received on landing in Canada would always remain a black spot in his heart against his native land. Had he a chance of getting on to a steamer at the time for a British port he would never have set foot upon Canadian soil. The passport of the British consul, which he had in his pocket, should have been accepted in preference to that of the Chinese mandarin by the customs officials.

A MUCH-WEDDED DOCTOR.

Bennett B. Cook, of Buffalo, Again Figuring in a Bigamy Case.

BUFFALO, April 23.—The Truth, a Sunday newspaper here, says Supreme Court Judge Childs has annulled the marriage of Mrs. Sarah B. Armstrong to Dr. Bennett B. Cook, of this city, on proof that Dr. Cook is a bigamist.

Some time ago Dr. Cook was seriously ill and sent for a lawyer to make his will. Among the things which he proposed to dispose of was a paid up policy for $60,000 in the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York. He said the policy was in the possession of his brother in West Virginia, and told his wife to look in his trunk for receipts to show that the policy was paid up. In searching for these papers Mrs. Cook found a parcel of letters written from Detroit to the doctor and signed "Your loving wife." She started an investigation which resulted in the disclosure that Dr. Cook had been married four times and divorced once. That his third wife, Mrs. Dick, of Detroit, had him arrested for bigamy, and he served two years in the Kingston penitentiary. In less than a month after his discharge from prison he married Mrs. Armstrong in this city. His third wife kept up a correspondence with him, and it was her letters that led to this discovery. Dr. Cook is believed to be quite well-to-do.

The Great Northern Strike.

MINNEAPOLIS, April 23.—A sensational feature of President Deb's address to the American Union railway union meeting on Saturday night was his attack upon Judge Jenkins, in which he said: "Jenkins is the most corrupt scoundrel that was ever outside of prison walls. He is a man whose whole life, both public and private, is rotten to the very core, and I stand prepared to prove it too. Jenkins is a disgrace to the bench upon which he sits and to the people who elevated him to the position." Despatches from Barnesville, Willmar, St. Cloud and Crookston show that no attempt was made by the strikers to impede traffic. Traffic, as far as Minnesota is concerned, was resumed to-day.

Serious Accident on the Grand Trunk.

LANCASTER, N.H., April 23.—A serious accident occurred on the Grand Trunk railway Saturday night when a freight train ran into a washed out bridge over Nulhegan river, near Wenlock station, five miles above North Stratford. The engineer was killed and the fireman badly injured, while the engine was wrecked and several cars demolished. Rain has fallen during the past two days, which, with the melting snow has made the water very high in the Connecticut and smaller rivers, and large washouts are reported on the Maine Central railroad near West Stewartston and on the Grand Trunk between North Stratford and Beattie.

Corn Sowing

Is a process conducted by the agency of tight boots all the year round. Corn reaping is best conducted through the agency of Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor, the only safe and sure-pop corn cure. Putnam's Extractor is now widely imitated. Beware of all poisonous and sore producing substitutes; they are dangerous to use and are sold simply because they afford the dealer larger profit.

The most agreeable, restorative tonic and mild stimulant is Milburn's Beef, Iron and Wine.

Dr. Andrew Grant & Co., Toronto.

Dear Sirs,—Your "Hairene," I believe to be a wonderful remedy. It certainly produced the most unexpected results in my case, my hair had been falling out very freely for some time, becoming anxious about the matter I thought I would experiment upon the properties of "Hairene," and one application actually "topped it at once. I applied it once or twice afterward, using in all about a quater of one bottle, and have not required to use it since. It seem to have given renewed and healthy vigor to the scalp, and I can recommend it in all confidence.

THE HOUSE OF COMMONS

Committee on Ways and Means Discusses Tariff Changes.

IMPORTED TEA AND COFFEE

These Products Placed on the Free List When Imported Direct From Country of Growth—Duty on Oatmeal Raised and on Rice Lowered.

OTTAWA, April 21.—The House went into Committee of Ways and Means on the tariff yesterday.

On the item of oatmeal, which appeared in the tariff resolutions at 50 cents per barrel, Hon. Mr. Foster moved in amendment that the duty be 20 per cent. ad valorem. He explained that at present quotations this would be a duty of about 68 cents a barrel.

Sir Richard Cartwright objected because the duty on oats was less in proportion than oatmeal. For ten bushels of oats, the amount required to produce a barrel of oatmeal, the duty was $1, while on a barrel of oatmeal the duty would only amount to 68 cents. He thought when the raw material was taxed, that the manufactured product should pay more.

On the item of rice Hon. Mr. Foster moved that the new tariff be changed from 5-10 to 3-10 cent per pound on uncleaned, unhulled or "paddy" rice, and to have the old duty of 1½ cents per pound on cleaned rice. This was done, he said, in order to preserve the rice milling industry. The rice had to be cleaned somewhere, and it might just as well be cleaned in Canada, where labor could be employed.

The Opposition strenuously objected to the changes because it was the only way in which the Chinese could be taxed. The Chinese were the largest consumers of rice in Canada. It would not be fair play in the interests of white men to lower the duty.

Both items passed.

The wheat item was taken up and discussed until the House rose for recess.

After recess these bills were read a third time: Mr. Baker, respecting Atlantic and Northwest Railway Co. Mr. White (Caldwell), respecting Bell Telephone Co. Mr. Masson, to incorporate the Duluth, Nepigon and James Bay Railway Co.

A number of private bills passed the second reading stage.

The House went into Committee of Ways and Means, and after speeches by Messrs. Davin, McMullen, Sproule, Tisdale, Dennison, David Mills, Edgar, Allan, Casey, Rosamond, McNeill, Sir John Thompson and Sir Richard Cartwright, the wheat items were adopted.

The biscuit, maccaroni and starch items went through.

With reference to roasted or ground coffee the words "without transhipment" were struck out. Chickory was restored to its old duty: Raw or green, 3 cents per pound; kiln dried roasted or green, 4 cents per pound.

The clauses relating to tea and green coffee were struck out and the following new item introduced:

Tea and green coffee, not elsewhere specified, 10 per cent.

Mr. Foster said he wished to add the following to the free list:

"Tea and green coffee imported direct from the country of growth and production, free. This item shall include tea and coffee purchased in bond in any country where tea and coffee are subject to customs duties, and providing that there is satisfactory proof that the tea or coffee so purchased in bond is such as might be entered for home consumption in the country where the same is purchased."

The item was ordered to be printed.

Mr. Foster moved an amendment to the nuts item, as follows:

Nuts, Shelled, n. e. s., 5 cents per lb.; almonds, walnuts, Brazil nuts, fecons and shelled nuts, n. e. s., 3 cents per lb., and nuts of all kinds not otherwise provided for, 2 cents per lb. This is a considerable reduction in the duty.

The amendment carried, and the House adjourned.

Parliamentary Notes.

Speaker White has decided to make Dr. Wickstead's suspension permanent. As Dr. Wickstead is rich, and is arriving at an age when the capacity for work of most men is impaired, the Speaker has come to the conclusion that there will be no hardship inflicted on Dr. Wickstead in allowing him to retire.

There was a big fight at the meeting of the Banking and Commerce Committee over the Consumers Cordage Company's bill. The company asks that it may divide its present capital stock of $3,000,000 into 10,000 cumulative preference shares and 20,000 ordinary shares of $100 each. Mr. Lister and other Liberal members held that the company was a gigantic combination and ought not to get the privilege it asked. Mr. Edgar moved that the manager and treasurer be summoned before the committee to be examined. The bill, after a long discussion, was left over until next meeting without anything being done.

KILLED BY LIGHTNING.

Reeve Ripley of Thorold Struck Down by the Electric Fluid.

THOROLD, Ont., April 21.—Yesterday afternoon Reeve Ripley, a prominent merchant of this place, was struck dead by lightning on the street near his residence. The bolt laid him unconscious on the sidewalk, and he died a few minutes after. The sad event has cast a gloom over the town. For some years Mr. Ripley has been an active member of the town council, acting first as councillor and then as deputy-reeve, and at time of his death as reeve.

A RENOWNED HUNTER.

MR. SELOUS, A MODERN NIMROD, LEADS A BRIDE TO THE ALTAR.

His Adventures in Africa—For Twenty Years He Has Endured Hardship and Killed Big Game—A Home That is Full of Trophies of the Chase.

The marriage of Frederick C. Selous, the explorer who took part in the Matabele war, to Gladys, daughter of Canon Maddy, of Gloucester, recalls his adventures as a great hunter, naturalist, geographer and pioneer. Mr. Selous is renowned as an indefatigable and successful hunter of big game. But if he could have had his way it is not as a hunter that he would have won renown. "I am not a hunter by nature," he said on one occasion. "I am a naturalist. If I had been properly trained as a youth and could have obtained employment I should have devoted all my life to scientific observation, and should have collected specimens instead of slaughtering elephants; but I was not trained as a naturalist and I was shut up to elephant hunting as a means of making a living. I made it pay. It was rough and heavy work, but it gave me my livelihood." His qualifications for so arduous a career are such as few men can show. He possesses a constitution of iron.

For more than twenty years he has endured all kinds of hardships under the burning African sun. He has lived in the open through a long rainy season without a tent or a waterproof to cover him or even a hammock to rest in. He has hunted bare legged and on foot through the bush until the shirt, girdle and hat which formed his costume were torn to threads by the thorns and his body was covered with injuries. He has probably eaten more putrid meat and drank more muddy water than any man living. Yet with all this his constitution is to day as sound as a bell. He has been down several times with fever and ague, but unlike other less fortunate travelers, he does not find these complaints continually returning to trouble him. As he himself put it not long ago, he is "an absolutely healthy man."

Mr. Selous' character is in complete harmony with his physique. From boyhood he has been noted for energy, perseverance and daring. At Rugby, where he was educated, his love of adventure was always getting him into scrapes, and a good story is told by one of his friends, now an officer in the Guards, of how Selous, who slept next the dormitory window, used to open it wide on the coldest nights as the nearest approach he could get to "sleeping in the open." "I was in the dormitory," adds the narrator feelingly, "and devilish cold it used to be." In September, 1871, when only nineteen years of age, he left for South Africa to begin his adventurous career. He looked, as indeed he was, a mere boy when he presented himself before Lobengula, the King of the Metabele, and requested permission to hunt elephants. He was received with scorn. "You hunt elephants?" said the African monarch, "You are only a youngster. You had better hunt antelopes." Eventually he secured the coveted permission and good use he made of it. He has killed over one hundred elephants alone. His game lists are enough to make the mouth of any ordinary sportsman water. During the latter half of 1874 he killed twenty-four elephants, nine rhinoceroses, nineteen buffaloes, one hippopotamus, two giraffes, and various other animals bring the total up to ninety-three head in all. It is to be observed that Mr. Selous has always killed either for food or profit—never for the sheer love of slaughter. He has never taken part in the butchery of large quantities of driven game, and it was probably this disinclination to slay unnecessarily which led him to declare that he was not intended by nature to be a huntsman.

It is not only with his gun that Mr. Selous has distinguished himself. He has done much good work as an explorer and pioneer. He explored and mapped out the greater part of Mashonaland, and when the British South American Company took possession of the country in 1890 it was he who led the vanguard of their forces. Although Mr. Selous has practically made South Africa his home he possesses a charming residence in the little village of Wargrove on the Thames, between Henley and Sonning. It was at Wargrove that the notorious Lord Barrymore built his famous theatre in the Regency days, and it is in the billiard room built on the site of the former theatre that Mr. Selous has housed the trophies of his gun. The visitor is confronted with sixteen lions' and lionesses' heads, no fewer than 150 heads of horned antelopes, representing every variety to be found in South Africa, as well as countless rhinoceros horns, elephants' tusks and tails, hippopotamus skulls and so forth.

Mr. Selous is of Huguenot extraction, his ancestors having left France to escape the persecution which followed the revocation of the Edict of Nantes. His great-grandfather was a great city magnate and for six consecutive years was chairman of the London Stock Exchange. He is personally of middle size, slight of figure and with modest and unassuming manners. He has received the Founders' gold medal of the London Geographical Society, the highest distinction which it is in their power to bestow. He has written a couple of books in which his wanderings and adventures are fully described and his writings prove him to be a well informed and intelligent observer of the world's affairs.

The Jap and the Fair Dancer.

A Japanese student is now going through a course of study at the United States Naval Academy. The pride of the Mikado's representative is a fine young dog. At Christmas, the young Jap's attentions to a pretty Washington girl were so marked as to call forth comment on the part of his classmates, who made some remarks of a complimentary nature as to her dancing. At this the Jap paused ecstatically, for a suitable simile, then electrified his hearers by enthusiastically exclaiming: "Dance! Yes, she dances like a dog."—San Francisco Argonaut.

ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES

REV. DR. SEXTON AT ST. PAUL'S CHURCH.

Two Powerful Sermons by the Great Preacher.

Yesterday the Rev. Dr. Sexton, well known both as a scientist and theologian, preached morning and evening in St. Paul's church to large congregations. The doctor also addressed the Y.M.C.A. in their rooms in the afternoon.

The subject of the morning sermon was "Leaven," the text being Matt. xiii, 33. The preacher gave an interesting scientific description of the nature of leaven, pointing out how it depended for its action upon the vital power of living organisms. These living germs he described as being so minute that it would take forty millions of them to weigh a single grain and their fertility was so marvellous that in one week a single lacterian would multiply to such an extent that the progeny could only be described by figures of fifty-one places. This, he held, threw a great deal of light upon the parable. The doctor then pointed out how the working of the leaven in the meal illustrated the action of the grace of God in the human heart. This was shown in a great many ways, the exposition of the parable given being very interesting. The sermon was full of profound thought and was listened to by the large audience with the greatest attention.

The evening subject was "False Guides," based upon Col. ii, 8. The preacher described the erroneous opinions prevalent at the time of the Apostles and against which Paul warned the church in his day. These were mainly Epicureanism, Stoicism and Neo-Platoicism, which, exiled from Greece philosophy, found a home in Rome and in Alexandria. Great thinkers arose, such as Plotinus, Proclus and Porphry. A few years after Christ there was born an Alexandrian Jew named Philo, whose education was Greek, but his genius Oriental, and the result was that his teaching consisted of a curious mixture of mysticism and dialectics. This Neo-Platonism was one of the heresies against which the early church had to contend, all the more dangerous because, like many of the heresies of to-day, it was found inside the church itself. Whether Paul foresaw, by the eye of prophecy, the errors against which we have to contend, or whether his warnings simply extended to his own time, was of no importance, for the same heresies re-appeared in almost every age, sometimes slightly modified in form, and with another name, but practically the same. The false guides of the present time against which we are required to be on our guard were numerous. There was materialism, which shut out God and immortality and reduced everything to law. Once more we had the absured theory of atoms promulgated, that had been put forth by Democritus, Epicurus and Lucretius. These atoms had never been seen or heard or indeed cognized by any organ of sense, and a large proportion of them had never been within millions and billions of miles of each other. How, then, did they confer with each other so as to adopt the laws which we see now in operation? These laws could not be eternal, for the things upon which they were operating were not eternal. It was mathematically certain that the present forces of the universe had not existed from eternity, and equally certain that they would come to an end. Nay, more, the end was within a measurable distance, as had be shown by Lord Kelvin, of Glasgow and Prof. Tait, of Edinburgh. However, there was harmony and order in the universe, which would only have resulted from intelligence. The stellar heavens were conducted upon the most perfect mathematical principles, and could have been formed only for reason and by reason A very dangerous form of scepticism today was agnosticism. It's watchword was don't know, and it's foundation ignorance. It took all purpose out of human life and denied the moral significance of existence. Then, too, we had on all hands wild scientific speculations, which were no more true science than a counterfeit bill was true currency. These were arrived at not by the scientific method of instruction, the only true guide in such matters. Instead of basing the hypothesis on facts, the theory was found first, then facts were sought for to support it, and when not found they were invented. A good illustration of this would be found in the work of Haeckell, on Creation. The denial of the supernatural was another error that was very prevalent to-day. The New Testament was full of the miraculous element, and this could not be removed without destroying the whole thing. Such men as Renan and others of his school professed the greatest admiration for Christ, looking upon Him as a man of wonderful insight, brilliant genius, lofty motives and pure life, whilst at the same time they denied His supernatural character. But we would know nothing of Christ except from the New Testament, and in that he put forth claims to be more than man. If these claims were not made good, he would not be the pure and truthful personage that Kenan had described. Then Paul spoke of "vain deceit," meaning, no doubt, such doctrines as were flatterjng to man's pride and these abounded at the present time and there was great danger of young men being misled by them. Men prided themselves on being their own providence, but how powerless was man moving amidst the great forces of nature. Left to himself he was terribly insignificant. Then sin was denied, which was another terrible error. We read a good deal about men's failings, infirmities, faults and misfortunes but the ugly word, sin, seemed to be no longer fashionable. Yet sin was a terrible fact in God's universe and any system that did not deal with it as such would prove powerless to effect any beneficial change in mankind. We were also warned against "tradition" and the "rudiments of the world." The latter primarily referred to the stress laid on matters of Jewish ritual, but might be fitly applied to pleasure seeking to-day. We must beware of sinful pleasures. Nothing should be done upon which God's blessing would not be asked. And it was not simply the opposing Christ that was condemned, but the ignoring Him. He was the only way to God, and there was no other name by which we could be saved.

The discourse occupied an hour in the delivery and was listened to with rapt attention.

To-morrow evening Dr. Sexton will lecture in the same church on the following: "My Passage from the Christian Pulpit to the Sceptical Platform and back again, being fifteen years personal experience of Scepticism and Sceptics."

A Total Wreck with Kidney Disease—All the Symptions of Bright's Disease Present—Dodd's Kidney Pills make him Perfectly Well again

LEAMINGTON, April 23—Sherman Buchanan, a farmer living near here, recently passed through a terrible ordeal. He was attacked by kidney disease, which made him a perfect wreck. He suffered agonizing pains and his digestive organs were seriously impaired. All the symptions of Bright's disease were present. After several doctors had treated him ineffectually, Mr. Buchanan used several boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills and they cured him. Dodd's was the first kidney in pill form ever offered the public. Its wonderful success in curing all forms of kidney disease has led to the introduction of numerous cheap and worthless imitations. Purchasers, for their own safety, should insist on getting Dodd's Kidney Pills. Sold in large boxes; price, 50c. or six boxes for $2.50. To be had of all dealers.

TO REGISTER VOTERS

Hon. Mr. Ross' Bill Receives Its Second Reading.

SEPARATE SCHOOL BALLOTS

Mr. Conmee Moves the Second Reading of His Bill Providing that the Adoption of the Ballot Shall be Optional—Mr. Fraser Breaks Down.

TORONTO, April 24.—Sir Oliver Mowat introduced a bill in the Legislature yesterday to make further provisions respecting mortgages in real estate. Hon. Mr. Hardy introduced a bill to amend the Act protecting public interests in rivers, streams and creeks.

Amended in Committee.

Sir Oliver Mowat moved the bill respecting the call of solicitors to the bar, back into committee of the whole House, with a view of adding an amendment providing equal facilities for barristers becoming attorneys, as for the latter becoming barristers. The bill was amended and reported.

Hon. Mr. Gibson moved the bill for the punishment of persons guilty of personation at elections back into committee of the whole, in order to make an addition providing that persons convicted of this offence shall be liable to imprisonment for not less than six days or more than six months, in addition to a fine of $200. The bill was amended and reported.

Third Readings.

These bills were read a third time: To consolidate certain debts of the town of Barrie—Mr. Paton. Respecting the town of Peterboro'—Mr. Stratton. To amend the General Road Company Act—Mr. Wood (Brant). To extend the operation of the Woodman's Lien for Wages Act—Mr. Sharpe. To incorporate the Hamilton Radial Electric Railway Company—Mr. Awrey.

A motion by Mr. Wood of Brant for a return setting forth the cities, towns and incorporated villages in Ontario, in which free libraries and mechanics' institutes have been established; showing, as well, the unincorporated villages in which mechanics' institutes or reading rooms have been established, and showing the electoral districts in which farmers' institutes have not been established, was passed.

A motion by Dr. Barr for a detailed statement for the years 1890 and 1891, of the fees and emoluments of the registrar of deeds for the county of Dufferin, in connection with his office, with the dates and amounts of rebates for each year paid to the county, was passed.

Mr. Whitney moved the House into committee on a bill respecting witness fees. The bill was considered and reported.

Ballots for Separate School Trustees.

Mr. Conmee moved the second reading of a bill to amend the Separate School Act by providing for the optional use of the ballot at Separate School trustee elections. He said he knew a good many leading Catholics who desired this reform. He knew it must eventually pass, and he therefore desired it to pass. He wished to discuss the constitutional rights of Catholics under the B. N. A. Act, and the attitude of the two great parties towards them. The Conservatives were actuated by a desire to get into office and to sweep away every vestige of rights enjoyed by the Catholics under the B.N.A. Act. The Liberals, however, were influenced by principle. They said they did not make this law. They found it on the statute book when they came into office, and they would not violate the constitutional rights of their Catholic fellow-citizens. He accused Mr. Meredith of bidding for the support of a certain organization, which was represented by two members in that House. He refused to accept Mr. Meredith's denial of any intention to attack the Roman Catholic faith as conclusive. He had told them of his course in the past, but what about the future. Was it not clear that the leader of the Opposition was in accord with the principles of the P. P. A.? If not, why did he not, as the leader of a great party, come out and condemn that organization? Catholics would not be trifled with. Hon. gentlemen opposite had shown no reason for forcing the ballot on Catholics. It was their desire to catch the vote of the P.P.A.—the enemies of the church.

Hon. Mr. Fraser.

Hon. Mr. Fraser said he would like to have all his old-time health and vigor in order to say all he wanted to on this question. If separate schools were being established for the first time, and they were discussing the details of such a system, although, personally, he had no preference for the ballot as a method of election, he thought in its last analysis it was a badge of cowardice, and that to a certain extent it indicated men were not as free as they ought to be, if a majority of the House decided in its favor. Catholics had the best reason for believing that the ballot was not intended as a benefit to the separate schools, and they, therefore, determined to resist it. He was no longer able to say, as formerly, that there were no Catholics in favor of the ballot system. Outside of the votes of the members for Kent and Essex, he had seen nothing to indicate to him that Roman Catholics, or any portion of them, were in favor of the compulsory system. There were some, however, who did not care whether or not the optional system was given them.

Mr. Fraser found it impossible to continue his speech and Mr. Meredith suggested that he be permitted to resume after recess. Hon. Mr. Fraser, however, did not appear in the chamber in the evening, so the debate stood over.

Abatement of Officials' Fees.

Hon. Mr. Ross moved the second reading of the bill to amend the Act respecting the fees of certain officials. He explained that in regard to Division Court clerks the abatement formerly made on the net income after it reached $1,500. It was now proposed that the abatement should commence after the income has reached $1,000, and on reaching the sum of $2,500 an abatement of 50 instead of 40 per cent. should be made. With regard to registrars of the High Court, clerks of the crown, deputy clerks and surrogate registrars, the abatements would now begin on net incomes of $1,500, instead of $2,000, as formerly, and continued up to 50 per cent. instead of 40, as in the old bill. The abatement in the case of registrars would begin at $1,500, instead of $2,000, as formerly. In the case of sheriffs the abatement would begin at $2,000 instead of $3,000, as formerly. The excess over $3,500 would be reduced at the rate of 50 per cent. He explained that the rearrangement of fees would give a much greater proportion of receipts to the municipalities who had been complaining at the amount they received.

Mr. Meredith said the Government had adopted the position assumed by the Opposition some time ago on this question. They had made a motion which had been defeated by 53 to 31, every member of the Government voting against it. He thought this a clear case of inconsistency.

Hon. Mr. Hardy said the Opposition's record every session would show not only inconsistency, but vacillation. Despite their protestations, it was votes they were seeking. The comparison between provincial county officials and county clerks and treasurers was unfair. The office hours of the former were fixed by statute, while in the case of the latter much less time was required to be given to their duties.

Mr. Wood (Hastings) referred to the bill as one going in the direction of salaries, and of itself a condemnation of the Government's action.

Mr. E. F. Clarke said the bill was in the right direction, but did not go far enough. He regretted the bill did not propose to abolish the duplicating of offices in Toronto.

Sir Oliver Mowat said there was no intention to make a change in the fee system. He had not changed his views in regard to it one iota.

The motion passed.

Manhood Franchise Voters.

Hon. Mr. Ross moved the second reading of the bill for the registration of manhood franchise voters, the provisions of which he explained.

Mr. Meredith said he was opposed to the bill because it would involve trouble and expense. It might be possible to disfranchise three-quarters of the whole manhood franchise electors of Toronto to-morrow without any means of redress.

Hon. Mr. Hardy replied that the bill was a fair one and was couched in fair terms. It was not perfect, but the Government desired to see it as perfect as possible within proper limitations.

Mr. E. F. Clarke protested that the bill would be the means of disfranchising one-half of the manhood franchise voters of the city.

Sir Oliver Mowat argued that thousands of names were on the lists that ought not to be there. The bill would make the lists much cleaner. Much of the objection related to matters of detail.

The second reading passed, and the House adjourned.

LARKIN, CONNOLLY CASE.

Action for the Recovery of Money Alleged to Have Been Corruptly Obtained.

OTTAWA, April 24.—In the Exchequer Court the civil case against Larkin, Connolly & Co., for the recovery of large amounts of money said to have been fraudulently or corruptly obtained in connection with the Quebec harbor works and the Esquimault graving dock came on for trial. The factum of the crown sets out at length the details which came out before the investigation by the committee of Parliament in 1891. The total sum claimed as loss to the Government of Her Majesty is, on the Quebec harbor works, $469,116, and on the Esquimault dry dock, $100,947.

Mr. Osler for the Crown wished to introduce as evidence the judgment against Thomas McGreevy and N. K. Connolly in the conspiracy case. This raised an important constitutional point as to whether the Crown in the person of the Attorney General of Ontario could be considered the Crown in the person of the Minister of Justice, Mr. Blake having objected to the admission of the evidence. Justice Burbidge's remarks on the question were clearly against the admission of this as evidence. We must look behind who the Crown is in Canada, he said. It would be hard if a man who was bound before the Imperial courts should be bound before the courts of Canada. In his opinion, as related to the point at issue, the Crown in Ontario could not be held to be the same person as the Crown represented by the Federal authorities. The evidence was admitted for convenience, subject to Mr. Blake's objection. Mr. R. H. McGreevy was then called on to give evidence, and, after being sworn, what was termed the Esquimault correspondence was read by Mr. Osler. The case will last all week.

Charged With Incendiarism.

OTTAWA, April 24.—John Gauthier, a young man employed doing chores at the St. Patrick's Orphans Home, who was arrested on suspicion of starting the two fires in St. Patrick's Home, was up before Magistrate O'Gara. Although he says he is but 16 years of age he looks much older. When arraigned for the crime he pleaded not guilty. He was remanded until Saturday. The police have been probing deeply into the mystery, and discovered an unsigned letter under the prisoner's pillow which is addressed to himself. This unsigned letter warns him to leave the Home as he has a deadly enemy there who wants to cast suspicion on him or smother him. The letter is, it is said, in the prisoner's own hand writing. Chief McVity had an interview with the prisoner in the cell and taxed him with writing the letter. "Well if I did one I did both," he replied. The chief told him that the police had other specimens of his hand-writing, and it could be proved that he wrote it. The prisoner then admitted writing the letter. Gauthier comes from Plantagnet, and has been employed at the Home for the past three months. He had a quarrel with a man employed in the Home.

THE HOUSE OF COMMONS

Amount of Good Money Expended on the Dominion Voters' Lists.

TRADE WITH UNITED STATES

Returns Showing Exports and Imports Asked For by Mr. Charlton—The Embargo on Canadian Cattle—A Suggestion for Cattle Traders.

OTTAWA, April 24.—Mr. Mulock has introduced in the Commons a bill to provide for the examination of witnesses on oath by committees of the Senate and the House of Commons. The bill was read a first time.

Dr. Sproule introduced a bill to amend the Act respecting the adulteration of food, drugs and agricultural fertilizers. The bill, the doctor explained, was intended to provide for cases of adulteration of honey manufactured in Canada.

Mr. Davies' bill to amend the Act incorporating the Steam Boiler and Plate Glass Insurance Company of Canada was read a third time.

Hon. Mr. Daly, in reply to questions by Hon. Mr. Mills and Mr. Casey, said he would bring down the papers regarding the Thousand Islands in the St. Lawrence river.

Mr. Wilson, of Lennox, asked if it was the intention of the Government to prohibit citizens of the United States from taking game fish in the waters of the bay of Quinte and Hay bay?

Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper said the Government intended putting a stop to United States citizens coming over into the bay of Quinte and Hay bay ostensibly to fish for sport, but in reality to make catches for American markets.

Mr. Fraser asked if the recent order of the Imperial Government respecting the issue of good conduct medals and decorations to officers and men of the volunteer force who have served 20 years applied to Canada?

Hon. Mr. Patterson replied that this order did not apply to Canada.

Sir John Thompson answered a question concerning a proposed readjustment of Quebec counties.

Hon. Mr. Costigan, in reply to Mr. Davies, said the date of the inception of the printing bureau was June 2, 1886. The printing of the voters' list on the revision in 1886, which was done outside, cost $180,960. The cost reprinting in 1889 was $124,605, including additional plant, which was $65,680. The cost for printing the next lists would be the same as in 1891, with the addition of the cost of the new names added.

Mr. McMullen moved for copies of all letters, despatches and correspondence between the Government and the High Commissioner of Canada regarding the removal of the embargo on Canadian cattle entering into English ports. This was not the only complaint that cattlemen had. Last year the freight rates from Montreal were much higher than from Portland or Boston.

Dr. Sproule, chairman of the Committee on Agriculture, described the steps taken by the Dominion Government to satisfy the Imperial Government that pleuro-pneumonia did not exist in Canada in a contagious form.

Mr. Featherstone suggested that dead meat shipments from Canada would pay better than shipping on the hoof. People in England would pay more for dead meat than meat alive, especially if the dead meat was shipped by cold storage. If the Government would encourage the dead meat trade it would be in the interests of all the farmers of Canada.

After recess Hon. Mr. Daly continued the discussion regarding the cattle embargo. He said that the Government had made a thorough investigation of the case, and had learned that disease did not exist among the cattle of Manitoba or the Northwest. After speeches by Messrs. Mulock and Landerkin, the motion passed.

Mr. Charlton moved for returns showing the exports and imports between Canada and the United States.

Hon. Mr. Wallace said there were shipped to Great Britain, according to the trade and navigation returns for the past year, of animals and products of the Canadian farms, $27,500,000, while to all the other countries of the world Canada only exported $4,277,000 worth, or not more than one-sixth of the products exported to England. He then spoke of the efforts which had been made in the past to obtain a reciprocity treaty. There could be no reciprocity treaty with the United States unless it discriminated against the Mother Country. He said if they brought down a statement showing the exports to the United States where they exceeded in value the exports to any other country, they ought also to have a similar statement with reference to Great Britain and he moved an amendment to Mr. Charlton's motion to that effect.

Dr. Gilmour and Dr Landerkin followed and the motion as amended was adopted.

The House adjourned.

A Dereham Farmer Suicides.

LONDON, Ont., April 24.—William Little, a farmer living at Verschoyle, township of Dereham, suicided at Geo. Byr's hotel, Nilestown, on Saturday morning. Deceased was in London the day before and on his return stopped at the hotel for the night. Next morning he got up and ordered his horse to be brought. When the horse was brought to the door Little was called, but he made no response. He was lying on the ground, apparently insensible, and a doctor was sent for. An examination showed that Little had taken a large dose of laudanum, probably three ounces. All that was possible was done for the poor fellow, but he died on Sunday morning. Little was partly deranged at times, and is said to have attempted suicide on two previous occasions. A ticket was found on the body bearing the words "I want to die." Deceased leaves a wife. He was well up in years.

Fishing With Dynamite.

PRESCOTT, April 24.—Six residents of Ogdensburg, N.Y., were arrested by two Dominion policemen for illegal fishing in Canadian waters in the St. Lawrence, a few miles below Prescott, Ont. The prisoners had dynamite in their possession, and for several days past have been creating wholesale destruction among the fish by this deadly explosive. They will be tried at Prescott.

THE MINERS' STRIKE.

Number of Miners Out in Different States—Other Mines Continue.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, April 24.—President J. McBride of the United Mine workers has received reports from a number of his lieutenants in the different coal fields. McBride revises his figures as to the number of miners out as follows: Alabama, 8,000; Tennessee and Kentucky, 5,000; West Virginia, 2,000; Indiana, 5,000; Ohio, 26,000; Illinois, 27,600; Pennsylvania, 50,000; Indian Territory, 2,000; Michigan, 300; Iowa, 1,300.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., April 24.—The various mines, with three or four exceptions, in the Kanawha district, are running full blast regardless of the general strike ordered by the officials of the United Mine organization of the United States. All day large trains of coal have passed this place on the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad, also the Kanawha & Michigan for northern and southern cities. The Union has a very small following in the valley, and the general belief is that the operators in this section will run along without hinderance.

Strike on the Great Northern.

SEATTLE, Wash., April 24.—The chief interest here in the Great Northern strike now centres in the question whether the Northern Pacific men will strike. Those on the Pacific division of the Northern Pacific have decided not to strike, and great efforts are being made to induce those on other divisions to rescind the decision said to have been already arrived at to strike.

Pullman Employes Will Strike.

CHICAGO, April 24.—A city paper says that a strike of the 4,000 employes of the Pullman Company will be declared May 1 because of the reductions in the men's wages. It is stated the company has built a high stone wall around the works.

COAL FOR THE PATROL FLEET.

American Authorities Will Use Smokeless Coal from British Columbia Mines.

WASHINGTON, April 24.—Secretary Herbert does not intend that the vessels of the Behring Sea patrol fleet on their summer cruise shall make such a smoke as to give poachers warning of their approach. The coal he has sent to Unalaska for the ship is a smokeless variety, from the coal mines of British Columbia. As this selection brought forth voluminous patriotic protests from residents of the State of Washington, he sent a letter to Commander Clark, the flag officer of the naval fleet at Port Townsend, directing him to have all the vessels of the fleet take sufficient coal from the Fairhaven mines in Washington to enable them to reach the coal supply at Unalaska and to make a full report of its qualities. The instructions continue: "As the coal emits a very black smoke, it is not deemed expedient to use it while vessels are patrolling Behring Sea. After reaching the base of coal supply which has already been contracted for, as far as practicable no other coal will be used."

Economy and Strength.

Valuable vegetable remedies are used in the preparation of Hood's Sarsaparilla in such a peculiar manner as to retain the full medicinal value of every ingredient. Thus Hood's Sarsaparilla combines economy and strength and is the only remedy of which "100 Doses One Dollar" is true. Be sure to get Hood's.

Hood's Pills do not purge, pain or gripe, but act promptly, easily and efficiently.

The most agreeable, restorative tonic and mild stimulant is Milburn's Beef, Iron and Wine.

Shot Himself Through the Heart.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., April 24.—M. A. Hunt, treasurer of the National Association of Florists, shot himself through the heart. In January he had the grip in Chicago, where Mrs. Hunt went to nurse him. After he had recovered she was prostrated with the grip and insanity followed. She was taken to a private sanitarium at Indianapolis, and recently was brought home, it being thought she was recovering. Last Saturday she was pronounced incurably insane and was removed to the hospital. Mr. Hunt went to his office, adjoining the residence, where he sat down in a chair and sent a bullet through his heart.

The Cattle Embargo.

LONDON, April 24.—Replying to a number of questions submitted in the House of Commons, with reference to the removal of the embargo on the importation of Canadian cattle, Mr. H. Gardner, president of the Board of Agriculture, said the privileges of admission could not be restored until he had received the report of the experts who were now examining the lungs of a number of animals recently landed, and which were slaughtered at the port of landing. If the report proves satisfactory the existing restrictions would be removed.

A. P. A. Troubles in Florida.

PALATKA, Fla., April 24.—Geo. Dunford, a Canadian, has been here several months representing the A. P. A. and has made remarks about the Roman Catholic Church which aroused a strong prejudice against him. H. G. Newbeck fought him and badly disfigured him. Then a hundred men ran Dunford out of town. Marshall Nix made charges against the Catholic priests. Three men went to his room and gave him a dreadful cowhiding. He declined to leave and the dose was repeated. His screams were heard several blocks.

Newfoundland Correspondence.

LONDON, April 24.—Sir Francis H. Evans asked the Government to lay before the House the correspondence which had passed between the Government and Newfoundland in regard to the prorogation of the Newfoundland Legislature. Mr. Sydney Buxton, Under Colonial Secretary, declined to disclose the correspondence. The telegrams which had passed were of an extremely confidential nature. He would say, however, that the Government had prorogued the Legislature upon perfectly responsible advice.

Newfoundland Cabinet Affairs.

ST. JOHNS, Nfld., April 24.—The Whitewayites are very disconsolate. They admit their defeat and there is no chance of dissolution yet. They still refuse to pass the revenue bill. Attempts were made to settle the dispute. Mr. Whiteway was asked to consent to the passage of the revenue bill and the Government was urged to dissolve and hold a general election in November. Amicable arrangements may be effected, though it is not probable.

Labor Agitator Killed.

BLUEFIELDS, W. Va., April 24.—Patrick O'Brien, the labor agitator from Pennsylvania, who with others from Ohio has been trying to induce the 25,000 miners of the flat top region to strike, was killed at Turkey Ridge by an enraged gang of Hungarian miners.

Shoe Strikers Resume Work.

HAMILTON, April 24.—The 200 employes at J. McPherson & Co.'s shoe factory, who have been out on strike for the past week against a reduction in the scale of wages, have returned to work, the difficulty having been amicably adjusted.

Leon Carrier "Not Guilty."

QUEBEC, April 24.—Leon Carrier was cleared at the Criminal Court yesterday afternoon by the jury rendering a verdict of not guilty.

When Ponce de-Leon sought to find
The fountain giving back lost youth,
It may be that he had in mind
That draught which seems to make a truth
Out of the fable ages old,
For drinking it the old grow young;
It is, indeed, a draught of gold,
Surpassing all by poets sung.

The draught meant is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, of course. It is a most potent rejuvenator of the weakened and debilitated system. It drives out all poison, all impurity, enriches the blood, and makes the old and worn out feel young and vigorous. Ponce-de-Leon didn't discover it, but Dr. Pierce did, and he rightly named it when he called it a "Golden Discovery."

Dear Sirs,—Your "Hairene," I believe to be a wonderful remedy. It certainly produced the most unexpected results in my case, my hair had been falling out very freely for some time, becoming anxious about the matter I thought I would experiment upon the properties of "Hairene," and one application actually "topped it at once. I applied it once or twice afterward, using in all about a quater of one bottle, and have not required to use it since. It seems to have given renewed and healthy vigor to the scalp, and I can recommend it in all confidence.

Worthless Pianos and Organs

Are made in large quantities, because foolish people buy where prices are lowest, without giving a thought to quality. Any one who thinks will not buy a "Piano at $170, or an Organ at $80, guaranteed for nineteen years," because it is cheap. Any one who thus thinks will avoid learning by experience that it would have been cheaper to pay, say $300, for his piano.

A BURDEN REMOVED

SUFFERING AND MISERY ENDED

Paine's Celery Compound Cures a Bad Case of Indigestion.

The Cured Man Can Now Eat Anything.

ALWAYS READY FOR HIS MEALS.

Every Man and Woman Can Rid Themselves of Indigestion and Dyspepsia.

One of Canada's most prominent physicians says: "When people can avoid indigestion, they escape the majority of troubles that make life miserable."

This very common affection arises from great variety of causes, and its many symptoms can be easily understood. The sufferer often has a want of appetite, coated tongue, bitter taste in the mouth, a desire for acids, headache, constipation, sluggish bowels, nausea, sallow skin, heartburn and dizziness.

Suffers who experience these troubles that arise from indigestion, are amongst the most unhappy mortals on earth; they cannot possibly enjoy life and its pleasures.

Men and women who suffer from indigestion require a medicine that acts directly upon the nervous system, bowels, kidney and liver.

All distress and troubles yield readily and quickly to Paine's Celery Compound. Thousands in the past have found a perfect cure after having used nature's great renovator and healer. Day after day, letters of testimony come from people in every section of the country, affirming that Paine's Celery Compound has no equal as a medicine.

Mr. John Jeffers, 384 McDonnell street, Peterborough, Ont., who suffered terribly for many years from indigestion, writes as follows:—

"The case of Hugh Reilly, of Montreal, mentioned in the Paine's Celery Compound 'Record and Register,' might well be taken as a type of my own troubles. For years indigestion has been the bane of my life. Always after eating I experienced great difficulties, vomiting and retching, often accompanied with blood. I vainly tried many remedies, but never found relief until I used Paine's Celery Compound. I continued with the medicince and I am now cured. I don't use the compound now, I don't need any, as I can eat beef, pork, mutton, veal, sausages, or any other eatable food, and I am always ready for the next meal. I know of several others who have been cured by the use of Paine's Celery Compound. I am forty years a resident of Peterborough."

ADDRESS AND PRESENNATION.

Mr. J. C. Brown Handsomely Remembered.

At the Park street Baptist Sunday school, Sunday the services were of unusual interest. The attendance was the largest in the history of the school. In the Bible class room at the close of the lesson the members of the class presented their teacher, Mr. J. C. Brown, who is leaving to take up residence in Sherbrooke, Que., with a beautiful gentleman's companion, accompanied by the following address:—

Mr. J. C. Brown:

DEAR FELLOW-WORKER AND TEACHER.—The members of your Bible class of the Park street Baptist Mission Sunday school, Peterborough, wish to express their sincere regret at your removal from their midst, which will deprive them of the personal associations which have been for some time so greatly enjoyed, both in the way of pleasure and profit on our part.

Yet, we bow in submission to the Master, at whose call you have gone to another part of His vineyard; and seeing we must be separated from you, though not forever, for we know if we abide by God's words we will meet some day in the beautiful land which knows no parting.

You have our most earnest prayers for your personal happiness (and what we believe you will prize most, that you may be made a blessing, and glorify God wherever your lot may be cast, even to the salvation of precious souls.

Your faithfulness in the discharge of every duty as deacher and your many labours of love have endeared you to us all.

We now ask you to please accept this gift as a remembrance of us all.

Signed on behalf of the bible class.

At the open session after the lesson Mr. Brown spoke to the school expressing his regret at parting, and his deep interest in the work, and also gave the scholars some excellent counsel in regard to their Christian life. Mr. Grover, superintendent of the Murray street school was present and participated in the exercises and spoke a few words expressing the sense of loss that both church and mission would experience by the removal of Mr. Brown and family, who have been active workers in the cause. Mr. Brown and family leave for their new home Wednesday evening.

THE NEFF CASE.

The Hamilton Doctors are Puzzled About this Remarkable Cure—They Could not Cure this Case of Kidney Disease, but Dodd's Kidney Pills have Done so.

Hamilton, April 16.—The doctors of this city are showing great interest in a remarkable cure reported from Port Colborne. Harvey H. Neff, of the latter town, had an aggravated form of kidney disease, consequent on an attack of typhoid fever. Physicians could not cure the kidney disorder, but Mr. Neff has regained his health after taking five boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's was the first kidney remedy in pill form ever offered the public. Its wonderful success in curing all forms of kidney disease has led to the introduction of numerous cheap and worthless imitations. Purchasers, for their own safety, should insist on getting Dodd's Kidney Pills. Sold in large boxes; price, fifty cents, or six boxes for $2.50. To be had of all dealers.

THE CHEESE BUSINESS.

The April Make all Bought up at Good Prices.

A good start has been made in the cheese business in this district. Nearly all the factories are now in full operation and the quantity made so far is quite up to the average of previous years. There will be about 2,500 boxes of April cheese in this section this year, the bulk of which has been bought by the Hodgson Bros. at good prices. The first shipment of this firm will be made next week.—Belleville Ontario.

The factories in the Peterborough district will not be in full swing until May 1st, by which time it is thought that nearly every factory will be open to receive milk.

It is not what its proprietors say, but what Hood's Sarsaparilla does, that tells the story of merit. Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures.

DUNKIRK GREATLY EXCITED

An Attempt Made to Raise Their Nets From Canadian Waters Failed—And The Fishing Industry at That Place Receives a Severe Blow.

PORT COLBORNE, April 24.—The Dunkirk fishing tug Grace will be duly advertised and sold with all nets, etc., found on her. The tug Puritan, another fishing tug of Dunkirk, has also laid herself liable to seizure when found in Canadian waters. Some nets with her name on have been taken, and she came into this port and landed some passengers and left without reporting at the custom house. The fishery inspector's tug Dolphin has gone to Port Dalhousie for repairs, but it is understood another Government boat from Georgian Bay is on the way to patrol these waters and prevent the United States fishermen from poaching in Canadian waters, where they have been taking fish for several years without hinderance. It is reported that another United States fishing boat has been seized and taken up the Grand river to Dunnville. The crew of the Grace left for Dunkirk last night by train via Buffalo.

Dunkirk Fishermen Alarmed.

DUNKIRK, N. Y., April 24.—Captain Driggs and several fishermen have left for Port Colborne and another delegation left by rail. They will try and secure the release of Captain Helwig and crew of the tug Grace, seized on Saturday by the Canadian Government tug Dolphin, and endeavor to secure the privilege of raising their nets and placing them in American waters.

Dunkirk fishermen have about two and one-half miles of nets in Canadian waters. Four tugs went out to raise them and they were quickly driven back. Another attempt was made with the same result.

About $3,000 worth of fishermen's property altogether is now on Canadian grounds.

Intense excitement prevails here, as the fishing industry of Dunkirk is at present employing about 200 men. Should the nets in the Canadian waters be confiscated it would be a blow which would knock out at least seven boats of the fleet.

Death of Julia Gaylord.

NEW YORK, April 24.—Mrs. Frederick C. Packard, known in former years as Miss Julia Gaylord, an American singer who won a splendid reputation in English opera fifteen years ago, died at her home in Brooklyn. For many years Miss Gaylord was the prima donna of the Carl Rosa Opera Company and was immensely popular in every part of the United Kingdom whenever she appeared.

To Blow Up Royal Exchange.

LONDON, April 24.—Emile Carnot, alias Gouappe Fornara, the anarchist, in the Police court admitted he was an accomplice of Francis Polti, and made a full confession of the plots in which he said Polti was engaged. He and Polti intended to blow up the Royal Exchange, and for that purpose had the large bombs, one of which Polti was carrying when he was arrested.

Balfour, the Absconder, in Court.

LONDON, April 24.—A despatch from Buenos Ayres says that Jabez Spencer Balfour, the absconding ex-member of Parliament and ex-official of the Liberator building societies, has been taken before a judge at Salta, Argentina, and released on normal bail. It is expected that he will endeavor to get out of the country and English detectives are watching him.

Emigrants Sent Back to England.

LONDON, April 24.—Charles E. H. Vincent asked the Government in the House of Commons as to the truth of the report that 1,653 emigrants had been sent back to England in 1893 under the United States immigration laws. Mr. Mundella, president of the Board of Trade, said there had been only 840 emigrants returned during 1[illegible]

He also received severe cuts cuts and bruises. It is thought so serious results will follow.

In Memory of Shakespeare.

LONDON, April 24.—There was a large number of visitors to the tomb of Shakespeare at Stratford-on-Avon yesterday, the anniversary of the poet's birth. A large number of wreaths were laid upon the tomb and the boys attending the school in which Shakespeare was educated paid a handsome tribute to his memory.

It is only of late years that rheumatism has been treated as a blood disease. But that this is a correct theory is proved by the extraordinary success attending the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, in this painful and very prevalent malady. It seldom fails of radical cure.

A Government BOMBSHELL

THROWN INTO THE

LIFE INSURANCE CAMP!

The following statement comes from the government Blue Book. It covers a period of sixteen years, and is sworn to as correct by representatives of each Company:

Statement of Premiums received and Cash Profits paid back to Policy Holders from 1877 to 1892, both years inclusive:—

COMPANY.	Premiums Received.	Dividends Paid to Policy Holders.	Ratio of Dividends to Premiums, %
CANADA LIFE	$16,368,307	$2,946,483	18.18
Confederation Life	6,165,432	637,925	10.35
North American	2,327,062	32,857	1.41
Ontario Mutual	3,878,066	433,284	11.17
Sun Life	5,527,720	355,280	6.43

Never in the history of Life Insurance has the struggle for business been keener. Never has the conflict been hotter. Never have the Companies felt as they feel now, the necessity for throwing all the energy at their command into the field. The most intelligent and best men have to be employed. All kinds of plans of insurance are submitted. Each Company determined in securing the supremacy in the good will of the public, in establishing their name, the utterance of which, shall convey to the minds of the people the essential characteristics of

UNDOUBTED SECURITY,
RIGID ECONOMY,
GOOD INVESTMENTS,
LARGEST PROFITS

WHY?

Because millons of dollars are being paid annually for Life Insurance, and the Companies that can show these features have attained a position which will guarantee their future success, for money will flow freely into the best investments.

The Canada Life Policy Holders can look at the above statement with a smile of satisfaction, yet sympathise with their friends who are not so favourably situated.

They can throw their Life Policies down in the face of opponents and successfully challenge the production of more profitable policies, they can stand the onslaught of Agents who will almost cover them with literature and estimates of Tontine, Semi-Tontine, Return Premiums, Reserved Dividends, Annuity and Endownment plans of insurance, and with a quiet assurance feel that

As The Canada Life is Making the Most Profits, She Can Pay the Largest Profits.

READER. If you want Life Insurance choose the Canada Life and join the throng of contented policy holders who are insured with the Company carrying about 45 per cent. of the total insurance in force of the above named Companies

Violating the Fish Law.

If the law regarding the close season for fish is of any use, it should be enforced—if not, it should be abolished. Nightly the river is being netted for pickerel on the way to the spawning ground and the police not only wink at the violation of the Act, but some of them, it is said, carry away fish that they have seen captured contrary to law.—Belleville Intelligencer.

Violating the Fish By-law.

Poison in Tea.

In England tea has bee discovered contaminated with lead, undoubtedly from being wrapped in packages containing lead. This is a matter which is being enquired into, inasmuch as lead is a dangerous poison and its presence in so many packages of tea may well cause grave public alarm. Mason & Co., grocers, have no confidence in package teas, as their English blends surpass all teas placed on the market.

Young Womens' Association.

Nearly fifty remained on Saturday evening for the gospel service. We were all delighted to have Mrs. Locke with us once again. In her usual interesting manner, she gave a stirring and practical talk which will not soon be forgotten. Following this she asked for testimonies, many readily responding.

Fishery Inspectors.

Inspector Charles Gilchrist has received instructions from the Fisheries Department at Ottawa to engage Z. White, of Harwood, and A. R. Eagleson, of Cold Springs, to assist him in enforcing the fisheries laws at Rice Lake, to seize and destroy all nets, spears and all illegal fishing gear, report to Mr. Gilchrist all facts in relation thereto, and the inspector is empowered to at once dismiss any of his assistants if their services are found to be inefficient or unsatisfactory. Parties at Rice Lake who indulge in illegal practices had better beware. Since the above was in type we have seen Mr. White and he is in no way pleased with the above arrangement. He was recommended for the inspectorship by Mr. Gilchrist and endorsed by the members of East and West Peterborough. Why these recommendations were ignored is a conundrum to Mr. White. The result may be that Mr. White will hesitate accepting the office under present arrangements.

Whether it will be brought this way or to Peterborough is not yet settled.—Cobourg Saturday Post.

—The streets seemed unusually quiet to-day on account of there being no electric cars running. Its a case not of the "light that failed," but the "power that failed," as it is in the power house that the trouble originated, the machinery having gotten out of order. Power was furnished by the Canadian General Electric Company yesterday, but the price asked for the service was almost a prohibitive one, so the Street Railway Company decided to lay off the cars for to-day and try and have the power-house engines repaired by to-morrow.

FIRE BUGS AT WORK.

The Grist Mills at Allandale Entirely Consumed by Fire Last Night—The Buildings Cost $30,000 When They Were Erected and Were Owned by Mr. John Humphries—A Big Loss.

The Allandale grist mills were completely gutted by fire last night, only a portion of the walls being left standing. The building is situated in the village of Lang, about 2½ miles from Keene and the blaze could be seen from all parts of the township. From Peterborough the whole sky in that direction seemed aflame and it was thought by some that the entire village was being consumed.. The fire was discovered at about 10.30 last night and spread very quickly through the interior of the building, investigation showing that the flames had evidently started in three places at one and the same time. The fire burned so fiercely that in several hours the substantial mill was reduced to a pile of smoking ruins.

Farmers drove over to the scene from all parts of the township, but could only stand among the other spectators and watch the progress of the flames, as the fire was completely beyond all human control.

The mill was owned and operated by Mr. John Humphreys, and was only insured to the extent of the mortgage, $1700. It is difficult to estimate the exact worth of the structure.

The destructive fire is thought by all to have been the work of a fire bug, as only the other morning the door of the stable beneath the mill was found to have been forced during the night and a smouldering pile of hay in a corner plainly showed with what object the entrance had been made. Mr. Hasty, the village blacksmith, passed the mill at about ten o'clock and observed nothing wrong, and his wife who passed 15 minutes later was not apprised by either noise or light that an incendiary was at work.

The mill has a rather curious history. It was built in '48 by Mr. Thomas Short and cost $80,000, when he failed it passed into other hands and its owners have been changing almost yearly ever since, and nearly all of them became insolvent. On account of its not being a roller mill, but being operated by the old stone process, it was rather a drag on the market. The value of the mill has been gradually falling from $80,000 until the last owner was able to secure it, it is stated for $3,300. He, however, by simply running it as an oatmeal and chop mill has been making it pay and as over 300 bushels of oats were destroyed will feel his loss keenly.

A TRIBUTE TO DR. SEXTON.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

SIR,—Allow me to express the intense delight with which I listened to Rev. Dr. Sexton's Sunday sermons in St. Paul's church and address in Y.M.C.A. Hall. The morning discourse upon the leaven hid in meal, while treating most profoundly some of the deep spiritual truths of the kingdom of heaven, presented them in language at once so simple, sweet and strong as ministered grace to the hearer, while the evening sermon, disclosing perfect familiarity with the great currents of religious thought that flowed through the long past and the eddies of the present day, was a word in season that should have been heard by the hundreds of young men who are in danger of being spoiled through philosophy and vain deceit after the traditions of men after the rudiments of the world and not after Christ. One could wish that many more had availed themselves of the privilege of hearing these sermons. The address in the Y.M.C.A. Hall upon "Christ for the world and the world for Chrirt," showing the world's need of Christ to reveal God to man, and Christ's conquest of the world, was one of the cleverest bird's-eye picture, of the world's religious history ever hung to view in this town.

These addresses, profoundly scholarly were yet marked by a wonderful clearness of thought and felicity of expression that brought them within the comprehension of every one who desired to know the truth. It is to be hoped that the people of all the churches will hear the doctor's lecture in St. Paul's church this evening, detailing his passage from the Christian pulpit to scepticism and back again.

Yours truly,
BENJ. B. KEEFER.

MILLS BROS.

SETTING UP A MAN OF STRAW.

Our local confrere, the Review, and the Empire seek to make a great scandal out of the alleged "damaging disclosures" in connection with the testimony of the deputy registrar in reference to the working of the Peterborough Registry office; and the indignation is ludicrously wasted because it is based upon statements made by the deputy registrar, which he has since in the main retracted, or at least contradicted under oath. The Review, which should know all the circumstances, should know better than to assert that "much of the disclosure which resulted shows plainly that the Government had reason to attempt to burk the calling of witnesses." There is no evidence of anything wrong in connection with the local registry office. There is no evidence that Mr. Stratton tried to influence or intimidate the deputy registrar, but quite to the contrary, there is evidence in abundance that Mr. Stratton did nothing of the kind. Mr. Grundy sought several persons for advice as to what he should testify, and a man who intends to tell the truth needed no such advice. There is nothing disclosed in evidence to show that there is anything wrong in the management of the registry office. There is no Government office, in either Provincial or Dominion jurisdiction; no office in any bank or financial institution, in which trifling irregularities might not be disclosed by a disgruntled subordinate who might wish to reach the position of his chief. As regards the neglect to impose charges, it appears that the deputy-registrar himself was about the only beneficiary, and the public will see no more harm in this than in a member of parliament having his letters franked through the mails.

The Empire bases a long and venomous screed against the greed and heartlessness of the registrar in drawing a big salary and paying a "patient drudge" $400 a year. The Empire's indignation is wasted as well as all the twaddle based on the assumption that the deputy-registrar gets only $400, instead of his actual salary, $800 per year. Of course the "$400" is a Fosterian "clerical error," which destroys the force, if not the venom, of the Empire's criticism. There is at least one man in Peterborough that will agree with the Empire when it says "that the registrar should be turned out and the plodding deputy should be raised to the position to which his long years of service entitle him." Exactly. A motive springing from this view of the case would explain a great deal.

As before intimated, there is nothing in the "damaging disclosures" made, which affects the claim of the Peterborough Registry office, to be efficiently and properly managed. The "disclosures" have no local effect whatever, as documents like the following show:

PETERBOROUGH, April 23rd, 1894.

N. Awrey, Esq., Chairman Public Accounts Committee, Toronto:

We, the undersigned members of the legal profession in Peterborough, are amazed at the evidence of Mr. Grundy anent the Peterborough registry office. This office is admirably conducted—with scrupulous care and exactness, and we constantly congratulate ourselves on having one of the very best conducted registry offices in the province.

D. W. DUMBLE, A. P. POUSSETTE,
E. B. STONE, STRATTON & HALL,
A. STEVENSON, HALL & HAYES,
W. F. JOHNSTON, W. H. MURRAY,
HATTON & WOOD, DENNISTOUN &
JOHN BURNHAM, STEVENSON.

His Honour Judge Weller, not being a practising member of the profession, could not sign the above testimonial, but very heartily concurred, over his signature, in its expressions as to Mr. Morrow's efficient management of the registry office.

PETERBOROUGH, 23rd April, 1894.

J. R. Stratton, Esq.:

DEAR SIR,—I have a great deal of business with our registry office and have always found the registrar, Mr. Morrow, very civil, obliging and courteous, and the office well conducted.

W. H. MOORE.

The "damaging disclosures" of the Review suggest the idea of setting up a man of straw for the sake of knocking him down. As shown above, there is nothing in the evidence presented to discredit the management of the registry office; the confidence of the legal profession in Peterborough is not in any degree lessened by the "startling disclosures" as shown by the above testimonial, whose bona fides and non-partizen character are shown by the fact that of the thirteen prominent lawyers represented, six at least are Conservatives, and several of them working members of that party.

ART NOTES.

Some Paintings Executed by Local Students Which Will Stand Criticism.

A large painting in oils on exhibition in the window of G.B. Sproule, photographer, is attracting a great deal of attention. The picture is the result of the handiwork of Miss Launderville, of Keene, who is a pupil of D. A. Shaw. The scene is a pastoral one and is laid in Maple Durham, representing a sunset on the river. Some exquisite effects in the colouring of the sky are worked in and the perspective and atmospheric effect is particularly fine. The work is altogether one which reflects great credit upon Miss Launderville's artistic ability.

Another pretty little painting in the same window was executed by Miss Lizzie Bailey, who is also a student with Mr. Shaw. It is a morning scene on the river Don in England, and the foliage is particularly well done, more especially that seen through the opening of an arch under an old bridge. Miss Bailey's work gives evidence of much painstaking labour, combined with no small amount of skill.

MR. GRUNDY REVISES HIS REVISED EVIDENCE.

Three Attempts to Get at the Truth—And With Not the Most Brilliant Success.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

SIR,—In the hurry of attending to Saturday's accumulated work at the registry office this morning I signed papers for Mr. J. R. Stratton which might convey an impression contrary to the evidence given by me in Toronto on Saturday.

Since signing these papers I have referred to the books of office and find that the deed in question was received and registered by the registrar himself in December last and was entered by him as brought by J. R. Stratton and not by Stratton & Hall, as the letters might infer I was aware of. In justice to Mr. J. R. Stratton, however, I may add that the deed was not personally brought by him to the office, nor by any one in his employ.

Yours, etc.,
H. GRUNDY.

April 23rd, 1894.

[The above letter was handed in to the EXAMINER at too late an hour to use in yesterday's issue. It is the third edition of Mr. Grundy's contribution to registry office literature. In view of the variations Mr. Grundy has played upon the theme, one must be a little cautious in accepting this declaration as final and another revised revision might be expected to crop up. As a matter of fact, the statement of Mr. Grundy's above letter to the controry notwithstanding, Mr. Grundy made and signed the declaration referred to after carefully and deliberately reading over the declaration and the letters of R. Morrow, H. Grundy and Stratton & Hall (published in yesterday's EXAMINER), and after carefully examining the document itself and the books, he signed the declaration fully knowing that it was to be published. If a man in giving evidence upon a simple matter has to try three times before he gets at the truth, his testimony has to be received with great caution. If Mr. Grundy did not succeed in "complicating" the Government, he certainly succeeded in complicating his evidence in a very thorough manner.

SPRIGHTLY SUMMER SPORTS.

On the Lacrosse Field, the Grease and the Diamond—Triple A. Topics—The Bicycle and Football.

Lindsay lacrossists are unable to organize a club this year.

Mr. E. King Dodds was in town this morning.

At Montreal last night Capron defeated Max Thomas in the billiard match for the championship of Canada.

The grounds of the P.A.A.A. are now being put into shape for the season and cricket practice will probably begin next week. The lost roller was recovered in the possession of the lawn tennis club, the secretary of which states that he obtained leave from Mr. Schofield to borrow it.

THE GUN CLUB.

At the meeting of the gun club in Mr. Sam Ray's rooms last night it was decided to accept the challenge of the Campbellford gun club for a match on the 24th. Eight men will shoot on a side and the local men are requested to attend the Thursday afternoon practices regularly, in order to be in good trim for the match. Mr. Ray wrote Mr. J. E. W. Burke accepting the challenge this afternoon.

THE WHEEL.

The bicycle club decided last night that the regular club runs be held on Thursday of each week, when it is expected that the full membership will turn out. The first run will be held next Thursday evening to Lakefield, leaving the Palace Restaurant club rooms at 7.15 p.m. sharp. The club also decided to take action regarding the proposed move of the council in relegating bicycle riders to the roads, instead of allowing them to ride on the sidewalks. A by-law was therefore passed prohibiting members of the club from riding on the sidewalk on the business portion of George street and limiting the speed of their riding on any sidewalk to the rate of six miles per hour—in every case the bicyclist to give way to the pedestrian. A delegation from the club will confer with a special committe from the council on the subject this evening, when an endeavour will be made to persuade the council to drop the matter, leaving it to the club to regulate the riders by its by-law. The club's colours this year will be red, white and blue on one ribbon. The chair was occupied during the evening by Mr. A. Mercer, president. It is strange that, out of the 300 riders who are supposed to be in town, only 40 have become members of the club.

THE FOLEY WILL TRUST CASE.

Conference of the Registrar of the Queen's Bench and Parties Interested.

Mr. James S. Cartwright, Registrar of the Queen's Bench Division, who was here taking evidence in the Foley trust case yesterday, has returned to Toronto. Evidence was taken from a number of witnesses, and the registrar will endeavour to formulate a scheme for the distribution of the money in the near future. J. R. Cartwright, Q.C., was present on behalf of the executors. Among those in attendance were: His Lordship Bishop O'Connor and Father Casey, for the Catholic Church; Mr. E. T. Malone, Toronto, solicitor; Mayor Kendry, Councillors Cahill and Kelly, for the town; Messrs. Wm. Anderson, reeve of Otonabee; J. B. Pearce, reeve of Norwood; John Moloney, reeve of Douro, and others for the county council; Messrs. W. E. Roxburgh, Norwood, and R. C. Steele, executors of the estate, and Rev. Jas. Thom, Messrs. BOOTS AND SHOES

TO TAKE THE PLACE OF

A Queen's Birthday Demonstration!

The boy said: "This Shoe business is altogether too brisk," when his mother chastised him with a slipper. That's what other shoe dealers think of us, for we not only command the largest and finest shoe trade in Peterborough, but our popularity extends for a hundred miles around.

The loyal people of Peterborough needn't feel disappointed if the boys didn't get up a big demonstration for the Queen's Birthday. We have put on foot A THUNDERING RACKET IN BOOTS AND SHOES, and propose to keep it going until after the 24th, without asking the council or the merchants to guarantee us against loss.

We're always busy. No dull times with us. But, for the present, we have turned on enough extra power on our Electric Battery of Low Prices to "raise a Thundering Racket" in Boots and Shoes, and to keep it booming for over a month.

Last week we bought for 55c. on the dollar the large Wholesale Stock of a City Manufacturer who had stuck on the rock of hard times and was shivering in his boots for ready cash. This stock, we are determined, shall not remain long on our hands. GO, IT MUST! and that the public may see that there's nothing in the way of its going off fast enough, "we touch the button" and give you a few random shocks from OUR MAGNET OF OUTRIVALLED PRICES:—

BEAUTIFUL SLEEP—is an expression used for sound sleep. Nothing is so gratifying to the nerves, heart, and head, as perfect sleep—a companion of good digestion and a healthy liver. A tired digestion fails to assimilate, or take care of, the food we eat. Something bracing or invigorating is needed for the liver, stomach, and intestines.

This is where you will find Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets do the most good. They are tiny, sugar-coated pills, scarcely larger than mustard seed, made of concentrated botanical extracts. These "Pellets" are easily dissolved in the stomach and absorbed into the blood, stimulating a flow of bile from the liver, and arousing to activity all the glandular secretions. Thus they act in nature's own way.

They're guaranteed to give satisfaction, or money refunded, in all Bilious Attacks, in Sick Headache, Constipation, Dizziness, and Indigestion.

It cures Catarrh in the Head — perfectly and permanently — Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy.

LIVE AS YOU OUGHT TO LIVE.

Live as you ought to live—not in seclusion,
Hiding yourself from your friend and your foe,
Shutting your doors against kindly intrusion,
Shutting your eyes to the evils below.

Live as you ought to live—not in derision,
Scorning your fellows and slighting your kind,
Only for self making general provision,
Only to selfish indulgence inclined.

Live as you ought to live—helping your brother
With kindness or charity, as he has need.
Even the smile that's bestowed on another
In value the whole of your wealth may exceed.

Live as you ought to live, this your endeavors
To live like a Christian—not worshiping self
Nor slighting its uses, remembering ever
That he is the hero who conquers himself.

JIM.

"Ugh! What a night!" was my involuntary exclamation, as I came on deck just before eight bells (twelve o'clock) on that night in March, '86, which fate had ordained I should never forget. I had heard the cry of "All hands on deck!" bellowed down the fo'castle, the scurry of feet, the hoarse command. "All hands aloft to shorten sail! Quick, lads, for your lives!" and had bounced out of my berth, jerked into my clothes and tumbled up the companion way to the slippery deck.

What was I doing aboard the ship? Well, by profession I am a doctor and by occupation a rambler. Not that it is a part of my business as a doctor to ramble; but, you know, a doctor's mission is to try to restore nature's jewel, health, and I, being a doctor, was endeavoring to do my duty to myself and find that which I had studied hard to be able to restore to others. So there I was standing, or, rather, trying to, (for the northeast gale nearly blew me off my feet), on the quarter-deck of the little brig Jenny Lind, bound from Liverpool to Quebec. Horatio, wasn't it cold! And the sharp sleet, driven hard before the gale, seemed like a sand-blast cutting the gravestones for the poor chaps who were to be that night laid for their last rest, "rocked in the cradle of the deep."

Well may the poetic dreamers sing the praises of "Snow, snow, beautiful snow." They view it from the inside of a warm, cheery room, reclining in an easy-chair, pipe in mouth, watching the little feathery flakes peeping slyly in through the glass and then driven roughly away by their master, Wind, for daring such impertinence. Ay, it is beautiful snow, then! But change the scene. A night, as black as coal and almost as dense, for the eye can hardly see a rod away, the wind tearing, booming, howling through the taut rigging, the sleet driving, cutting, grinding the flesh exposed to it, and the little brig of only one hundred and fifty tons lurching, groaning, bouncing here and there in the mad, fierce grasp of the sea. Lord, what yells! I start, shiver and find it is only that devil, Wind, laughing as it slaps old Neptune in the face, lashing him to still more fury. I am almost frozen, for heavy spray which flies over us as the brave craft holds its own, freezes as fast as it strikes, coating us with a thick crust.

"This is a fearful night," I say to the man at the wheel, and his answer of "Aye, aye, sir," comes through teeth set as a vise. With feet planted, or rather, rooted to the deck, body bent forward, eyes trying hard to make out the canvas he cannot see, he moves only as the orders shouted through the trumpet come faintly to him: "Hard a starboard!" "Steady!" "Ease her a little!" straining hard at the wheel to put it "port" or starboard" as is ordered, and between his white lips growling back his "Aye, aye, sir!" By the fitful flicker of the binnacle lamp I see his face and know him to be Jim Peters, the hardest man in the crew. Nobody liked him or would have anything to do with him. He was not a prepossessing object to look at. His face had as much sociability and kindness in it as a tombstone: Heavy, square jaw, large mouth, eyes black, or rather, one eye, for a large, red scar running across his forehead and down his left cheek back of his ear took that eye along with it; a shaggy head of sandy hair and unkempt beard did their part in his make up of ugliness. I said nobody would have anything to do with him. I'll take that back, for there was one aboard who pitied and tried to be friendly to him. He was the ship's boy, a nice, likely lad, good looking and smart and a sailor, every inch of him. There was one thing about Jim, however, which none could get back of, and that was he was strong as an ox and as good a sailor as ever trod a deck. He was the only man aboard who could have held the wheel alone in such a night. On we drive, a reel and then a plunge, and the little brig comes out of the trough of the sea and shakes herself and then leaps onward.

What's that cry for'd? Jim starts, and I see his face pale, as with all his mighty strength he puts the wheel to port.

"Hard, Jim, hard down!" comes a faint voice, and the captain comes running aft. You did well, Jim, but your three times to port were too late to save her, for with a sickening, ghastly crash she strikes and commences to settle rapidly. A rough hand grabs my arm and a deep voice growls:

"It's the ice, doctor; jump for it—jump for it."

Before I can do so, I am taken off my feet; and the next moment I feel myself going through the air; then a sudden stop, and I find myself on a field of drift ice. I turn to thank my deliverer, and find it was Jim whose clear head and strong arm had saved me. I try to thank him, but he says, shortly: "I'd a done it by the ship's dog, doctor, as soon as ye, had he been as handy." Nevertheless I shake hands, and say a few words to him, as he turns on his heels and joins his mates straining their eyes to pierce the blackness and see the little craft's last plunge. Like a bird whose wings flutter and then drop, her canvas shakes and she dives, never to come up. The crew sadly bid her farewell and even grouty Jim says: "Good-bye, little 'un." You folks ashore cannot realize the fear that came over us as the waters closed over the little craft that had been to us our home, our "all in all." A feeling of dreadful loneliness thrilled us as through the inky darkness we tried to read the expression in our companions' faces.

I mentioned it was cold, but words are inadequate to properly convey the icy intensity, now that the blood which had been quickened by the strain and excitement had become normal. Added to the bitter cold was the chill of fear. We drew close together to diagnosticate our case. Naturally, we looked to the captain for advice, and when asked what we should do, he said tersely:

"Stick here till morning. Then we can get our bearings, and shape our course accordingly."

Now, when the brig struck, we had had a close call, and so had a chance to save nothing but what we stood in. The captain's advice was excellent as far as it went; but to stay where we were, huddled together like so many frightened sheep, meant certain death, and the dawn, as it broke would fall unheeded on fifteen frozen corpses that, a few hours before, had been the crew of the little, gallant Jenny Lind. Jim now came to the front, and, in his rough, surly way, said "as how I've made an observation of these here parts, and I calculate there is room enough to move round in, provided you fellers have brains enough to do it." We accordingly acted on his suggestion, and, with Jim at our head as pilot, we commenced to walk around in a circle, thrashing our hands and endeavoring to force the blood to greater activity through our stiffening bodies. Almost from the minute we landed on the ice, Jim had had an eye always on Walter, the ship's boy, and now, as we commenced our dreary rounds, he had him close behind. Oh, how cold and desolate it was, going round and round in that contracted space, moving like a chain gang, with one hand on the shoulder of the man in front, so as not to lose one another; for small as that space was, the night was black and the edge of the floe was we knew not how near. One by one, the men grew weary, and Jim—almost overlooked aboard ship, our leader now—slackened his pace, to ease up a little.

Walter was the first one to give out. We heard him drop, the line stopped, and we closed around him. Jim got down on his knees beside him and spoke, not so gruffly as usual:

"Ye ain't tuckered out yet, are ye, lad?"

Half drowsily and wearily came the answer:

"I'm dead beat, Jim, and sleepy. Don't mind me; let me sleep, and I'll catch on the line again, soon."

We heard Jim mutter to himself:

"He'll freeze, lying here," and then a movement on his part, and he said: "Here, Walter, lad, here's my pea-jacket; I'll wrap this and my comforter round ye, and ye'll feel more comfortable like."

He was putting them on to the already sound asleep boy, when I laid my hand on his shoulder and told him he'd freeze to death without any protection. He rose quickly, and in a savage tone, said:

"What't that to ye, doctor? Yer never took any notice of me aboard ship, and a-getting mighty tender o' me now."

I spoke to him again, telling him between us we could keep Walter moving round, and thus keep him alive, and that he himself needed some protection. His mates joined me in my entreaty and tried to raise Walter to his feet; but he shook their hands off and, facing us, spoke;

"Mr. Doctor and mates, I ain't nobody, and it don't make no difference whether I die or not. All of ye have mothers or sweethearts waitin' for ye to come home. I ain't got nobody; no home. A vagabond, mates, I be, with nothing but the ship whose articles I sign for a home, and the sea'll be my grave sooner or later; so ye see, it don't make no difference whether I freeze to death here or go to the bottom across the line. Walter's got a mother, lads, as is waitin' ter see him soon; and if Jim can help her do it, he's agoing ter. I thank ye all, mates and Mr. Doctor, fer speaking ter me; and if ugly Jim freezes ter death, don't think too hard of him."

Again the line moves on, but the men are getting disheartened and overcome, and gradually, one by one, they lie down on the ice, and, crawling close together, a sleep, sweet but deadly, holds them in its grasp. Jim and I are the only ones left now, and we walk, walk, walk round and round the prostrate forms like a death-watch.

"It's no use, Jim; I've got to join the circle."

And I step toward it. He stops me and says:

"Can't ye stick it out, doctor?"

"No," I say, despondently; "I am too weak and numb to keep it up. Here, Jim, give me your hand."

"Good-bye, doctor," he says, and moves on again, a lonely sentinel, fighting death inch by inch, and by his pluck and dogged determination shaking off its icy clutch.

It was a blank for me for I know not how long, and then I partly awoke as Jim, tired out and exhausted, dropped beside me. I was in a dreamy state, but I heard these words, the last he ever spoke. He was wandering, I knew, and his voice was so gentle and soft I hardly knew it was his:

"Mother!" he murmured several times, and then: "Our Father which art—," and ugly Jim's lips had moved for the last time on this earth. Icy fingers closed them here, but where his noble deed and last prayer reached, warm, loving fingers shall bid the dumb to speak, and his first words shall be his thanks for the Master's plaudit: "Well done!"

* * * * *

"Peace and oblivion reign over all." That was exactly my state; and on awakening from my stupor, I found it hard to realize it was but a dream. Was it possible I was once more safe aboard a vessel, not frozen stiff on the desolate drift-ice, but tenderly cared for by rough but kind hands? Yes, it was true; for we—all that were left of us, aye, and the poor fellows whose awakening was of another sort—were being carefully looked after on board the American ship Yankee Tar, whose lookout had sighted on the field-ice black specks which, through the glass, he had made out to be human beings. A boat was put out, and all hands taken on board. Of our crew of fifteen, but five remained, with just a spark of life in their stiff bodies. Walter and I were among the survivors, and careful administration of restoratives had brought us round. I have stamped upon my mind with the indelible ink of unforgetfulness, the morning when, for the last time, I gazed on the fixed, immovable faces of my companions of that fateful voyage. All in their wedding sheets of sail cloth, shotted and ready for the waters to cover them, ranged in two rows along the deck, we bade them each good-bye. Last of all I came to Jim, not "ugly" Jim, now, for upon the scarred face a peaceful smile, tranquil and happy, and his last words: "Mother, mother," seemed to play upon the half-open, smiling lips.

"All heads uncovered!"

One by one, into the ocean's bosom they slid to rest, and, as poor Jim's body lies poised upon the rail for its final plunge, the captain's voice shakes and his eyes water, as he says:

"'Greater love hath no man than this, that he lay down his life for his friends.'"

A Hawk's Fastidiousness.

Careful observers have noticed that a fish hawk, after securing its prey, will often rise very high in the air, drop the fish, quickly swoop down upon and seize it, and then fly homeward. The object of this, as explained by an old skipper, is to get the fish "head on," as a hawk will never fly with the tail of its prey foremost. So, if it has caught it that way, giving it a twirl it drops it and seizes it again with the head pointing in the right direction.

When It Was First Used.

The word "dandy" was first used in England in a poem by Galloway published in 1780.

DO NOT WAIT

Till Baby Becomes Sickly.

BEGIN AT ONCE WITH PURE LACTATED FOOD.

Many mothers continue to feed their little ones from day to day with foods which are repulsive and nauseous to the tender stomach. Babies fed in this way soon become sick and weakly, restless and peevish. Then some experienced friends are interviewed for advice, or the medical man is called in.

A daily diet that the baby loathes should be stopped at once; its continuance means ill health, and most likely death.

When it is found necessary to feed baby artificially, do not fail to use Lactated Food. This wonderful prepared food is relished by all babies, and keeps them in health and strength. The best and ablest doctors in Canada are recommending Lactated Food every day to mothers; this grand scientific food is doing more for infantile preservation and growth than all other angencies combined.

Try Lactated Food at once dear mother; do not wait till your dear one is weak and sickly.

S. P. SMITH, of Towanda, Pa., whose constitution was completely broken down, is cured by Ayer's Sarsaparilla. He writes:

"For eight years, I was, most of the time, a great sufferer from constipation, kidney trouble, and indigestion, so that my constitution seemed to be completely broken down. I was induced to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and took nearly seven bottles, with such excellent results that my stomach, bowels, and kidneys are in perfect condition, and, in all their functions, as regular as clock-work. At the time I began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla, my weight was only 129 pounds; I now can brag of 159 pounds, and was never in so good health. If you could see me before and after using, you would want me for a traveling advertisement. I believe this preparation of Sarsaparilla to be the best in the market to-day."

MRS. JAS. CHASE.

Worst Kind of Scrofula.

DEAR SIRS.—I had an abscess on my breast and scrofula of the very worst kind, the doctors said. I got so weak that I could not walk around the house without taking hold of chairs to support me. The doctors treated me for three years, and at last said there was no hope for me. I asked if I might take B.B.B. and they said it would do me no harm, so I began to take it, and before three bottles were used I felt great benefit. I have now taken six bottles and am nearly well. I find Burdock Blood Bitters a grand blood purifier and very good for children as a spring medicine.

IN THE PINERIES.

Hour after hour and minute after minute the road had become more and more dim and uncertain, and as darkness set in I found myself deep in the wilderness, completely lost, hungry and tired, with no prospect in view but to spend the night without any shelter in the open air.

Although I had to acknowledge to myself that I did not know in what direction I was going, I was still loath to stop. I kept on going somewhere, stumbling here and falling there, until at last I was too weary to get up again and lay where I had fallen.

I was deep within the pineries of eastern Texas. The ground under foot was soft and springy and felt as if it had been but newly made—fresh from the hand of the Creator. But the giant pines towered high above me, and I knew that the ground was at least as old as the trees, not made purposely that day to bewilder me in its shadows and the deeper darkness of night. As I lay upon the ground where I had fallen, peering through the moving rifts in the tree tops above me, watching twinkling stars, and the drifting gulf clouds, an unearthly scream reached my ears. Never before had I heard a cry so piercing, a sound so unearthly.

Again and again the cry came through the darkness, and it was only by sheer desperation that I managed to rise to my feet, the better to enable me to look about, and if possible to discover the source from which the cry emanated. I strained my eyes looking through the darkness, but I could see nothing except the nearest trees rearing their giant forms into the deeper darkness above me.

For a minute or two after the last terrible scream there was a dead silence, unbroken even by the gentle soughing of the wind in the tree tops. Then the hoot of an owl in the distance reverberated through the forest, and its sound, generally startling and uncanny, seemed as sweet as music in my ears. Again and again the owl hooted, and in a few minutes answering hoots rang through the darkness from every direction, and a soft flutter of wings was heard above as they flew hither and thither in search of food or trying their wings in wide circles for fun and pleasure.

I had begun to grow calm and collected again under the soft influence of the waiting wings of the owls and their occasional calls to one another, when suddenly, close to my ear, a sharp, rasping voice inquired:

"Where is Mollie?"

I looked around hastily, but could see nothing, and all I could hear after the voice was hushed was the flutter of wings and the monotonous hoots of the owls.

How long I sat and listened I do not know. The sameness of the sounds of the forest lulled me to sleep at last, and I slumbered lightly upon the ground.

It might have been an hour or it might have been only a minute that I had lost consciousness in sleep, when something or somebody tapped me smartly upon the cheek and a piercing cry for help rang through my ears and echoed through the darkness of the forest. I sprang to my feet and looked around me with wide-awake and staring eyes.

I could see nothing. Then from a thicket a little to my right came the moans of a man as if in mortal agony, and presently a voice asked complainingly:

"Where's Mollie?"

Not knowing Mollie or her whereabouts, I was, of course, unable to answer, but as is usual in cases where ignorance of the question precludes a reply, I proceeded to propound a question of my own.

"Who are you?" I asked.

For several moments there was a dead silence, which I construed to mean that the inquirer for Mollie was doubtful about revealing his own identity.

The owls, probably attracted by my voice, came fluttering all around me, and at times it seemed as if they would attack me and drive me away, an intruder of their own domain.

Then suddenly, touchingly, prayerfully, came the voice from the thicket once more:

"Oh, Mollie! Mollie! Mollie!"

The voice was the quavering voice of an old man, and so hopelessly tender and helplessly beseeching that the cry went straight to my heart. "I am coming!" I cried, and walked as fast as I could for the darkness toward the thicket from whence the voice came.

A thousand thoughts flashed through my mind and every direction I had ever heard about how to treat cases in any emergency flashed through my memory. Who was this old man, evidently in mortal agony, alone and helpless in the forest? Was his throat partly cut? Was he shot through the body? Was he maimed and mutilated? I asked myself over and over again. Then a terrible thought came to me. Perhaps it was an escaped lunatic, a bloodthirsty madman, with all a madman's cunning, lying in wait to fall upon and destroy the pitying wanderer who chanced to come his way, lured toward him by his pitiful cries in the darkness.

As I thought of this I stopped instinctively and peered around me cautiously. The dark thicket lay only a few steps in front of me. How easy it would be for a man with a maniac's strength to leap forward, clutch me by the throat with his powerful fingers, more cruel than the claws of the fiercest wild beast in the forest.

I sprang back in terror. Nothing moved, however. There was no moan, no cry, only the tangled vines and undergrowth, and darkness in front of me.

"Is there any one in distress—any one needing help and assistance close by?" I asked in loud but quavering tones. There was no answer. I walked as near to the thicket as I could, and peered into the vines and bushes, but could see nothing, and was about to withdraw to a safe distance again, when a voice in faint tones gasped out [illegible]:

"Help! Help!"

Above me I could only see the interlacing limbs of the trees, with rift here and there through which a glimmering star peeped down from the dark blue of the summer sky. An owl occasionally flew by, and a solitary firefly flashed her emerald light as she winged her zig-zag flight through the darkness.

Again and again from the darkness above me came the cry for help, and in such distressing tones that it almost set me wild with fear. The owls came fluttering around me, and the bats darted on hissing wings on every side. Then again came a piercing cry from the thicket, followed by a succession of them, until my ears rang, and the cold sweat poured from my forehead. I sank to the ground exhausted and hid my face, for never can the wildest imagination conceive of the pandemonium which reigned in the forest at that hour.

How long I lay there or how long the bats and owls and the unearthly noise and screams lasted I can never tell. When I raised my head again day was breaking in the east and the dense darkness was tinted with a shadowy gray.

I sprang to my feet and looked about me. Nothing unusual met my sight, and only the song of a mocking bird close by greeted my ears. Tired and weary, I wandered away, and as I went looked around me cautiously to see that no lurking harm would overtake me.

It was about an hour after sunrise that morning when I came upon a small house in a clearing in the forest. As I approached a young woman and a boy appeared at the door and gave me a friendly greeting.

I asked them for something to eat and a place where I could rest after my terrible night in the forest. They promised me both, and in due time a tempting, though primitive, meal was set before me.

After I had partaken of the food, a pallet of skins was spread before me upon the floor, and it was not long before I was asleep upon it, sleeping the sleep of one worn out with fatigue and excitement.

It was in the middle of the afternoon when I was awakened by one calling close to my ear:

"Oh, Mollie! Mollie! Mollie!"

I looked up. On the floor, twisting his head and looking at me through the corners of his eyes, stood a large parrot.

"Ha! ha! ha!" laughed the parrot and the boy I had seen in the morning, in a merry chorus.

Just then the young woman appeared at the door, and seeing the parrot and the boy, she said, apologetically:

"I hope this naughty bird and mischievous boy didn't wake you up until you had finished your nap."

"No," I said, "I am glad some one did wake me up."

"My brother Ben and Poll are the most mischievous pair you ever saw," she said, looking at the boy and parrot reprovingly. "Poll just returned home this morning from the woods, where he has been pranking with the owls," she continued. "Ben has taught him the most unearthly screames you ever heard, and now he goes off into the woods regularly for a day or two every week and nearly sets the staid old owls wild with his noise."

"Oh Mollie! Mollie! Mollie! Mollie!" cried the parrot, looking at his mistress reproachfully.

And Mollie blushed as prettily as a rose.

There is a large clearing in the pine forest to-day, and Poll has learned to imitate the sound of baby voices in all their many changing moods.

A People of the Past.

Poets may talk of "age creeping on apace," they may sing ever so sweetly of the halo which surrounds life's winter, but in this age of rush nothing creeps—not even old age, and the "snow wreaths" do not "encircle the brow." In this age few grow old, and equally sad, few grow young. Every thought is swallowed up in business or pleasure; the young man has an "old head," and the old man a young head, or none at all.

Launched forth into the world he must never grow old, never let the snowdrifts settle. This is no day for old men, so it is said. And the women? There are no old ones nowadays. Society, like business, does not tolerate the old. Art must hide the snowy hair; art must fill the furrows on the cheek. White hairs and wrinkles may be poetical, but they are not attractive in the women of the world.

With childhood and old age lost, what is man? Striding from babyhood to manhood or womanhood there is no morning, no twilight, only the too short and burning midday, then suddenly with a crash the blackness of night. To grow old gracefully! Is it only the day with its twilight, or the great trees that majestically bend under their moss-fringe and lichens that, little by little, show that their race is run?

Where is the man or woman of these latter days who does not battle with the falling snows and strive to hide from his or her eyes the settling twilight? White hairs will come and human machinery will wax old and the artifices of the pencil or brush but make bolder the outlines of the monster—age. Grandmothers with silver locks part hidden by a single cap, grandmothers upon whose breast the linen kerchief lies in the simple folds, grandmothers whose faces still beam with the softened tints of life's day, seem to live only in memory.

Are there then no old folks these days? Happily in the tossing and rush of the world as at present some old folks still live—some whose old faces are dear in spite of the wrinkles, and whose crowns of silver hair bespeak the glories of the crowns that await them; the eventide of whose life is like the day which in drawing to a close gilds and tints the sky with its sunbeams, which even after the shades of night begin to close, fade slowly and softly away, leaving a long memory of their brightness. These dwellers of the twilight, with faces set toward the shadows, smile; smile not for the things that are gone, but for the brightness of the glorious morning which they are awaiting.

THE DEMONSTRATION DECIDEDLY OFF.

The Town Council Refuses to Make a Grant A Fruitless Meeting of the City Fathers.

A special meeting of the council was held on Monday evening in response to a requisition, for the purpose of considering the giving of a grant towards a demonstration on May 24th. Present, the mayor in the chair, and Messrs. Cahill, Best, Kelly, Hall, Hughes, Dawson, Roger, Sutton, Mason and Brady.

A resolution was adopted to pay the account of A. H. Stratton & Co., postage re the Trent Valley Canal convention, $700, and Ed. O'Brien, account, planting 93 trees in the several town parks, $23.25.

A motion was adopted instructing the clerk to procure a gavel for the mayor's use to assist in keeping order. Several members suggested that the gavel take the form of a club.

A STRAIGHT GRANT.

Mr. Brady moved, seconded by Mr. Kelly, that the council make a grant of $400 to assist in a celebration of the 24th of May and that the former motion guaranteeing $500 be rescinded.

Mr. Mason moved in amendment that the sum of $200 be granted.

Mr. Poussette was on motion, heard. He pointed out that the town had suffered in the past from the citizens going abroad for amusement, spending their money there. He understood that the programme was to make a demonstration that would be sure to attract a large attendance of the public. It was proposed to expend about $2000, which would be directly laid out in the town, and any surplus resulting would be turned over to the Board of Trade to form a a fund for future celebrations, as it was intended to celebrate all public holidays in Peterborough. The coming demonstration was to be of a type to show that Peterborcould and would organize a first-class demonstration in every respect.

Mr. Sproule pointed out what a saving would result from keeping people at home. Not only would the money be kept at home and spent in business circles, but money would be attracted here through visitors, who would spend large sums in amusements, etc. He had no doubt that ten dollars would be left in town for every one appropriated by the council. The grant was asked in the interests of the amusement of the public and for the benefit of the business interests of the town. Mr. Sproule outlined the general programme, which guaranteed a splendid demonstration.

Mr. Hughes and Mr. Dawson were opposed to the grant. The times were too hard to admit of so large an expenditure.

MR. CAHILL'S MOTION.

Mr. Cahill moved in amendment, seconded by Mr. White, that a grant of $300 be made to the committee of the Board of Trade to celebrate in a befitting manner Her Majesty's birthday and that Messrs. the Mayor, Brady, Kelly, Hall, White and Best be a committee to act with the Board of Trade committee.

Mr. Roger thought the time too short too arrange a fitting celebration for the 24th of May and the money would, in a certain way, be squandered. He sympathized with the gentlemen who were asking the grant; he believed they were acting in a public spirited manner, but he thought they were mistaken.

Mr. Brady withdrew his resolution and a vote on Mr. Cahill's motion resulted in it being lost.

The council adjourned,

A Total Wreck with Kidney Disease—All the Symptions of Bright's Disease Present—Dodd's Kidney Pills make him Perfectly Well again

LEAMINGTON, April 23—Sherman Buchanan, a farmer living near here, recently passed through a terrible ordeal. He was attacked by kidney disease, which made him a perfect wreck. He suffered agonizing pains and his digestive organs were seriously impaired. All the symptions of Bright's disease were present. After several doctors had treated him ineffectually, Mr. Buchanan used several boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills and they cured him. Dodd's was the first kidney in pill form ever offered the public. Its wonderful success in curing all forms of kidney disease has led to the introduction of numerous cheap and worthless imitations. Purchasers, for their own safety, should insist on getting Dodd's Kidney Pills. Sold in large boxes; price, 50c. or six boxes for $2.50. To be had of all dealers.

THE RULING MARKETS.

TORONTO, April 24, 1894.

THE FARMERS' MARKET.—The only grain received was a load of oats, which sold at 41c. Wheat nominal at 62c for white and 58c for goose. Barley is quoted at 42c and peas at 64c to 64½c.

English wheat has been quiet and foreign wheats a trifle lower. Corn has been steady, mixed American fetching 17c 6d a quarter. Barley and oats have been firm and beans sold 6d lower.

Wheat decreased 792,000 bushels the past week, as against a decrease of 1,227,000 bushels the corresponding week of last year. Oats increased 50,006 bushels and barley decreased 235,000 bushels.

Chicago wheat traders expected a break in prices and they got it, although probably not enough to meet their expectations. May wheat opened ½ to ¾ and closed at a net loss of 1⅛ for the day. Oats were about steady closing ⅛c lower.

Wall street reports that the strikes cause considerable weakness in the market. Foreign houses sold about 15,000 shares for London account. Sugar very weak, selling down to 95 7-8. The weakness of G. E. is said to be owing to talk of reducing its capital.

Speculators for the decline made a dash at the New York stock market prices with moderate success, so far as a change in quotations went, but without stirring up any great activity. The declines were practically all made in the first half hour and in the last ten minutes, and they signified the added pressure of a new and heavy short interest. After the opening attack the market lapsed into thorough inactivity.

Fell Eighty Feet to Death.

TORONTO, April 24.—A terrible accident occurred here yesterday at the new armory. William Herod, a young married man, was employed on the building as tuck-pointer. He had commenced work on one of the towers and was suspended from the top of the tower by a swinging scaffold. On going to the other side of the scaffold for a tool he tripped over a rope and fell, landing on the flagstones beneath, a distance of over eighty feet. His skull was fearfully fractured and every bone in his body broken. Death came instantaneously.

Samples of Grain Distributed.

IN COATS.

There is more length to the new Coats for 1894 than has been used in Men's Dress since the 60's.

THE DOUBLE BREASTED FROCK is the most fastiduous garment man has put on in a generation. It adds to the stature of the man and conceals defects of figure. It is short waisted, snug fitting, long tailed and beautifully moulded to the figure. The Skirts are hollow at the top and form a beautiful curve, which is the most distinctive thing about the new styles.

Then there is the THREE BUTTON CUTAWAY Coat which is a high favourite. It is popularly described as the "Pigeon Wing" on account of its sloping tails. The sleeves are of moderate size and are closed with a vent for three buttons. If properly made it will cling rather closely to the hips.

The new CUTAWAY SACK COAT for business wear is one of the most popular of the season. It has caught the fancy of the young men. All the pockets should have flaps. The collar rolls low and is not faced with Silk.

"ST. GEORGE AND MERRIE ENGLAND!"

LANSDOWNE LODGE CELEBRATES THE ANNIVERSARY.

A Banquet, Held in the Lodge Rooms on Hunter Street, Proves a Most Enjoyable Affair.

The anniversary of England's patron saint, St. George, was fittingly celebrated last night by the members of Lansdowne lodge, No. 25, Sons of England, who, with their friends, gathered in force in their handsomely-fitted rooms on Hunter street. The programme for the evening's entertainment consisted in "feasting and song" and in making responses to the numerous toasts which were proposed.

The speeches which were made were characterised by their brevity and wit and largely enjoyed. Fully one hundred and twenty-five guests sat down to the bountiful repast which had been spread by Mr. Long and Hooper, caterers for the occasion, the sons of old Albion, of course, predominating in numbers.

The largest of the lodge's suite of rooms was utilized as a dining room for the occasion and it was most handsomely draped and festooned with a liberal display of the flag, whose folds have braved a thousand years the battle and the breeze, and tastefully disposed bunting, while the Order's mottoes were displayed upon the walls.

At about 9.30 o'clock Rev. Mr Symonds announced that supper was ready and called upon Rev. Mr. Davidson to ask a blessing, after which all fell to and the viands quickly disappeared and the tables were cleared for the toast making.

THE TOAST LIST.

Mayor Kendry occupied the chair and read letters of regret from Mr. John Burnham, M. P., Mr. Frank L. Somerville and Supreme Grand Secretary Mr. John W. Carter. Mr. E. A. Peck filled the vice chair.

The first toast, of course, was that of Her Most Gracious Majesty, which was honoured by true Sons of England enthusiasm, and the strains of the National Anthem swelled through the room in earnest and harmonious volume.

Brother H. Varnes was then asked for a song and favoured the guests with "Red, White and Blue", in the chorus of which all joined.

"The Dominion Government" was responded to by Mr. Thos. Blezard, M.P.P. Mr. Blezard said he didn't exactly understand just why his name had been coupled with this toast, as not being a member of the Dominion House he was not exactly in touch with it. There was a good deal of difference between the work of the Dominion House and that of the Local. The revenue raised by the former was derived from duties levied, while the latter raised its revenue through other sources. The Local House he thought was a step higher than the county council. Every member knew his co-workers in Toronto, but in the Dominion Parliament it was different, the members were not even acquainted with all the members on their own side of the House after a four years term. He himself knew every member of the Provincial Legislature, and at present there were only 13 members now sitting who had been there when he entered the House some 15 years ago.

Bro. W. Taylor's rousing song, "The British Flag," which had a grand chorus was much enjoyed.

THE SONS OF ENGLAND.

Mr. J. R. Stratton, M.P.P., was called upon by the chairman to respond to the toast of the "Ontario Government." Mr. Stratton was glad that the members of the lodge had chosen the evening of St. George's Day for their annual dinner. It was a fitting tribute to the memory of England's patron saint. He was aware of the many advantages which were to be derived from belonging to benevolent societies in general and was of the opinion that none were established on a more sound financial basis than that of the Sons of England (applause). He understood that the order had a membership here in Canada of 16,000, which was most gratifying. The local lodge though only established eleven years now had 240 Englishmen or sons of Englishmen as members. He spoke of the great benefit of belonging to an organization of this kind, and in regard to Lansdowne Lodge, could say that it was comprised of some of the best citizens of Peterborough. Mr. Stratton's comprehensive and patriotic address was much appreciated and loudly applauded.

The names of Mr. Rackham, Mr. Dudman and Lieut. Eastwood were coupled with the toast of the "Army and Navy." The latter, however, was the only one of the trio whose remarks were of any considerable length. He spoke of the disadvantages under which the volunteers laboured and thought the recent criticisms of General Herbert were a little harsh. He was of the opinion, however, that the town and city battalions would be benefitted by them, inasmuch as doubtless some of the rural regiments would be swept out of existence and the money which had formerly been granted them would revert to the urban volunteers. Peterborough, he thought, had a battalion which was second to none in the district. (Applause.)

Mr. T. S. Osborne's contribution of a recitation to the evening's entertainment was greatly appreciated, after which the toast of "The Ladies" was responded to by Mr. A. Clegg. Mr. Clegg was of the opinion that the ladies didn't need anyone to speak for them, they could generally manage to speak for themselves. After a few complimentary remarks in allusion to the fair sex, he gave a reading of Tennyson's "Proputy," which was greatly enjoyed.

Mr. Mercer's banjo solo was well received and an encore insisted upon.

BROTHER TAYLOR RECEIVES AN OVATION.

At this juncture a pleasant interruption in the evening's proceedings was occasioned by Rev. Mr. Symonds seizing the opportunity to make a presentation of a handsome badge to Brother Wm. Taylor. The badge was the gift of Past President Martin and was presented to Mr. Taylor as being the hardest worker in the interests of the lodge. In commenting on the gift Mr. Symonds took occasion to remark that the lodge owed more to Mr. Taylor for building it up than to all the rest of the members put together. By the burst of applause which followed, it was very evident that the members all agreed with their chaplain. The rousing chorus of "He's a Jolly Good Fellow" was sung in honour of Mr. Taylor with great gusto. Loud calls were made upon "Grandpapa" for a speech. In a few words Mr. Taylor thanked the members for their evident appreciation of his services, and concluded by urging them to keep shoulder to shoulder and by a long pull and a strong pull and a pull all together, to keep the old order in a flourishing condition in Peterborough.

Mayor Kendry was called upon to speak to the toast of "Peterborough," which he did in a most earnest manner. In speaking of George street, he thought it was a street the citizens should feel proud of as no finer could be found in any town of its size in the world. He felt proud of being the mayor of the best town not only in Canada, but in any other country, of the same population.

Mr. Harry Winch was also called upon as an ex-councillor to respond to the same toast. Mr. Winch stated that he was not an Englishman, but claimed Canada as the place of his birth. He was proud to say he was a Canadian and proud to say he was born in Peterborough. Notwithstanding the hard times appar at elsewhere, Peterborough had dispensed less charity this year than last.

Bandmaster Millar's song, "Poor Old Jeff," was keenly relished. It had a good chorus, which took well with all assembled, as did Brother Bowman's ditty which followed it.

The toast of "The Press" brought Messrs. Wm. Buchanan, Alf. Terrill and J. A. Harper to their feet, after which Brother Taylor was again called on for a song.

THE CHAPLAIN'S CONTRIBUTION.

Rev. Mr. Symonds responded to "The Sons of England." The speaker dwelt on the great underlying virtues of the Order, which he stated were "love of country, love of home and the fear of God." The Englishmen, he claimed, was pre-eminently patriotic and where his country's honour was at stake, there the son of Albion was sure to be the conqueror. English homes had so often been the theme of the bard that of necessity there must be a basis upon which they founded the subject of their song. He hoped he would ever see the Englishman distinguished for his love of home, and he was of the opinion that the same virtue would be perpetuated in Canada or in whatever country the Briton was to be found.

Mr. J. J. Turner's song, "Old Mosella," was a catchy one and well rendered.

In connection with the toast of the "Legal Profession," Messrs. A. P. Poussette and W. A. Stratton were called upon. The former thought lawyers were a much abused class of people and wittily defended their misdemeanours. Mr. Stratton thought that the strength of England sprang from her lawyers, as it was they who framed the laws which enabled them to hold the homes which they held so dear.

A duet by Messrs. Steers and Squires was well rendered and well received, after which Mr. A. Clegg made a few remarks in response to the toast of "Sister Societies." "The Day we Celebrate," brought the vice-chairman, Mr. E. A. Peck, from his chair with some eloquent remarks. After Mr. Kendry had also neatly complimented the lodge, the assembly broke up after the singing of the National Anthem.

THE BROWNIES.

The history of the Brownies, written by Palmer Cox, has been read by millions of young people with intense delight. The travels and doings of these little people have been told in such a bright, pleasant style, that few children can ever forget the varied adventurures and spicy incidents so humourously recorded. Boys and girls and very young children, too, have their likes and dislikes when mothers find the little ones require treatment for coughs, hoarseness, sore throat and croup. The children all love Harvard Bronchial Syrup, because it is so pleasant to the taste. This wonderful remedy, so prompt and effectual in its action, is taken by the young with pleasure, and has saved many a life. The old fashioned and nauseous remedies can never be administered to the young with safety. Harvard Bronchial Syrup leads everywhere, and is highly recommended by all physicians. Mothers should have a supply on hand for emergencies.

SENT UP FOR TWO MONTHS.

A Havelock Citizen Gets into Trouble and Enters a Plea of "Guilty."

Henry Tripp, who, it will be remembered, was one of the trio committed for trial from Havelock for breaking into and entering the houses of Wm. Mitchell and Wm. Parcell, has been sentenced to two months in gaol by the county judge.

The prisoner pleaded guilty to the charge of aiding and abetting and being an accomplice in the crime. Bert. Robinson and S. Wells, preferring to take their chances with a jury, have been committed until the June sessions come on.

AN OPTIONAL BALLOT

Interesting Discussion on Mr. Conmee's Bill in the Legislature.

HON. MR. FRASER SPEAKS

But His Poor Health Again Compels Him to Abandon the Attempt—Motion for an Optional Ballot Carried by a Majority of Twenty-Two.

TORONTO, April 25.—The morning sitting of the Legislature commenced at 11 o'clock when the Hon. Mr. Fraser rose to resume the debate on Mr. Conmee's bill, making the ballot in separate school elections optional. Previous to 1890, said Mr. Fraser, the Roman Catholic minority, wearied of the discussion regarding separate schools, had agreed to accept the ballot. Then, however, owing to the action of the Opposition, the question assumed a new phase, and they now felt that they were called upon to oppose it as an infringement upon their rights. The action of the hon. members for East Kent, North Essex and Algoma, three of the ten Roman Catholic representatives in the House, gave color to the suspicion that the Roman Catholic hierarchy had, as had been alleged, interfered with the civil rights of the minority. He repudiated the idea that any such undue influence had been exerted. Separate school supporters, he said, did not ask for the ballot, and when they did so it would be time enough to take the subject up. The minority, he thought, are surely able to take care of themselves in the matter of their own schools without any outside interference.

Mr. Fraser was again unable to proceed with the debate. His strength was not equal to the strain and with great reluctance he was compelled to resume his seat. For a few moments after sitting down there was a marked stillness throughout the House, all members seeming to realize and regret the extent to which his illness had preyed upon one who had in other days been one of the most forcible debaters in the Legislature.

Mr. Clancy rose in reply to Mr. Fraser. He regretted that the Minister of Public Works had been unable to proceed. He entirely dissented from the ground taken by the hon. gentleman. Hon. gentlemen told separate school supporters that they must resist the adoption of the ballot because bigots were forcing it upon them. He would ask if a principle that had been recognized as a sound one as applied to municipal and parliamentary elections should be abandoned simply because it was found that some persons who were said to bigots were in favor of it. But it must not be forgotten that hon. gentlemen had raised this cry and driven the supporters of separate schools into a state of honest alarm. The principle of the ballot was no new thing in this country. It had been adopted in other elections as a sound principle and a safeguard against every influence of whatever kind. Why should any different rule apply to the election of trustees of Public and Separate schools? He would vote against the hon. gentleman's bill because it had proved itself to be only a halfway and useless part of a principle that had long ago been adopted in all other matters.

Mr. White (Essex) intimated that the speech made by Mr. Conmee had been prepared for that gentleman, but it was not for him to say who the author might be. He objected to the bill, as, being optional, the bickerings that had taken place in the House would be transferred to the school sections. In the city of Windsor, where the ballot was used, there were no bickerings, and one school board administered the educational affairs of the city. He said the hon. gentleman was not in his heart in favor of the bill, and objected to him taunting the Orangemen and the P. P. A., and endeavoring, as he claimed, to stir up hostility on the Opposition side.

Mr. Conmee—The hon. gentleman doesn't like that.

Mr. White—I don't like the mode of the hon. member for Algoma. It is that of a Judas Iscariot. Mr. White contended, that, with reference to the constitutional aspect of the question, it was perfectly within the right of this House to deal with this question, although he admitted that he did not think the House could take away or prejudicially affect the rights of Roman Catholics.

The House rose at one o'clock.

In the afternoon Mr. White resumed his speech, charging the Government with refusing to undertake the responsibility of introducing the measure brought in by Mr. Conmee dealing with separate schools. He also accused Mr. Conmee of garbling Mr. Meredith's speeches, by not quoting the full context. He should vote against the bill because he did not believe in any half-way measures.

Mr. Balfour supported the bill. He said that he did not take the ground he did for political capital, as three-fourths of the electors in his constituency were Protestants. He did not believe that the constituents for the members for North Essex and East Kent would support them in the views just enunciated by them when they went back for re-election. He disputed the statement that the Government had at their backs the solid Roman Catholic vote, and he accused the Opposition of throwing out these innuendos for the purpose of bringing the Orange vote into line.

Mr. E. F. Clarke said, personally, he was in favor of the abolition of separate schools, but he would not go so far as to say that they should be abolished without the consent of the minority. He knew that many of the intelligent Roman Catholic laity were in favor of the ballot, and he did not see why the ballot system would not be the better way of electing the trustees for both the public and separate schools.

Mr. Meredith said that the member for West Algoma was set up for the purpose of prodding the members upon his side of the House. This debate, he said, had been instituted by the Government for the purpose of stirring up religious acrimonies and thereby drawing a few votes to their side. He was prepared to stand and do battle again upon the principles as enunciated by him in the elections, be the result what it may. It could not be said of him that his public course was influenced by office considerations. He had for twenty years occupied a seat upon the Opposition side of the House. If a ballot is wanted, it must be a real one and not practically none at all, as proposed in the hon. gentleman's bill. He thought it fair and reasonable, so long as separate schools existed, that they should use the same text books as the public schools. He denied that it was not within the competence of the House to pass an amendment to the Separate School Act in the direction of a compulsory ballot. The day would come, sooner or later, when the ballot would be conferred upon both separate and public school supporters.

Sir Oliver Mowat accused the Opposition of endeavoring to force upon the Roman Catholic minority a measure that they did not wish. The minority, he said, had not expressed a desire for a compulsory ballot, and it could not therefore be expected that they would accept it. He was aware that the constitution did not make provision for religious teaching in the schools, but he believed that Roman Catholics should in their schools be allowed to use their text books and teach their dogmas in their own way. He considered it preposterous that separate school trustees should be elected under the municipal machinery, for the reason that the deputy returning officers might be all Protestants, and in case of a tie one of these officials would be privileged to give his casting vote. A Protestant would thus have the right to vote for a separate school trustee.

Hon. Mr. Fraser again rose to complete the arguments that he had been forced through illness to forego making in the morning. He touched at length upon the difficulties that would arise if the municipal machinery were sought to be used in the election of Separate school trustees.

The House divided and the motion for the second reading of the bill was carried by 52 to 30. Mr. McNaughton voted for the bill.

Mr. Conmee, in moving that the bill be referred to a committee, said Mr. White deserved the title of Judas Iscariot more than he did.

The motion carried.

Mr. McCallum's Bill.

After recess Mr. McCallum moved the second reading of his bill to make the ballot in Public and Separate school elections compulsory. He supported it with a brief speech.

Mr. Evanturel opposed the bill in an impassioned address.

Dr. Ryerson supported the bill.

Mr. White (Essex) opposed the measure on account of some of the feature it contained.

Mr. Meredith said he intended voting for the bill, because he thought it contained provisions which should become part of the law of the land.

Sir Oliver Mowat said the bill should be opposed because its main object was what had been already negatived—a compulsory ballot for public and separate schools.

Mr. Clancy said he was going to vote for the bill to go to a second reading, it being clearly understood that he was supporting it on the sole ground of a ballot for public and separate schools.

Hon. Mr. Ross opposed the bill, and cited a number of objectionable features.

The House divided and the motion for a second reading was rejected by 53 votes to 28. Mr. White (Essex) voted against the bill.

Will Last All Week.

Col. Clarke, Clerk of the House, says that the House will hardly get through business until Saturday.

ROSEBERY TO THE UNIONISTS.

Unity of the Empire at Home and Abroad Will be Fully Maintained.

LONDON, April 25.—The Prime Minister, Lord Rosebery, in a speech at a meeting of the City Liberal Club last evening, said he was of opinion that the English were becoming exceedingly weary of the eternal struggle for and against Irish coercion. He asked the Unionists whether, apart from the Irish question, it was worth their while to hold aloof from the Liberal party, owing to its copyright of the word "Liberal." If they formerly held aloof from the party in the belief that its foreign policy was null and void, they were not likely, he said, to believe so longer, as the Government was determined to maintain the unity of the empire abroad and the unity, in the best sense of the word, of the three kingdoms at home.

An American Suicides in Montreal.

MONTREAL, April 25.—Stephen Rose, aged 46, an American, presumably from Port Huron, committed suicide by stabbing himself last night at the Springfield house. Rose arrived in Montreal a few days ago and put up at the Springfield house. He had been drinking heavily for some days and this is believed to have been the cause of his putting an end to his life. On his person was found a return ticket to Port Huron, and it is supposed he belonged to that place.

Attorney Murdered by Burglars.

INDIANAPOLIS, April 25. — Attorney Albert Beck, well known in this city, was found dead in bed at his house. There was a bullet hole in his right temple. The front door and a window of the house were open and bloody shoe prints were found on the porch and on the sidewalk leading to the house. It is believed he was murdered by burglars, as his purse is missing.

Erie Canal Repaired.

BUFFALO, April 25.—The repairs on the Erie canal were completed last night. At 12 o'clock last night water was let into the long level canal nearly 60 miles, and it will take six days to fill the division. For the past two weeks from 600 to 700 men have been employed on the western division and it is thought the big ditch is in perfect shape.

LIVE STOCK AND CROPS

Bulletin Issued by the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

PROSPECTS FOR THE YEAR

Rather Discouraging Reports of Fall Wheat From Various Counties—Rye and Clover Crop—The Condition of Live Stock Satisfactory.

TORONTO, April 25.—Following is the bulletin sent out by the Ontario Department of Agriculture, from information sent in by correspondents under date of April 16:

Fall Wheat.—This crop has entered a most crucial period as correspondents wrote, and much uncertainty existed regarding its future prospects. Early in March fine, bright weather prevailed, and the protecting covering of snow disappeared, revealing the fields of wheat in a promising condition in most quarters. The situation at the time correspondents wrote was as follows: Fall wheat has been seriously set back by spring frosts and absence of warm rains. Should another week or two of unpropitious weather prevail much of the crop will have to be ploughed up or resown; but, as the roots are vigorous, timely showers and genial weather may carry the fields forward towards an average yield. Where the fields entered the winter with a good top they are vigorous and verdant, and those who practise underdraining, rejoice in an encouraging outlook. The great fall wheat counties along Lake Erie send rather discouraging reports, and in the eastern portion of the province, where the acreage is small, the prospects are equally poor for a good crop. In the Lake Huron group the county of Huron gives a cheerful report, while Lambton and Bruce are rather the reverse. The Georgian Bay counties' reports are equal in tone, and on the whole the chances are hardly as good as usual. In the West Midland group favorable reports prevail over those of a less encouraging character, and the same may be said of the Lake Ontario counties. So far there has been an almost complete exemption from injury by worms or insects.

Rye—What little of this crop is grown came through the winter in fair condition, although injured in places by ice. The area of winter rye is inconsiderable, taking the province over.

Clover—The reports concerning this crop are not favorable. A few correspondents speak of good fields and encouraging prospects on high and well-drained lands, but east and west there has been a good deal of "heaving," more particularly during the spring, and a liberal application of the land roller will not fully remedy matters. Old meadows have suffered most in this respect, and the newer fields are rather patchy and thin owing to the drouth which prevailed last autumn. A few correspondents allude to the injurious effects still traceable from the visitation of grasshoppers last summer. At present the chances appear to be rather against a good yield of hay and clover this year, although timely rains may make up for past drawbacks.

Vegetation—Up to the time reports were sent in there had been but little actual growth in field and forest. In fact, at the close of the second week of April vegetation appeared to be but little ahead of what it was two or three weeks earlier. A good spring rain was hoped for by correspondents as something that would start growth and bring the season well forward.

Live Stock—Taken altogether the reports concerning the condition of live stock may be considered satisfactory. Horses do not appear to have been as well cared for as in former years, owing to low prices, yet though rather on the thin side as a class they have come through the winter with but little sickness, barring an occasional attack of distemper. Horned cattle as a rule are healthy, though lean; reports of disease were very scattering. Tuberculosis was referred to by some correspondents, but the cases alluded to were not regarded as serious. Sheep are in particularly good trim, and lambing is proceeding most satisfactorily, save that a few correspondents complain of an unusually large proportion of singles being dropped. Swine are also in generally good condition. Some form of distemper is here and there reported, and a disease "resembling rheumatism" has shown itself in a few places, while in the neighborhood of Dereham township hog cholera broke out recently and carried off 200 hogs; but notwithstanding these local and occasional occurrences the swine industry has seldom presented a more favorable bill of health. There was plenty of fodder with which to carry through the winter, taking the province all over.

Farm supplies—There is not much unanimity of opinion regarding the quantity of hay, grain or fat and store cattle on hand. In the three western districts of the province the bulk of correspondents report a surplus of hay and wheat, and in some counties there are more oats than are needed for feeding and seeding. In the Lake Ontario counties there is but little hay to spare, and in the eastern and northern hay, wheat and oats are in store in only moderate quantities. A great deal of hay was pressed and exported during the fall and winter and large quantities of wheat were fed to live stock, more especially to swine. Fat cattle are hardly as plentiful as usual, and buyers appear to be shy in most quarters, as several correspondents state that fewer beeves than usual have been sold for May shipment. Store cattle are plentiful with some cattle and scarce with their neighbors; in fact, the cattle industry appears to be in a most unsettled condition, except in the case of fresh cows, which are in better demand than ever for the dairy.

One Better Than Thirteen.

William F. Goetchius, Esq., contractor and builder, office 552 Seventh Avenue, New York City, writes: "I have suffered from dyspepsia for a number of years and was confined to my house for five months. Have had thirteen New York and Mount Vernon doctors (will name them if necessary) attending me but failed to get any benefit. I tried K.D.C., and am pleased to say the effect was magical. I have tried probably every know remedy for dyspepsia, and found none to benefit me, until I took K.D.C. I recommend K.D.C. as the dyspeptic's best friend. Try it and prove what I say."

THE REGISTRY OFFICE MATTER.

Comments on the Deputy's Testimony Before he Revised It.

The following remarks are made by the Globe before Mr. Grundy's new revision of his Public Accounts testimony reached Toronto:—

Contrary to the Ottawa practice the widest latitude has been allowed in the investigations which have taken place before the Public Accounts Committee at Toronto. The practice followed here is the right one and should not be abandoned, even in the face of the outrageous travesty of the evidence which appeared in an article which appeared in the Empire yesterday. The great theme of this article was the pittance paid to the deputy-registrar of Peterborough. "He said he had been working nineteen years in the Peterborough office, and got $400 a year, out of which he had to support a wife and seven children." Now, $400 is not enough for a deputy-registrar, to say nothing of the wife and seven children. But this particular deputy-registrar got $800 and testified to that effect. The facts were brought out clearly enough, but the facts are of no use to a newspaper which prefers to rely upon imagination, doubling a registrar's income here and halving a deputy's there, without the slightest compunction. The $400 story is the foundation of a lot of tearful rubbish of this sort: "The patient drudge, who fears to tell of the scandalous working of the office, dreading that he may thereby lose the miserable pittance which he gets, was able, by doing all the work of the office, by holding things together to spare his undeserving master from utter disgrace, to earn $400."

THERE IS NOTHING IN THE EVIDENCE

to warrant this flow of abusive language. There was nothing "scandalous." There was no reason disclosed before the committee why it was necessary to save the registrar from "utter disgrace." The Empire says that "interested persons" were allowed to alter instruments. What the witness said was that where all parties consented alterations were made in matters of detail. The practice may be regarded as irregular; but it injured nobody but the registrar himself, who, if he had chosen, could have refused to allow the corrections to be made, and have insisted upon the registration of new instruments, with new fees. Imagine the howl that would have arisen against the "fee-hunting officials" is this practice had been followed. Mr. Morrow, as we say, may have erred on the side of good nature; but to represent the custom as one by which "interested parties" were allowed to alter deeds is a piece of thoroughly dishonest partisanship. The other charge is that in ten years the witness remembered three instruments being registered without payment of fees. The fact is that it is a common practice for firms of lawyers to run accounts with the registrar, and it might sometimes occasion serious inconveniences to the parties to an instrument if before an important transaction could be closed. Whether it would be preferable to have the practice here, as in the other case, made very strict, is a matter of opinion. The registrar would be the greatest loser in case of non-payment, and he would be the greatest gainer by the adoption of a strict cash payment system. But we do not think that any reasonable man will say that the correction of a verbal error by consent of all parties, or the non-payment of fees on three instruments, can be described as "scandalous," or "disgraceful," or "discreditable." If so, what becomes of the Empire's argument that the plodding deputy should be raised to the position to which his long years of service entitle him? He was a party to the awful crime of allowing mistakes to be corrected, and he appeared never to have protested against it. Instruments of his own were registered without payment of the fees. He was an enthusiastic advocate of using black ink, instead of the statutory red, in making corrections. We are not in favour of laxity of practice in this respect, or in regard to comparing instruments or any other matter. But we do not think that these irregularities, if such they are, are fairly described as scandalous or disgraceful, or "gross violations of official positions."

CASH PAYMENT WERE TO BE INSISTED UPON

SLIM TESTIMONY.

The assertion that Mr. Stratton had told the witness that he must not say anything detrimental to the Government is founded upon the slimmiest testimony. If Mr. Stratton had desired to intimidate the witness he would surely have made the first advance toward an interview. Instead of that it was the witness who called upon Mr. Stratton. The summons to Toronto and the chaff of the townspeople seem to have put him into a panic, and instead of going quietly to Toronto and telling his story, he went about asking everybody for advice. It is not at all clear about Mr. Stratton's reply to his strange request. He thinks Mr. Stratton said, "I would not want to complicate the Government in my testimony." The phrase is so awkward and ambiguous, and so little like what a sensible man would be likely to say, that it would surely be fair to hear Mr. Stratton's account of the conversation before coming to a conclusion. But that is not the Empire's way. It assumes the absolute correctness of the recollection of a witness who was certainly not in the frame of mind either to hear or remember accurately; it puts the worst possible construction on his words, and even distorts their meaning; and then it proceeds to render judgment without hearing the other side, and to inflict upon its readers such stuff as this: "Here was a man who had done most of the work of the office for nineteen years, earning the paltry salary of $400 a year, who trembled lest even that poor remuneration should be taken away from him for telling the truth."

THE ADVANCE OF SCIENCE.

The Case of a Young Lady Whose Friends Thought Her Going Into a Decline—After Repeated Efforts She Finds a Cure.

Among the remedies whose healing powers have won great fame, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People easily take a foremost place. This conclusion must force itself upon those who read the numerous well authenticated cures made public through the press. A reporter of the Montreal Herald recently learned that Miss Sarah Dillon, cashier in the establishment of Messrs. J. J. Hannan, had been restored to health by the timely use of Pink Pills. Calling upon her she was found willing to make known the benefits she had received. Miss Dillon stated that last year she was seriously unwell. She was just on the point of giving up her situation, when, providentially, she came across a leaflet describing the curative effects of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. She made up her mind to give them a fair trial, and before the sixth box was finished felt as well and strong as she could wish for. What Miss Dillon complained of chiefly was complete loss of appetite, sick headache, indigestion and mental depression. Besides she was easily fatigued, almost incapable of the least exertion. Her friends thought she was going into a decline. She was pale and anæmic looking, and lost weight considerably. She tried many medicines but without avail. She felt herself rapidly getting worse. A doctor was called in and the treatment prescribed carefully followed, but there was no change for the better and nothing seemed to be of the least benefit until she began using Pink Pills. She is now the picture of health, and the languor and depression she suffered so much from, are no longer there. Miss Dillon expressed the opinion that if Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were more universally used, much of the sickness and consequent wretchedness and unhappiness, unfortunately so common amongst us would be entirely unknown. The gratifying results following the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in this case prove that they are unequalled as a blood builder and nerve tonic. In the case of young girls, pale, listless, troubled with a fluttering or palpitation of the heart, weak and easily tired, no time should be lost in taking a course of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which will speedily enrich the blood and bring a rosy glow of health to the cheeks. These pills are a positive cure for all troubles arising from a vitiated condition of the blood or a shattered nervous system. Sold by all dealers or by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont., or Schnectady, N. Y., at 50 cents a box or 6 boxes for $2.50. There are numerous imitations and substitutions against which the public is cautioned.

The most agreeable, restorative tonic and mild stimulant is Milburn's Beef, Iron and Wine.

Dear Sirs,—Your "Hairene," I believe to be a wonderful remedy. It certainly produced the most unexpected results in my case, my hair had been falling out very freely for some time, becoming anxious about the matter I thought I would experiment upon the properties of "Hairene," and one application actually "topped it at once. I applied it once or twice afterward, using in all about a quater of one bottle, and have not required to use it since. It seem to have given renewed and healthy vigor to the scalp, and I can recommend it in all confidence.

Are made in large quantities, because foolish people buy where prices are lowest, without giving a thought to quality. Any one who thinks, will not buy a "Piano at $170, or an Organ at $80, guaranteed for nineteen years," because it is cheap. But The Operation Failed To Cure.

A MIRALULOUS CASE.

The Best Surgeons in Harper's Hospital, Detroit, Could Not Help.

Interesting Description of Human Suffering.

There have been many wonderful cures made by Dodd's Kidney Pills, but nothing ever heard of, written or imagined, can compare with the marvellous effect produced on Mr. Hezekiah Vaughan, Lot No. 24, fourth concession, Gosfield, in this county.

Mr. Vaughan says:—"For two years I suffered what no one would suppose humanity could endure. One physician pronounced my complaint inflammation of the bladder; another, whom I consulted, told me it was chronic liver complaint; another, whom I went to see, said it was inflammation of the kidneys, and a fourth treated me for what he said was a peculiar state of the liver.

"I was frequently bloated so that my cheeks were even with the end of my nose; frequently for seventeen days at a time my bowels refused to act, and for months together, if I took so much as a drink of water, I would vomit immediately.

"At last, getting discouraged at the ineffectual efforts of physicians of ability to make any improvement, I decided to take the advice of one of them and go to Harper's Hospital, Detroit, where I knew some of the best physicians of that extensive city were to be seen, but having spent most of my means in past efforts to regain health, I was compelled to take the only course open, a students' clinic, at which nearly two hundred students were in attendance.

"The case was deeply interesting as so many physicians had pronounced the complaint as many different diseases, and the principal surgeous in the hospital were as much, if not more, interested than the newest student.

"Of course I knew nothing from the time the anesthetics were given me, but I can assure you the sensation before and after were sufficiently terrible to make the strongest swerve.

"Four physicians performed the operation on me which lasted four hours and a half, during which time they made an incision five inches long in my abdomen and in order to make a complete examination took my entrails out and laid them on the operating table beside me. The students were shown the whole operation and all the minute points explained while I was lying there, but among all none, either advanced or beginners, could suggest the complaint from which I suffered. Everything that suggested itself to the learned professors was attempted, but it seemed utterly impossible to assist me.

"One of the most mortifying portions of the whole operation was that, after going through such a painful and dangerous ordeal, the best physicians in the City of the Straits were baffled, and with my stomach and bowels lying on the operating table beside me, under the powerful lenses used in the examination, they could not decide what the disease was. Medical science has undoubtedly reached a high standard, but it utterly failed in my case, except in causing me a great deal of pain, misery and expense.

"Two of the physicians maintained that I was afflicted with a cancer, the other two being as positive I was not. But after inserting a rubber tube I was compelled to remain in the hospital five weeks and left but little improved.

"I finally heard of the wonderful effects made on my neighbour, Mr. Sherman Buchannan, who from being next to death's door is now able to do his farm work, wholly through the beneficial effects of Dodd's Kidney Pills. I decided to try them and forthwith purchased a box and commenced their use. For the first four days of course little effect was produced, but I gradually began to feel the action of the medicine and by the time I had used the first box I felt they had done me good. I kept on taking them regularly, and from day to day I could gradually notice changes for the better. First, my bowels became regular, which was a great relief, then the bloating from which I suffered most terribly, became slowly removed. I began to feel more like my natural self and finally almost all pain subsided, my strength gradually increased and a general feeling of renewed health and vitality pervaded my whole system. I regained my appetite and my food digested better, and as time passed on my vigor increased, and no one, unless similarly afflicted, can imagine the immense relief I felt, for I had lost all hope of even a partial recovery. I am to-day almost myself again, although I have not yet used six boxes.

"I spent hundreds of dollars and months of agony, and Dodd's Kidney Pills have given me back my health and strength."

Mr. Vaughan's modest testimony must convince the most skeptical that Dodd's Kidney Pills have a more than marvellous action on the human system.

Mr. W. J. Smith, the well-known druggist of Leamington, is well aware of the above facts.—Leamington Post.

The Party Starts on the Search For the Pole From Bergen, Norway.

BERGEN, Norway, April 25.—The Wellman polar expedition sailed yesterday aboard the Ragnavald Jarl, after the owner, Herr Krasabye, had formally committed the vessel to Mr. Wellman's care. As she departed the stars and stripes were hoisted to the fore-peak, salutes were fired and the great crowd that had assembled gave hearty cheers for the explorers. A fleet of boats escorted the vessel out to sea. Before her departure, cablegrams wishing Godspeed poured in from friends in Canada, Europe and America. The vessel will call at Cromsoe to take aboard Dahl and three icemen.

A Government BOMBSHELL

THROWN INTO THE

LIFE INSURANCE CAMP!

The following statement comes from the government Blue Book. It covers a period of sixteen years, and is sworn to as correct by representatives of each Company:

Statement of Premiums received and Cash Profits paid back to Policy Holders from 1877 to 1892, both years inclusive:—

COMPANY.	Premiums Received.	Dividends Paid to Policy Holders.	Ratio of Dividends to Premiums, %
CANADA LIFE	$16,368,307	$2,946,483	18.18
Confederation Life	6,165,432	637,925	10.35
North American	2,327,082	32,857	1.41
Ontario Mutual	3,878,066	433,294	11.17
Sun Life	5,527,720	355,280	6.43

Never in the history of Life Insurance has the struggle for business been keener. Never has the conflict been hotter. Never have the Companies felt as they feel now, the necessity for throwing all the energy at their command into the field. The most intelligent and best men have to be employed. All kinds of plans of insurance are submitted. Each Company determined in securing the supremacy in the good will of the public, in establishing their name, the utterance of which, shall convey to the minds of the people the essential characteristics of

UNDOUBTED SECURITY,
RIGID ECONOMY,
GOOD INVESTMENTS,
LARGEST PROFITS

WHY?

Because millons of dollars are being paid annually for Life Insurance, and the Companies that can show these features have attained a position which will guarantee their future success, for money will flow freely into the best investments.

The Canada Life Policy Holders can look at the above statement with a smile of satisfaction, yet sympathise with their friends who are not so favourably situated.

They can throw their Life Policies down in the face of opponents and successfully challenge the production of more profitable policies, they can stand the onslaught of Agents who will almost cover them with literature and estimates of Tontine, Semi-Tontine, Return Premiums, Reserved Dividends, Annuity and Endownment plans of insurance, and with a quiet assurance feel that

As The Canada Life is Making the Most Profits, She Can Pay the Largest Profits.

READER. If you want Life Insurance choose the Canada Life and join the throng of contented policy holders who are insured with the Company carrying about 45 per cent. of the total insurance in force of the above named Companies

Canoeists complain that there are a number of rollers missing out of the canoe slide at the locks, and in consequence every time a canoe goes over the slide, the varnish or paint on the bottom is scraped off in patches.

A guarantee list is being circulated by the Cricket Club in order that there may be no difficulty regarding the payment of the professional coach's salary. The "pro" has recommendations of an unusually high quality regarding his ability to impart his knowledge of the game to new beginners as well as to those who are experts on the crease. It is a great opportunity for boys to learn this most gentlemanly game and a great number will doubtless become members of the club this year. It is doubtful if the local cricketers ever experienced such a bright outlook for a season's work as they do this spring. The material for the foundation of one of the crack clubs of the province is available.

A committee from the bicycle club conferred with the committee of the town council which was figuring on the scheme of passing a by-law preventing the bicyclists from riding on the sidewalks. The conference was characterized by the evident desire of both committees to come to an amicable settlement regarding the difficulty. It was finally decided to leave the matter in abeyance until the effect of the clubs by-laws governing the case at issue could be observed. The club holds that if right of way is given the pedestrian in all cases on the sidewalk, and no riding on the business portion of George street is allowed, that this should be all that the town required.

Communications from the line of the relay ride are to the effect that the bicyclists of the following places are in active training with a view of securing positions as coursers in the great race against time: Montreal, Cornwall, Morrisburg, Prescott, Gananoque, Kingston, Deseronto, Belleville, Bowmanville, Georgetown, Waterloo, New Hamburg, Stratford, Woodstock, London and Sarnia. It is to be hoped that the riders in all other cities and localities through which the packet will pass will follow the example of the bicyclists of the above-named cities and towns.

THE PETERBOROUGH REGISTRY OFFICE.

THE OPPOSITION "SCANDAL" COMPLETELY EXPLODED

Further Evidence Before the Public Accounts Committee—Mr. Stratton Promptly Defends His Good Name—End of the Review's "Beginning of the End."

The management of the Peterborough registry office engaged the attention of the Public Accounts Committee in Toronto yesterday. Mr. J. R. Stratton, M. P. P., was examined and the mountain which the Conservative press is seeking to make out of the molehill of Mr. Grundy's testimony has dwindled to its proper insignificance.

The matter engaged comparatively little attention—the evening papers give only paragraphic reference to it, the Mail does not report it at length, and the Globe gives it only a comment, report, but in addition republishes the documentary evidence published in Monday's issue, showing the contradictory and unreliable nature of Mr. Grundy's testimony, and affording a complete exculpation of Mr. Stratton in the implied charge of intimidation and a refutation of the implied charges that the registry office was irregularly conducted. In addition to the documents, the Globe publishes the declarations of Mr. Morrow, as to the absolute truthfulness of his letter, and of Mr. R. R. Hall (of Stratton & Hall) as to a similar effect in reference to the firm's letter.

The following is the Globe's reference to the evidence presented to the Public Accounts Committee yesterday:

The Public Accounts Committee gathered in the early morning of a Parliamentary day, a time which would be regarded as late in the forenoon at the old homestead. Mr. Stratton showed that Deputy Registrar Grundy's suspicions regarding the honesty of his intentions were as unfounded as his fear of incarceration by the committee. Mr. Grundy had simply come to him to learn the matters on which he would be examined, and Mr. Stratton had told him to the best of his knowledge. The deputy was alarmed at the distorted newspaper reports of his evidence, and had hastened to correct them with an affidavit. He had gone to Mr. Stratton in his office and had not received any questionable advice. Mr. Stratton had never dealt with the Registry office except through his solicitor.

THE EMPIRE'S REPORT.

This is the Empire's report of the evidence before the Committee:

Mr. Stratton, M. P. P., was then examined by Hon. Mr. Harcourt. He knew of no instrument in the registry office at Peterborough that had not been paid for. No instrument was sent by him to the registry office except through his solicitors, and they were paid for in the usual way. He produced a correspondence he had had with Mr. Grundy, deputy registrar of Peterborough. He wrote to the deputy asking for a statement showing any instruments in which he was directly or indirectly interested that had not been paid for. He read the reply he received from Grundy. It stated that the only instrument registered in the office in which Mr. Stratton was interested was one of recent date, which his solicitors may have paid for, but it did not appear in the office as having been paid for by anyone. The letter also contained a denial from Grundy that before going to Toronto to give evidence he had a conversation with Mr. Stratton, in which the latter told him not to give evidence implicating the Government. Mr. Stratton read a statement purporting to give the conversation he had with Grundy. The conversation was about the work of the office, and Grundy was advised to be truthful in his statements, Mr. Stratton said. Nothing transpired which would lead Grundy to believe he (Stratton) wished him to conceal anything.

Mr. Stratton then underwent an examination from Mr. Clancy:

Q.—Had you any conversation with Mr. Grundy since he returned from Toronto? A.—I went to the registry office yesterday morning to find out whether papers had been registered that had not been paid for by me.

Q.—Did you ask Mr. Grundy to write a letter? A.—I asked him for a statement, I went to the registry office to find out from the registrar what documents had been registered in my behalf that had not been paid for.

Q.—Did you ask him to write a letter? A.—No.

Q.—Or anyone on your behalf? A.—No. He asked me what I wanted.

The chairman—You had handed him a letter? A.—I handed him the letter myself.

Mr. Clancy.—Did he write the letter while you were there. A.—Yes.

Q.—Who were present? A.—Mr. Morrow, my brother and myself.

Q.—The letter was written while you were there? Yes; he handed me the letter.

Q.—Did anybody make suggestions to Mr. Grundy while he was writing the letter as to what it should contain. A.—I asked him while he was writing the letter why he had made use of the statement that I had said to him not to say anything to implicate the Government, and he said to me he did not make any such statement. I said, you had better add that to your letter.

Q.—Was that after Mr. Grundy had written his letter? He was in the course of writing it.

Mr. Johnston, inspector of registry offices, then testified that in 1892 he inspected the Peterborough office, and spent there from five to six hours, not two hours as Mr. Grundy had sworn. As to the comparing of the documents, he accepted the statement of the deputy registrar, because it was that officer's duty to see it was done. He described the routine he went through in making an inspection.

The committee then adjourned.

The World heads its report as follows:

MR. STRATTON SETS HIMSELF RIGHT.

Mr. Stratton, M. P. P., took the stand in refutation of Mr. Grundy's statements affecting him. He stated that he paid registry fees through his solicitors and knew of no instruments he had not paid for. He had written Mr. Grundy on the subject and received an answer to the effect that the books of the office showed everything paid for, except in the case of one instrument, which did not appear to have been charged against him. Mr. Grundy's letter concluded with the statement that he did not say to Grundy, "do not say anything to complicate the Government," but simply asked him some questions as to the management of the office and advised him to be correct in his statements.

Mr. Stratton then entered into a very detailed statement of all that passed on the occasion of Mr. Grundy's visit to him, in which he said that Mr. Grundy spoke disrespectively of Mr. Morrow and his son, whereupon Mr. Stratton questioned him as to the management of the office and what evidence he would give, and finally concluded the interview with the advice, "You had better be careful with your replies and see that all you say is correct." He never made use of any such expression as that Grundy must not say anything detrimental to the Government nor hinted at anything of the kind.

It was elicted in cross-examination that Grundy's letter of recantation was written at the Peterborough Registry Office by him in the presence of Mr. Stratton and Mr. Morrow.

A sworn declaration from Grundy as to the effect of his letter was produced with the object of having it embodied in the commission's report, to which the Opposition members objected as contrary to court procedure—no opportunity for cross-examination being afforded. It was decided, however, that the commission was not a court.

REGISTRY NOTES.

The Review returns to the consideration of the registry office matter in connection with the deputy registrar's testimony. After saying that the "muddle is all confined to the Reform camp and is a family squabble," the Review proceeds to put into the family pie a finger about a column in length to try to reconcile the varying phases of the deputy registrar's evidence and to fix the charge that Mr. Stratton used the registry office without the payment of the usual charges. The Review knows and the public knows that Mr. Stratton is not the man to evade the payment of a trifling sum like a registration fee. If there has been an omission or inadvertence in neglecting to charge and collect the fee in a single instance that is the most there is to the matter; and it is dishonest to the last degree for a newspaper to endeavour to twist testimony, which the testator has already twisted out of shape, in the hope of establishing what it hypocritically affects to consider a very grave charge. In former times when there was less rush and business was more carefully conducted, the old fashioned book-keeper or clerk invariably labelled every statement of account and document thus: "E. and O. E."—"errors and omissions excepted"; a circumstance which goes to show that no person is exempt from the liability of making mistakes, and certainly the error or omission in the matter under consideration is not of a character to "upset the constitution." Our contemporary insinuates that Mr. Grundy's explanatory letter was refused publication in the EXAMINER for a purpose. It was received at too late an hour to be inserted in Monday's paper and appeared the following day, and Mr. Grundy or the Review is welcome to all the credit, that can attach to either, from the letter in question.

THE dishonesty of the Opposition organs in the registry office matter is, if not remarkable, disgracefully conspicuous. With full knowledge of the falseness of the assertions, they assume that the salary of the deputy registrar of Peterborough is only $400 a year, and from that premise formulate vicious denunciations of registrars generally. The Toronto News remarks upon the iniquity of giving a clerical workman $7.70 per week. As a matter of fact the deputy registrar of Peterborough gets $15.40 per week, or double the amount mentioned. Given liberty to Opposition organs to invent their "facts," they can make out a case, but such lying expedients will only discredit the cause they are seeking to promote.

FROM the evidence there exists of unseen influence in the registry office matter, the deputy registrar may be regarded as an "instrument" in which it would be quite in order to make "corrections."

Catarrh and Neuralgia

Good authority has said that "neuralgia is the cry of the nerves for pure blood." The prompt action of Hood's Sarsaparilla on the blood, combined with its toning and strengthening effect upon the nerves, make this a grand medicine for neuralgia and also for catarrh, etc. We commend this letter to all having such troubles, and especially to

"For a good many years I have been suffering from catarrh, neuralgia and overtake me. And I had intense pains from neuralgia in my head, back and limbs, which were very exhausting. But I am glad to say that soon after I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla I saw that it was doing me good. When I took 3 bottles I was entirely

I gained in strength rapidly, and can take a two-mile walk without feeling tired. I do not suffer nearly so much from catarrh, and find that as my strength increases the catarrh decreases. I am indeed a changed woman, and am very grateful to

MILLS BROS.

NORWOOD NEWS NOTES.

(From Our Own Correspondent

Mr. Kenny, of Trenton, is the guest of Mr. Wallace Aakey.

Mr. Geo. Harmiston was renewing old acquaintances here last week.

Handsome awnings, manufactured by J. J. Turner & Sons, Peterborough, have been erected by Mr. J. L. Squire and by Richardson's, in front of their respective stores.

Miss May Pettigrew returned Monday evening from Ottawa, where she was attending the convention of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society as a delegate from the Norwood branch. She reports a very pleasant time and most courteous treatment accorded to the delegates by the inhabitants of the capital. Her reports of the proceedings will be given in the Presbyterian church on Thursday evening.

While playing in the school grounds Tuesday morning, Eddie Bongard dislocated his left foot at the ankle. He suffered considerable pain but was soon able to be around again,

While driving to Hastings last week with a load of hides, Messrs. David Fraser and Fred Squire experienced what might have been a very serious accident. While going down a slope the horse became totally unmanagable, the rig was overturned and the occupants pitched out. Mr. Squire in endeavouring to stop the horse received a kick on the knee which raised a large swelling in a few minutes. Mr. Fraser also received several bruises. The wagon was totally demolished and the skins were scattered for some distance on the road.

QUEEN'S BIRTHDAY.

Norwood will celebrate the Queen's Birthday in right loyal style. Arrangements are being rapidly completed for the grand football tournament under the auspices of the High School Football Association. There will be five matches. Among the teams present will be the Brooklin football team, champions of the counties of Ontario and Durham. We clip the following from the Toronto Globe of February 17th, 1894, in which the portrait of this club was printed:—

BROOKLIN FOOTBALL CLUB.

"In to-day's issue the Globe shows a picture of the Brooklin Football club, of which the Hon. John Dryden, Minister of Agriculture, is Honourary President. They are the holders of many trophies, and are the champions of the Ontario County League for 189' with a record of 7 victories and 2 draws out of 9 games played. The league consists of Oshawa, Manchester, Port Perry, Uxbridge and Brooklin. They are a fine lot of fellows, of splendid physique, are noted for their gentlemanly bearing on the field, and play an excellent combination game. They expect an equally successful season for 1894. The captain of the club, Mr. Ed. J. Halliday, is the holder for 1893 of the Langevin Cup for a quarter mile run. This cup was presented to the Whitby Collegiate Institute some years ago by Sir Hector Langevin for competition at the annual games."

This team has defeated the following:—North Whitby, Oshawa, Bowmanville, Uxbridge, Manchester, Port Perry and Scarboro. Against them will be pitted here the strongest team which can be brought together in Norwood, and a very fast and interesting game may be expected. Caledonian games will be held after the matches and a number of valuable cash prizes offered.

At a meeting held in the town hall last week full arrangements were made for a grand calathumpian parade on the 24th.

The committee in charge of the Roman Catholic pic-nic will be prepared to offer a day full of enjoyment to all comers on the Queen's Birthday.

The celebration will be ended by a grand concert given in the evening by the students of the High School. Mrs. F. E. Perney, who has made such a favourable impression on the audiences before which she has appeared here and in Peterborough, has been engaged to take part. On the whole we think now that the celebration in Peterborough has been declared off, our celebration will, with favourable weather, be a great success. We hope that a large contingent of Peterborough people will take advantage of the cheap fares over the C.P.R. on that day and visit our town. We are sure they will be right royally entertained.

SCHOOL BOARD.

A special meeting of the school board was held on Monday evening to receive report of committee appointed at the January meeting to settle the account of R. G. Stewart, tinsmith, for putting up pipes in the high school.

Mr. Roxburgh, chairman, being absent, Mr. Rork was elected to the chair.

P. W. Reynolds, chairman of committee, read a report of the doings of the committee as follows:—

"We examined the work done. The stovepipes placed were not all of the kind bargained for. English iron pipes, 30 inches long and 9 inches in diameter, were the kind he agreed to put in. He only used a small portion of the English iron pipes, common Canada plate being substituted without the knowledge of the Property Committee. These we refused to accept at the price he charged.

"We tendered him $41.83 about the first of March. This he refused to accept. Since the matter has been placed in court we have tendered him $53.55, being the first amount tendered, and the following additions: For labour, $1.50; interest, $1; 3 pipes at 15c., 45c.; costs of court to date, $2.77.

"We also wish to state that we obtained the prices from practical men for the work done and they all without exception placed them much lower than his charges.

P. W. Reynolds,
Chairman.

Moved by Dr. Ford and Mr. Anderson, that the report be received.—Carried.

Then followed a quiet but thorough discussion of the report and also of the account, after which it was moved by Mr. Breckenridge and Mr. Webster, that the board is satisfied with the offer made by the committee to Mr. Stewart viz. $54.05 for principal, interest and court costs, and if not accepted by Mr. Stewart, that they be empowered to defend the suit, employ such counsel as they may require and secure such witnesses as may be necessary.—Carried. An account of Sutherland & Co., Toronto, for $1.33 was presented.—Referred to Finance Committee. Moved by Dr. Ford and Mr. Brethen, that the sum of $20 be paid to Miss Lewis, being amount paid by her to Miss McLachlan for services.—Carried. The board then adjourned.

Mr. Stewart's case has been amicably settled, he having accepted the amount tendered him by the board.

The house on Belmont street formerly occupied by Mr. J. Harper, sr., and lately occupied by Mr. J. Turner, has been thoroughly overhauled and refitted during the past week or so. A new fence is also being erected across the front of the property. The building on the front eastern corner of the lot has been torn down and will be erected at the back.

OUR SOLDIER BOYS.

The Physique of the Members of the 57th Will be Above the Average This Year.

There was a good turn-out of red coated soldier boys at the armoury last night, and squad drill was indulged in for an hour or so.

The following orders of the day were read:

Peterborough, April 24th, 1894.

Orders by Lieut.-Col Rogers, Commanding the 57th Battalion, of Peterborough Rangers.

1. The Battalion will parade for drill on Tuesday evening at 8 p.m., May 1st.

2. Sergt. Peters having been transferred from Stanley Barracks Regiment of Canadian Infantry, is taken on the strength of the 57th Battalion from to-day, and will act as Sergeant-Major No. 3.

3. The non-commissioned officers will parade Thursday evening, April 26th, for instruction by Sergeant-Major Peters, and all men wishing to qualify will be in attendance.

By order,
E. F. Mason,
Captain Adjutant.

The new drill differs greatly from the old, many innovations, both in the manual and field exercise, being introduced, which would make an old veteran roll his eyes in horror. The men when in the ranks now have 27 inches allowance for standing and marching room instead of but 22 inches as formerly. This does away with the old shoulder to shoulder movement, and it remains to be seen if the files can execute their movements as steadily without being in touch with another. Hereafter the volunteer will be allowed to swing his hands as he marches, instead of being instructed to keep them close to his side without movement.

The changes may be for the best, but on first appearance it looks as though the drill will become a great deal more difficult and besides will detract from the fine appearance hitherto presented by the volunteers. The older men are inclined to think that a straggling appearance will be imparted to a corp, the members of which are not allowed to keep in touch with one another and at the same time are instructed to swing their hands in accord with the motion of their legs as they march.

* * *

A number of new uniforms were given out last night and judging by those who participated in the drill it is evident that the physique of the members of Peterborough's crack regiment will be away above the average this year.

* * *

Last year the 57th won the Gilmour cup for districts 3 and 4 and, as a battalion, stood as high as fifth in general efficiency in Ontario, only being surpassed by the crack corps of Toronto and Hamilton. This year, having the advantage of a drill instructor, will probably enable the Rangers to aspire even higher than fifth place and will put them in condition to give the city regiments a sharp brush for a better rating.

* * *

Even if the Department does not see its way clear to erect a new armoury in Peterborough, as is apparent by the reshingling of the old barracks now in use, still a couple of coats of paint on the outside of the building would considerably improve its appearance and make it less of an eyesore.

Poison in Tea.

In England tea has been discovered contaminated with lead, undoubtedly from being wrapped in packages containing lead. This is a matter which is being enquired into, inasmuch as lead is a dangerous poison and its presence in so many packages of tea may well cause grave public alarm. Mason & Co., grocers, have no confidence in package teas, as their English blends surpass all teas placed on the market.

BIRTH.

WALTON.—In Peterborough, on Saturday, April 21st, 1894, the wife of Mr. J. M. Walton, of a son.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 75c. bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

BOOTS AND SHOES

TO TAKE THE PLACE OF

A Queen's Birthday Demonstration!

The boy said: "This Shoe business is altogether too brisk," when his mother chastised him with a slipper. That's what other shoe dealers think of us, for we not only command the largest and finest shoe trade in Peterborough, but our popularity extends for a hundred miles around.

The loyal people of Peterborough needn't feel disappointed if the boys didn't get up a big demonstration for the Queen's Birthday. We have put on foot A THUNDERING RACKET IN BOOTS AND SHOES, and propose to keep it going until after the 24th, without asking the council or the merchants to guarantee us against loss.

We're always busy. No dull times with us. But, for the present, we have turned on enough extra power on our Electric Battery of Low Prices to "raise a Thundering Racket" in Boots and Shoes, and to keep it booming for over a month.

Last week we bought for 55c. on the dollar the large Wholesale Stock of a City Manufacturer who had stuck on the rock of hard times and was shivering in his boots for ready cash. This stock, we are determined, shall not remain long on our hands. GO, IT MUST! and that the public may see that there's nothing in the way of its going off fast enough, "we touch the button" and give you a few random shocks from OUR MAGNET OF OUTRIVALLED PRICES:—

from scrofulous, skin or scalp diseases, ought to be given Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, for purifying the blood. For children who are puny, pale or weak, the "Discovery" is a tonic which builds up both flesh and strength. What is said of it for children applies equally to adults. As an appetizing, restorative tonic, it sets at work all the processes of digestion and nutrition, rouses every organ into natural action, and brings back health and strength. In recovering from "grippe," or in convalescence from pneumonia, fevers, and other wasting diseases, it speedily and surely invigorates and builds up the whole system.

For all diseases caused by a torpid liver or impure blood, as Dyspepsia and Biliousness, if it doesn't benefit or cure in every case, the money is returned.

THE HOUSE OF COMMONS.

Examination of Witnesses Before Public Accounts Committee.

OTTAWA, April 25.—Dr. Sproule introduced his bill in the Commons respecting detective corporations and mercantile agencies. He said the object was to compel private detective and mercantile agencies to become incorporated. They would also be required to guarantee that the company would live up to the provisions of such certificate. The bill also provided that no person should engage in business unless registered under the Act, and also that mercantile companies shall furnish blanks to their customers, that they may give particulars regarding their business annually. The bill passed its first reading.

Mr. Mulock moved the first reading of the bill to fix the salary of the Governor-General. He said that under the Act the Governor-General's salary had been fixed at £10,000 sterling at the time of confederation, but that it could be altered at any time by Act of Parliament. He had carefully looked into the subject and found that since confederation, up to June 30, 1893, there had been paid in salaries to to the different Governors-General $1,216,666; traveling expenses, $145,903; secretary's office, $217,426; rent, $7,584; purchase of Rideau hall, $82,000; maintenance, $547,143; furniture, $118,853; maintenance of gardens, grounds, etc., $93,349; fuel and light, $151,371. The average expenditure yearly amounted to $114,076, or more than double the amount provided by law. He could not blame any particular Government, Reform or Conservative. The same order of things had existed under both. His bill provided that after the term of the present Governor-General had expired the system should be changed. The bill received its first reading.

Hon. Mr. Foster moved the House into committee on ways and means.

Sir Richard Cartwright, in amendment, moved the following: "That whenever any member of the Committee on Public Accounts shall declare in his place in the said committee that he has examined the papers and vouchers submitted in respect of any item referred to the said committee, and that he is convinced that it is necessary in the public interest that all witnesses be examined in reference to the said items should be examined on oath, it shall be an instruction to the said committee to cause such witnesses to be so examined."

Sir John Thompson said he was willing that witnesses should be examined under oath in individual cases, but he objected to making it a general rule to administer the oath. He said the difficulty which he had found was that what hon. gentlemen opposite contended for was not exactly what was contained in the resolution proposed. He submitted that, as this was after all a mere matter of business, capable of business adjustment, that they ought to agree not to treat it as a matter of politics, but that they should agree to pass an Act removing this subject from the political atmosphere altogether.

Sir Richard Cartwright thought the proposition made by the Premier a reasonable one, and he would consent to withdraw the amendment which he moved to the motion to go into committee.

The Opposition agreed to Sir John's proposal and the amendment was withdrawn accordingly.

The House then went into Committee of Ways and Means.

Sir Richard Cartwright objected to the tax of six cents per pound on old books, periodicals and pamphlets. He said that it would increase the cost of literature for Sunday schools, while it would decrease the cost of books of the more expensive character.

Mr. O'Brien spoke, after which the House rose for recess.

After recess, Sir Hector Langevin, Hon. Mr. Laurier, Mr. Cockburn and Hon. Mr. Foster spoke on the item of books, which was finally passed.

Hon. Mr. Foster moved, when the item of wall paper had been reached, that the proposed change as already announced should take effect. On wall papers, not including borders printed on plain ungrounded paper of the very cheapest class, 35 per cent.; on all other classes of paper, 1¼ cents per roll and 25 per cent. ad valorem.

Mr. Davies said that no ungrounded papers came into Canada, so that that part of the tariff was useless.

Sir Richard Cartwright thought that such a trumpery industry as the wall paper industry of Canada should not be protected.

Mr. Boyle said that the class of paper manufactured in Canada was the unground, and was as cheap in Canada as in other countries. The item passed.

Hon. Mr. Foster announced that the duty on acid, acetic and pyroligneous, n. e.s., and vinegar should be changed to a specific duty of 15 cents for each gallon or any strength exceeding the strength of proof, and for each degree of strength in excess of the strength of proof, an additional duty of two cents.

The amendment was adopted.

Mr. Borden asked that the duty on sulphuric acid be remitted.

The item passed as proposed by the Finance Minister. The committee arose, and the House adjourned.

Capital Gossip.

Dr. Andrew Smith, veterinary surgeon and chief cattle inspector of Ontario, is in town. Dr. Smith is on general business in connection with the department. Deputy Minister of Agriculture Lowe says that according to Dr. Smith's report, which with others is now in the printer's hands and will shortly be laid on the table of the House, the cattle of Ontario are perfectly free from anything approaching the pleuro-pneumonia, and are in a most favorable position.

Montreal Will Close Pool Rooms.

MONTREAL, April 25.—The chief of police has issued an order to the pool rooms in this city to close up within 48 hours. If they do not comply with the order, prompt measures will be taken to suppress them, as the chief of police does not intend that Montreal shall be behind Toronto and other cities in this matter.

Effect of the Strike.

BUFFALO, April 25.—The first result of the great strike among the soft coal miners was felt in Buffalo when the price on the docks was advanced to $2.75 per ton. If the strike be continued it will completely cripple the lake steamers, as the supply on hand is quite limited. It is calculated that it will be exhausted within two weeks.

BURKEVILLE, Tex., April 25.—A waterspout and cyclone played havoc about twelve miles west of here. Flying timbers struck a rifle in Ralph Gilchrist's house, causing it to discharge. The bullet struck Miss Rosa Gilchrist, inflicting a fatal wound.

AN ESSEX FARMER.

A Total Wreck with Kidney Disease—All the Symptoms of Bright's Disease Present—Dodd's Kidney Pills make him Perfectly Well again

LEAMINGTON, April 23—Sherman Buchanan, a farmer living near here, recently passed through a terrible ordeal. He was attacked by kidney disease, which made him a perfect wreck. He suffered agonizing pains and his digestive organs were seriously impaired. All the symptoms of Bright's disease were present. After several doctors had treated him ineffectually, Mr. Buchanan used several boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills and they cured him. Dodd's was the first kidney in pill form ever offered the public. Its wonderful success in curing all forms of kidney disease has led to the introduction of numerous cheap and worthless imitations. Purchasers, for their own safety, should insist on getting Dodd's Kidney Pills. Sold in large boxes; price, 50c. or six boxes for $2.50. To be had of all dealers.

S. P. SMITH, of Towanda, Pa., whose constitution was completely broken down, is cured by Ayer's Sarsaparilla. He writes:

"For eight years, I was, most of the time, a great sufferer from constipation, kidney trouble, and indigestion, so that my constitution seemed to be completely broken down. I was induced to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and took nearly seven bottles, with such excellent results that my stomach, bowels, and kidneys are in perfect condition, and, in all their functions, as regular as clock-work. At the time I began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla, my weight was only 129 pounds; I now can brag of 159 pounds, and was never in so good health. If you could see me before and after using, you would want me for a traveling advertisement. I believe this preparation of Sarsaparilla to be the best in the market to-day."

UNCLE SAM'S FRONTIER

The American Government Will Rigidly Examine All Immigrants.

NO CANADIAN NEED APPLY

This Ruling Excludes Those Workmen From Canada Who Have Been in the Habit of Working in the States and Returning to this Country.

BUFFALO, April 25.—Inspector of Immigration de Barry has received from the department a circular to the immigration officers along the frontier of Mexico, the Dominion of Canada and Newfoundland directing that in future all immigrants from those countries are to be treated the same as immigrants from Europe and subjected to the same rigid examination.

Under this ruling every Canadian who comes into the United States to work in future will be detained for examination every time he attempts to enter the country. Conductors on trains and captains of vessels will have to furnish the same manifests of passengers as are now furnished by the ocean liners, and these manifests must be sworn to before a United States customs officer or an inspector of immigration.

Inspector of Immigration de Barry has notified the captains of the boats plying between here and Canada of the requirements of the department, and also served notices on the railroad companies.

Mr. de Barry said that the new regulations would put a stop to Canadians slipping in without the knowledge of the immigration officers and would have the good effect of putting all immigrants under oath as to their being qualified to enter the United States before permitting them to land. It would prevent people living in Canada from working in the United States, as every time they entered the country they will be detained for examination.

THAT CATTLE EMBARGO.

Right Hon. Mr. Gardiner's Statements Not Satisfactory—The Times' Advice.

LONDON, April 25.—Right Hon. Herbert Gardiner's statement in the House of Commons to the effect that he cannot remove the embargo against Canadian cattle has caused a lot of talk and much dissatisfaction is expressed at the way in which the hon. gentleman is judging this question. His answers to the questions put to him satisfy neither the friends of Canada nor the friends of the English farmers.

The Times, in its editorial on the subject, rather favors the retention of the embargo, lest the disease by some hook or crook be introduced. The article goes on to say that the Canadian case would be a great deal more convincing if it were a little more moderately stated, and refers especially to the passionate Canadians' charges of bad faith because the Board of Agriculture has deigned to assert that pleuro-pneumonia had possibly attacked the Canadian herds. The Times says that Canada's friends complain very much of Mr. Gardiner's blindness to the sustained fact that the severest test, which the Canadian herds have been put to, has failed to show that they even had a taint of the disease. In conclusion, the Times recommends the Canadians to repeat their efforts of last season and send over the largest possible number of healthy stock upon the opening of the cattle shipping season in the hope that the renewed special examination by the British experts will remove all suspicion, and that Mr. Gardiner will then be compelled to raise the embargo and dispense with the slaughter of cattle at the port of entry.

The Superiority

Of Hood's Sarsaparilla is due to the tremendous amount of brain work and constant care used in its preparation. Try one bottle and you will be convinced of its superiority. It purifies the blood which is the source of health, cures dyspepsia, overcomes sick headaches and biliousness. It is just the medicine for you.

NIAGARA FALLS INCLINE RAILWAY.

The Company Enjoined Not to Proceed Further in Its Construction.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., April 25.—The Niagara Falls Park & River Railway has struck a snag in the construction of its Incline railway to the Maid of the Mist landing on the Canadian side, and nothing was done yesterday.

It is understood the council of Niagara Falls, Ont., under the leadership of Ald. E. Davis, has enjoined the company from proceeding further. Mr. Davis was one of the owners of property in the park which was taken by the Government on the assurance that all money-making enterprises, except such as were absolutely necessary for the convenience of tourists, would be eliminated.

The park commissioners, it is asserted, have now granted more privileges of this land than there were before, and the town of Niagara Falls has been deprived of considerable revenue which taxpayers in general must make up. Ald. Davis and many others are not pleased with this condition of affairs, and the storm of opposition has finally burst. It is also rumored that the electric railway people may be prevented from laying a double track through the park.

Brutal Deed of an Inhuman Brother.

OSGOODE, Ind., April 25.—A few miles north of here Henry Bergman, 35 years of age, murdered his sister, aged 20 years. According to the evidence they had been sustaining illicit relations, and when she refused to further submit the brother cut her throat from ear to ear, causing almost instant death. As if not satisfied with his work he plunged the knife into her abdomen and twisted it around several times, making a ghastly wound. He was sent to jail without bail. Word has just reached here that the constable has sent for assistance, as the crowd has become so great and threatening that they are fearful of a lynching.

SCROFULA CURED BY
B.B.B.

MRS. JAS. CHASE.

Worst Kind of Scrofula.

DEAR SIRS.—I had an abscess on my breast and scrofula of the very worst kind, the doctors said. I got so weak that I could not walk around the house without taking hold of chairs to support me. The doctors treated me for three years, and at last said there was no hope for me. I asked if I might take B.B.B. and they said it would do me no harm, so I began to take it, and before three bottles were used I felt great benefit. I have now taken six bottles and am nearly well. I find Burdock Blood Bitters a grand blood purifier and very good for children as a spring medicine.

HON. C. F. FRASER, M.P.P.

SKETCH OF THE LIFE OF ONTARIO'S MINISTER OF PUBLIC WORKS.

Successful Career of a Remarkable Man—He Won His Position Without Adventitious Aids—Author of "One Man' One Vote," in Ontario, and Much Humanitarian Legislation.

THE Hon. Christopher Finlay Fraser, Q.C., M.P.P., Minister of Public Works for the Province of Ontario, one of the most eloquent debaters of his time, was born at Brockville, October, 1839. He is of Celtic origin, his father, John Fraser, being a Scotch Highlander, and his mother, Sarah, nee Burke, of Irish parentage and birth. When a boy it was the lot of our subject to be poor, for his parents, like the majority of pioneers, brought into the new country very little gold in their purses. But this very poverty seems to have been a stimulus to the lad, and it is said that early in life he resolved to carve out his own fortune. In order to accomplish anything young Fraser knew that he must become equipped with an education. Schools in those days were sparse and not well conditioned, but the best of such tuition as his purse afforded he was resolved to have, and have it he did. We are told that he did not hesitate to put his hand to any employment that was offered, and it was between the periods of such employment that he attended school. When a mere youth he was employed in the Brockville Recorder office, working for a small salary, which he most carefully saved to use in his education. Even this honorable ambition and all the dauntless industry could not have availed had Fraser been composed of common material. He was gifted with altogether unusual mental alertness, and his utterances, when only a boy, were remarkable for their brilliancy, force and sometimes for their wit. When he had obtained what he considered a sufficient education, the young man entered the office of the Hon. A. N. Richards, late Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia, and began the study of the law. That was in 1859. A hard-working student, he was, after passing a most creditable examination in 1865, called to the bar, and settling down to the practice of his profession at Brockville where he was well known, he soon succeeded in acquiring a good business connection. Even during his student days he had taken a keen interest in the political questions of the times, and had worked hard at the local elections on the Liberal side. He had not been long at the bar before he began to be looked upon as an available candidate for parliament. At the first general election under Confederation, held in 1867, he offered himself as a candidate for the Ontario Legislature to the electors of his native place. He was defeated by a small majority, but made a good impression upon the electors during the canvass and established his reputation as a ready speaker on the hustings. At the general election held four years later he offered himself to the electors of South Grenville, but was again unsuccessful, being defeated by the late Mr. Clark. In 1871, upon Mr. Clark's death, Mr. Fraser

HON. C. F. FRASER, M.P.P.

once again presented himself and was returned at the head of the polls. However, he was not yet to take his place in parliament. His election was protested and the case tried by Mr. Mowat who was then on the bench as vice-chancellor. Mr. Mowat gave judgment unseating him after a trial of two weeks. Afterwards re-elected, it was rather a remarkable coincidence that he entered the House the same year as Mr. Mowat, and within a year became a member of his government as Provincial Secretary and Registrar. On appealing to his constituency for the usual ratification of his acceptance of office he was elected by acclamation. In 1874 he became Commissioner of Public Works. His great abilities were at once recognized in the legislature, and he took a commanding place from the first. Mr. Fraser is ready, brilliant and powerful in debate, whether the question be an old one or one sprung upon him, and he is a man with whom the opponents never care to trifle. He is not malicious nor unkindly in his place upon the floor of the House when attacking or defending, and one and all are delighted to sit and listen to him so long as he remains upon his feet; for whether they agree with what he is saying or not, they are pleased with the fresh, vigorous, brilliant and manly way that he has of saying it.

Mr. Fraser's great abilities as a constitutional lawyer received recognition when he was selected by Sir Oliver Mowat from his cabinet to present Ontario's case before the Privy Council in England against the McCarthy Liquor Act.

As a legislator he has been distinguished by the broad and liberal character of the measures he has brought forward. He originated, prepared and successfully carried through the Act giving the right of suffrage to farmers' sons, which was virtually a manhood franchise act and afterwards became the basis of that act. His humanitarian instincts are illustrated by such legislation as the Factories Act, an Act to make provision for the safety of railway employees and other workmen, and the Employers' Liability Act.

In the conduct of the important department of government Mr. Fraser has been charged with for now nearly twenty years he has displayed administrative talents of a high order and has proved himself a most capable public official. The care and attention devoted to the erection of public institutions throughout the Province and to the building and details of the noble pile in the Queen's Park, Toronto, for the use of the Legislative Assembly and public offices of Ontario, prove Mr. Fraser to have been the right man for the responsible position he has held for so many years.

In 1876 Mr. Fraser was created a Queen's Counsel. His wife was formerly Miss Lafayette, of Brockville.

Probably one of the most affecting scenes ever witnessed in legislative chambers was that in the House on Wednesday, February 28 last, when the Premier announced Mr. Fraser's resignation and said among other things: "It is three months since he announced to me the impossibility of his continuing, by reason of the condition of his health, and his resignation practically took place then, though at the request of myself and his other colleagues he has continued to discharge in such measure as he could his official duties. My hon. friend's failing health has long been known. On account of it three years ago or more he intimated to me his wish to be relieved from his public and official duties and the labor, responsibility and care which belonged to them, and my hon. friend repeated to me this expression of his wish several times previous to his final announcement three months ago. We were especially anxious that he should remain with us if he could until these new parliament and departmental buildings were completed, both within and without, and until after all accounts relating to them were settled. The buildings are completed now, and are admitted on all hands to be a lasting monument to the ability, efficiency and economy of my hon. friend, the Commissioner of Public Works. I confess that I agreed to part with my esteemed colleague with extreme reluctance. He was elected to the House in the same year that I was elected. He has been my colleague here as a member of the government for over twenty years—a longer period than any other gentleman I have been associated with in the government. All the others have passed away."

Mr. Meredith said: "Although I have been in the House, opposed to him from the day he entered it—for, I think, the leader of the Government, the commissioner of Public Works and myself entered the House upon the same day—although we have had some bitter controversies, I can say that I have always—and I believe that is the feeling on this side of the House—had for the Commissioner of Public Works the highest esteem. As a public man, as a legislator, as a debater of this House, we all recognize his talents and ability and regret very much, I repent, the reasons which the Attorney-General said have induced the hon. gentleman to take the course which he has decided to adopt. I join with the Attorney-General in the hope that rest may help to restore the hon. gentleman's health, and I should hope some important position somewhere in the public service, could be provided for the hon. gentleman where his great abilities would be of future use to the country. I hope some means may be devised by which that can be brought about."

A Few Eye Don'ts.

Don't go directly from a warm room into a cold, raw atmosphere.

Don't open the eyes under water in bathing, especially in salt water.

Don't let any strong light, like that from electricity, shine directly into the eyes.

Don't strain the eyes by reading, sewing or any like occupation with an imperfect light.

QUEER DIVORCE CAUSES.

Over the Border the Marriage Vow is Very Crisp, Indeed.

A Kansas wife recently secured a divorce from her husband because, as solemnly set forth in her petition, "the defendant pinched the nose of this plaintiff, causing it to become very red, thereby causing the plaintiff great pain and anguish of mind."

An Ohio man has secured a divorce because, as he declared under oath, "the defendant pulled this plaintiff out of bed by his whiskers."

A henpecked husband secured a divorce in a Pennsylvania court because, in the language of his affidavit, "the defendant struck this plaintiff a violent blow with her bustle."

A Missouri divorce was once granted because "the defendant goes gadding about, leaving this plaintiff supperless, or if he gets any he has to cook it himself."

Out in Illinois a wife secured a decree because her husband threw the baby at her when she hit him with a coal bucket for spitting on the stove.

A connecticut man got a divorce on the ground that "the defendant would not get up in the morning, nor call this plaintiff, nor do anything she was told."

A decree was granted in a Massachusetts court because "the defendant keeps this plaintiff awake most of the night quarreling."

A Wisconsin man got a divorce because his wife kept a servant girl "who spit on the frying pan to see if it was hot enough."

A Jersey wife secured a decision because "the defendant, the husband, sleeps with a razor under his pillow to frighten this plaintiff."

A Virginia woman was set free because "the defendant does not come home till 10 p.m. and then keeps this plaintiff awake talking."

A Tennesse court liberated a wife because "the defendant does not wash himself, thereby causing the plaintiff great mental anguish."

In Illinois a decree was obtained because a long-suffering husband complained that "during the past year the defendant struck this plaintiff repeatedly with pokers, flat irons and other hard substances."

In Minnesota a decree was given to a wife because "the defendant never cuts his toe nails, and, being restless in his sleep, scratches this plaintiff severely."

A youthful Kentucky husband secured a divorce on the ground that "the defendant came into the bedroom the morning after the marriage and beat this plaintiff on the head with her shoe heel."

A New York man pleaded in his petition for divorce that "the defendant would not sew on this plaintiff's buttons, neither would she allow him to go to fires at night." The court decided that the plaintiff was entitled to a decree on the ground that this oppression was cruel and inhuman.—St Louis Republic.

THE NEFF CASE.

The Hamilton Doctors are Puzzled About this Remarkable Cure—They Could not Cure this Case of Kidney Disease, but Dodd's Kidney Pills have Done so.

Hamilton, April 16.—The doctors of this city are showing great interest in a remarkable cure reported from Port Colborne. Harvey H. Neff, of the latter town, had an aggravated form of kidney disease, consequent on an attack of typhoid fever. Physicians could not cure the kidney disorder, but Mr. Neff has regained his health after taking five boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's was the first kidney remedy in pill form ever offered the public. Its wonderful success in curing all forms of kidney disease has led to the introduction of numerous cheap and worthless imitations. Purchasers, for their own safety, should insist on getting Dodd's Kidney Pills. Sold in large boxes; price, fifty cents, or six boxes for $2.50. To be had of all dealers.

Newfoundland Bye-Election.

ST. JOHNS, Nfld., April 25.—The Governor has issued a proclamation for the preliminary bye-election in Bay de Vere, to fill the vacancies created by unseating Woods and Moore. Nomination day is on May 12 and polling on May 22. This was done partly at the instance of the British Government and partly by desire of the new Ministry, who, if successful, will become fourteen strong and thus be able to form a legal House and transact business when it meets, even without the Whitewayites. This is impossible now, as the Government has only twelve members and require thirteen for a quorum. By that time, too, it is hoped to have enough Whitewayites unseated to hold an absolute majority. It is reported the Government candidates will be Hon. James Rogerson and John Ayre, merchant, and the Whiteway team will be Sydney Woods, younger brother of the former member, and Samuel Milley, dry goods dealer. The Government will have a stiff fight to win, as the Whitewayites beat them 400 or 500 in the late election.

Palmistry.

Since palmistry became a social amusement people have reason to be careful of the inside of their hands, written over with this line and with that, lest they be seized upon and be read to their dismay, the survey of the lines there puffing them up with conceit of themselves, or putting them to open shame in the face of folk. "I would not trust out of sight the best friend I had in the world," said, recently, an enthusiastic prophet of the art, "if I found the line of truth did not join the line of life before leaving the hand!" And if she were justified in her statement, what complications and perplexities might ensue to the adherents of the art! The next thing in the advance of the matter might be that no lover would propose to the damsel who had filled his eye and touched his heart, until he had looked at her wrists and certified to himself the absence of the bracelet of command there, lest he should see before him the fate of Dame Partlet's mate. Perhaps, too, the young lady's father would find it necessary to compare the right hand of her lover with his left when he had stammered his wishes into the paternal ear, and thus discover what traits he had developed in his right hand by scanning the original lines in his left one, what good tendencies had increased, if any, and what evil ones had been suppressed in his growth, and if, in short, he had desirable traits and would make a good husband. The mother-in-law-to-be may also think fit to examine the line of life of the proposed bride of her son, and see if it be crossed by the mark of serious illnesses, or otherwise, in order to judge if it is best for her son to encumber himself with a sickly wife; or she may even look for the stars that signify the number of marriages this young woman is to contract, that she may thus forecast her son's chances of long living.

Care of Lamps.

At least once a month the wicks should be taken out of kerosene lamps, the burners unscrewed and boiled in water to which pearline or a little washing soda has been added. This will remove the coating of grease and dust, and add much to the clearness and power of the light.

Lamp chimneys are best cleaned by holding them over steam, then wiping with a dry cloth and polishing with newspaper.

Fire in Pembroke.

PEMBROKE, April 24.—A fire broke out in the building on Main street, owned and occupied by Hugh Fraser & Son as a carriage factory, blacksmith and paint shops, also harness department of Thomas Cadden. The fire originated in the department where they set their tires, and was not discovered until too late to save the building, which was frame and burned very quickly, but a small quantity of material was saved. Cadden had great difficulty in saving his stock and tools. His loss will be slight.

IN COATS.

There is more length to the new Coats for 1894 than has been used in Men's Dress since the 60's.

THE DOUBLE BREASTED FROCK is the most fastiduous garment man has put on in a generation. It adds to the stature of the man and conceals defects of figure. It is short waisted, snug fitting, long tailed and beautifully moulded to the figure. The Skirts are hollow at the top and form a beautiful curve, which is the most distinctive thing about the new styles.

Then there is the THREE BUTTON CUTAWAY Coat which is a high favourite. It is popularly described as the "Pigeon Wing" on account of its sloping tails. The sleeves are of moderate size and are closed with a vent for three buttons. If properly made it will cling rather closely to the hips.

The new CUTAWAY SACK COAT for business wear is one of the most popular of the season. It has caught the fancy of the young men. All the pockets should have flaps. The collar rolls low and is not faced with Silk.

Any of these garments made up to order to please the most fastidious dresser and with faultless devotion to the fashion plates

A SCEPTIC FOR FIFTEEN YEARS.

A Lecture Delivered in St. Paul's Church by Rev. Dr. Sexton on Infidelity.

Last evening the Rev. Dr. Sexton, according to announcement, delivered a lecture in St. Paul's Church on his "Personal experience of scepticism and sceptics." A short preliminary service, consisting of singing and prayer, was conducted by the Rev. R. F. Torrance, pastor of the church, who then introduced the eminent lecturer. There was a large audience.

The doctor commenced by dividing modern unbelief into three classes, which he designated scientific scepticism, critical scepticism and social scepticism. The first of these involved such questions as the existence of God and the immortality of man, and took its stand on the laws of nature and the phenomena of the physical universe. It was held by a few scientific men, a large number of quasi scientific men, and a yet larger number of pseudo scientific men. The second did not concern itself much with science or physical nature, but proceeded to make an attack on the divine authority of the sacred Scriptures. This originated mainly in Germany and certain forms of it were to be met with in England and America to-day, which the Germans had long since discarded. The third sought to bring about the perfection of the human race by moral and social schemes of human invention without any reference to a divine moral law or any spiritual aid in the performance of our duties. These schemes were mainly utilitarianism, positivism and secularism. All these, the doctor said, had at one time exercised a considerable influence over his mind and they had too often a strange fascination for young men.

HIS EARLIEST TRAINING

was of a religious character, as his parents were professors of religion, his father and mother Methodists and his maternal grandparents, by whom he was brought up, devout Anglicans. He studied for the church, and was episcopally ordained when a very young man. His first and only charge at that time was in London. Before this he had been largely influenced by the brothers Newman, who strange to say drifted one to popery, and died a cardinal of the Romish church, and the other to a kind of infidelity which he holds to-day. The process of reasoning by which these antagonistic positions were reached was very similar. The influence of J. H. Newman at Oxford at that time was very great, the high church movement just then was beginning to make itself felt. There was however an opposing force, though a weak one, of a sceptical character. Froude wrote the "Nemesis of Faith" and Francis Newman his book on the "Soul," the former of which was publicly burnt, and the authors of both compelled to leave the University. These books and others of a similar character laid the foundation for the scepticism of the lecturer. He came to doubt the fundamental truths of Christianity, and as a result resigned his charge. He now commenced the study of medicine and devoted himself to scientific pursuits. During this time he met many men, since famous in the literary world, such as John Stuart Mill, Thornton Hunt, Herbert Spencer, G. H. Lewes, Benjamin Disraeli, Edward Bulwer Lytton, W. J. Fox, George J. Holyoake, Orsini, Heraud, Thomas Cooper, and a host of others. The study of medicine did not tend to REMOVE HIS SCEPTICISM.

During this time he lived by teaching classics and science and writing for the periodical press. His medical education completed, he went to Germany to pursue further studies, and the influence of German thought confirmed him in his unbelief. Returning to England he practiced medicine for some ten or twelve years in London and Glasgow. He conducted many scientific experiments and made some discoveries, mainly in electricity. He was elected a member of the Academy at Rome, and a fellow of the Italian Royal Society of Science, and afterwards given a chair—that of Natural Sciene—in the Galileo Academy at Naples. This scepticism continued till 1870, when as the result of some experiments he had made of Force, he became convinced that a Divine intelligence governed the world. He wrote a small work on this subject and sent it to every scientific sceptic in the world, asking for an answer, but none had come. During the time that he was a sceptic he had always been puzzled to account for the religious sentiment in man, and had written some hymns to aid in some sort of worship, which hymns are still printed in secular hymn books. During the delivery of a course of lectures at Manchester in 1869 his mind had undergone a great change on the subject of Christianity, and he stated this openly, which fact provoked a great deal of controversy. He now went over afresh the whole ground of Christian evidence, and after many months of thought and reading he returned to Christianity in 1871. He had no intention of returning to the pulpit, as his profession of medicine was very remunerative, but as soon as his conversion was known he was called for on all hands to preach, lecture and debate, until it became necessary either to relinquish medical practice or decline these invitations. He took these solicitations for a call of Providence and

RETURNED TO THE CHRISTIAN MINISTRY.

Since that time he had met every sceptic in any country who desired to debate the question of the truth of Christianity.

The doctor now proceeded to discuss several questions in connection with his past experience. He had often been asked whether when he was a sceptic he was perfectly happy and contented in his mind. To this he replied no, there was always a something wanting which he was unable to explain. The religious aspirations of his mind frequently made powerful efforts to gain the upper hand, but these he endeavoured to suppress. He often regretted the loss of his early faith, but saw no remedy. He saw that there was more in the universe than scepticism could explain. Mystery abounded on all hands, mystery which deepened as knowledge increased. The great problems of human life infidelity made no attempt to solve. Nor did it accomplish anything even from its own standpoint, towards bringing about a better condition amongst mankind. Its entire mission seemed to be a negative one. It was great at pulling down, but built nothing up. Even Mr. Holyoake, the founder of scepticism, had again and again complained of the lack of progress in the movement. It had no vitality, and therefore could not accomplish any positive results. Nothing in fact could satisfy the wants of human nature but the religion of Christ.

The lecture occupied about an hour and a-half in the delivery, and was listened to by the large audience with the greatest attention.

At the close, a vote of thanks to the lecturer was moved by Rev. W. R. Young, B.A., and carried unanimously.

The Doctor, in responding, answered a number of questions that had been handed up to him on paper.

When Ponce de-Leon sought to find
The fountain giving back lost youth,
It may be that he had in mind
That draught which seems to make a truth
Out of the fable ages old.
For drinking it the old grow young;
It is, indeed, a draught of gold,
Surpassing all by poets sung.

The draught meant is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, of course. It is a most potent rejuvenator of the weakened and debilitated system. It drives out all poison, all impurity, enriches the blood, and makes the old and worn out feel young and vigorous. Ponce-de-Leon didn't discover it, but Dr. Pierce did, and he rightly named it when he called it a "Golden Discovery."

Dr. Pierce's Pellets cure permanently constipation, indigestion and headaches. All dealers.

LARGE SORES ON FACE

Last Use of Blood from Blood Poisoning. Physicians and Remedies No Benefit. Cured by Cuticura Remedies.

I have used your CUTICURA, RESOLVENT, and can truthfully say that they are everything you claim more than you promise them. Last spring I was greatly troubled with a humor that caused my face to break out in sores, and my hands were in such a condition that I could not use them. After trying numerous physicians and remedies and receiving no benefit therefrom, I was advised to try the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and did so, and I am now free from all my skin troubles. I cannot speak praise enough for your remedies.

BABY SEVERELY AFFLICTED

My baby was severely afflicted with some dreadful skin disease. His head, face and hands for awhile were nearly one solid sore. I had doctors prescribe for it, tried several remedies, but all seemed to do no good. I saw an advertisement of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and concluded to try them. I bought a complete set, and began using, and now my little girl seems to be completely cured.

Since a single cake of CUTICURA SOAP, costing 25c., is sufficient to test the virtues of these great curatives, there is now no reason why thousands should go through life tortured, disfigured and humiliated by blood and skin diseases, which are speedily cured by the CUTICURA REMEDIES at a trifling cost.

The Opposition's Motion to Abolish Hon. Mr. Ross' Office.

REJECTED BY THE HOUSE

Mr. O'Connor's Bill Relating to the Assessment of Gas Companies Creates Considerable Discussion—Respecting the Game Protection Act.

TORONTO, April 26.—The Attorney-General has introduced a bill in the Legislature to place beyond doubt the right of timber license holders sitting in the House.

Third Readings.

The following bills were read a third time: Respecting Upper Canada College—Hon. Mr. Ross. Respecting the call of solicitors to the bar—The Attorney-General. Respecting writs of execution—Mr. Garrow. To amend the Surrogate Courts Act—Mr. Magwood. To amend the law respecting contracts in relation to goods entrusted to agents—Mr. Barr. To amend the Division Courts Act—Mr. White. Respecting police magistrates—Mr. White.

Mr. Guthrie's bill to amend the Judicature Act was amended in committee by a clause to the effect that no jury case shall be tried at a County or Superior Court before the hour of 1 o'clock upon the first day of sittings. The bill was then reported and read a third time.

To Amend the Ontario Election Act.

Mr. Tait's bill to amend the Ontario Election Act was referred to a committee for consideration before coming up for a second reading. The bill provides that in cities having a population of 100,000 or over the polling subdivisions shall be limited to 400 in place of 200 qualified electors as at present, and that the polling subdivisions fixed by a by-law of the Municipal Council of such city shall be used by the returning officer or officers for the election of members to the Legislative Assembly.

Mr. Bush's bill to amend the Act by providing against frauds in the supplying of milk to cheese or butter manufactories was read a second time.

After Recess.

Mr. Gilmour's bill incorporating the Toronto Suburban Railway Company was read a third time.

The Gas Companies Bill.

Mr. O'Connor's bill, to remove doubts as to the assessment of gas pipes and the wires of companies upon the public streets, was considered in committee.

Mr. O'Connor, in support of the bill, stated that it had for years been the belief that these companies' personal property was exempt from taxation. One judge had decided that they were exempt and another that they were not, so the House was in this bill asked to interpret the law. Many stockholders had in the past invested their money in the stock of these companies, in the belief that they were exempt from taxation, and it was fair to them that they should now be protected from loss. He hoped that the House would not be led away by the socialistic theory that property has no rights.

Mr. Balfour and Mr. Wood (Hastings) opposed the bill. Mr. Garrow and Mr. Waters spoke in favor of the measure.

Dr. Ryerson pointed that the gas company was in Toronto already a large taxpayer. He thought that any taxation imposed upon them would in the end be paid by the public in the increased price of gas, as the company would doubtless recoup themselves in this way for any decrease in their revenues. He supported the bill.

Mr. Wood (Brant) and Mr. Bishop spoke against the bill.

Mr. Meredith pointed out that according to recent decisions the use of the highway by a gas company for the laying of pipes constituted an easement upon the real estate, and therefore rendered the plant liable to taxation. He did not see how these companies could fairly claim exemption. The municipalities could legally only levy taxes upon their property to the extent of its actual value.

Messrs. McKay (Oxford), Dack, Tait and McCleary opposed the bill.

Mr. E. F. Clarke thought that no harm would be done if the bill was killed by the committee and allowed to come up again at the next session.

Dr. Ryerson rose to state that, having heard the aspect of the question (of which he was before ignorant) as set out by the leader of the Opposition, he withdrew his support from the bill.

Mr. McColl opposed the measure.

Mr. Meredith moved that the committee now rise. Sir Oliver Mowat agreed with the leader of the Opposition and supported his motion.

The vote was taken and resulted in the defeat of the motion.

The committee then arose and reported progress.

Mr. Meredith moved the six months' hoist, which was defeated upon a division of 46 to 33.

Second Readings.

These bills received second readings: Respecting benefit societies—Hon. Mr. Gibson. Respecting High Court sittings in the County of York—Sir Oliver Mowat. Respecting companies licensed under the revised statute authorizing corporations and institutions incorporated out of Ontario to lend and invest moneys therein—Sir Oliver Mowat. To make further provision respecting mortgages of real estate—Sir Oliver Mowat.

Ontario Game Protection Act.

Hon. Mr. Gibson moved the House into committee on a bill to amend the Ontario Game Protection Act. The third section permitting the exportation of two deer from the province was struck out.

In reply to Mr. Meredith, Mr. Gibson said the extension of the prohibitory period would not alter the prohibition of the sale of imported quail.

In answer to Mr. White, Hon. Mr. Gibson said there was a misapprehension regarding the provision extending the prohibition for the sale of quail. This was not so.

On the motion of Mr. Charlton an amendment was added that a man shall not be liable for shooting game on his own private land providing he has not good reason for knowing it was private property.

The bill was reported with amendments.

Minister of Education.

After recess, on motion to go into Committee of Supply, Mr. White (Essex) moved the following amendment:

"That it is essential to a non-partizan management of the educational affairs of the province that the department should not be under the control of a political head, and that the office of Minister of Education should be abolished."

Hon. Mr. Ross declined to enter into any discussion whatever upon the question.

Mr. Meredith said he considered that the educational affairs of the province should be kept free from all political bias, and that it was not advisable to have a politician at the head of that department.

Sir Oliver Mowat considered the advantages of having the Minister of Education in his place in the House to defend his administration more than counterbalance any advantages that might accrue from a different system.

Mr. Clancy said the Minister of Education would be likely to be susceptible to political influences, and believed the administration of educational affairs should be kept free from the contaminating influences of political partisanship.

The House divided, and the motion was rejected by 46 to 27. Mr. McCallum voted with the Opposition and Mr. McNaughton supported the Government.

The House then went into Committee of Supply and passed several items after discussion.

The House adjourned at 11.55.

MURDERED BY A PRIEST.

Father O'Grady, of Cincinnati, Kills a Girl and Attempts Suicide.

CINCINNATI, O., April 26.—Mary Gilmartin, a pretty clerk employed by the Pulvermacher Galvanic Bell Co., was shot and instantly killed while on her way to work.

The man who committed the murder was arrested and gave his name as George Reed, aged 30, but letters in his pockets identified him as a Catholic priest named Father Dominick O'Grady. Insane jealousy of the girl and her desire to get rid of his unwelcome attentions caused the tragedy.

Miss Gilmartin was born and raised in Sligo county, Ireland, where several of her brothers were educated for the priesthood. One of the brothers is a professor in the College of Maynooth, and the other is Father M. S. Gilmartin, of Chicago. She was educated in a convent in Sligo county, and there became acquainted with the priest who afterwards murdered her. Miss Gilmartin came to this country in September, and four months later Father O'Grady followed her. The scene of the murder was in front of No. 35 Chestnut street, diagonally across from the home of the dead girl. In the morning she left the house accompanied by an old lady, who walked a short distance with her and then returned home. The girl stood on a street corner waiting for a car. Just as she was about to board the car O'Grady followed her. She turned around, got off the car and started home. O'Grady overtook her on Chestnut street, when he stopped her.

The old lady who accompanied Miss Gilmartin to the street car had been in the house but a few minutes when she was startled by a scream from the street. The next moment there was a rapid discharge of a revolver, five shots in all. The people in the neighborhood rushed from their houses and saw the girl lying on the sidewalk gasping her last. Over her stood Father O'Grady, who was still trying to discharge his empty revolver.

When the murderer was taken to the Central Station $33 in money was found on him, then a bundle of letters and a small vial containing a red liquid was taken from him. When the vial was laid down he quickly grabbed it, drew the cork out with his teeth and swallowed a mouthful of the stuff. Before he could repeat the operation the bottle was snatched from his hand by the policeman. He was locked up in a cell and sent for a priest, saying he was going to die and wanted to confess. He was hurried off to the city hospital in a patrol wagon and pumped out.

Newfoundland's Political Deadlock.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., April 26.—No candidates have yet been nominated by either party for the Bay de Verde election. Each party is trying to get its best men to run. It is rumored that Mr. Morrison, the Attorney-General, will resign his seat and stand for Bay de Verde. If he should do so he would certainly be elected. A conference of representatives has been held with the view of opening negotiations to break the deadlock. The attempt to come to an understanding failed. The promoters of the conference agree that the task is hopeless

Carleton Liberals.

OTTAWA, April 26.—A deputation of Carleton electors waited upon Mr. Charles Mohr, Reeve of Fitzroy, and urged his acceptance of a nomination for the Provincial Legislature in the county at the next election. The gentlemen who represented a goodly portion of the Liberal voters of the county were successful in securing Mr. Mohr's consent to be a candidate. Mr. Mohr sat in that body for 27 years, and has been returned by acclamation for the Reeveship several times.

Huntingdon Farmer Killed.

MADOC, Ont., April 26.—Sames Fleming, a farmer of the township of Huntingdon, met his death suddenly in this village. While driving out of the village on his way home he was thrown out of his wagon and must have broken his neck, as death resulted in a few minutes. He was about 40 years of age and leaves a wife and several children. He was under the influence of liquor, which was the direct cause of the accident.

JOINING THE STRIKERS

The Entire Coke Region Have Joined in the Movement.

GREETINGS FROM THE K. OF L.

The General Executive Board Offers the United Mine Workers Assistance in Their Struggle—Seven Hundred Illinois Strikers Resume Work.

PITTSBURG, Pa., April 26.—The miners' strike has spread to the mine along the Kiskiminetas river. About 3,000 miners in this district went out and decided to assist the United Mine Workers' Union in the national movement. The movement will probably influence a complete suspension of work in the bituminous coal fields of Pennsylvania within the next day or two.

Coke Men Go Out.

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., April 26.—The entire coke region, with exception of a few works, is out for the first time since 1891. Most of the men who remained at the works laid down their picks, causing a complete cessation of all work in this section. The force of deputies on guard has been doubled. Over 5,000 of the coke workers are now out. The leaders are confident that the remaining 4,000 will be in their ranks by to-morrow morning.

Illinois Men Desert.

PANA, Ill., April 26.—Over 700 miners in the four mines in this district, who went out in obedience to orders from President McBride last Saturday, have returned to work. They claim that they are not justified in remaining out of work purely through sympathy with miners in other States.

J. R. Sovereign's Greetings.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, April 26.—The following telegram was received at the office of the United Mine Workers of America: "General executive board of the Knights of Labor sends fraternal greetings and guarantees fullest possible aid in your struggle for equity and justice. (Signed) J. R. SOVEREIGN."

Strangled His Brother-in-Law.

KENNEBUNK, Me., April 26.—Isaac Kimball, a prominent citizen, is under arrest for causing the death of his brother-in-law, Albert L. Burnham. The latter did not bear a good reputation, and some time time ago his wife left him on account of his abuse and went to live with her brother, Mr. Kimball. Yesterday Burnham went to Kimball's house in a state of intoxication, as he had done repeatedly before, and threatened to shoot his wife, flourishing a revolver. Kimball undertook to wrest the revolver from the infuriated man. In the scuffle Kimball lost control of his temper, and, grasping Burnham's throat, choked him to death. The neighbors were summoned to separate the men. Kimball says he did not realize that Burnham was dead until the neighbors rushed in and told him to relax his clutch. Public sympathy is with the arrested man.

Negro Lynchers Baffled.

NICHOLASVILLE, Ky., April 26.—Great excitement prevails in Nicholasville among the colored people. Clay McClear, who was shot and killed last Friday night, was the victim of his wife and stepson, in order that her lover, Will Gaskins, might be free to come to her house. Gaskins gave the boy the pistol and the mother persuaded him to do the killing. The negroes of the town organized and concluded to have a triple hanging, but Jailer Welch had the jail heavily guarded all night and hence the negroes were baffled in their efforts.

Young Indian Drowned.
